§ 1009.106 Other types of bonds and miscellaneous bond requirements—(a) Fidelity bonds. (1) Fidelity bonds will be required in connection with cost or cost-plus-a-fixed-fee supply contracts, construction contracts, or contracts for the operation of Government-owned plants only in those cases where, in the opinion of the head of the procuring activity concerned, or his delegee, it is desirable to obtain the investigating and claim facilities of a surety company and such bonds are considered to be reasonably necessary for the protection of the contractor or the Government.

(2) When a fidelity bond is required, the Primary Commercial Blanket form of fidelity bond as standardized by the Surety Association of America or its equivalent is the approved form of fidelity bond. A rider should be attached thereto providing for notice to the procuring activity concerned in the event of any change in or cancellation of the bond.

(b) Forgery bonds. (1) This type of bond will be required in connection with cost or cost-plus-a-fixed-fee supply contracts, construction contracts, or contracts for the operation of Government-owned plants only when the head of the procuring activity concerned, or his delegee, determines that a forgery bond or policy is desirable to obtain the investigating and claims facilities of a surety company, and is considered to be reasonably necessary for the protection of the contractor or the Government.

(2) The depositor's form of forgery bond or policy as standardized by the Surety Association of America or its equivalent is the approved form of forgery bond. A rider should be attached thereto providing for notice to the procuring activity concerned in the event of any change in or cancellation of the bond.

(c) License and permit bonds. These types of bonds will be approved only in those cases where, in the opinion of the head of the procuring activity concerned, such bonds provide a necessary protection to the Government or to the contractor against liability to third parties or where failure to provide these bonds would constitute a violation of an applicable ordinance or statute of a municipality. The form of license or permit bond prescribed by statute or ordinance of the public authority having jurisdiction is the approved form of bond.

(d) Riders and endorsements particularly applicable to fidelity and forgery bonds—(1) Retroactive reinstatement rider. This rider contains a provision which is available for blanket fidelity and forgery bonds whereby after a loss has been sustained, the penalty of the bond is restored to its original amount notwithstanding prior losses. There is contained in the bond itself a provision which automatically restores the penalty of the bond to the original amount with respect to future losses.

(2) Waiver of restoration premium rider. This rider contains a provision which is available for blanket fidelity and forgery bonds which has the effect of eliminating the premium charge for restoring the penalty of the bond after a loss has been sustained.

(3) Cancellation or change notice rider. This rider contains a provision by which a surety agrees to notify certain named interested parties in the event that the bond is canceled or changed in any other manner.

§ 1009.107 Execution and administration of bonds—(a) Execution. All bonds will be executed in accordance with instructions printed on the bond form and any further instructions promulgated by the Commanding General, Air Matériel Command.

(b) Filing and examination of bonds and consents of surety. (1) The original of all surety bonds, except specific bid bonds, will be forwarded to the Commanding General, Air Matériel Command, Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio, marked for the attention of Bonds and Insurance Unit, MCPPX054. A fully executed duplicate will be filed in the office authorizing acceptance or the office of record. If the bond was required in support of a contract or modification thereof, the original signed number of the bond should be attached to the original signed number of the contract or modification, as the case may be, and forwarded to the Commanding General, Air Matériel Command. If it is not practicable to forward the original number of the contract or modification, a duplicate signed number or an authenticated copy thereof should be attached to the original bond and forwarded to the Commanding General, Air Matériel Command. The Commanding General, Air Matériel Command, will examine bonds as to legal sufficiency and as to form and execution. In the case of individual sureties he will include examination to ascertain whether the affidavits of justification and the certificates of sufficiency of the sureties are in accordance with § 1009.201 (b). The Commanding General, Air Matériel Command, will forward bonds executed by corporate surety, together with any contract or modification which they support, to the Treasury Department. Bonds with other than corporate surety will be forwarded direct to the General Accounting Office.

(2) Consents of surety will be handled in the same manner as bonds. Under the Expediter Plan, unexecuted consents may be forwarded to the Commanding General, Air Matériel Command, who can arrange for their execution in Washington, D. C.

(c) Authority of the Commanding General, Air Matériel Command concerning substitute surety bonds. The Comanding General, Air Matériel Command is authorized to act for the Secretary in accepting a new surety bond in substitution for a bond previously approved by the Department and covering part or all of the same obligation, and in authorizing the notification of the principal and surety on the bond originally furnished that it will not be considered as security for any default occurring subsequently to the date of approval of the new bond. The Commanding General, Air Matériel Command is authorized to delegate such function to whomsoever he may designate.

(d) Miscellaneous bond forms—(1) Standard forms of bonds for Government contracts. The following bond forms shall be used, when appropriate, in accordance with accompanying instructions. The prescribed forms are 1950 editions; however, the forms which they supersede may be used until the present supply is exhausted:

(i) SF24, Bid Bond.
(ii) SF25, Performance Bond.
(iii) SF25A, Payment Bond.
(iv) SF27, Performance Bond—Corporate Co-surety Form.
(v) SF27A, Payment Bond—Corporate Co-surety Form.
(vi) SF27B, Continuation Sheet—Corporate Co-surety.
(vii) SF28, Affidavit of Individual Surety.
(viii) SF34, Annual Bid Bond (Supplies).
(ix) SF35, Annual Performance Bond.

(2) Patent infringement bond. The appropriate patent infringement bond form is:

Know all men by these presents, that we ---------- as Principal, and ---------- as Surety, are held and firmly bound unto the United States of America, hereinafter called the Government, in the penal sum of -------- dollars, lawful money of the United States, for the payment of which sum well and truly to be made, we bind ourselves, our heirs, executors, administrators, and successors, jointly and severally, firmly by these presents.

The condition of this obligation is such, that whereas the principal entered into a certain contract, hereto attached, with the Government, dated ---------- 19----, for ---------- and whereas the said principal has specifically obligated himself in said contract to hold and save the Government, its officers, agents, servants, and employees, harmless from liability of any nature or kind, including cost and expenses, for or on account, of any patented or unpatented invention, article, or appliance manufactured or used in the performance of that contract, including their use by the Government of the articles therein contracted for.

Now, therefore, if the principal shall well and truly perform and fulfill the above undertaking and agreement, and shall promptly make payment of any judgment and costs obtained against the United States under the provisions of the act of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. 851), as amended by the act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat. 705), or expenses incident thereto, then this obligation to be void; otherwise to remain in full force and effect.

In witness whereof, the above-bounden parties have executed this instrument under the several seals this ------ day of --------, 19----, the name and corporate seal of each corporate party being hereto affixed and these presents duly signed by its undersigned representative, pursuant to authority of its governing body.

SUBPART B—SURETIES ON BONDS

§ 1009.201 General requirements of sureties—(a) Corporate sureties—(1) Acceptability. To be acceptable, the corporate surety must have obtained from the Secretary of the Treasury authority to do business under the act of August 13, 1894 (28 Stat. 279), as amended by the act of March 23, 1910 (36 Stat. 241; 6 U. S. C. 8). Treasury Department Form 356, "Companies Holding Certificates of Authority from the Secretary of the Treasury Under Act of Congress Approved July 30, 1947, 6 U. S. C. (Sec. 6–13) as Acceptable Sureties on Federal Bonds," is published annually. This form indicates the maximum penal sum in which any corporate surety may underwrite any one obligation. Any corporation whose name is on this form is acceptable within the limits of such approval. The Commanding General, Air Matériel Command will establish the procedure for consolidating requirements for TD Form 356 annually on or before March 15.

(2) Corporate co-sureties. More than one corporate surety may be accepted as surety upon any recognizance, stipulation, bond, or undertaking in connection with either supply or construction contracts: Provided, That in no case will the liability of any such co-surety exceed the maximum penal sum in which the corporate surety is qualified to underwrite any one obligation. On bonds covering supply contracts where the amount of the bond is greater than the underwriting limitation of the corporate surety, the latter may reinsure with a corporation on the acceptable list of corporate sureties, having the required underwriting capacity. Reinsurance agreements are not acceptable in connection with construction contracts. It is not necessary that corporate co-sureties obligate themselves for the full amount of the bond. Each corporate surety may, by setting forth the limit of its liability in the bond as a definite and specified sum, limit such liability. In all cases the liability shall be limited to the maximum penal sum in which the corporate surety is qualified to underwrite any one obligation. As further indicated by the aforementioned forms, the sureties must, however, bind themselves "jointly and severally" for the purpose of allowing a joint action or actions against any or all of them. When the bond is to be executed by two or more corporate sureties, Standard Form 27 will be used in the case of a performance bond, and Standard Form 27A will be used in the case of a payment bond, each in accordance with the accompanying instructions.

(b) Individual sureties—(1) Acceptability. Individual sureties are acceptable for all types of bonds other than fidelity and forgery bonds: Provided, That they meet the requirements specified in subparagraphs (3) and (5) of this paragraph.

(2) Number. If individual sureties are used, at least two responsible individuals will be on each bond.

(3) Citizenship. (i) Except as prescribed in subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph, individual sureties will be citizens of the United States.

(ii) Sureties on bonds executed in foreign countries, the Canal Zone, Puerto Rico, Hawaii, Alaska, Guam, or any Possession of the United States, to secure the performance of contracts entered into in those places need not be citizens of the United States. However, unless they are citizens of the United States they must be domiciled in the country, territory, or possession where the contract is to be performed.

(4) Extent of liability. The liability of each individual surety shall extend to the entire penal amount of the bond.

(5) Justification. Individual sureties will each justify in an amount not less than the penal amount of the bond.

(6) Stockholders as sureties. In connection with any bond of which a corporation is the principal obligor, a stockholder of that corporation is acceptable as co-surety on the bond: Provided, That his net worth exclusive of his stock holdings in the corporation is equal to the amount for which he justified: And provided further, That such fact is expressly stated in his affidavit of justification.

(7) Affidavit of individual surety. Standard Form 28 will be used in connection with the justification of an individual surety.

(c) Partnerships as sureties. A partnership or other unincorporated association, as such, will not be accepted as a surety. The individual members of the partnership or association may, of course, if they meet the requirements of paragraph (b) of this section, qualify as sureties. Individual members of a partnership or association will not, however, be acceptable as sureties on bonds under which the partnership or association, or any co-partner or member thereof, is the principal obligor.

(d) Substitution or replacement of a surety. In case of financial embarrassment, failure, or other disqualifying cause on the part of a surety under a bond, the head of the procuring activity concerned will require the substitution of a new surety satisfactory to him.

SUBPART C—INSURANCE

§ 1009.301 General policy. Insurance will be required in connection with Air Force contracts when mandatory by law or when it is considered desirable to utilize the organization, facilities, or other services of the insurance industry. Insurance purchases may be authorized where commingling of property and operations or circumstances of ownership and degree of responsibility imposed by contract make the carrying of insurance reasonably necessary for protection of the several interests concerned.

§ 1009.302 Insurance in connection with fixed-price contracts. The requirements under applicable laws, such as State laws governing workmen's compensation and employers' liability coverage and Federal laws, such as the Federal Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act (44 Stat. 1424, as amended; 33 U. S. C. 901–950) where applicable, or, in the case of common carriers, cargo insurance as required by Interstate Commerce regulations, are sufficient to compel the contractor to comply with such laws. The contracting officer will not, therefore, impose insurance requirements other than evidence from the contractor that such laws have been complied with. Where a performance bond supports the contract such evidence will not be necessary.

(a) Insurance on Government property. Under the degree of responsibility for Government property established by contract clause the purchase or nonpurchase of property insurance is discretionary with the contractor, and insurance requirements will not be imposed by the contracting officer.

(b) Insurance in special cases. In special cases, when it is deemed necessary in connection with the performance of a contract, other types of insurance may be required, to the extent determined to be necessary by the head of the procuring activity.

CROSS REFERENCE: For section of Armed Services Procurement Regulation which this section implements see § 409.301 of this title.

§ 1009.303 Insurance in connection with cost-reimbursement type contracts. (a) The kinds of insurance enumerated in §§ 1009.304, 1009.305, and 1009.306 ordinarily will be required by the contracting officer unless the contractor is relieved by statute from liability and elects to invoke such statutory immunity or has an acceptable program of self-insurance already in effect. In special cases other types of insurance may be required to the extent determined to be necessary by the head of the procuring activity.

(b) The contracting officer will ascertain and advise the head of the procuring activity, prior to completing the placement of insurance under the contract, as to whether (and if so, to what extent) the contractor has cost-reimbursement-type contracts with any other agency of the Department of Defense at the proposed location or adjacent thereto. This information should be readily obtainable from the contractor and will be used by the head of the procuring activity concerned to determine whether contracts can be combined for the purposes of insurance in order to be eligible for more favorable rate treatment.

§ 1009.304 Workmen's compensation and employers' liability insurance. (a) Workmen's compensation insurance protects the employer against liability imposed by a workmen's compensation law to pay benefits and furnish care to employees injured, and to pay benefits to dependents of employees killed, in the course of and because of their employment. Employers' liability insurance protects an employer against claims for damages which may arise out of injuries to employees in the course of their work in cases not covered by the compensation law. Such insurance will be required, endorsed to provide:

(1) Occupational disease coverage in jurisdictions where the workmen's compensation law does not cover all occupational diseases, in limits of $50,000 per person in any one case and $100,000 for any one policy year;

(2) In those jurisdictions where there is a "per accident" limitation coverage under paragraph One (b) of the insurance policy, additional limits up to $100,000 for each accident, or, where there is a "per person" limitation under this paragraph, additional limits up to $50,000 per person;

(3) In jurisdictions where workmen's compensation coverage is carried in a State fund which does not provide the protection afforded by the requirements of subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph, employers' liability insurance will be purchased, endorsed to provide coverage.

(b) Where such insurance is purchased for contracts to be performed outside the limits of the United States, its territories and possessions, the endorsements required above may be modified in accordance with instructions issued by the head of the procuring activity, provided that higher monetary limits are not authorized.

(c) The Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, as amended (44 Stat. 1424, as amended; 33 U. S. C. 901–950; 42 U. S. C. ch. 11, 12) generally provides that workmen's compensation benefits are applicable to all employees of any contractor with the United States on any military, air, or naval defense base other than contractors or subcontractors engaged exclusively in furnishing materials or supplies. Where it is desired that the benefits under this law be waived with respect to labor employed outside the limits of the United States (48 States and the District of Columbia), the head of the procuring activity will request such waiver by applying to the Bureau of Employees' Compensation, Department of Labor.

(d) Workmen's compensation benefits will be paid to all employees of any contractor with the United States where waiver is obtained as provided above in accordance with the workmen's compensation or similar laws of the national, state, or local government where contract performance occurs.

§ 1009.305 Comprehensive general liability insurance. (a) This insurance protects the insured against loss due to claims for bodily injury and property damage resulting from accidents arising out of the existence or use of premises of the contractor, or the conduct of the contractor's business operations (except those claims arising from motor vehicle accidents which occur outside his premises, those claims covered by workmen's compensation law, or other exclusions stated in the policy). This insurance will be required with limits of $50,000 per person, $100,000 per accident.

(b) General liability insurance for damage to property of others may be purchased under the general liability policy where, in the opinion of the contracting officer, the exposure under the contract operations is such as to warrant obtaining the experienced claims and investigating services of the insurance carrier in the event of extensive damage to property of others. Prior approval for the purchase of this type of insurance will be obtained from the head of the procuring activity, and limits of $50,000 per accident with an aggregate limit of $100,000 for each year of policy coverage will be considered adequate. However, where commingling of operations permits the Government's protection at a nominal cost under insurance carried by the contractor in the course of his commercial operations, the participation in such insurance will be deemed in the best interests of the Government.

(c) Contractual liability insurance protects the contractor against loss arising under assumption of liability by agreement. This insurance is provided by the comprehensive general liability policy where a contractor has assumed liability under:

(1) A lease of premises;
(2) An easement agreement;
(3) An agreement required by municipal ordinance;
(4) A sidetrack agreement; or
(5) An elevator or escalator-maintenance agreement.

The purchase of insurance for other assumed liability may be approved where assumption of such liability by the contractor has been authorized and the head of the procuring activity determines that the purchase of such insurance is necessary.

(d) Where insurance prescribed by this section is purchased for contracts to be performed outside the limits of the United States, its territories and possessions, the head of the procuring activity is authorized to revise downward the monetary limits prescribed in this section.

§ 1009.306 Automobile liability insurance. Automobile public liability and property damage insurance will be required with limits of $50,000 per person and $100,000 per accident for bodily injury liability and $5,000 for property damage liability on the comprehensive policy form covering all owned, non-owned, hired, and Government-furnished motor vehicles which will be used in the contract operations where use will not be limited exclusively to the premises on which the work under such contract is performed. When such insurance is purchased for contracts to be performed outside the limits of the United States, its territories and possessions, the head of the procuring activity is authorized to revise downward the monetary limits prescribed in this section.

§ 1009.307 Boiler and machinery insurance. This type of insurance protects the contractor against loss due to accidents arising from boilers, pressure vessels, or machinery. The chief value of this insurance is the inspection service by qualified insurance personnel afforded under the insurance policy. The purchase of such insurance by Air Force cost-reimbursement type contractors is authorized as an item of reimbursement.

§ 1009.308 Group insurance plans. Group insurance plans and such other forms of insurance as are provided voluntarily to employees in order to furnish benefits in the event of death, disability, dismemberment, hospitalization, surgical or medical care will be subject to review by the head of the procuring activity. The purpose of this requirement is to ascertain that greater benefits are not being extended under the cost-reimbursement type contract than those granted to employees under the contractor's regular commercial operations. An existing schedule which is being increased will also be referred to the head of the procuring activity for the same purpose. Where employees under the cost-reimbursement type contract are added to the contractor's already existent group life or similar type of insurance policies, provision should be made at contract termination to see that any experience refund due from the last year of contract operation will be credited proportionately to the contract.

§ 1009.309 Retirement or pension plans including plans based upon profits. The basis for allowability of costs under cost-reimbursement type contracts for such plans is fully set forth in Part 414 (Contract Cost Principles) of this title. Such plans will be subject to review and approval by the head of the procuring activity.

§ 1009.310 Insurance on Government property. The policy of the Air Force is not to require or approve insurance covering loss of or damage to property, legal title to which is in the United States, used in connection with cost-reimbursement type contracts. Ordinarily, the contractor will be relieved of liability for loss or damage to Government property in accordance with the provisions contained in the Government Property clause of the contract.

§ 1009.311 General statement. The required or permitted forms of insurance and instructions set forth in this subpart are intended as basic principles to be applied in connection with insurance on cost-reimbursement type contracts where the contract operations are separately insured. Where commingling of commercial and Government operations make separate insurance impracticable, §§ 1009.301 through 1009.310 will necessarily not remain applicable.

Colonel, U. S. Air Force,

DOWNGRADING OF SCRAP MATERIAL PURCHASED FROM GOVERNMENT

The following question has arisen with respect to the sale of scrap material under CPR's 5, 43, 46, 47, 53, 54, and 59. Brokers submit bids for the purchase of scrap from the various military disposal depots. The bids are based on the grade of scrap set forth in the Government's invitation to bid. Occasionally consumers have refused to accept the scrap at the grade classified by the Government, requesting that it be downgraded to the grade actually received.

Paragraph 1 under General Sales Terms and Conditions of the Government Standard Form 114, the contract form used for these transactions, states:

1. Inspection. Bidders are invited and urged to inspect the property to be sold prior to submitting bids. Property will be available for inspection at the places and times specified in the invitation. The Government will not be obliged to furnish any labor for such purpose. In no case will failure to inspect constitute grounds for a claim or for the withdrawal of a bid after opening.

The question is raised as to whether, under the above-cited regulations, the Government may charge and the consumer pay for the scrap at the price called for by the grading in the invitation to bid when it is higher than the ceiling price for the grade of scrap actually delivered.

Section 1 (b) (1) of CPR 5 (Iron and Steel Scrap) states:

On and after October 30, 1951, regardless of any contract or other obligation:

(1) No person shall sell, deliver, buy, receive, or prepare iron or steel scrap or agree, offer, solicit, or attempt to do any of the foregoing at prices above those established in this regulation: • • •

This is standard phraseology in all metal scrap regulations.

The specifications which govern the determination of the grade of the scrap, on the basis of which the establishment of ceiling prices depends, are set forth in each of the scrap regulations. Each regulation further contains provisions for specifying which grade or grades of scrap shall be used in determining the ceiling price of scrap where there are mixed grades of scrap in one vehicle.

Where the scrap actually delivered is of a lower grade than that for which bids were made, the parties are bound by the ceilings established for the grade of the scrap actually delivered, despite the language of paragraph 1 of Standard Form 114 or any other contract to the contrary. The parties are, of course, free to resort to their ordinary contractual remedies.

CPR 5—IRON AND STEEL SCRAP

INT. 3—BROKERAGE TRANSACTIONS (SECTION 19)

Upgrading is a prevalent form of violation of CPR 5. While the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, and CPR 5 clearly define the liability of culpable dealers and consumers, the nature and extent of the broker's liability need clarification. Following is a guide for use in determining whether injunction and treble damage suits would lie against brokers involved in the shipments of upgraded scrap.

1. Concerning the significance of the word "guarantees" which appears in section 19 (a) (2) of CPR 5, the section reads in part: "The broker guarantees the quality and delivery of an agreed tonnage of scrap."

The term "guarantees" applies to "quality" and "delivery" of an "agreed tonnage of scrap" within a specified period. Hence, if the initial delivery is deficient in terms of quality the broker has not breached his contract with the consumer if during the period specified therein later deliveries are made meeting the quality specifications.

2. The question has been raised as to whether an action may be brought, after appropriate demand, to recover from a broker commissions paid on a shipment of upgraded scrap.

It is quite clear that an action may be brought to recover from a broker commissions paid on a shipment of upgraded scrap. Sales of iron and steel scrap at higher than the ceiling prices established by CPR 5 are prohibited thereby, and it was intended that the broker's commission provided for by section 19 be subject to the same condition and payable only in sales not exceeding ceiling prices. The specific prohibition is contained in section 19 (a) (3) which provides that no commission shall be paid unless: "The scrap is purchased by the consumer at a price no higher than the ceiling prices established in this regulation."

3. Another question is whether in the usual type of transaction involving the shipment of scrap moving directly from dealer to consumer, the broker acquires title during any stage of such a transaction.

The answer to this question is in the affirmative and the pertinent provision of CPR 5 is section 19 (a) (1) which sets out one of the situations in which a commission is payable as follows: "The broker is regularly and primarily engaged in the business of buying for, and selling scrap to, a consumer."

"Selling scrap to a consumer" definitely implies that the broker acquires title in the transaction of a sale of scrap to a consumer. This is recognition and implementation of the historic practice prevailing in the scrap industry prior to CPR 5, and contemplates that the broker will continue to acquire title and sell to the consumer, in accordance with established practice.

4. Finally, the question has been presented as to whether the broker is an agent for the dealer, the consumer, or whether he is an independent contractor.

Inasmuch as the broker acquires title it is clear that he is an independent contractor, rather than agent for the dealer or consumer. It is true that the broker may buy scrap for a consumer but this is incidental to a sales contract rather than an agency relationship.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

Section 106 (b) of the Defense Production Act Amendment of 1952 amends paragraph 3 of subsection (d) of section 402 of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, so as to provide that "Where a State regulatory body is authorized to establish minimum and or maximum prices for sales of fluid milk, ceiling prices established for such sales under this title shall (1) not be less than the minimum prices, or (2) be equal to the maximum prices, established by such regulatory body, as the case may be". Section 111 of the Defense Production Act Amendments of 1952 adds to section 402 of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, a new subsection providing "(1) No rule, regulation, order, or amendment thereto issued under this title shall fix a ceiling on the price paid or received on the sale or delivery of any material in any State below the minimum sales price of such material fixed by the State law (other than any so-called 'fair trade law') now in effect, or by regulation issued pursuant to such law." The State of California Bureau of Milk Control recently required producers of fluid milk to charge the equivalent of ½ cent per quart of standard milk which under the provisions of Section 8 of Supplementary Regulation 63 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation may be passed through upon the filing of the required report. This amendment conforms the appendix prices to those of the State's minimum price schedule and eliminates any conflict between OPS ceiling prices established by AMPR 9 and minimum prices established by the State of California.

The increase in the price of fluid milk paid by processors requires the revision of the table of cream differentials to reflect that increase.

As the producer prices and changes in retail home delivered milk and cream prices are similar in the Orange County Marketing Order to the Los Angeles County Marketing Order but are different from the San Diego County Marketing Order, it is considered desirable to delete the Appendix referring to Orange County from AMPR 9 and to include it with the required changes in AMPR 10.

In the judgment of the District Director the provisions of this amendment to Area Milk Price Regulation No. 9 in Region XII are generally fair and equitable and are necessary to effectuate the purpose of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended by the Defense Production Act Amendments of 1951, and the Defense Production Act Amendments of 1952.

The District Director of the Office of Price Stabilization gave due consideration to the national effort to achieve maximum production in furtherance of the objectives of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended; to prices prevailing during the period from May 24, 1950, to June 24, 1950, inclusive; and to all relevant factors of general applicability. The director consulted the industry involved to the fullest extent practicable prior to the issuance of this amendment to Area Milk Price Regulation No. 9.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Area Milk Price Regulation 9 is amended in the following respects:

1. Section 1 is amended by adding the following paragraph thereto:

(c) If a ceiling price otherwise established by this regulation is lower than an applicable corresponding minimum price established by the State of California Bureau of Milk Control, then the ceiling price shall be the minimum price established by the State of California Bureau of Milk Control. The prices for standard milk so determined shall be the base prices for the computation, pursuant to section 3 of the appendices of this regulation, of prices for standard milk sold in remote areas and of prices for milk other than standard (such as buttermilk, chocolate drink, non-fat milk, and special grades of milk), and, further, shall be the base prices for calculation, pursuant to paragraph (a) (2) above, of prices for sales to types of purchasers other than those specified in the appendices of this regulation.

Wherever in the text of the regulatory provisions of this regulation the phrase "San Diego District Office" appears there is substituted therefor the phrase "Los Angeles District Office"; and in section 3 (a) for the parenthetical sentence "(The 'San Diego District Office,' as used in this regulation, means the San Diego District Office of the Office of Price Stabilization located at 1215 7th Avenue, San Diego 1, California,)" there is substituted the parenthetical sentence "(The 'Los Angeles District Office,' as used in this regulation, means the Los Angeles District Office of the Office of Price Stabilization located at 108 West Sixth Street, Los Angeles 14, California.)"

2. Appendix I, Revision II, San Diego County Marketing Area is deleted and a Revised Appendix I, Revision III—San Diego County Marketing Area is added to read as follows:

For kinds of milk other than standard (such as buttermilk, chocolate drink, non-fat milk, and special grades of milk), the ceiling price shall be the ceiling price as hereinbefore provided for standard milk in the same size of container plus or minus, as the case may be, the dollars-and-cents difference between the seller's base period prices for such kind of milk and standard milk. Ceiling prices so determined under this section shall be reported in accordance with section 3 of this regulation.

4. The prices herein provided are based upon a producer paying price of $6.38 per hundredweight of milk containing 3.8 percent milk fat for Class 1 fluid milk purchased f. o. b. processor's plant, subject to the deductions and additions set forth in Section A of Article I of San Diego County Order No. 40 issued by the State of California Bureau of Milk Control effective November 8, 1952.

5. "San Diego County Marketing Area" means that area as defined in said San Diego County Order No. 40.

3. Appendix II (Revision 1) Orange County Marketing Area is hereby deleted. This amendment is effective as of November 8, 1952.

GCPR, SR 63—AREA MILK PRICE ADJUSTMENTS

AMPR 11—LOS ANGELES DISTRICT, CALIFORNIA

ADDITION OF APPENDICES COVERING SANTA BARBARA, SAN LUIS OBISPO, AND KERN MARKETING AREAS AND REVISION OF VENTURA MARKETING AREA APPENDIX

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), Delegation of Authority No. 41 (16 F. R. 12579) and Redelegation of Authority No. 23, Region XII (17 F. R. 674) this Amendment 4 to Area Milk Price Regulation 11 pursuant to Supplementary Regulation 63 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation (16 F. R. 9559), is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment adds appendices for Santa Barbara, San Luis Obispo, and Kern Counties. These Counties were governed by the General Ceiling Price Regulation which only permitted increases of ceiling prices due to producer's increases in price.

The State of California Bureau of Milk Control recently required producers of fluid milk to charge the equivalent of an additional ½ cent per quart of standard milk. The Bureau also required that wholesale distributors charge an additional ¼ cent per quart and retailers a ½ cent per quart, making a total increase for wholesalers of ¾ cent per quart and for retailers $.01 cent per quart.

Section 106 (b) of the Defense Production Act Amendment of 1952 amends paragraph 3 of subsection (d) of section 402 of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, so as to provide that "Where a State regulatory body is authorized to establish minimum and or maximum prices for sales of fluid milk, ceiling prices established for such sales under this title shall (1) not be less than the minimum prices, or (2) be equal to the maximum prices, established by such regulatory body, as the case may be". Section 111 of the Defense Production Act Amendments of 1952 adds to section 402 of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, a new subsection providing "(1) No rule, regulation, order, or amendment thereto issued under this title shall fix a ceiling on the price paid or received on the sale or delivery of any material in any State below the minimum sales price of such material fixed by the State law (other than any so-called 'fair trade law') now in effect, or by regulation issued pursuant to such law."

This amendment conforms the area prices to the minimum price schedule of the State.

The price schedule for cream allows for the per unit increase in the cost of the listed types of cream, rounded to the next cent.

An equivalent increase in the ceiling price of kinds of milk other than standard, over the General Ceiling Price Regulation ceiling price, is spelled out in the appendices.

In the judgment of the District Director the provisions of this amendment to Area Milk Price Regulation No. 11 in Region XII are generally fair and equitable and are necessary to effectuate the purpose of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended by the Defense Production Act Amendments of 1951, and the Defense Production Act Amendments of 1952.

The District Director of the Office of Price Stabilization gave due consideration to the national effort to achieve maximum production in furtherance of the objectives of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended; to prices prevailing during the period from May 24, 1950, to June 24, 1950, inclusive; and to all relevant factors of general applicability. The director consulted the industry involved to the fullest extent practicable prior to the issuance of this amendment to Area Milk Price Regulation No. 11.

Chapter IV—Salary and Wage Stabilization, Economic Stabilization Agency

Subchapter A—Salary Stabilization Board

[Interpretation 17]

INT. 17—NEW PROFIT SHARING AND OTHER BONUSES (GSO 12, REVISED)

This interpretation deals with the payment of bonuses by employers who are not authorized to pay bonuses under General Salary Stabilization Regulation 2, as amended.

1. Q. Under what regulation or order of the Salary Stabilization Board may an employer, who is not authorized to pay bonuses under General Salary Stabilization Regulation 2, as amended, pay bonuses to his employees?

A. Under General Salary Order 12, Revised.

2. Q. An employer paid a discretionary bonus to his employees in 1946 and none since. May he pay a bonus under General Salary Order 12, Revised?

A. No. The employer is authorized to pay bonuses under General Salary Stabilization Regulation 2, as amended, computing his base period bonus fund in accordance with paragraph 2.02 of Interpretation 3, Revised. However, the bonus fund may be augmented by amounts available for increases in compensation under sections 22 and 41 of General Salary Stabilization Regulation 1, Amended. (See Interpretation 3, Revised, paragraphs 9.01–9.08.)

3. Q. An employer paid discretionary bonuses to his employees in each of the calendar years 1942–1945. However, he paid no bonuses subsequent to 1945. May the employer pay bonuses to his employees for the calendar year 1952?

A. Yes, but only in accordance with the provisions of General Salary Order 12, Revised. Since the employer did not pay bonuses to his employees during any of the five calendar years 1946–1950, he does not have a base period bonus fund for the payment of bonuses under General Salary Stabilization Regulation 2, as amended.

NOTE: In the questions which follow the bonuses to which reference is made are, unless otherwise specified, new bonuses within the scope of General Salary Order 12, Revised.

4. Q. When is an employer on a calendar year basis able to determine the amount available for payment of bonuses in or with respect to the calendar year 1952?

A. In the last payroll period of the calendar year 1952.

5. Q. Could the employer distribute part of the bonus in or with respect to the calendar year 1952 on June 30, 1952?

A. No. Since the employer cannot determine the amount available for the payment of bonuses prior to the end of the last payroll period of the calendar year 1952, distribution of the bonuses cannot be made prior to such period.

6. Q. An employer who desires to pay bonuses for the calendar year 1952 and has an amount available for such purposes at the end of such calendar year, desires to pay one-half of such bonus on December 31, 1952, and the other half on June 30, 1953. May he do so?

A. Yes.

7. Q. An employer computes his bonus fund as of December 31, 1952. Does such fund also constitute the employer's bonus fund for subsequent calendar years?

A. No. If the employer desires to pay bonuses at the end of the subsequent calendar year, he must compute the amount available to him in the last payroll period of any subsequent calendar year and may not exceed such amount in the distribution of bonuses. This amount may be the same or may be larger or smaller than the amount available to him at the end of the calendar year 1952.

Example: (a) The net authorized percentage available to the employer under section 41 of General Salary Stabilization Regulation 1, Amended, may be greater at the end of the calendar year 1953 than at the end of the calendar year 1952 because of an increase in base compensation granted to the Wage Board group in 1953.

(c) An employer who prior to December 31, 1952, had not used any part of the amount available under section 22 of General Salary Stabilization Regulation 1, Amended, for increases in salaries and other compensation, uses part of such amount during 1953 for salary increases. If employment has remained stable, the amount which the employer will have available for bonuses at the end of 1953, will be smaller than the amount at the end of 1952.

8. Q. An employer on the calendar year basis desires to pay bonuses for a current calendar year. He has only granted part of the increase authorized under section 22 of General Salary Stabilization Regulation 1, Amended. How does he compute the amount which he may pay as bonuses under the order out of moneys available under section 22?

A. By (1) separately computing for each group of employees the amount available to him for increases in salaries and other compensation under section 22 in the last payroll period of the calendar year; (2) then multiplying the amount by the number of payroll periods in the calendar year just elapsed for the group; and (3) adding all such amounts. Such total constitutes the employer's bonus fund in or with respect to the current calendar year.

9. Q. An employer, desiring to pay bonuses in or with respect to a current calendar year, does not have moneys available for increases in compensation under section 22 of General Salary Stabilization Regulation 1, Amended. However, the employer has never granted any increases under section 41 of that regulation, and consequently has moneys available for new bonuses under that section. All the employees of the employer are paid on the same monthly basis. How does the employer determine the amount available?

A. By computing the amount available under section 41 of General Salary Stabilization Regulation 1, Amended, for the last payroll period of the current calendar year and multiplying the amount so obtained by the number of payroll periods in the year, which in this instance is twelve (12).

10. Q. If the employer, referred to in paragraphs 8 and 9, conducted his business on a fiscal rather than on a calendar year basis, would the computation of the amount available for bonuses be affected?

A. The only change in the computation would be the substitution of the final payroll period in the fiscal year for the final payroll period in the calendar year.

11. Q. An employer paid bonuses for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1952, out of moneys available under section 22 of General Salary Stabilization Regulation 1, Amended. Thereafter, he desires to use the amount available to grant salary increases to his employees. What is the earliest time at which such increases may be put into effect?

A. July 1, 1952. Any bonuses paid out of amounts available under section 22 of General Salary Stabilization Regulation 1, Amended, cover all payroll periods of the calendar or fiscal year in or with respect to which the bonuses are paid. Therefore, the earliest time at which any amount becomes available for granting salary increases or for other purposes is the first payroll period of the next fiscal or calendar year, which in this example begins on July 1, 1952.

12. Q. An employer, having a fiscal year ending September 30, granted salary increases under section 22 of General Salary Stabilization Regulation 1, Amended, to his employees effective March 1, 1952, in the amount of 6 percent. What is the amount available for the payment of bonuses in the payroll period immediately preceding September 30, 1952?

A. An amount equivalent to 4 percent of the payroll in such payroll period multiplied by the number of payroll periods in the year. The amount available is not affected by the fact that the salary increases in the amount of 6 percent granted under section 22 of General Salary Stabilization Regulation 1, Amended, were effective only for part of the fiscal year ending September 30, 1952.

13. Q. An employer paid bonuses for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1952, out of moneys available under section 41 of General Salary Stabilization Regulation 1, Amended, amounting to 6½ percent of the base compensation paid to the employees under the jurisdiction of the Salary Stabilization Board in the last payroll period of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1952. The 6½ percent represents 4½ percent computed in the last payroll period of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1952 and a 2 percent carryover from a previous computation made in the last payroll period of the calendar year 1951. What is the earliest payroll period in which these moneys can be used for the granting of salary increases?

A. (1) As to the 2 percent carryover: In the first payroll period in January 1953, the employer, under section 41 of General Salary Stabilization Regulation 1, Amended, had an authorized percentage of two (2) percent for increases in compensation, computed in the last payroll period in the calendar year 1951. He had used this percentage in paying bonuses for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1952. Inasmuch as he may not use this percentage for other purposes until one year (i. e. the number of "payroll periods in a year") has elapsed since the date of computation, the earliest payroll period in which he may use the percentage for salary increases, or for any other purpose, would be the first payroll period in January 1953.

(2) As to the 4½ percent increase: In the first payroll period in July 1953, the employer had, under section 41 of General Salary Stabilization Regulation 1, Amended, an authorized percentage of four and one-half (4½) percent for increases in compensation, computed as of the last payroll period in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1952. In order to make bonus payments for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1952, the employer was required to anticipate moneys available for future increases under section 41 of General Salary Stabilization Regulation 1, Amended, for the period from July 1, 1952 to June 30, 1953. Accordingly, the employer may not use this percentage for salary increases or for any other purposes until the first payroll period in July, 1953.

14. Q. Assuming that the employer referred to in the previous paragraph had given no increases in salaries and other compensation under section 41 of General Salary Stabilization Regulation 1, Amended, during the period from July 1, 1952 to June 30, 1953, may he pay bonuses for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1953 under General Salary Order 12, Revised?

A. Yes. The employer may pay bonuses for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1953 by anticipating the entire six and one-half (6½) percent increase in salaries and other compensation, authorized under section 41 of General Salary Stabilization Regulation 1, Amended, in the same manner as such increases were anticipated for the payment of bonuses for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1952.

15. Q. An employer gave increases to Wage Board employees on March 1 and June 1, 1952. Immediately prior to June 30, 1952, he computes the amount available to him under section 41 of General Salary Stabilization Regulation 1, Amended, to be paid as bonuses to employees under the jurisdiction of the Salary Stabilization Board. When does the amount so computed on a per payroll period basis again become available for salary increases?

A. On July 1, 1953. In determining the date when any amount becomes available for distribution under section 41 of General Salary Stabilization Regulation 1, Amended, the date of computation and not the date of prior increases to employees under the jurisdiction of the Wage Stabilization Board governs.

16. Q. Are there any limitations on the distribution of the bonus fund among his individual employees which an employer may pay under General Salary Order 12, Revised?

A. No. The employer may adopt any plan or practice, or make any individual distribution, which he desires.

17. Q. If the employer should create intra-plant inequities because of the manner in which bonuses are distributed, may he obtain relief from the Office of Salary Stabilization for the purpose of correcting such inequities?

A. No. The unequal distribution of bonuses may not be used at any later date as a basis for seeking adjustments in salary or other compensation on the ground that such distribution has created hardships or inequities.

18. Q. Are employers required to keep records with regard to bonuses distributed under General Salary Order 12, Revised?

A. Yes. Pursuant to section 3 of the order employers must keep the records and prepare the summary statements required by section 101 of General Salary Stabilization Regulation 1, Amended.

Issued by the Office of Salary Stabilization this 14th day of November, 1952.

JOSEPH D. COOPER,
Executive Director.

[Docket Nos. G-1693, G-1473, G-1649, G-1727, G-1737]

TEXAS EASTERN TRANSMISSION CORP. ET AL.

ORDER AMENDING ORDER ISSUING CERTIFICATE OF PUBLIC CONVENIENCE AND NECESSITY AND PROVIDING FOR FURTHER HEARING

NOVEMBER 14, 1952.

In the matters of Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation, Docket No. G-1693; Alabama-Tennessee Natural Gas Company, Docket No. G-1473; Tennessee Gas Company, Docket No. G-1649; Shippensburg Gas Company, Docket No. G-1727; Consumers Gas Company, Docket No. G-1737.

On July 3, 1952, the Commission issued its order accompanying Opinion No. 231, whereby it authorized and directed Texas Eastern, inter alia, to reserve certain specified quantities of gas for Permian Gas and Oil Company, Patoka Development Corporation, Ohio Valley Gas Corporation, and Tennessee Gas Company. Such reservation was subject to the provision, among others, that each such corporation should, by November 1, 1952, have filed an application for and have received a certificate of public convenience and necessity, authorizing it to construct and operate the necessary facilities to enable it to provide natural-gas service to the towns designated in the Presiding Examiner's decision in these proceedings.

An application was filed by Ohio Valley Gas Corporation in Docket No. G-1940 on April 16, 1952, for a certificate of public convenience and necessity to enable it to provide natural-gas service to the City of Connersville, Indiana, the city designated in the Presiding Examiner's decision to be served by Ohio Valley Gas Corporation. Pursuant to Commission requests, certain additional information in connection with said application was filed on October 16, 1952, by Ohio Valley Corporation as a supplement to its application. Said application was not disposed of by November 1, 1952.

On September 8, 1952, Permian Gas and Oil Company filed an application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity, authorizing it to construct and operate facilities to enable it to provide natural-gas service to the towns designated in the Presiding Examiner's decision. The company has been requested by the Commission to furnish certain additional information in connection with its application. Said application was not disposed of by November 1, 1952.

On September 29, 1952, Tennessee Gas Company filed a motion to modify the Commission's order of July 3, 1952, so that Tennessee Gas Pipe Line Company, an affiliate of Tennessee Gas Company, instead of Tennessee Gas Company, be authorized to construct and operate facilities to transport natural gas to the City of Murfreesboro, Tennessee. Said motion states that, while Tennessee Gas Company proposes to purchase gas from Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation and to provide natural-gas service to Murfreesboro, it is proposed that its affiliate, Tennessee Gas Pipe Line Company, transport such gas. An application in Docket No. G–2046 for a certificate of public convenience and necessity to transport such gas was filed by Tennessee Gas Pipe Line Company on September 10, 1952. Said application in Docket No. G–2046 was not disposed of by November 1, 1952.

On September 29, 1952, Patoka Development Corporation and the Cities of Jasper and Huntingburg, Indiana, filed a petition for modification and amendment of the order of July 3, 1952, to enable Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation to sell and deliver gas to the Cities of Jasper and Huntingburg, instead of to Patoka Development Corporation for distribution by it to such cities. Patoka Development Corporation did not receive a certificate of public convenience and necessity prior to November 1, 1952.

In connection with said motion filed by Tennessee Gas Company on September 29, 1952, and said petition filed by Patoka Development Corporation and the Cities of Jasper and Huntingburg, on September 29, 1952, Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation filed, on October 14, 1952, a petition in which it adopted by reference and joined in said motion and said petition filed on September 29, 1952.

The Commission finds:

(1) Good cause exists for amending the order issued July 3, 1952, so that paragraph (B) (3) thereof shall provide (a) that the reservation of gas for Ohio Valley Gas Corporation and Permian Gas and Oil Company shall be contingent upon issuance to each of a certificate of public convenience and necessity on or before January 5, 1953, authorizing each respectively to construct and operate facilities to enable it to provide natural-gas service to the respective towns designated in the Presiding Examiner's decision in these proceedings; and (b) that the reservation of gas for Tennessee Gas Company for provision of natural-gas service to the City of Murfreesboro, Tennessee, shall be contingent upon issuance to Tennessee Gas Pipe Line Company of a certificate of public convenience and necessity on or before January 5, 1953, authorizing it to construct and operate facilities to transport such gas.

(2) Good cause has not been shown for granting the petition filed September 29, 1952, by Patoka Development Corporation and the Cities of Jasper and Huntingburg to amend the order issued July 3, 1952, in the manner requested in said petition.

(3) It is appropriate and in the public interest that Texas Eastern be authorized and directed to reserve a daily volume of 3,400 Mcf of gas for a period of 90 days from the date of issuance of the order herein, pending determination of the matters referred to in finding (4) below.

(4) It is appropriate and in the public interest that the record in Docket No. G–1693 be reopened and that a hearing be held as hereinafter ordered for the purpose of determining whether public convenience and necessity require the amendment of the order issued July 3, 1952, in the manner jointly requested by Patoka Development Corporation, the Cities of Jasper and Huntingburg, and Texas Eastern.

The Commission orders:

(A) Paragraph (B) (3) of the order accompanying Opinion No. 231, issued July 3, 1952, be and it is hereby amended in the following respects:

(i) The reservation of gas for Permian Gas and Oil Company and Ohio Valley Gas Corporation be and it hereby is extended to January 5, 1953: Provided, however, That each such corporation shall, on or before January 5, 1953, have received a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing it to construct and operate the necessary facilities to enable it to provide natural-gas service to the towns designated in the Presiding Examiner's decision to these proceedings.

(ii) The reservation of gas for Tennessee Gas Company be and it is hereby extended to January 5, 1953: Provided, however, That Tennessee Gas Pipe Line Company shall, on or before January 5, 1953, have received a certificate of public convenience and necessity to construct and operate the necessary facilities to enable it to transport gas from Texas Eastern's pipe line to the City of Murfreesboro, Tennessee.

(iii) Texas Eastern be and it is hereby authorized and directed to continue to reserve for a period of 90 days from the date of issuance of the order herein, pending determination of the matters referred to in finding (4) hereof, a daily volume of natural gas not to exceed 3,400 Mcf.

(B) Upon its own motion, and pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Power Commission by sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act, and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a public hearing be held commencing on December 1, 1952, at 10:00 a. m., e. s. t., in the Hearing Room of the Federal Power Commission, 1800 Pennsylvania Avenue NW., Washington, D. C., concerning the matters involved and the issues presented in connection with the matters set forth in finding (4) hereof.

(C) Interested State commissions may participate as provided by §§ 1.8 and 1.37 (f) (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37 (f)) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure.

Date of issuance: November 14, 1952.

FEDERAL LIQUIDATING CORP.

ORDER PERMITTING DECLARATION TO BECOME EFFECTIVE IN RESPECT OF FINAL LIQUIDATING DIVIDEND

NOVEMBER 13, 1952.

Federal Liquidating Corporation ("Liquidating Corporation"), a subsidiary of Cities Service Company, a registered holding company, having filed a declaration, pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act"), particularly section 12 (c) thereof and Rule U-42 promulgated thereunder, in respect of the following proposed transactions:

Liquidating Corporation proposes to effect the payment to its stockholder-recipients of the previous $1.75 per share partial liquidating dividend a final liquidating dividend of 88.8 cents per share, aggregating $466,113.86, leaving approximately $573.56 to defray miscellaneous expenses, including $250 to be paid to the New York Trust Company for services as liquidating agent in making the final liquidating distribution. In this connection it is stated that Liquidating Corporation in December, 1950 effected its dissolution under the law of Delaware, pursuant to the order of the Commission issued December 15, 1950 (File No. 70-2523), has discharged all liabilities, including fees and expenses and other assumed obligations in connection with the proceeding of Federal Light and Traction Company under section 11 (e) of the act, and has on hand approximately $463,687.42.

INDIANA & MICHIGAN ELECTRIC CO.

ORDER AUTHORIZING PROPOSED CHARTER AMENDMENTS

NOVEMBER 13, 1952.

Indiana & Michigan Electric Company ("Indiana"), an electric utility subsidiary of American Gas and Electric Company, a registered holding company, having filed a declaration, and amendments thereto, pursuant to sections 6 and 7 of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, and Rule U-62 promulgated thereunder, with respect to the following transactions:

Indiana proposes to amend its Articles of Acceptance so as (1) to modify the present provisions limiting the amount of unsecured debt, so as to increase the amount of such unsecured debt which may be issued without the consent of the holders of a majority of the preferred stock from 10 percent to 20 percent of the sum of secured debt, capital stock and surplus, as more specifically summarized hereafter; and (2) to increase the number of its authorized shares of common stock, without par value, from 1,250,000 shares to 2,500,000 shares.

The proposed provision modifying the present unsecured debt provisions would allow Indiana to issue unsecured debt in a total amount not exceeding 20 percent of which short-term unsecured debt could not exceed 10 percent, of the sum of secured debt, capital stock and surplus. Under this provision, long-term unsecured debt would be unsecured debt having maturities of 10 years or more, except that where a single maturity or a final installment matures 10 or more years from time of issuance it will be considered long-term unsecured debt until the date of its maturity is less than 5 years from time of computation. This amendment to the Articles of Acceptance requires the affirmative vote of the holders of at least two-thirds of the outstanding preferred stock of Indiana, and the company will solicit proxies from its preferred stockholders with respect to such amendment.

The proposed amendments are designed to afford greater flexibility to Indiana for the raising of capital to finance its construction program, expenditures for which, for the years 1952 to 1954 inclusive, are estimated to total approximately $87,700,000. The Company represents that it contemplates the sale of additional common stock in order to finance its construction program and to preserve an adequate equity ratio, and that for this purpose additional authorization of stock is necessary.

Appropriate notice of said filing having been given in the form and manner prescribed by Rule U-23 promulgated pursuant to the act, and the Commission not having received a request for a hearing with respect to said declaration within the period specified in said notice, or otherwise, and not having ordered a hearing thereon; and

The Commission finding with respect to the declaration, as amended, that the applicable provisions of the act and rules promulgated thereunder are satisfied and that no adverse findings are necessary; the Commission being of the view that it is appropriate to permit the submission of the proposed charter amendments to the stockholders of Indiana-Michigan, the Commission noting that such authorization is not to be construed as a recommendation by the Commission that such stockholders either approve or disapprove the proposed amendments; the Commission finding that it is not necessary to impose any terms and conditions other than those set forth below; and the Commission deeming it appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers that said declaration, as amended, be permitted to become effective forthwith:

It is ordered, Pursuant to Rule U-23 and the applicable provisions of the act, that said declaration, as amended, be, and the same hereby is, permitted to become effective forthwith, subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24.

By the Commission.

NORTH PENN GAS CO.

NOTICE OF FILING REGARDING PROPOSED PRIVATE SALE OF PROMISSORY NOTES

NOVEMBER 14, 1952.

Notice is hereby given that an application-declaration has been filed with this Commission by North Penn Gas Company ("North Penn"), a registered holding company, an operating gas utility company, and a direct subsidiary of Pennsylvania Gas & Electric Corporation ("Penn Corp"), also a registered holding company. The applicant-declarant has designated sections 6 and 7 of the act and Rule U-50 applicable to the proposed transactions which are summarized as follows:

Penn Corp, which has been ordered by this Commission to liquidate and dissolve, has proposed its liquidation and dissolution pursuant to a plan filed with this Commission under section 11 (e) of the act. By the terms of that plan, it is proposed to distribute the common stock of North Penn and Crystal City Gas Company ("Crystal City"), a wholly owned gas utility subsidiary of North Penn, to various security holders of Penn Corp. The filing represents that under the terms of the agreement securing the presently outstanding debentures of North Penn the proposed distribution of Crystal City's common stock could not be made. In order to accomplish the liquidation and dissolution of Penn Corp and to make the pending plan feasible, applicant-declarant states that it is necessary to consummate the refinancing of North Penn's debentures prior to the effective date of the aforesaid plan and in a manner that is financially advantageous to North Penn. In order to carry out the plan, North Penn proposes to issue $2,300,000 face amount of promissory notes maturing twenty years from date of issuance and bearing interest at the rate of 4¼ percent per annum. The application-declaration states that negotiations have been held through Eastman, Dillon & Co., as agent for North Penn, and that as a result thereof North Penn proposes to sell to three life insurance companies, namely the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company, Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company and Home Life Insurance Company, said notes at par in the respective amounts of $1,000,000, $800,000, and $500,000.

It is also represented in the filing that the proceeds from the proposed sale, together with treasury cash, will be used to redeem North Penn's 5 percent Debentures, due 1971, presently outstanding in the aggregate principal amount of $2,619,000.

Fees and expenses, including fees of $16,100 to Eastman, Dillon & Co. as finder and negotiator for North Penn, and $4,500 legal fees, of which $2,500 is for counsel to the purchasers, are estimated by declarant at $24,667.

The filing states that the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission has jurisdiction over the proposed transactions but that no other State or Federal Commission has jurisdiction in the matter.

The filing requests that the Commission's order herein become effective forthwith upon issuance.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than November 26, 1952, at 5:30 p. m., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter stating the nature of his interest, the reason for such request and the issues, if any, of fact or law proposed to be controverted, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C. At any time after said date the application-declaration, as filed or as amended, may be granted and permitted to become effective as provided in Rule U-23 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act or the Commission may exempt such transactions as provided in Rules U-20 and U-100.

AUTHORITY: §§ 729.410 to 729.432 issued under sec. 375, 52 Stat. 66; 7 U. S. C. 1375. Interpret or apply secs. 301, 358, 359, 362, 363, 52 Stat. 38, as amended, 62, as amended, 63, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 1301, 1358, 1359, 1362, 1363.

GENERAL

§ 729.410 Basis and purpose. The regulations contained in §§ 729.410 to 729.432 are issued pursuant to the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended, and govern the establishment of farm allotments and normal yields in connection with farm marketing quotas for the peanut crop produced in the calendar year 1953. The purpose of the regulations in §§ 729.410 to 729.432 is to provide the procedure for allocating the 1953 State peanut acreage allotments among farms, for establishing allotments for farms on which peanuts were not picked or threshed in 1950, 1951, and 1952, but on which peanuts are to be picked or threshed in 1953, and for determining farm normal yields for peanuts. Prior to preparing the regulations in §§ 729.410 to 729.432, public notice (17 F. R. 9563) was given in accordance with section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1003). The data, views, and recommendations which were submitted in accordance with such notice have been duly considered within the limits permitted by the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended.

§ 729.411 Definitions. As used in §§ 729.410 to 729.432 and in all instructions, forms, and documents in connection therewith, the words and phrases defined in this section shall have the meanings herein assigned to them unless the context or subject matter otherwise requires.

(a) "Assistant Administrator" means the Assistant Administrator for Production, or the Acting Assistant Administrator for Production, of the Production and Marketing Administration of the United States Department of Agriculture.

(b) "Committees": (1) "Community committee" means the persons elected within a community, pursuant to regulations governing Production and Marketing Administration county and community committees published in the FEDERAL REGISTER of September 29, 1949 (14 F. R. 5916), to assist the county committee in the administration within the community of agricultural programs that are administered through the Production and Marketing Administration.

(2) "County committee" means the persons elected within a county, pursuant to regulations governing Production and Marketing Administration county and community committees published in the FEDERAL REGISTER of September 29, 1949 (14 F. R. 5916), who are generally responsible for carrying out in the county the agricultural programs administered through the Production and Marketing Administration.

(3) "State committee" means the persons designated as the State committee of the Production and Marketing Administration, charged with the responsibility of administering Production and Marketing Administration programs within the State.

(c) "Cropland" means farm land which in 1952 was tilled or was in regular crop-rotation, excluding (1) bearing orchards and vineyards (except the acreage of cropland therein), (2) plowable, noncrop, open pasture, and (3) any land which constitutes or will constitute, if tillage is continued, a wind erosion hazard to the community.

(d) "Director" means the Director, or Acting Director, of the Fats and Oils Branch of the Production and Marketing Administration of the United States Department of Agriculture.

(e) "Excess acreage" means the acreage by which the farm peanut acreage exceeds the farm allotment but there will be no excess acreage if the farm peanut acreage is one acre or less.

(f) "Farm" means all adjacent or nearby farm land under the same ownership which is operated by one person, including also:

(2) Any field-rented tract (whether operated by the same or another person), which, together with any other land included in the farm, constitutes a unit with respect to the rotation of crops.

A farm shall be regarded as located in the county in which the principal dwelling is situated, or if there is no dwelling thereon, it shall be regarded as located in the county in which the major portion of the farm is located.

(g) "Farm allotment" means the acreage allotment established for a farm pursuant to §§ 729.410 to 729.422.

(h) "Farm peanut acreage" means the acreage on the farm planted to peanuts in 1953, as determined by the county committee, less any such acreage with respect to which it is established by the operator or otherwise to the satisfaction of the county committee that the entire production therefrom has not and will not be picked or threshed either before or after marketing from the farm: Provided, however, That:

(1) The farm peanut acreage shall be considered equal to the farm allotment on the farm for which such allotment equals or exceeds one acre, if the acreage in excess of the farm allotment from which peanuts are picked or threshed is not greater than one-tenth acre or three percent of the farm allotment, whichever is larger; or

(2) The farm peanut acreage shall be considered equal to one acre on a farm for which the farm allotment is equal to or less than one acre, and the acreage from which peanuts are picked or threshed does not exceed 1.1 acres; but the provisions of subparagraph (1) of this paragraph and this subparagraph shall not apply unless the operator:

(i) Submits evidence satisfactory to the county committee that the picking or threshing of peanuts was completed before he received notice of the acreage planted to peanuts, or that peanuts were picked or threshed from an acreage in excess of the larger of the farm allotment or one acre notwithstanding an honest effort on the part of the operator to dispose of the excess by means other than by picking or threshing, and

(ii) A quantity of peanuts equal to the county committee's estimate of the production from the acreage in excess of the larger of the farm allotment or one acre, is disposed of on the farm in such manner that the peanuts cannot thereafter be used or marketed as peanuts: Provided further, That the maximum acreage limit prescribed in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph or in this subparagraph shall not be applicable if the State committee concurs in the findings and recommendations of the county committee that the unusual circumstances from which the excess resulted are such that the maximum acreage limitation should not apply.

(i) "New farm" means a farm on which peanuts will be picked or threshed in 1953, but on which no peanuts were picked or threshed in 1950, 1951, or 1952.

(j) "Old farm" means any farm on which peanuts were picked or threshed in any one of the years 1950, 1951, and 1952.

(k) "Operator" means the person who is in charge of the supervision and conduct of the farming operations on the entire farm.

(l) "Peanuts" means all peanuts produced, excluding any peanuts not picked or threshed either before or after marketing from the farm.

(m) "Person" means an individual, partnership, association, corporation, firm, joint-stock company, estate or trust, or other business enterprise or other legal entity, and whenever applicable, a State, a political subdivision of a State or any agency thereof.

(n) "Secretary" means the Secretary, or the Acting Secretary, of Agriculture of the United States.

(o) "Tillable acreage available" means the acreage of cropland on the farm which the county committee determines is available for the production of peanuts in 1953, taking into consideration land uses and other crops grown on the farm and customary rotation practices: Provided, That the tillable acreage available for the production of peanuts for a farm shall not exceed the cropland on the farm minus the total of the 1953 acreage allotments established for other crops for the farm. If the 1953 acreage allotments for one or more crops are not established for the farm prior to the determination of the tillable acreage available, and it has been announced that acreage allotments for such crops will be in effect in 1953, the farm acreage allotments established for such crops for the last year allotments were in effect shall be used.

(p) "Tillable acreage factor" means the factor determined for the county (or for each community in a county, if the county committee determines that there is a wide variation between communities in the percentage of the tillable acreage available that is customarily devoted to peanuts) by dividing the tillable acreage available for all old farms in the county (or community) into the sum of the 1952 farm peanut allotments for all old farms in the county (or community). The sum of the 1952 farm peanut allotments shall be determined pursuant to instructions issued by the Assistant Administrator.

§ 729.412 Rule of fractions. Farm allotments shall be rounded to the nearest one-tenth acre. Fractions of fifty-one thousandths of an acre or more shall be rounded upward, and fractions of fifty thousandths of an acre or less shall be dropped. For example, 8.051 would be 8.1 and 8.050 would be 8.0.

§ 729.413 Instructions and forms. The Director shall cause to be prepared and issued such forms as are necessary, and shall cause to be prepared such instructions as are necessary, for carrying out the regulations in §§ 729.410 to 729.432. The forms and instructions shall be approved by, and the instructions shall be issued by, the Assistant Administrator.

ACREAGE ALLOTMENTS AND NORMAL YIELDS FOR OLD FARMS

§ 729.414 Apportionment of State peanut acreage allotment to counties. If the State committee recommends that the 1953 State peanut acreage allotment be apportioned to counties and the Secretary approves such recommendation on the basis that such action will facilitate the effective administration of the provisions of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended, such allotment shall be apportioned among the counties in the State on the basis of the past acreage of peanuts harvested for nuts (excluding acreage in excess of farm allotments) in the county during the five years immediately preceding the year in which such apportionment is made, with such adjustments as are deemed necessary for abnormal conditions affecting acreage, for trends in acreage, and for additional allotments for types of peanuts in short supply under the provisions of section 358 (c) of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended. If the State committee determines that the reserves determined pursuant to § 729.419 shall be held as State reserves, the amounts of such reserves shall be deducted from the 1953 State peanut acreage allotment prior to apportioning such allotment to counties.

§ 729.415 Determination of farm data. The county committee shall obtain the following information and data for each old farm.

(a) The name and address of the operator.

(b) The total acreage of all land in the farm.

(c) The acreage of cropland in the farm.

(d) The tillable acreage available for the farm.

(e) The farm peanut acreage for each year 1950, 1951, and 1952.

(f) The 1952 peanut allotment for the farm.

(g) Such other information and data as may be necessary in establishing farm allotments in accordance with §§ 729.410 to 729.432.

The information and data provided for in this section shall be obtained from acreage measurements and other records in the office of the county committee; if not available from these sources, these data and information may be obtained from reports made by operators or other interested persons or may be appraised or determined by the county committee on the basis of production and marketing records or other available information.

§ 729.417 Basis of farm allotment. A farm allotment shall be determined for each old farm on the basis of the following factors as hereinafter applied: The 1952 peanut acreage allotment for the farm; the 1950, 1951, and 1952 farm peanut acreages; abnormal conditions affecting farm peanut acreages; tillable acreage available; labor and equipment available for the production of peanuts on the farm; crop-rotation practices; and soil and other physical factors affecting the production of peanuts: Provided, however, That in establishing farm allotments pursuant to §§ 729.410 to 729.432, the following acreages shall not be taken into consideration: The peanut acreage determined as harvested in excess of the farm allotments established for each of the years 1950, 1951, and 1952; the peanut acreage harvested on the farm in 1951 as a result of allotments made under §§ 729.228 and 729.230 of the marketing quota regulations for the 1951 crop of peanuts; the acreage allotment made to the farm under §§ 729.228 and 729.230 of the marketing quota regulations for the 1951 crop of peanuts; the peanut acreage harvested on the farm in 1952 as a result of allotments made under §§ 729.326 and 729.328 of the marketing quota regulations for 1952 crop of peanuts; and the acreage allotment made to the farm under §§ 729.326 and 729.328 of the marketing quota regulations for the 1952 crop of peanuts: And provided further, That an allotment shall not be determined for any farm on which one acre or less of peanuts was harvested in each of the years 1950, 1951, and 1952, unless the county committee determines from available information that one acre or more of peanuts will be harvested on the farm in 1953.

§ 729.418 Determination of adjusted acreages. The county committee shall determine an adjusted acreage for each old farm in the county (excluding farms on which one acre or less of peanuts was harvested in each year 1950, 1951, and 1952, unless the county committee determines from available information that more than one acre of peanuts will be harvested on any such farm in 1953) as follows:

(a) If peanuts were produced on a farm in 1952 for the first time since 1948, but no 1952 peanut acreage allotment was established for the farm, the county committee shall, on the basis of tillable acreage available; labor and equipment available for the production of peanuts; crop-rotation practices; and soil and other physical factors affecting the production of peanuts, determine an adjusted acreage for the farm which is fair and equitable in comparison with the adjusted acreages for other farms in the community which are similar with respect to such factors.

(b) For each old farm, excluding farms described in paragraph (a) of this section, the county committee shall adjust 1952 farm peanut acreages and establish adjusted acreages as provided herein:

(1) The county committee shall examine the 1952 farm peanut acreage and, if abnormal conditions affected such acreages, the 1952 farm peanut acreage shall be increased to compensate for any reduction in the acreage resulting from such abnormal conditions; however, the acreage as so increased shall not exceed the 1952 peanut acreage allotment established for the farm.

(2) If a farm acreage allotment was not established for 1952 for a farm on which peanuts were produced in any one or more of the years 1949, 1950, or 1951, the county committee shall determine an acreage for the farm which shall be considered the 1952 farm allotment for purposes of establishing an adjusted acreage for the farm. Such acreage shall be established in accordance with the regulations contained in §§ 729.310 to 729.331 of the marketing quota regulations for the 1952 crop of peanuts.

(3) The county committee shall compare the 1952 farm peanut acreage for each farm with the 1952 allotment for each farm. If the 1952 farm peanut acreage for a farm was less than 75 percent of the 1952 allotment established for the farm, a total of the farm peanut acreages for 1950, 1951, and 1952, shall be determined. The total acreage so determined shall be divided by 3, except that if the farm did not receive a farm allotment in 1950, the total shall be divided by 2, or if the farm did not receive a farm allotment in 1950 and 1951, the total shall be divided by 1. If the average of the farm peanut acreages for the farm, determined in accordance with this subparagraph, is less than the 1952 farm allotment, for the purpose of determining the adjusted acreage for the farm, the average of the farm peanut acreages shall be considered as the 1952 farm allotment.

(4) The county committee shall examine the 1952 farm allotment for each farm after adjustments, if any, have been made under subparagraph (3) of this paragraph and may adjust such allotments downward if it determines that such adjustment is necessary to obtain an adjusted acreage for the farm which is comparable with the adjusted acreages established for other old farms in the community which are similar as to the tillable acreage available for the production of peanuts. If a downward adjustment is made, the adjusted acreage for the farm shall be not less than the smaller of (i) the result obtained by multiplying the tillable acreage available for the farm by the tillable acreage factor or (ii) the 1950–52 average peanut acreage for the farm.

(5) An acreage not in excess of 5 percent of the peanut acreage allotted to all old farms in the State in 1952 shall be made available to county committees by the State committee for making upward adjustments for farms on the basis of the farm peanut acreage for 1950, 1951, and 1952; tillable acreage available; labor and equipment available for the production of peanuts; crop-rotation practices; and the soil and other physical factors affecting the production of peanuts. If the State committee determines that upward adjustments shall be made subsequent to the determination of the adjusted acreage for the farm, the adjusted acreage for each old farm in the State shall be the result obtained by subtracting the downward adjustment determined for the farm under subparagraph (4) of this paragraph from the 1952 farm allotment. If the State committee determines that adjustments shall be made prior to determining adjusted acreages, the county committee may use the sum of the downward adjustments made in accordance with subparagraph (4) of this paragraph in addition to the acreage available under this subparagraph for making upward adjustments. If an upward adjustment is made, the adjusted acreage for the farm shall not exceed the larger of (i) the result obtained by multiplying the tillable acreage available for the farm by the tillable acreage factor or (ii) the largest farm peanut acreage for the farm for the years 1950, 1951, or 1952: Provided, however, That such limitation shall not be applicable if the State and county committees find that the adjusted acreage as determined under the limitation is relatively smaller in relation to the farm peanut acreages for 1950, 1951, and 1952, the tillable acreage available, and the labor and equipment available for the production of peanuts on the farm, than the adjusted acreages for other old farms in the community which are similar with respect to such factors.

(6) The adjusted acreage for each old farm in the county shall be the 1952 farm allotment plus or minus any upward or downward adjustment made pursuant to subparagraphs (4) and (5) of this paragraph.

(c) The adjusted acreage determined for the farm in accordance with the foregoing provisions of this section shall not exceed the tillable acreage available for the farm.

§ 729.419 County reserves for corrections and for small farms. The county committee shall estimate the percentage of the county allotment, or the percentage of the acreage that will be allotted to old farms in the county for 1953 if county allotments are not established, that will be needed for the correction of errors in farm allotments resulting from inaccurate or incomplete data used in establishing 1953 farm allotments. The county committee shall estimate the percentage of the total acreage of peanuts harvested in the county during the three-year period 1950–1952 on land included in farms for which allotments will not be established because the peanut acreage on each of such farms in each of the years 1950–52, inclusive, was one acre or less. The reserves for corrections and for small farms recommended by the county committee shall be subject to adjustment by the State committee. The acreages to be held as county reserves shall be determined by multiplying the percentages approved by the State committee by the county allotment. The State committee may determine State acreage reserves for the correction of errors and for small farms, in which case county reserves shall not be determined and the reserves will be held as State reserves.

§ 729.420 County and State allotment factors. (a) If the State allotment is to be apportioned to counties pursuant to § 729.414, a county allotment factor shall be determined for each county in the State by dividing the county share of the State allotment, less (1) the acreage set aside as reserves pursuant to § 729.419 if the reserves are to be held as county reserves and (2) the reserve for adjustments determined pursuant to § 729.418 (b) (5) if adjustments are to be made after adjusted acreages have been determined, by the sum of the adjusted acreages established for all old farms in the county.

(b) If county allotments are not established in a State, a State allotment factor shall be determined pursuant to § 729.416.

§ 729.421 Allotments for old farms. (a) If the State committee determines that the State peanut acreage allotment shall be apportioned directly to farms, as provided in § 729.416, the preliminary allotment for each old farm in the State shall be the result obtained by multiplying the adjusted acreage for the farm by the allotment factor determined pursuant to § 729.416. If county acreage allotments are established pursuant to § 729.414, the preliminary allotment for each farm in the county shall be the result obtained by multiplying the adjusted acreage for the farm by the county allotment factor determined pursuant to § 729.420.

(b) If adjustments are to be made prior to determining preliminary allotments, as provided in § 729.418 (b) (5), the preliminary allotments determined pursuant to the foregoing provisions of this section shall be the 1953 farm allotments.

(c) If the State committee determines, as provided in § 729.418 (b) (5), that upward adjustments shall be made subsequent to the determination of preliminary allotments, such adjustments shall be made on the basis of the factors set out in § 729.418 (b) (5). If an upward adjustment is made, the farm allotment shall not exceed the larger of (1) the result obtained by multiplying the tillable acreage available for the farm by the tillable acreage factor or (2) the largest farm peanut acreage for the farm for the years 1950, 1951, and 1952: Provided, however, That such limitation shall not be applicable if the State and county committees find that the allotment as determined under such limitations is relatively smaller in relation to the farm peanut acreage for 1950, 1951, and 1952, and the tillable acreage available for the production of peanuts on the farm, than the allotment for other old farms in the community which are similar with respect to such factors. The 1953 farm allotment shall be the preliminary allotment for the farm determined in accordance with this section plus any additional acreage allotted to the farm as an upward adjustment from the acreage made available to the county committee by the State committee pursuant to § 729.418 (b) (5).

§ 729.422 Allotments for farms divided or combined—(a) Divisions. If land operated as a single farm in 1952 will be operated in 1953 as two or more farms, the 1953 allotment determined or which otherwise would have been determined for the entire farm shall be apportioned among the divided farms in the same proportion as the acreage of cropland available for the production of peanuts for each such divided farm bears to the cropland available for the production of peanuts for the entire tract; except that the peanut acreage allotment determined or which otherwise would have been determined for the entire farm shall, if the farm to be divided for 1953 consists of two or more tracts which were separate and distinct farms before being combined for 1950, 1951, or 1952, be apportioned among the tracts in the same proportion that each contributed to the farm acreage allotment for the year for which combined: Provided, That with the recommendation of the county committee and the approval of the State committee, the allotment determined for a divided farm pursuant to the preceding provisions of this paragraph may be increased or decreased by not more than the larger of one acre or ten percent of the 1953 peanut acreage allotment determined for the entire tract, with corresponding increases or decreases made in the allotment apportioned to the other divided farm or farms: Provided further, That if a farm is to be divided for 1953 in settling an estate, the allotment may be apportioned among the divided farms in accordance with this paragraph or on such basis as the State committee determines will result in equitable allotments.

(b) Combinations. If two or more tracts which were operated as separate farms in 1952 are combined and operated as a single farm for 1953, the 1953 allotment shall be the sum of the 1953 allotments determined, or which otherwise would have been determined, for each of the tracts composing the combination.

§ 729.423 Normal yields for old farms. The normal yield for an old farm for the 1953 crop of peanuts shall be the average yield per acre of peanuts for the farm, adjusted for abnormal weather conditions, during the five calendar years immediately preceding the year in which the normal yield is determined. If for any such year the data are not available or there is no actual yield, then the normal yield for the farm shall be appraised by the county committee on the basis of the data which are available.

ACREAGE ALLOTMENTS AND NORMAL YIELDS FOR NEW FARMS

§ 729.424 Allotments for new farms. (a) The acreage allotment for a new farm shall be that acreage which the county committee, subject to the approval of the State committee, determines is fair and reasonable for the farm, taking into consideration the peanut-growing experience of the producers on the farm, the tillable acreage available, labor and equipment available for the production of peanuts on the farm, crop-rotation practices, and soil and other physical factors affecting the production of peanuts. The acreage allotment for a new farm shall not exceed the result obtained by multiplying the tillable acreage available for the farm by the tillable acreage factor: Provided, however, That such limitation shall not be applicable if the State and county committees find that the allotment determined for the farm under the limitation is relatively smaller in relation to the tillable acreage available, labor and equipment available for the production of peanuts on the farm, and crop-rotation practices, than the allotments established for other farms in the community which are similar with respect to such factors.

(b) Notwithstanding any other provisions of this section, an allotment shall not be established for any new farm unless each of the following conditions has been met:

(1) An application for a new farm allotment is filed by the farm operator with the county committee prior to the closing date established by the State committee. In no event is the closing date to be earlier than January 15, 1953, or later than February 15, 1953.

(2) A producer on the farm shall have had experience in growing peanuts either as a share cropper, tenant, or as a farm operator or farm owner during two of the past five years: Provided, however, That a producer who was in the armed services after September 16, 1940, shall be deemed to have met the requirements hereof if he has had experience in growing peanuts during one year either within the five years immediately prior to his entry into the armed services or within the five years immediately following his discharge from the armed services and if he files an application for an allotment within five years from date of discharge.

(3) The farm operator is largely dependent on the farm for his livelihood.

(4) The farm is the only farm owned or operated by the farm operator or farm owner for which a peanut allotment is established in 1953, except that, if peanuts were planted during 1950, 1951, or 1952, on the farm but were not harvested because of abnormal conditions affecting acreage, the State committee may waive this condition upon the recommendation of the county committee.

(c) One-half of one percent of the national peanut acreage allotment shall be available for establishing allotments for new farms; except that, if the total of the acreages required to establish fair and reasonable allotments and reserves for old farms in any State is less than the State allotment, the balance of such State allotment shall, upon approval by the Assistant Administrator, be available for establishing allotments for new farms. If the total of the acreage allotments for new farms as determined by the county and State committees pursuant to this section exceeds the acreage reserved for new farm allotments, such acreage shall be made available to the States for establishing new farm allotments as follows:

(1) For any State for which the total of the new farm allotments determined by the county and State committees does not exceed one-half of one percent of the State's share of the 1953 national peanut acreage allotment as determined by the Assistant Administrator, no adjustment will be made in the new farm allotments determined by the county and State committees;

(2) For any State for which the total of the new farm allotments determined by the county and State committees exceeds one-half of one percent of the State's share of the national acreage allotment, as determined by the Assistant Administrator, there shall be made available for new farm allotments in each such State an acreage equal to one-half of one percent of the State's share of the national acreage allotment; and

(3) The acreage remaining after making the apportionments under subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph shall be apportioned pro rata among the States receiving acreage under subparagraph (2) of this paragraph on the basis of the total acreage determined for new farm allotments by the county and State committees that is in excess of the acreage made available under subparagraph (2) of this paragraph. The acreage allotments determined by the county and State committees for new farms which receive acreage under subparagraph (2) of this paragraph and of this subparagraph shall be adjusted downward so that the total of the acreage allotments for such farms shall not exceed the acreage made available to the State for establishing allotments for such farms.

MISCELLANEOUS

§ 729.426 Reduction of acreage allotment for violation of the marketing quota regulations for a prior marketing year. (a) If peanuts were marketed or were permitted to be marketed in any marketing year as having been produced on the acreage allotment for any farm which in fact were produced on a different farm, the acreage allotments established for both such farms for 1953 shall be reduced, as hereinafter provided, except that such reduction for any farm shall not be made if the county committee determines that no person connected with such farm caused, aided, or acquiesced in such marketings.

(b) The operator of the farm shall furnish complete and accurate proof of the disposition of all peanuts produced on the farm at such time and in such manner as will insure payment of the penalty due and in the event of refusal or failure for any reason to furnish such proof, the acreage allotment for the farm shall be reduced, except that if the operator establishes to the satisfaction of the county and State committees that failure to furnish proof of disposition was unintentional on his part and that he could not reasonably have been expected to furnish accurate proof of disposition, reduction of the allotment will not be required if the failure to furnish proof of disposition is corrected and payment of all additional penalty due is made.

(c) Any reduction shall be made with respect to the 1953 farm allotment, provided it can be made 30 days prior to the beginning of the normal planting season for the county in which the farm is located, as determined by the State Committee. If the reduction cannot be made effective with respect to the 1953 crop, such reduction shall be made with respect to the farm allotment next established for the farm. This section shall not apply if the allotment for any prior year was reduced on account of the same violation.

(d) The amount of reduction in the 1953 farm allotment shall be that percentage which the amount of peanuts involved in the violation is of the respective farm marketing quota for the farm for the year in which the violation occurred. Where the amount of such peanuts involved in the violation equals or exceeds the amount of the farm marketing quota, the amount of reduction shall be 100 percent. The amount of peanuts determined by the county committee to have been falsely identified or for which satisfactory proof of disposition has not been furnished shall be considered the amount of peanuts involved in the violation. If the actual production of peanuts on the farm is not known, the county committee shall estimate such actual production, taking into consideration the condition of the peanut crop during the growing and harvesting seasons, if known, and the actual yield per acre of peanuts on other farms in the locality on which the soil and other physical factors affecting the production of peanuts are similar: Provided, That the estimate of such actual production of peanuts on the farm shall not exceed the harvested acreage of peanuts on the farm multiplied by the average actual yield per acre on farms in the locality on which the soil and other physical factors affecting the production of peanuts are similar. The actual yield per acre of peanuts on the farm as so estimated by the county committee, multiplied by the farm acreage allotment, shall be considered the farm marketing quota for the purposes of this section. In determining the amount of peanuts for which satisfactory proof of disposition of peanuts on the farm is not known, the amount of peanuts involved in the violation shall be deemed to be the actual production of peanuts on the farm, estimated as above, less the amount of peanuts for which satisfactory proof of disposition has been shown.

(e) If the farm involved in the violation is combined with another farm prior to the reduction, the reduction shall be applied to that portion of the allotment for which a reduction is required under paragraph (a) or (b) of this section.

(f) If the farm involved in the violation has been divided prior to the reduction, the reduction shall be applied to the allotments for the divided farms as required under paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section.

§ 729.427 Release and reapportionment—(a) Release of acreage allotments. Any part of the acreage allotted for 1953 to an individual farm in any county under the provisions of §§ 729.421 and 729.424 on which peanuts will not be produced and which the owner or operator of the farm voluntarily surrenders in writing to the county committee by the closing date established by the State committee, which shall not be later than July 1, 1953, shall be deducted from the allotment to such farm in accordance with instructions issued by the Assistant Administrator. If any part of the farm acreage allotment is permanently released (i. e., for 1953 and all subsequent years), such release shall be in writing and signed by both the owner and the operator of the farm. If the entire 1953 farm allotment is permanently released, the farm shall not thereafter be eligible for a 1953 farm allotment as either an old farm or as a new farm, and the farm peanut acreages and farm allotments for 1953 and prior years shall not be considered in establishing an allotment for the farm for 1954 or any subsequent year.

(b) Reapportionment of released acreage allotment. The acreage allotments released under paragraph (a) of this section shall be reapportioned by the county committee, in accordance with instructions issued by the Assistant Administrator, to other farms in the same county receiving allotments in amounts determined by the county committee to be fair and reasonable on the basis of tillable acreage available; labor and equipment available for the production of peanuts; crop-rotation practices; and soil and other physical factors affecting the production of peanuts. Such reapportionment shall be made on the basis of applications filed on Form MQ-30—Peanuts (1953) by the farm owners or operators with the county committee not later than a closing date established by the State committee, which shall be not later than July 15, 1953.

(c) Maximum acreage allotment. No allotment shall be increased by reason of the provisions in paragraph (b) of this section to an acreage in excess of the tillable acreage available for the farm.

(d) Credit for acreage allotment released for 1953 only. The release, for 1953 only, of any part of the acreage allotted for 1953 to individual farms, pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section, shall not operate to reduce the allotment for any subsequent year for the farm from which such acreage was released unless the farm becomes ineligible for an old farm allotment in 1954 because peanuts were not picked or threshed on the farm in 1951, 1952, or 1953. Any reapportionment of allotment under this section shall not operate to increase the allotment for any year subsequent to 1953 for the farm to which the acreage is reapportioned.

§ 729.428 Reallocation of allotment released from farms removed from agricultural production. (a) The allotment determined or which would have been determined for any land which is removed from agricultural production in 1950 or any subsequent year for any purpose because of acquisition by any Federal, State, or other agency having a right of eminent domain shall be placed in a State pool and shall be available for use in providing equitable allotments for farms owned or purchased by owners displaced because of acquisition of their farms by such agencies. Upon application to the county committee within five years from the date of such acquisition of the farm, any owner so displaced shall be entitled to have an allotment for any other farm owned or purchased by him equal to an allotment which would have been determined for the farm so acquired: Provided, That such allotment shall not exceed 50 percent of the acreage of cropland on the farm.

(b) The provisions of this section shall not be applicable if (1) there is any marketing quota penalty due with respect to the marketing of peanuts from the farm by the owner of the farm at the time of its acquisition by the Federal, State, or other agency; (2) any peanuts produced on such farm have not been accounted for as required by the Secretary; or (3) the allotment next to be established for the farm acquired by the Federal, State, or other agency would have been reduced because of false or improper identification of peanuts produced on or marketed from such farm.

§ 729.429 Additional acreage allotment for farms producing types of peanuts in short supply. (a) The additional acreage allotment apportioned to any State producing peanuts of a type or types determined to be in short supply for 1953, less a reserve for the correction of errors, shall be apportioned among farms on which peanuts of such type or types were produced in any one of the three years 1950, 1951, and 1952, on the basis of the average picked and threshed acreage of peanuts of such type or types (excluding excess acreage) on each such farm during such period. The reserve for the correction of errors shall be determined by the State committee on the basis of experience in past allotment programs and its knowledge as to the reliability of data used in apportioning the additional acreage to farms, and shall not exceed three-fourths of one percent of the additional acreage apportioned to the State.

(b) The increase in acreage allotment under this section shall not be considered in establishing future State, county, or farm acreage allotments.

§ 729.430 Approval of determinations and notice of farm allotment. The State committee shall review farm allotments and normal yields and the State committee may correct or require the correction of any determination made in connection therewith pursuant to §§ 729.410 to 729.432. Farm allotments shall be approved by the State committee and official notice of the farm allotment on Form MQ–24 shall not be issued for a farm until such allotment has been so approved. A Form MQ–24–Peanuts (1953), Notice of Farm Acreage Allotment and Marketing Quota for Peanuts, shall be prepared and mailed to the operator of each farm for which a farm allotment is established. Forms MQ–24 that are prepared for farms for which the farm allotments are reduced in accordance with § 729.426 shall be mailed to operators by registered mail.

§ 729.431 Application for review. Any producer who is dissatisfied with the farm allotment or marketing quota established for his farm, may, within fifteen days after mailing of the official notice, file application with the county committee which issued such notice to have such allotment or quota reviewed. Farm allotments and marketing quotas shall be reviewed by a review committee in accordance with the marketing quota review regulations issued by the Secretary (7 CFR Part 711), a copy of which is available at the office of the county committee.

§ 729.432 Redelegation of authority. Any authority delegated to the State Committee by the regulations in §§ 729.410 to 729.432 may be redelegated by the State Committee.

Done at Washington, D. C., this 18th day of November 1952. Witness my hand and the seal of the Department of Agriculture.

2. Section 380.2 Amendments or alterations of licenses, paragraph (b) Where to file is amended in the following particulars:

Subdivision (iv) of subparagraph (3) Amendment requests on which field offices may not take action is amended to read as follows:

(iv) Requests for change of CMP allotment symbols, or conversion of such allotment symbols from one quarter to another (see § 398.5 (b) (4) and (d) (5) of this subchapter); or requests for changes of priority ratings previously assigned.

3. Section 398.3 DO–MRO priority ratings for maintenance, repair, and operating supplies for export is amended in the following particulars:

a. Paragraph (f) Manufacturers may not exceed their M–79 quotas is amended to read as follows:

(f) Manufacturers may exceed their M–79 quotas. (1) Attention of manufacturers is specially directed to section 8 of the Order, which explains that manufacturers may deliver for export MRO materials in excess of their Order M–79 quotas for a particular quarter. However, a manufacturer must charge against his M–79 quota all orders to which he himself applies the rating DO–MRO under section 9 of the order as well as all rated orders which he accepts from non-manufacturers under section 7 of Order M–79 as amended. He may not accept for delivery in the quota period orders rated by either procedure which exceed his M–79 quota; but may deliver on an unrated basis quantities of MRO materials in excess of his export quota.

(2) It is emphasized, also, that if a manufacturer receives an order already rated (e. g. rated W–2 or W–4 under Order M–78) at a time when he has filled his M–79 quota for a particular period, he must accept the order, treat it like any other rated order under the priorities regulations of NPA, and fill it in proper sequence.

b. The fourth sentence of paragraph (h) Scope beginning "For the convenience of exporters * * *" is amended to read as follows: "For the convenience of exporters, a listing of all items specifically excluded from the terms of the order is provided in § 398.52."

c. In "Questions and Answers on MRO under Order M–79" following paragraph (h) Scope, question and answer 5 are amended to read as follows:

5. Q. May a manufacturer ship additional MRO supplies above and beyond his M–79 quota in the event his production is not fully taken up by rated orders?

A. Yes; Order M–79 as amended does not set a limit on the quantity of MRO items covered by the order which a manufacturer may deliver for export. However, a manufacturer may apply the priority rating DO–MRO to orders only up to the amount of his M–79 quota less any charges against the quota of rated orders already accepted by him under section 7 of the order. No deliveries in excess of his M–79 quota may be made of orders rated under section 7 or 9, but deliveries above the quota may be made on an unrated basis.

d. The list of "Excluded Items (specifically listed in NPA Order M–79)" following paragraph (h) Scope is deleted from § 398.3 and, as amended, is set up as § 398.52 Supplement No. 2; Items specifically excluded from Order M–79 to read as follows:

(e) Action by the Office of International Trade. Cases which the Office of International Trade believes merit supply assistance will be transmitted to the National Production Authority for final action. On cases approved by the NPA, the supply assistance granted may take the form of a DO–W–2 rating (in the case of OIT countries); a DO–W–4 rating (in the case of MSA countries); a DO–C–6 rating (for direct defense uses); a directive on the mill; or merely informal supply assistance (e. g., locating a supplier with unrated production capacity who will accept the order); or other appropriate action.

5. Section 398.5 CMP: Export allocations and procedures is amended in the following particulars:

a. Paragraph (b) Procedures governing applications to export controlled materials is amended in the following particulars:

Subparagraph (3) Assignment of allotment symbols is amended to read as follows:

(3) Assignment of allotment symbols. On all licenses approved for commodities designated as controlled materials under the NPA Controlled Materials Plan, the Office of International Trade assigns to the applicant the right to apply a specified allotment number and symbol to procure the material covered by the license. The CMP allotment symbols designated by the Defense Production Administration for export are as follows:

CMP allotment symbol:	Claimant agency
W–2	OIT.
W–4	MSA.
C–6 [1]	OIT and MSA.

[1] Direct defense end use.

The allotment symbol will be assigned by the Office of International Trade by endorsing the validated license (or other appropriate document) with the following or similar legend:

By authority of the NPA, the exporter herein named is assigned the right to apply the symbol (e. g. W–2–4Q52) to procure the above described materials.

b. The headnote of subparagraph (4) Requests for conversion of CMP allotments is changed to read (4) Request for change or conversion of CMP allotments and a new undesignated subdivision is added at the end of the subparagraph to read as follows:

A licensee holding a validated license for controlled materials carrying the allotment symbols W–2 or W–4 who believes that a C–6 allotment symbol would be more appropriate because the shipment is destined for direct defense needs in friendly foreign nations, may request a change of his priority rating symbol. In such case, he should submit to the Office of International Trade, Washington 25, D. C., Form IT–763, "Request for and Notice of Action Amendment," in accordance with the provisions of § 380.2 of this subchapter. In the case of project licenses, the request should be made by letter, fully justifying the need for the change to a C–6 allotment symbol. Such request should be addressed to the Office of International Trade, Attention: Projects and Technical Data Division, Washington 25, D. C.

c. The note following subparagraph (4) remains unchanged.

d. Subparagraph (5) Exceptions to time schedules for commodities with the processing code STEE is redesignated subparagraph (6) Exceptions to time schedules for commodities with the processing code STEE and a new subparagraph (5) is added to read as follows:

(5) Foreign defense end use. Applications for export licenses covering proposed shipments of controlled materials or Class A products for direct defense use in friendly foreign countries must clearly specify on the application, Form IT–419, in the space provided for explanation of end use, the relationship of the application to the Mutual Defense Assistance Program or other direct defense activity of a friendly power.

e. Paragraph (d) Applications for exportation of Class A products, is amended in the following particulars:

1. Subparagraph (3) Assignment of allotment symbols is amended by changing the last sentence of the first unnumbered subdivision to read as follows: "The CMP allotment symbols designated by the Defense Production Administration for export are as follows:"

CMP allotment symbol:	Claimant agency
W–2	OIT.
W–4	MSA.
C–6 [1]	OIT and MSA.

[1] Direct defense end use.

2. The headnote of subparagraph (5) Requests for conversion of allotments—CMP Class A products is changed to read (5) Request for change or conversion of allotments and a new undesignated subdivision is added to read as follows:

A licensee holding a validated license and NPA Form CMP–10 (or other appropriate document) carrying the allotment symbol W–2 or W–4 who believes that a C–6 allotment symbol would be more appropriate because the shipment is destined for direct defense needs in friendly foreign nations, may request a change in his allotment symbol. In such case, the exporter or the manufacturer shall return the validated Form CMP–10 or other appropriate document to the Office of International Trade, accompanied by a letter stating why the change is necessary. If the request is granted, a new validated NPA Form CMP–10 will be issued.

This amendment shall become effective as of November 13, 1952.

In the Matter of The New American Library of World Literature, Inc., a Corporation, Kurt Enoch, and Victor Weybright, Individually and as Officers of The New American Library of World Literature, Inc., a Corporation

Pursuant to the provisions of the Federal Trade Commission Act, the Federal Trade Commission, on September 19, 1950, issued and subsequently served its complaint in this proceeding upon the respondents named in the caption hereof, charging them with the use of unfair and deceptive acts and practices in commerce in violation of the provisions of said act. After the issuance of said complaint and the filing of respondents' answer thereto, hearings were held at which testimony and other evidence in support of and in opposition to the allegations of said complaint were introduced before a hearing examiner of the Commission theretofore duly designated by it, and said testimony and other evidence were duly recorded and filed in the office of the Commission. Thereafter, the proceeding regularly came on for final consideration by said hearing examiner on the complaint, the answer thereto, testimony and other evidence, oral arguments of counsel and proposed findings as to the facts and conclusions presented by counsel, and said hearing examiner, on April 16, 1951, filed his initial decision.

Within the time permitted by the Commission's rules of practice, counsel for respondents filed with the Commission an appeal from said initial decision, and thereafter this proceeding regularly came on for final consideration by the Commission upon the record herein, including briefs in support of and in opposition to said appeal and oral arguments of counsel; and the Commission, having issued its order granting said appeal in part and denying it in part and being now fully advised in the premises, finds that this proceeding is in the interest of the public and makes this its findings as to the facts[1] and its conclusion drawn therefrom[1] and order, the same to be in lieu of the initial decision of the hearing examiner.

It is ordered, That the respondent, The New American Library of World Literature, Inc., a corporation, and its officers, and the respondents, Kurt Enoch and Victor Weybright, individually and as officers of said corporation, and said respondents' agents, representatives and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the offering for sale, sale or distribution of books in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, do forthwith cease and desist from:

1. Offering for sale or selling any abridged copy of a book unless one of the following words, namely: "Abridged", "abridgement", "condensed" or "condensation" appears upon the front cover and upon the title page thereof in immediate connection with the title and in clear, conspicuous type.

2. Using or substituting a new title for, or in place of, the original title of a reprinted book unless, upon the front cover and upon the title page thereof, such substitute title is immediately accompanied, in clear, conspicuous type, by a statement which reveals the original title of the book and that it has been published previously thereunder.

It is further ordered, That the charges of the complaint hereinbefore referred to and considered in paragraphs (b) and (c) of the Conclusion be, and the same hereby are, dismissed without prejudice to the right of the Commission to take such further or other action in the future as may be warranted by the then existing circumstances.

It is further ordered, That the respondents, The New American Library of World Literature, Inc., Kurt Enoch and Victor Weybright, shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon them of this order, file with the Commission a report in writing setting forth in detail the manner and form in which they have complied with this order.

By the Commission, Commissioner Carretta not participating for the reason that oral argument on respondents' appeal from the initial decision of the hearing examiner was heard prior to his appointment to the Commission.

Issued: September 19, 1952.

2. Part 146 is amended by adding the following new sections:

§ 146.81 Penicillin-streptomycin vaginal suppositories; penicillin-dihydrostreptomycin vaginal suppositories. (a) Penicillin-streptomycin vaginal suppositories and penicillin-dihydrostreptomycin vaginal suppositories conform to all requirements prescribed by § 146.36 for penicillin vaginal suppositories and are subject to all procedures prescribed by that section for penicillin vaginal suppositories, except that:

(1) Each suppository shall contain not less than 200 milligrams of streptomycin or dihydrostreptomycin. The streptomycin used conforms to the standards prescribed by § 146.101 (a), except subparagraphs (2), (4), and (5) of that paragraph. The dihydrostreptomycin used conforms to the standards prescribed by § 146.103, except the standards for sterility, pyrogens, and histamine.

(2) In lieu of the labeling prescribed for penicillin vaginal suppositories by § 146.36 (c) (1) (ii), each package shall bear on the outside wrapper or container and the immediate container the number of units of penicillin and the number of milligrams of streptomycin or dihydrostreptomycin in each suppository of the batch.

(3) In addition to complying with the requirements of § 146.36 (d), a person who requests certification of a batch of penicillin-streptomycin vaginal suppositories or penicillin-dihydrostreptomycin vaginal suppositories shall submit with his request a statement showing the batch mark and (unless it was previously submitted) the results and the date of the latest tests and assays of the streptomycin or dihydrostreptomycin used in making the batch for potency, toxicity, moisture, pH, streptomycin content if it is dihydrostreptomycin and crystallinity if it is crystalline dihydrostreptomycin, and the number of units of penicillin and the number of milligrams of streptomycin or dihydrostreptomycin in each suppository in the batch. He shall also submit in connection with his request a sample consisting of not less than 30 suppositories and (unless it was previously submitted) a sample consisting of 5 packages containing approximately equal portions of not less than 0.5 gram each of the streptomycin or dihydrostreptomycin used in making the batch, packaged in accordance with the requirements of § 146.101 (b).

(b) The fee for the services rendered with respect to each immediate container in the sample of streptomycin or dihydrostreptomycin submitted in accordance with the requirements prescribed by this section shall be $4.00.

§ 146.112 Streptomycin for inhalation therapy, dihydrostreptomycin for inhalation therapy—(a) Standards of identity, strength, quality, and purity. Streptomycin for inhalation therapy is streptomycin which conforms to the requirements of § 146.101 (a) for streptomycin, except subparagraphs (2) and (4) of that paragraph. Dihydrostreptomycin for inhalation therapy is dihydrostreptomycin which conforms to the requirements of § 146.103 (a) for dihydrostreptomycin, except the standards for sterility and pyrogens.

(b) Packaging. The immediate container of streptomycin for inhalation therapy and dihydrostreptomycin for inhalation therapy shall be a tight container as defined by the U. S. P.; its closure shall be one through which a hypodermic needle cannot be introduced; and the container shall be of such composition as will not cause any change in the strength, quality, or purity of the contents beyond any limit therefor in applicable standards, except that minor changes so caused which are normal and unavoidable in good packaging, storage, and distribution practice shall be disregarded. Each such container shall contain not less than 50 milligrams, and each may be packaged in combination with a container of a suitable and harmless solvent.

(c) Labeling. Each package shall bear on its label or labeling as hereinafter indicated, the following:

(1) On the outside wrapper or container and the immediate container:

(i) The batch mark.

(ii) The number of milligrams in the immediate container.

(iii) The statement "Expiration date ----------," the blank being filled in with the date which is 24 months after the month during which the batch was certified.

(iv) The statement "Warning—Not for injection."

(2) On the outside wrapper or container:

(i) The statement "Caution: Federal law prohibits dispensing without prescription."

(ii) If it is packaged for dispensing, a reference specifically identifying a readily available medical publication containing information (including contraindications and possible sensitization) adequate for the use of such drug by practitioners licensed by law to administer it, or a reference to a brochure or other printed matter containing such information, and a statement that such brochure or other printed matter will be sent on request: Provided, however, That this reference may be omitted if the information is contained in a circular or other labeling within or attached to the package.

(d) Request for certification; samples. (1) In addition to complying with the requirements of § 146.2, a person who requests certification of a batch of streptomycin for inhalation therapy or dihydrostreptomycin for inhalation therapy shall submit with his request a statement showing the batch mark, the number of packages of each size in the batch, the number of milligrams in each package, and (unless it was previously submitted) the date on which the latest assay of the drug comprising such batch was completed. Such request shall be accompanied or followed by the results of tests and assays made by him on the batch for potency and moisture if the streptomycin or dihydrostreptomycin has been previously submitted, or for potency, toxicity, moisture, pH, histamine content, streptomycin content if it is dihydrostreptomycin, and crystallinity if it is crystalline dihydrostreptomycin, if the streptomycin or dihydrostreptomycin has not been previous submitted. If such batch, or any part thereof, is to be packaged in combination with a container of a solvent, such request shall also be accompanied by a statement that such solvent conforms to the requirements prescribed therefor by this section.

(2) Such person shall submit with his request accurately representative samples of the following:

(i) The batch; one immediate container for each 5,000 immediate containers in the batch, but not less than 20 immediate containers or more than 100 immediate containers if the streptomycin or dihydrostreptomycin has been previously submitted, or not less than 50 immediate containers or more than 100 immediate containers if the streptomycin or dihydrostreptomycin has not been previously submitted. Such sample shall be collected by taking single immediate containers before or after labeling at such intervals throughout the entire time of packaging the batch that the quantities packaged during the intervals are approximately equal.

(ii) In case of an initial request for the certification of a batch which is to be packaged in combination with a solvent which is not recognized by the U. S. P., or when any change is made in the composition of such solvent, five packages of the solvent included in the combination.

(e) Fees. The fee for the services rendered with respect to each batch under the regulations in this part shall be:

(1) One dollar for each immediate container in the sample submitted in accordance with paragraph (d) (2) (i) of this section and $4.00 for each immediate container in the sample submitted in accordance with paragraph (d) (2) (ii) of this section.

(2) If the Commissioner considers that investigations other than examination of such immediate containers are necessary to determine whether or not such batch complies with the requirements of § 146.3 for the issuance of a certificate, the cost of such investigations.

The fee prescribed by subparagraph (1) of this paragraph shall accompany the request for certification unless such fee is covered by an advance deposit maintained in accordance with § 146.8 (d).

This order, which provides for tests and methods of assay and certification of penicillin-streptomycin vaginal suppositories, penicillin-dihydrostreptomycin vaginal suppositories, streptomycin for inhalation therapy, and dihydro-streptomycin for inhalation therapy, shall become effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER, since both the public and the affected industry will benefit by the earliest effective date, and I so find.

Notice and public procedure are not necessary prerequisites to the promulgation of this order, and I so find, since it was drawn in collaboration with interested members of the affected industry and since it would be against public interest to delay providing for tests and methods of assay and certification of the above-listed products.

TITLE 32A—NATIONAL DEFENSE, APPENDIX

Chapter III—Office of Price Stabilization, Economic Stabilization Agency

[Ceiling Price Regulation 22, Supplementary Regulation 6, Revision 1, Amdt. 3]

CPR 22—MANUFACTURERS' GENERAL CEILING PRICE REGULATION

SR 6—CEILING PRICES FOR MANUFACTURERS FOR THE SALE OF PAINTS, VARNISHES AND LACQUERS

USE OF SR 2 TO CPR 22; USE OF OPS PUBLIC FORM 150

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this Amendment 3 to Supplementary Regulation 6, Revision 1, to Ceiling Price Regulation 22 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment corrects an error which appears in section 9 of Supplementary Regulation 6, Revision 1, to Ceiling Price Regulation 22 relating to the use of Supplementary Regulation 2 to CPR 22 in calculating ceiling prices. Section 9 inadvertently provided that manufacturers who elect to use section 5 of SR 6 may also use SR 2. Actually, there is an incompatibility between the methods provided in section 5 and in SR 2 that makes such a course impossible. Section 5 provides a method of calculating ceiling prices whereby a total adjustment factor of 115 percent is applied to the base period price in lieu of making the calculations provided by CPR 22. This is an entirely optional method designed for manufacturers who wish not only to avoid CPR 22 computations, but who, in addition, wish to preserve their base period price relationships.

On the other hand, some manufacturers do not use the section 5 option preferring to preserve GCPR price relationships by use of SR 2 to CPR 22. Section 9 now correctly states that they may do so, provided: (1) they use the base period specified (April 1 through June 24, 1950); and (2) they use as the "permissive ceiling ratio" referred to in section 3 (f) of SR 2, the 115 percent figure used in section 5 of SR 6; or (3) that in lieu of this 115 percent figure they compute the "permissive ceiling price ratio" by using the material cost increase figures listed in Appendix A to SR 6, Revision 1. Consequently, this amendment deletes the erroneous reference to section 5 contained in section 9 of SR 6, Revised.

This amendment further takes recognition of a particular burden experienced by this industry in reporting new commodities pursuant to section 32 of CPR 22. As indicated in the Statement of Considerations accompanying the Revision of SR 6, the great number of commodities made, the frequency of their reformulation and the diversity of raw materials used make any detailed form of reporting for paints, varnishes and lacquers considerably cumbersome. Consideration of this fact led to the simplification of reporting (by use of OPS Public Form No. 150) of new commodities where the flat 115 percent adjusted method of the supplementary regulation's section 5 was used to determine the ceiling price of the comparison commodity. However, the OPS Public Form No. 128 was retained for reporting under section 32 of CPR 22. To relieve both industry and OPS of this burden, this amendment permits the use of the OPS Public Form 150 in lieu of the OPS Public Form 128 for filings under section 32 of CPR 22. The form 150 is being revised for this purpose.

In view of the corrective action of this amendment, special circumstances have made consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, impracticable.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Supplementary Regulation 6, Revision 1, to Ceiling Price Regulation 22, is amended in the following respects:

1. Paragraph (a) of section 9 is amended to read as follows:

(a) Supplementary Regulation 2. If you establish ceiling prices under section 4 of this supplementary regulation you may, where applicable and if you so elect, apply the provisions of Supplementary Regulation 2 (SR 2) to Ceiling Price Regulation 22 in establishing ceiling prices for your sales of commodities dealt in by you during the base period. However, your application of SR 2 to CPR 22 shall be subject to the following:

(1) In all cases your base period shall be April 1 through June 24, 1950.

(2) You may establish as your "permissive ceiling price ratio" referred to in section 3 (f) of SR 2, the 115 percent figure used in section 5 of this supplementary regulation. This option shall be in lieu of your computing a total cost adjustment factor as is otherwise required by SR 2.

(3) If instead of using the 115 percent figure as provided in (2) above you elect to compute your total cost adjustment factor, you must use the materials cost increase figures listed in Appendix A of this supplementary regulation wherever possible in determining your materials cost adjustment factor.

2. Paragraph (a) of section 8 is amended to read as follows:

(a) Ceiling prices under section 4. If you establish ceiling prices under section 4 of this supplementary regulation you must comply with the applicable reporting requirements of CPR 22, except that when you employ the provisions of section 32 thereof (ceiling prices for certain new commodities) you use OPS Public Form No. 150 instead of OPS Public Form No. 128 for submitting required reports.

(Sec. 704, 64 Stat. 816, as amended; 50 U. S. C. App. Sup. 2154)

Effective date. This amendment is effective November 20, 1952.

NOTE: The record-keeping and reporting requirements of this regulation have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

JOSEPH H. FREEHILL,
Acting Director of Price Stabilization.

[Ceiling Price Regulation 22, Supplementary Regulation 39]

CPR 22—MANUFACTURERS' GENERAL CEILING PRICE REGULATION

SR 39—METAL CANS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this supplementary regulation to Ceiling Price Regulation 22 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This supplementary regulation to Ceiling Price Regulation (CPR) 22 provides two optional methods to adjust ceiling prices for sales by manufacturers of cans made of tin plate, terne plate or black plate. The first method of adjustment authorizes ceiling prices 4 percent above the highest selling prices in effect during the period January 1, 1952, to June 30, 1952. That method of adjustment takes into account the cost increases caused by the recent steel price increases and, accordingly, it bars further adjustments under General Overriding Regulation (GOR) 35. The second method of adjustment authorizes ceiling prices 2.3 percent above the highest selling prices in effect during the same period of six months and permits additional adjustments as provided by GOR 35.

The use of either method of adjustment is optional. Accordingly, a metal can manufacturer may continue to use his current ceiling prices or establish new ceiling prices under any other applicable OPS regulation. However, SR 2 to GOR 35, which is being issued simultaneously with this supplementary regulation, provides that a metal can manufacturer is barred from adjusting his ceiling prices under GOR 35 except in conjunction with the second method of adjustment described above. The same bar applies to the use of ceiling prices adjusted under GOR 35 before the effective date of this supplementary regulation.

There is no time limit for the adjustments under this supplementary regulation. However, if and when a manufacturer elects to avail himself of this supplementary regulation, he must adjust his ceiling prices by the same method for all sales covered by it (including sales made by all plants and wholly owned subsidiaries), and he may not afterward alter his election.

As some manufacturers may not have delivered certain items during the period specified above or may for other reasons be unable to adjust their ceiling prices by either method, this supplementary regulation provides that in such a situation, at the manufacturer's request, the Director of Price Stabilization may establish his ceiling prices by order in line with the ceiling prices adjusted under this supplementary regulation.

The metal can industry consists of approximately 92 manufacturers with operating plants in practically every state of the United States and the Hawaiian Islands. Their products are indispensable to the economy since they are primarily used for the packaging and shipping of all kinds of perishable food products and hundreds of non-food products.

On an annual basis the industry consumes about 3,698,000 tons of base sheet metal which represents 34 billion cans. In 1951, sales amounted to about 1,200 million dollars.

Historically, standardized metal cans have yielded fairly uniform prices. The industry generally follows a price leadership pattern due to the large size of two producers and the geographical location of their many plants. Generally, sales are made on a term contract basis. These contracts carry a clause allowing manufacturers to adjust the prices of cans up or down, depending on the published prices of plate. The principal element of cost is the sheet metal.

The ceiling prices of the industry are governed in general by CPR 22. Small manufacturers with a yearly volume below $250,000 had the option to stay under the GCPR, and manufacturers located in the territories or possessions are under the GCPR. Of course, all manufacturers have been free to adjust, and some of them did adjust, their ceiling prices under the regulations implementing the Capehart Amendment to the Defense Production Act of 1950. Despite adjusted ceiling prices, until recently, the industry in general continued to sell at GCPR prices. Because the ceiling prices established under other regulations included adjustments calculated with different cut-off dates and different techniques, the existing ceiling prices do not reflect the historical and actual price structure of the industry.

In view of recent steel, labor and freight cost increases the industry requested a price adjustment under the industry earnings standard.

The earnings survey conducted by the OPS during the summer, 1952, has disclosed that the selling prices prevailing during the year ending June 30, 1952, were on the average, close to 3 percent below the level necessary to yield earnings meeting the industry earnings standard. That survey has also showed that although the existing OPS regulations do not prevent the two largest producers and some smaller producers from raising their prices to a level yielding adequate earnings, a substantial number of producers may be unable to do so. Furthermore, it has become apparent that the present disarranged ceiling price structure of the industry interferes with its historical pricing pattern. The Industry Advisory Committee was unanimous in recommending ceiling prices which would reflect the relationship of the selling prices until recently in effect.

The Director of Price Stabilization has determined that ceiling prices 4 percent above the highest selling prices in effect during the period January 1, 1952, to June 30, 1952 (as authorized by the first adjustment method provided by this supplementary regulation), are fair and equitable. He reached this conclusion after carefully weighing the following considerations: First, that an increase of the old selling prices by 3 percent would yield for the industry as a whole earnings meeting the industry earnings standard. Second, that some small firms specializing in the production of certain types of cans are considerably more affected by the recent rise of production costs than others and they would be hard hit if the permissible price increases would be kept to the minimum necessary for the industry as a whole. Third, that the two largest producers and a few of the smaller producers are able under the existing OPS regulations to raise their prices more than 4 percent above their old selling prices.

The second adjustment method provided by this supplementary regulation of increasing the old selling prices by 2.3 percent and making additional increases under GOR 35 has been reached by deducting from the 4 percent increase authorized by the first method that part of it (namely, 1.7 percent) which represents the average effect of the steel price increases on the production costs of metal cans. Thus, in effect, the second method of adjustment differs from the first in permitting metal can manufacturers to use their actual, individual pass-throughs as authorized by GOR 35 instead of an average pass-through of 1.7 percent which is included in the 4 percent adjustment under the first method.

In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization, the provisions of this ceiling price regulation are generally fair and equitable and are necessary to effectuate the purposes of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

So far as practicable, the Director has given due consideration to the national effort to achieve maximum production in furtherance of the objectives of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, and to relevant factors of general applicability. In the judgment of the Director, the provisions of this supplementary regulation comply with all of the requirements with respect to the establishment of ceiling prices set forth in the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

In the formulation of this regulation there has been consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, to the extent practicable, and consideration has been given to their recommendations. In particular, the Director has consulted at several meetings with the Industry Advisory Committee with respect to the trade practices and the coverage of this regulation.

The provisions of this ceiling price regulation and their effect upon business practices, cost practices, and means or aids of distribution in the industry have been considered. It is believed that no changes in such practices or methods have been effected. To the extent, however, that the provisions of this regulation may operate to compel changes in such practices or methods, such provisions are necessary to prevent circumvention or evasion of the regulation and effectuate the policies of the act.

Both methods are optional and you may, if you wish, continue to use your current ceiling prices or establish new ceiling prices under other OPS regulations (other than GOR 35) applicable to you, such as SR 2, SR 17 or SR 18 to CPR 22. However, if and when you elect to establish ceiling prices under section 4 or 5 you must establish ceiling prices by the same method for all sales covered by this regulation and you may not thereafter alter your election. You must simultaneously adjust by the same method the ceiling prices for all sales made by all plants owned by you or your wholly owned subsidiaries.

SEC. 4. Adjustments barring further adjustments under GOR 35. (a) You may adjust your ceiling prices by increasing by 4 percent the highest prices at which you regularly delivered your products to your largest buying class of purchaser during the period January 1, 1952 to June 30, 1952, inclusive.

(b) The ceiling prices adjusted under paragraph (a) of this section may not be further adjusted under GOR 35.

SEC. 5. Adjustments permitting further adjustments under GOR 35. (a) You may adjust your ceiling prices by increasing by 2.3 percent the highest prices at which you regularly delivered your products to your largest buying class of purchaser during the period January 1, 1952 to June 30, 1952, inclusive.

(c) The Director of Price Stabilization may approve or disapprove the proposed ceiling price or pricing method by order, or request further information. You may not sell your products at a price exceeding your ceiling price otherwise established until the Director of Price Stabilization issues an order establishing your ceiling price or pricing method.

(d) The Director of Price Stabilization may, at any time, modify the ceiling prices or pricing methods established by order so as to bring them in line with the level of ceiling prices adjusted under this supplementary regulation.

SEC. 7. Incorporation of CPR 22 provisions. If you are subject to this supplementary regulation you are also subject to all provisions of CPR 22 not inconsistent with this supplementary regulation.

[Ceiling Price Regulation 30, Amdt. 41]

CPR 30—MACHINERY AND RELATED MANUFACTURED GOODS

CLARIFICATION OF SECTION 3 (D)

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this amendment 41 to Ceiling Price Regulation 30 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATION

This amendment revises the language of section 3 (d) of CPR 30 in order to make it clear that those manufacturers who apply for revision of their published list prices pursuant to that section must have undertaken such revision primarily for the purpose of changing differentials in their discount structures.

Amendment 33 to CPR 30 established procedures for the approval of revised published list prices and discount structures provided such revisions were in process before June 24, 1950, and put into effect before January 25, 1951. That action was taken in conjunction with Amendment 8 to CPR 67 solely for the purpose of permitting resellers of the commodities covered by CPR 30, who because of changes in discounts would be barred by the language incorporated in section 3 of CPR 67 from using their manufacturers' published list prices, to use such list prices even though discounts are not identical to those in effect in the CPR 67 base period (April 1–June 24, 1950), Amendment 33, was not intended to provide a device whereby manufacturers may increase their selling prices above established ceilings. On the contrary, it was intended that the changes in discounts and list prices approved under section 3 (d) will not result in a rise in the general level of ceiling prices established under CPR 30 or the supplementary regulations thereto. In view of the foregoing this action has been taken to obviate any misinterpretation.

In view of the clarifying nature of this amendment, special circumstances have rendered consultations with industry representatives including trade association representatives, impracticable.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Ceiling Price Regulation 30 is hereby amended in the following respects:

Section 3 (d) is amended to read as follows:

(d) Notwithstanding any of the foregoing provisions of this section, if you were in the process of revising your published list prices for use by resellers before June 24, 1950, primarily for the purpose of changing differentials in your discount structures, and if you actually issued and made effective these new published list prices and discounts on or before January 25, 1951, you may apply to the Director of Price Stabilization for approval of these list prices and discounts in accordance with the provisions of this paragraph, provided no substantial changes in the general level of your or your resellers ceiling prices are effected thereby. Your application must be filed by registered mail with the Industrial Materials and Manufactured Goods Division, Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., and must contain the following information:

(1) Your business name and address.

(2) A copy of your published list prices before and after revision and a copy of your published list prices showing any increases you have made in these list prices to reflect increases in your selling prices determined in accordance with the Ceiling Price Regulation 30 or any appropriate supplementary regulation thereto.

(3) A copy of your discount schedule if any, before and after revision.

(4) A statement by a responsible officer of your company that this provision was actually in process before June 24, 1950, and that the revised list prices and discount schedules were made effective on or before January 25, 1951.

You may not use the revised published list prices reported pursuant to this paragraph or certify to your resellers that these published list prices have been approved until the Director of Price Stabilization has approved your application in writing.

Effective date. This amendment to Ceiling Price Regulation 30 shall become effective November 25, 1952.

NOTE: The record-keeping and reporting requirements of this regulation have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

Acting Director of Price Stabilization.

CPR 31—IMPORTS

SR 1—CEILING PRICES FOR BALER AND BINDER TWINES MANUFACTURED IN CANADA

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 as amended, Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this Supplementary Regulation 1 to Ceiling Price Regulation 31 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

Baler and binder twines manufactured in Canada from sisal and henequen fibres are identical with such twines manufactured in the United States, and to the extent that they are sold in the United States, have always been sold on a directly competitive basis with and at the same prices as domestic twines.

Jobbers and wholesalers of baler and binder twines have customarily not distinguished between such twines manufactured in Canada and domestic twines, either as to identity for filling orders or as to price, and these twines are normally commingled in warehouses.

Domestic twines are covered by Supplementary Regulation 89 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation. Twines manufactured in Canada are covered by Ceiling Price Regulation 31 with respect to sales by importers and wholesalers. Due to the different techniques of these two regulations, ceiling price differentials may be created between Canadian and domestic twines due to fluctuations in cost, resulting in differences in markups.

In an industry where customarily no distinction is made between Canadian and domestic twines, a difference in markup by operation of ceiling price regulation constitutes an inducement to the seller in the United States to tend to favor one source of supply or the other. Where the commodity involved is an important one in our economy, the resulting distortion of normal channels of distribution may tend to aggravate a condition of short supply. It is desirable, therefore, that sellers of Canadian and domestic twines should be able to follow their customary practices of commingling the twine and selling both twines at the same prices.

This will operate to relieve possible inequities and to prevent an unnecessary burden of bookkeeping and warehouse segregation, according to the place of manufacture, of what is essentially the same commodity.

This supplementary regulation to CPR 31 establishes the ceiling prices for domestic twines as the ceiling prices for similar twines manufactured in Canada. (This action does not affect sales of sisal and henequen fibres, which are presently covered by CPR 31.)

Due to the nature of this action, formal consultation with the industry representatives, including representatives of trade associations, has not been practicable. However, there have been numerous consultations with individual members of the industry and consideration has been given to their recommendations.

In the judgment of the Director of the Office of Price Stabilization, this supplementary regulation is generally fair and equitable and will effectuate the purpose of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

[General Overriding Regulation 4, Amdt. 11 to Revision 1]

GOR 4—EXEMPTIONS AND SUSPENSIONS OF CERTAIN CONSUMER SOFT GOODS

EXEMPTION OF WOMEN'S MILLINERY

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this Amendment 11 to General Overriding Regulation 4, Revision 1, is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment to General Overriding Regulation 4, Revision 1, adds women's millinery to the commodities exempted from price control.

The selling prices of women's millinery generally depend not upon the costs of direct labor and materials, but upon originality of design, merchandising practices, reputation of the seller and other elements of indirect cost which make standard pricing methods difficult of application. For the bulk of this industry, the determination of prices is a highly subjective matter for both the buyer and the seller. While many firms tend to produce certain price lines, the prices for particular items are not necessarily closely related to their direct costs; in many cases the direct cost for an individual item can only be determined by establishment of burdensome and detailed cost accounting system. Furthermore, in a period where materials and labor are plentiful and competition flourishes, this business is an unusually risky one in which the manufacturer is forced to take a high markup on his most accepted numbers in order to recover his losses on numbers which find no wide acceptance. Therefore, establishment of uniform markups over direct cost for these manufacturers tends to limit their merchandising capacity to an extent which makes operations difficult in a competitive market situation. The technique of determining prices for millinery by comparison with other millinery is also inappropriate and impracticable as a means of price control, since comparison in this industry is far too subjective to result in any acceptable degree of accuracy.

Price data on millinery are generally not available because of the lack of standards of comparison from period to period. It is generally recognized, however, that millinery prices are not being subjected to any inflationary pressures.

Were price pressures of sufficient intensity in the millinery industry to require price controls, there would be sufficient justification for requiring that the industry continue to use cost and pricing methods necessary for the effectuation of such controls. In the absence of such pressures nothing is gained by the insistence upon use of methods not normal to the industry.

In view of these considerations, it is the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization that price controls over women's millinery under present circumstances involve administrative burdens, both upon the industry and the Office of Price Stabilization, which are disproportionate to any benefits which can be realized from these controls.

No general increase in the millinery price level is expected to result from this action, nor is it expected that this action will result in any diversion of materials or manpower from industries remaining under control.

In the formulation of this amendment there has been consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, to the extent practicable under the circumstances, and consideration has been given to their recommendations.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Section 2 of General Overriding Regulation 4, Revision 1, is amended by adding the following paragraph:

(k) Women's millinery. (1) The term "women's" refers to sizes or types of millinery commonly designated in the industry as women's millinery. Sizes or types of millinery commonly designated as "girls" or "children's" millinery are not included.

(2) The term "millinery" includes all headwear designed for street or dress wear, but excluding the following: Uniform hats and caps, rainwear, and any headwear designed for use in industrial, institutional, commercial, or agricultural occupations.

[General Overriding Regulation 7, Revision 1, Amdt. 12]

GOR 7—EXEMPTIONS AND SUSPENSIONS OF CERTAIN FOOD AND RESTAURANT COMMODITIES

SUSPENSION OF BOTTLED SOFT DRINKS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order Number 2, this Amendment 12 to Revision 1 of the General Overriding Regulation 7 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment to General Overriding Regulation 7, Revision 1, suspends the provisions of the General Ceiling Price Regulation (GCPR) and Supplementary Regulation (SR) 43 thereto insofar as these regulations are applicable to bottled soft drinks. This suspension action, applicable to all levels of distribution, is in accordance with the agency's general policy of relaxing price controls when such action is consistent with the purposes of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

Ceiling prices for bottled soft drinks were originally established by the issuance of the General Ceiling Price Regulation on January 26, 1951. This action brought to a halt an upward movement of prices which had begun in 1946.

When ceilings were imposed approximately 56 percent of the volume of soft drinks in 6- to 12-ounce bottles (which constitute over 90 percent of the sales of the industry) were selling at 80 cents per case at wholesale and at five cents per bottle at retail. These prices had been established several decades ago and had been maintained despite increases in ingredient and labor costs. All available evidence indicated that the typical bottler could not operate profitably at these prices. For this reason, the Office of Price Stabilization issued Supplementary Regulation 43 on July 23, 1951. That regulation allowed bottlers of 6- to 12-ounce sizes to increase their pre-Korean prices by 16 cents to a maximum of 96 cents per case of 24 bottles. As a result, the allowable ceiling price of the vast majority of bottlers became 96 cents per case. This was the first price above the traditional 80 cent price which would allow the customary 50 percent spread at the retail level for sales of the individual bottles.

Data available from a survey of the same 56 cities as are surveyed monthly by the Bureau of Labor Statistics and covering the seven largest brands indicate clearly that there was no appreciable trend toward this higher level of ceiling prices after SR 43 was issued. Because of competitive factors, fewer than one-fifth of those bottlers who were eligible to increase their ceiling prices under SR 43 have done so. Also, a small number of bottlers with ceiling prices above 96 cents reduced their prices during 1952. Consequently, a large percentage of all 6- to 12-ounce bottles are selling below ceilings and the weighted average selling price for all bottlers of this size is approximately 8 percent below the weighted average ceiling price.

The intense competition of the industry, coupled with the sharp responsiveness of volume to increases in selling prices, apparently has thwarted any general price increases. It is anticipated that this general stability will continue in the coming months although there may be some price rises in a few scattered areas. Those few increases may result from wage pressures applicable to all bottlers in an area or from efforts to readjust prices as among bottle sizes in those instances where they have become distorted. Inasmuch as the soft drink industry is local in nature (due to the franchise system under which many bottlers operate) such increases will not materially affect the overall average spread between selling prices and ceiling prices.

Consideration has also been given to the fact that there is a plentiful supply of ingredients and packaging materials. Also it has been recognized that the industry normally operates at considerably less than capacity even in the peak summer months. The Director of Price Stabilization has concluded, therefore, that ceiling prices on soft drinks are not presently needed to achieve the purposes of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, and they are by this action suspended. This suspension will be terminated if prices of soft drinks in a substantial proportion of areas exceed the ceiling prices presently in effect and the Director, in any event, may terminate or modify this suspension if he determines that such action is necessary in the interest of the stabilization program.

In the formulation of this amendment there has been consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, to the extent practicable, and consideration has been given to their recommendations. In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization, the provisions of this amendment are generally fair and equitable, are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, and comply with all the applicable standards of that act.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

General Overriding Regulation 7, Revision 1, is amended by the addition of the following section to Article III:

SEC. 13. Suspension of controls applicable to soft drinks. (a) On and after November 20, 1952, the application of all ceiling price regulations, except Ceiling Price Regulations 11 and 134, heretofore or hereafter issued by the Office of Price Stabilization, to sellers of soft drinks is suspended. If, however, you are a seller of soft drinks and were required by any regulation heretofore issued to which this section 13 is applicable, to keep, prepare, or preserve any records concerning soft drinks, you shall continue to preserve and make available for examination by the OPS, in the manner and for the period set forth in that regulation, all such records which you were required to have on November 19, 1952. In addition, the Director of Price Stabilization or his authorized representative may, subject to the approval of the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942, request or require you to submit data pertaining to prices charged for soft drinks and to changes made in the prices of soft drinks after November 20, 1952. This suspension will continue unless and until the Director of Price Stabilization terminates or modifies it.

(b) For purposes of this section 13, "soft drinks" means non-alcoholic beverages in bottles, whether flavored or unflavored, carbonated or uncarbonated. The term does not include, however, bottled water which is neither flavored nor carbonated, fresh milk drinks, or drinks consisting of fruit juices or vegetable juices where at least 85 percent by weight of the drink is fruit juice or vegetable juice or a mixture of both.

Effective date. This amendment is effective November 20, 1952.

[General Overriding Regulation 35, Supplementary Regulation 2]

GOR 35—PASS THROUGH FOR STEEL, PIG IRON, COPPER AND ALUMINUM COST INCREASES

SR 2—METAL CANS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this Supplementary Regulation 2 to General Overriding Regulation 35, is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This supplementary regulation to General Overriding Regulation (GOR) 35 bars metal can manufacturers from adjusting their ceiling prices under GOR 35 except in conjunction with ceiling prices adjusted under section 5 of Supplementary Regulation (SR) 39 to Ceiling Price Regulation (CPR) 22 or section 5 to SR 126 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation (GCPR), both of which are being issued simultaneously with this supplementary regulation. It also bars metal can manufacturers from using ceiling prices which they have adjusted under GOR 35 before the effective date of this supplementary regulation. In addition, this supplementary regulation grants to a manufacturer who uses metal cans as a manufacturing material a pass-through equal to 1.7 percent of the supplier's previous selling price or the maximum pass-through under GOR 35 on metal cans (depending on the method by which the supplier adjusted his ceiling prices), even though the supplier may have been selling in the past or may be selling currently below ceiling. Metal can manufacturers are required by this supplementary regulation to notify their customers of the customer's pass-through.

Supplementary Regulation 39 to CPR 22 and SR 126 to the GCPR referred to above afford manufacturers of metal cans two optional methods by which they may adjust their ceiling prices. The first method of adjustment is provided in section 4 of SR 39 to CPR 22 and section 4 of SR 126 to the GCPR. It authorizes ceiling prices 4 percent above the selling prices in effect in the period January 1, 1952, to June 30, 1952 and bars further adjustments under GOR 35. The second method of adjustment is stated in section 5 of SR 39 to CPR 22 and section 5 of SR 126 to the GCPR. It authorizes ceiling prices 2.3 percent above the selling prices in effect in the same period and permits additional adjustments as provided by GOR 35. In effect, the second method of adjustment differs from the first method in permitting metal can manufacturers to use their actual, individual pass-throughs as authorized by GOR 35 instead of an average pass-through of 1.7 percent which is included in the 4 percent adjustment of the first method.

The Director of Price Stabilization has determined the ceiling price adjustments described above to be fair and equitable and to take proper account of the historical price structure of the industry.

The reasons for this determination are explained in the Statement of Considerations of SR 39 to CPR 22.

As metal can manufacturers may thus establish ceiling prices which are fair and equitable from all points of view after taking the recent steel price increases into account, the metal can industry is no longer in need of the temporary relief measure which GOR 35 was intended to provide, except in conjunction with ceiling prices adjusted by the second method described above which explicitly permits additional adjustments under GOR 35. Accordingly, this supplementary regulation prohibits metal can manufacturers from adjusting their ceiling prices under GOR 35 (with the exception just stated) and from using ceiling prices adjusted under GOR 35 before the effective date of this supplementary regulation.

The reasons for the pass-through and notification provisions of this supplementary regulation are as follows: Metal can manufacturers have established ceiling prices under various OPS regulations which permit adjustments for certain cost increases up to different cut-off dates and by different techniques. Actually, until recently, the industry in general continued to sell at GCPR prices. The result is that the existing ceiling prices do not reflect the historical and actual price structure of the industry. For instance, the ceiling prices of the two largest producers for the same standard products differ from each other by 1.2 percent despite the fact that these companies have maintained identical selling prices within the same geographical areas for many years. This distorted ceiling price structure of the metal can industry produces GOR 35 pass-throughs which bear little or no relationship to the cost increases caused by the increased steel prices and which vary from manufacturer to manufacturer because the pass-through is based on the excess of current selling prices above the previous ceilings. This disturbs the pricing policies of the metal can manufacturers and creates inequities among them as well as among their customers. This supplementary regulation enables the producers of metal cans to reduce these inequities in conjunction with adjusting their ceiling prices under the new supplementary regulations to CPR 22 or the GCPR. Thus, from the point of view of the pass-through the historical competitive position of metal can manufacturers and their customers may be re-established.

Nothing is said in this supplementary regulation about the notification which a distributor of metal cans must give his purchaser at the latter's request. In this respect the provision of section 13 (b) of GOR 35, applied to the amount specified in this supplementary regulation, appears to be satisfactory.

In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization, the provisions of this ceiling price regulation are generally fair and equitable and are necessary to effectuate the purposes of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

So far as practicable, the Director has given due consideration to the national effort to achieve maximum production in furtherance of the objectives of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, and to relevant factors of general applicability. In the judgment of the Director, the provisions of this regulation comply with all of the requirements with respect to the establishment of ceiling prices set forth in the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

In the formulation of this regulation there has been consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, to the extent practicable, and consideration has been given to their recommendations.

In particular, the Director has consulted at several meetings with the Industry Advisory Committee with respect to the trade practices and the coverage of this regulation.

The provisions of this ceiling price regulation and their effect upon business practices, cost practices, and means or aids of distribution in the industry have been considered. It is believed that no changes in such practices or methods have been effected. To the extent, however, that the provisions of this regulation may operate to compel changes in such practices or methods, such provisions are necessary to prevent circumvention or evasion of the regulation and effectuate the policies of the act.

SECTION 1. What this supplementary regulation does. This supplementary regulation bars, under certain conditions, metal can manufacturers from adjusting their ceiling prices under General Overriding Regulation 35. In addition, under certain conditions it grants to manufacturers using metal cans as manufacturing material substantially equal "pass-throughs" on substantially similar cans bought from different sources. It also modifies the notification requirement of GOR 35 accordingly.

SEC. 2. Coverage. (a) This supplementary regulation applies to you if:

(1) You are a manufacturer of metal cans; and

(2) Your sales are covered by the General Ceiling Price Regulation or Ceiling Price Regulation 22 or any supplementary regulation to either of them.

(b) Section 5 of this supplementary regulation applies to you if you use metal cans as manufacturing material.

(c) The term "metal can" as used in this supplementary regulation refers to can made in whole or in part of tin plate, terne plate or black plate.

SEC. 3. Metal can manufacturers barred from adjustments. If you are a manufacturer of metal cans you may not adjust your ceiling prices under GOR 35, except in conjunction with ceiling prices adjusted under section 5 of SR 126 to the GCPR or section 5 of SR 39 to CPR 22. You may not use ceiling prices adjusted under GOR 35 before the effective date of this supplementary regulation.

SEC. 4. Notification by metal can manufacturers. If you are a metal can manufacturer, the first time you deliver a metal can after the effective date of this supplementary regulation you must notify your purchaser of the following amount:

(a) If you have adjusted your ceiling prices under section 4 of SR 39 to CPR 22 or section 4 of SR 126 to the GCPR, the amount in the notification shall be equal to 1.7 percent of your previous selling prices to which you added the 4 percent adjustment provided by the sections of the supplementary regulations just referred to.

(b) If you have adjusted your ceiling prices under section 5 of SR 39 to CPR 22 or section 5 of SR 126 to the GCPR the amount in the notification shall be the maximum adjustment which you may make under GOR 35 even though you may have been selling in the past or may currently sell at prices below ceilings.

SEC. 5. Adjustments by users of metal cans as manufacturing material. If you use metal cans as manufacturing material you may reflect in your ceiling price adjustments under GOR 35 the cost increases on metal cans of which your suppliers have notified you pursuant to section 4 of this supplementary regulation.

SEC. 6. Definitions. "Manufacturing material." This term is defined in section 5 (a) of GOR 35.

"Metal can." This term is defined in section 2 (c) of this supplementary regulation.

SEC. 7. Incorporation of GOR 35 provisions. If you are subject to this supplementary regulation you are also subject to all provisions of GOR 35 not inconsistent with this supplementary regulation.

Effective date. This regulation is effective November 25, 1952.

NOTE: The reporting requirements of this regulation have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

[General Overriding Regulation 35, Amdt. 1]

GOR 35—PASS THROUGH FOR STEEL, PIG-IRON, COPPER AND ALUMINUM COST INCREASES

INCREASE FACTORS FOR CERTAIN MANUFACTURING USERS; EXCLUSION OF CERTAIN MANUFACTURERS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this Amendment 1 to General Overriding Regulation 35 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment adds Appendixes C and D to GOR 35 and makes corresponding changes in the body of the regulation.

Appendix C lists commodities whose manufacturers are precluded from using this regulation to pass on steel, aluminum, copper and pig-iron cost increases. This executes the intent of section 18 of the regulation which provides that manufacturers subject to tailored regulations which include the metals increase adjustment may be denied the privilege of applying GOR 35. Appendix D lists commodities made in whole or part from GOR 35 metals and indicates the amount of cost increase purchasers using these commodities as manufacturing materials may use in adjusting their ceiling prices. This appendix also is a substitute for the requirement that manufacturers of the listed commodities notify their purchasers of the amount of the increase for the metals.

When OPS, pursuant to an industry earnings survey, adjusts the level of ceiling prices for an industry, it will, in appropriate situations, include in its provision for increases in labor and materials, the metals listed in GOR 35. In such cases, the "pass-through" for the products containing the listed metals may be specifically identified so that a manufacturing user may, in turn, adjust his own ceiling prices. This will relieve members of the surveyed industry of the burden of individual calculation and report of the "pass-through" figure. Their customers need simply refer to the new Appendix D of GOR 35 to find this figure.

In establishing an adjustment for the crown closure industry, OPS has computed the increase in the cost of metals to be one-quarter of one cent per gross, as herewith listed in Appendix D. Consequently, crown closure manufacturers are precluded from using GOR 35. They are, at the same time, relieved of the responsibility of notifying their purchasers who will find in Appendix D the amount of increase in metals cost which they may use in adjusting their ceiling prices. However, this amendment does permit a purchaser who had been given individual notification by his supplier previous to the date listed in Appendix D to elect either to use the amount of increase provided in the Appendix or the amount of which he was so notified.

Changes in the body of the regulation implement the use of the appendixes. Sections 1 and 13 are amended to eliminate the notification requirements for manufacturers of commodities listed in Appendix D; section 5 is amended to exclude from the regulation manufacturers whose metal cost increase adjustments have been effected in separate tailored ceiling price regulations; section 6 provides how purchasers who are not notified by their suppliers may determine their cost increases.

Due to the nature of this amendment, special circumstances have made general consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, impracticable. However, consultation with representatives of the crown closure industry were held prior to the issuance of the supplementary regulation which includes an adjustment for metals cost increases.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

General Overriding Regulation 35 is amended in the following respects:

1. Section 1 is amended to read as follows:

SECTION 1. What this regulation does. This is an adjustment regulation. It permits manufacturers to adjust their ceiling prices in order to "pass through" increases in cost resulting from ceiling price increases for steel, pig-iron, copper and aluminum. Adjustments may be made by primary processors as well as by manufacturers at subsequent stages of processing.

Primary processors calculate their adjustments on the basis of the increases authorized for steel-mill products by Revision 1 of SR 100 to the GCPR, and by parallel action for steel producers under the voluntary agreement; for aluminum products by SR 113 to the GCPR; for pig-iron by SR 116 to the GCPR; for brass-mill products by Amendment 1 to CPR 63; and for copper-mill products by Amendment 1 to CPR 110. These ceiling prices increases are listed in Appendix A.

Subsequent processors calculate their adjustments on the basis of increases which their suppliers obtain and pass on to them under this regulation. Subsequent processors are to be notified of the increases made by their suppliers, except that manufacturers of commodities listed in Appendix D of this regulation need not notify their purchasers of such increases. Appendix D lists the specific amount which purchasers who use those commodities as manufacturing materials may employ in adjusting their ceiling prices.

The adjustment provisions of this regulation do not apply to distributors since increases in manufacturers' prices may be passed through under the provisions of the applicable distribution regulation. However, manufacturers may request their distributors to notify them of the increases taken on commodities covered by this regulation.

2. Section 5, paragraph (b) is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new subparagraph (4):

(4) Manufacturers of commodities listed in Appendix C. No adjustments may be made under this regulation by manufacturers of any commodity listed in Appendix C of this regulation. Adjustments for such manufacturers have been effected in separate regulations tailored to the needs of the manufacturers listed. A manufacturer who has adjusted his ceiling prices under this regulation prior to the issuance of a tailored regulation covering his commodities listed in Appendix C must recalculate his ceiling prices in accordance with the tailored regulation and may not use this GOR.

3. Section 6 is amended by redesignating paragraph (c) thereof as paragraph (d) and by inserting the following new paragraph (c):

(c) Purchases from manufacturers who are not required to notify. Appendix D lists the authorized cost increases for commodities manufactured from metals listed in Appendix A supplied by manufacturers who have been excused from notifying their purchasers of the amount of the increase in costs for those metals. If you purchase any of the commodities listed in Appendix D for use as a manufacturing material you may use the amount provided in the Appendix to calculate your ceiling price adjustments under this regulation. You may not put these adjustments into effect, however, until the effective date specified in the appendix for the manufacturing material you use, except that if prior to such effective date you have adjusted your ceiling prices pursuant to notice from your supplier of the amount of the increase passed through to you, you may continue to use such adjusted ceiling prices or you may recalculate your adjustments using the amounts indicated in Appendix D.

4. Section 13 is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new paragraph (c):

(c) Exceptions. If you are a manufacturer of commodities listed in Appendix D of this regulation you are excused from the foregoing provisions of this section 13.

5. Section 16 is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new unnumbered paragraph:

Appendix C of this regulation lists those commodities whose manufacturers have been given appropriate metals cost increase adjustments in separate regulations tailored to meet the needs of their industry. Manufacturers of these commodities may not employ the provisions of this regulation.

Effective date. This Amendment 1 to General Overriding Regulation 35 is effective November 25, 1952.

JOSEPH H. FREEHILL,
Acting Director of Price Stabilization.

NOVEMBER 20, 1952.

APPENDIX C

Manufacturers of commodities listed in this appendix are those who may not employ the provisions of GOR 35, "Pass-through" adjustments for such manufacturers have been effected in the separate tailored regulations indicated.

Commodity	Regulation
Crown closures	SR 123 to the GCPR

APPENDIX D

This appendix lists the amount of increase in the cost of commodities manufactured from steel, aluminum, copper and pig-iron which may be used by manufacturing users in calculating their adjusted ceiling prices under this regulation. The permissible adjustment date is the earliest date on which such adjusted ceiling prices may be put into effect, except for the election provided in section 6 (c) of GOR 35 (where the manufacturing user has already adjusted his ceiling price pursuant to prior notice of his individual factor from a supplier of the commodity).

GSSR 5—Compensation of Sales Employees

Adjustments in Commission Earnings and Commission Rates

Statement of Considerations

The Salary Stabilization Board has determined that an extension of the provisions of section 9 (a) of this regulation beyond 1952 will not have any unstabilizing effect. This amendment has, therefore, been adopted to extend the provisions of such section to the calendar year 1953.

Amendatory Provision

Section 9 (a) of General Salary Stabilization Regulation 5, as amended, is hereby amended to read:

Sec. 9. Adjustments of commission earnings. (a) Notwithstanding any other provision of this regulation, an employer may, during each of the calendar years 1952 and 1953, make adjustments in the compensation paid to employees compensated in whole or in part on a commission basis in an amount up to, but not exceeding fifteen (15) percent of the aggregate commission payments made to all such employees during the calendar year 1950. Proportionate adjustments may be made for increases and shall be made for decreases in the number of employees compensated in whole or in part on a commission basis.

Chapter VI—National Production Authority, Department of Commerce

[NPA Order M-16, as Amended November 20, 1952]

M-16—Distribution of Copper Raw Materials

This order as amended is found necessary and appropriate to promote the national defense and is issued pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 as amended. In the formulation of this amended order, there has been consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, and consideration has been given to their recommendations. However, consultation with representatives of all trades and industries has been rendered impracticable because the order affects a large number of different trades and industries.

Explanatory

NPA Order M-16, as amended June 19, 1952, and as further amended by Amendment 1 of August 5, 1952, is still further amended by adding a definition of "receipts"; by revising section 3, "Acceptance of delivery of copper raw materials," so as to limit the receipt of refined copper to the period for which an authorization has been issued; by providing for self-authorization for certain foundries; by setting forth the frequency with which each type of copper raw materials user shall apply for authorization to receive such materials; and by providing for the segregation of nickel-bearing copper-base alloy scrap.

This amended order embodies the substance of Amendment 1 of August 5, 1952. Direction 1 as amended October 1, 1952, is not affected by these amendments and remains in force.

O. 10281, Aug. 28, 1951, 16 F. R. 8789; 3 CFR, 1951 Supp.

Section 1. What this order does. The purpose of this order is to regulate the acceptance, delivery, and distribution of all copper raw materials (whether on toll agreements or otherwise) so as to provide an equitable distribution of such materials. It sets forth the classes of persons who may receive such materials without specific authorization from the National Production Authority and the types of copper raw materials such persons may so receive, and provides for application by all other persons to the National Production Authority for specific written authorization. It also limits toll agreements covering scrap and prohibits undue accumulation of scrap.

Sec. 2. Definitions. As used in this order:

(a) "Person" means any individual, corporation, partnership, association, or any other organized group of persons, and includes any agency of the United States or any other government.

(b) "Copper" means unalloyed copper, including electrolytic copper, fire-refined copper, and all unalloyed copper in any form.

(c) "Copper-base alloy" means any alloy in the composition of which the percentage of copper metal equals or exceeds 40 percent by weight of the metallic content of the alloy. It includes fired and demilitarized cartridge and artillery cases, and all copper-base alloy in any form. It does not include alloyed gold produced in accordance with U. S. Commercial Standard CS 67-38.

(d) "Scrap" means all copper or copper-base alloy materials or objects which are the waste or byproduct of industrial fabrication, or which have been discarded on account of obsolescence, failure, or other reason.

(e) "Copper wire mill product" means uninsulated or insulated wire and cable, whatever the outer protective coverings may be, made from copper or copper-base alloy, and also copper-clad steel wire containing over 20 percent copper by weight, regardless of end use. All copper wire mill products should be measured in terms of pounds of copper content.

(f) "Brass mill products" means copper and copper-base alloys in the following forms: sheet, plate, and strip, in flat lengths or coils; rod, bar, shapes, and wire (except copper wire mill products); anodes, rolled, forged, or sheared from cathodes; and seamless tube and pipe. Straightening, threading, chamfering, and cutting to width and length, and reduction in gage, do not constitute changes in form of brass mill products except as determined by NPA. The following related products which have been produced by a change in form of brass mill products are not included in the definition of brass mill products:

Circles.
Discs (except brass military ammunition discs after June 30, 1952).
Cups (except brass military ammunition cups after June 30, 1952).
Blanks and segments.
Forgings (except anodes).
Welding rod, 3 feet or less in length.
Rotating bands.
Tube and nipples—welded, brazed, or mechanically seamed.
Formed flashings.
Engravers' copper.

Allotments for the purpose of producing such related products shall be in terms of the estimated weight of the brass mill product from which such related product is made.

(g) "Foundry product" means cast copper or copper-base alloy shapes and forms suitable for ultimate use without remelting, rolling, drawing, extruding, or forging. (The process of casting includes the removal of gates, risers, and sprues, and sandblasting, tumbling, or dipping, but does not include any further machining or processing. For centrifugal castings the process includes the removal of the rough cut in the inner or outer diameter, or both, before delivery to a customer. Castings include anodes cast in a foundry or by an ingot maker).

(h) "Powder mill products" means copper or copper-base alloy in the form of granular or flake powder.

(i) "Copper raw materials" as used in this order includes the following materials as defined below:

(1) "Refined copper"—Copper metal which has been refined by any process of electrolysis or fire-refining to a grade and in a form suitable for fabrication, such as cathodes, wire bars, ingot bars, ingots, cakes, billets, or other refined shapes. This does not include copper-base alloy ingot, brass mill castings, intermediate shapes, anodes, powder mill products, copper wire mill products, brass mill products, or foundry copper or copper-base alloy products.

(2) "Domestic refined copper"—Copper metal which has been refined by any process of electrolysis or fire-refining to a grade and in a form suitable for fabrication from ores, concentrates, scrap, or other copper-bearing material which has been mined, processed, generated, or recovered within the United States or its possessions.

(9) "Copper-base alloy ingot"—A copper-base alloy used in remelting, alloying, or deoxidizing operations.

(10) "Copper or copper-base alloy shot and waffle"—Shot or waffle produced from copper or copper-base alloy, and to be used in remelting, alloying, deoxidizing, or chemical operations.

(11) "Intermediate shape"—Any product which has been rolled, drawn, or extruded, from refined copper or brass mill castings, and which will be rerolled, redrawn, insulated, or further processed into finished brass mill or copper wire mill products by other producers of copper or copper-base alloy controlled materials.

(12) "Copper precipitates (or cement copper)"—Copper metal precipitated from mine water by contact with iron scrap, tin cans, or iron in other forms.

(j) "Receive" or "accept delivery" means the acquisition of title to copper raw materials or the charging of such materials to a person's account (in accordance with that person's standard accounting practice), whichever first occurs; or, in the instance of transfer of materials between departments, plants, or mills of one company, the actual physical acquisition of copper raw materials by such department, plant, or mill, or the charging of such materials to its account (according to the company's standard accounting practice), whichever first occurs.

(k) "NPA" means the National Production Authority.

Sec. 3. Acceptance of delivery of copper raw materials. (a) No person, other than a railroad which receives copper raw materials by virtue of conversion from railroad engine bearings and car journal bearings in accordance with the last sentence of section 7(b) of this order, and other than the users specified in paragraph (e) of this section and section 4 of this order, may accept delivery of any copper raw materials even if such materials were processed for him pursuant to a toll, conversion, or other similar agreement in accordance with section 7 of this order unless the receipt of such copper raw materials has been specifically authorized in writing by NPA: Provided, however, That insofar as any person performs the function of a refiner or scrap dealer, as defined in item 1 or 2 of column (A) of the table which appears at the end of this section, he may accept delivery of the copper raw materials specified in the corresponding item of column (B) of the table without such specific written authorization.

(b) Any person listed in items 3 through 9 of the table which appears at the end of this section who desires to apply for written authorization to accept delivery of copper raw materials shall, except as provided in section 4 of this order, complete and file Form NPAF-83 in accordance with the instructions which accompany the form, on or before the dates set forth for such persons in column (C) of the table which appears at the end of this section. Authorization to receive copper raw materials will not be granted to any of the persons listed in items 10 through 12 of the table which appears at the end of this section.

(c) An authorization to accept delivery of copper raw materials may specify quantities of domestic refined copper or other refined copper which may be accepted, and may also specify the period during which the person to whom such an authorization has been issued may receive domestic refined copper or other refined copper. Without the specific written approval of NPA, no person who has been authorized to accept delivery of copper raw materials may accept delivery of a greater quantity of either domestic refined copper or other refined copper than he has been authorized to receive. An authorization to receive domestic refined copper or other refined copper is valid only during the period of time described in that authorization unless NPA has specifically authorized in writing the receipt of copper raw materials pursuant to an authorization which has expired.

(d) Any person who receives written authorization from NPA to accept delivery of copper raw materials shall furnish to his supplier a signed certification in substantially the following form:

The undersigned certifies, subject to statutory penalties, that acceptance of delivery of the copper raw materials herein ordered is permitted pursuant to NPA Authorization No. ____.

This certification constitutes a representation by the purchaser to the seller, and to NPA, that delivery of the copper raw materials may be accepted by the purchaser pursuant to the indicated written authorization.

(e) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (a) of this section, a person may, during each calendar quarter, receive copper raw materials without specific authorization of NPA, provided:

(1) That his total receipts of all copper raw materials from all sources during that calendar quarter are either not in excess of 300 pounds copper content, or if in excess of 300 pounds, then not in excess of his average quarterly receipts of copper raw materials during the period July 1, 1951, to June 30, 1952, or 1,500 pounds copper content, whichever is less.

(2) That he furnishes to the person who supplies the material a signed certification in substantially the following form:

The undersigned hereby certifies, subject to statutory penalties, that receipt of the copper raw materials herein ordered in the calendar quarter requested will not bring his total receipts during that quarter above the quantity of such material which he may receive pursuant to section 3 (e) of NPA Order M-16.

This certification shall constitute a representation by the purchaser to the seller, and to NPA, that delivery of such copper raw materials may be accepted by the purchaser pursuant to this paragraph.

(f) Except with the written permission of NPA, (1) no refiner, scrap dealer, jobber dealer, ingot maker, or other person dealing in copper raw materials, may deliver any copper raw materials to a refiner or scrap dealer, except the type of copper raw materials that such refiners or scrap dealers are permitted to receive without authorization pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section; and (2) no person shall deliver copper raw materials to any person other than a refiner or scrap dealer without first having received from such person the certification set forth in paragraph (d) or paragraph (e) of this section.

(g) The provisions of this section apply not only to acceptance of delivery by a person from other persons, including affiliates and subsidiaries, but also to acceptance of delivery by a branch, division, or section of a single enterprise which produces copper raw materials or copper controlled materials from a branch, division, or section of the same or any other enterprise under common ownership or control which does not produce copper controlled materials.

(9) Miscellaneous producer—Any person, not falling in one of the classes described above, who requires copper raw materials in his regular operations. Examples: chemical plants, iron foundries, aluminum foundries, electrotypers, producers of copper and copper-base alloy powder.	(9) None.	(9) (a) Miscellaneous producers who require less than 10,000 pounds of copper raw materials per month shall file Form NPAF-83 for a 1-month allocation before January 10 and July 10 of each year. (b) Miscellaneous producers who require 10,000 pounds or more but less than 100,000 pounds of copper raw materials per month shall file Form NPAF-83 for a quarterly authorization by the tenth day of the month preceding the calendar quarter for which authorization is sought. (c) Miscellaneous producers who require 100,000 pounds or more of copper raw materials shall file Form NPAF-83 for a monthly authorization by the tenth day of the month for which authorization is sought.
(10) Scrap generator—Any person, other than a scrap dealer, who in his normal operations generates copper or copper-alloy scrap or copper-clad or copper-base alloy-clad steel scrap, but who is not in the business of producing copper raw materials, copper wire mill products, brass mill products, powder mill products, or foundry copper or copper-base alloy products.	(10) None.	(10) See section 3 (b).
(11) Agent—Any person who is engaged by a buyer or seller of copper raw materials, copper wire mill products, brass mill products, or foundry products, and who works for his principal for a salary, commission, or fee.	(11) None.	(11) See section 3 (b).
(12) Broker—Any person not the agent of any of the parties to a sale who arranges and assists in negotiating contracts of sale between buyers and sellers of such material for a commission or fee.	(12) None.	(12) See section 3 (b).
(13) All other persons.	(13) None.

[1] See also section 6 (b) of this order.
[2] Foundries and forge makers may exchange among themselves, and with each other, copper-base alloy ingot on an equivalent copper content basis without charge such receipts against their authorization.

SEC. 4. Self-authorization for certain foundries. (a) Commencing with the fourth calendar quarter of 1952, any person who requires less than 10,000 pounds of copper raw materials per month for the production of foundry products to fill ~~authorized controlled material orders~~ which he has accepted from his customers, is authorized to accept delivery of copper raw materials pursuant to this section without the necessity of filing Form NPAF-83 as required by section 3 of this order. Any such person may place orders for delivery in any calendar month of a quantity of copper raw materials not in excess of 10,000 pounds or the minimum quantity which he requires to fill all of the authorized controlled material orders which he has accepted from his customers for the production of foundry products during that month, whichever is less, and may accept delivery of such copper raw materials in the calendar month for which such delivery orders were placed: Provided, however, That he may not accept delivery of any quantity of domestic refined copper pursuant to such orders in any month in excess of 1,500 pounds or the quantity of domestic refined copper which he received in the month of September 1952, whichever quantity is greater.

(b) Any person who, pursuant to section 3 of this order and prior to the effective date of this amended order, applied for and received written authorization from NPA to receive copper raw materials for the manufacture of foundry products for both the fourth calendar quarter of 1952 and the first calendar quarter of 1953, may, for any calendar month prior to April 1, 1953, elect to receive delivery of copper raw materials pursuant to that written authorization rather than pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section, but not pursuant to both authorizations.

(c) Orders placed pursuant to the authorization granted by this section shall be certified as provided in paragraph (d) of section 3 of this order, except that where such certification provides for setting forth an authorization number the words "section 4 of NPA Order M-16" shall be inserted.

SEC. 5. Restrictions on disposal of scrap. (a) No person other than establishments of the United States Army, Navy, or Air Force, such as arsenals, navy yards, gun factories, and depots, or a person who is in the business of producing copper raw materials (such as refineries, ingot makers, copper wire mills, brass mills, or foundries), or a person who qualifies as a "Miscellaneous producer" as listed in Column A under section 3 of this order, shall melt or process any scrap or copper-base alloy-clad steel scrap generated in his plant through fabrication, or accumulated in his operations through obsolescence, except as specifically authorized in writing by NPA nor shall he dispose of such materials in any way other than by delivery to a person authorized by this order to accept delivery.

(b) No person shall dispose of any material, the delivery of which he accepted as scrap, other than as scrap, except with the specific authorization of NPA: Provided, however, That scrap dealers and brokers may sell in each month as usable material a quantity of material that was acquired as scrap and does not in the aggregate exceed 1,000 pounds (copper content).

(c) Nothing contained in this order shall prohibit any public utility from using "as is," in its own operation, copper wire or cable which has become scrap by obsolescence.

(d) Each person who in the process of manufacturing any product or material generates 5,000 pounds or more copper-base alloy scrap per month shall segregate from all such scrap any copper-base alloy scrap which contains 4 percent or more of nickel by weight. Copper-base alloy scrap which has been thus segregated shall be transferred or sold only in segregated form.

(e) Any scrap dealer who receives copper-base alloy scrap which contains 4 percent or more of nickel by weight and which has been segregated shall maintain such scrap as segregated scrap, and shall sell or transfer that scrap only in segregated form.

SEC. 6. Restrictions on inventory accumulations. (a) Unless specifically authorized by NPA, no person who generates scrap in his operations through fabrication, manufacture, or obsolescence shall keep on hand more than 30 days' accumulation of scrap or copper-clad or copper-base alloy-clad steel scrap unless such accumulation aggregates less than 2,000 pounds.

(b) No scrap dealer may accept delivery of any kind, grade, or type of scrap if his total inventory of scrap (including inventory not physically located in the dealer's yard or plant) is, or by such receipt would become, in excess of the weight of his total deliveries of scrap during the preceding 60-day period.

(c) The provisions of paragraph (a) of this section shall not apply to the establishments of the United States Army, Navy, or Air Force, such as arsenals, navy yards, gun factories, and depots: Provided, however, That such establishments shall report to NPA by August 10, 1951, with respect to July, and by the tenth day of each month thereafter with respect to the preceding month, the quantity and type of scrap at each such location.

SEC. 7. Restrictions on toll agreements. (a) Commencing on December 18, 1950, and unless the person delivering or owning the scrap, or the person for whose benefit the conversion, remelting, or other processing of the scrap will be effected, has received the approval of NPA, no person shall deliver scrap, and no person shall accept such scrap, for converting, remelting, or other processing into electrolytic or fire-refined copper under any existing or future toll agreement, conversion agreement, or other arrangement by which title to the scrap remains vested in the person delivering or owning the scrap, or pursuant to which unalloyed copper in any quantities, equivalent or otherwise, is to be returned to the person delivering or owning the scrap. The provisions of this paragraph will apply with equal effect to any agency relationship which would result in a toll arrangement as described in this paragraph.

(b) Commencing on July 15, 1951, and unless the person delivering or owning the refined copper or scrap, or the person for whose benefit the conversion, remelting, or other processing of the refined copper or scrap will be effected, has received the written approval of NPA, no person shall deliver refined copper or scrap, and no person shall accept same, for converting, remelting, or other processing into copper wire mill products, brass mill products, foundry products, copper-base alloy ingot, or other miscellaneous products under any existing or future toll agreement, conversion agreement, or other arrangement by which title to the refined copper or scrap remains vested in the person delivering or owning the refined copper or scrap, or pursuant to which copper wire mill products, brass mill products, foundry products, copper-base alloy ingot, or other miscellaneous products in any quantities, equivalent or otherwise, is to be returned to the person delivering or owning the refined copper or scrap. The provisions of this paragraph will apply with equal effect to any agency relationship which would result in a toll arrangement hereinabove described. Nothing contained in this paragraph shall prohibit railroads from converting or having converted for them, railroad engine castings and car journal bearings for their own use.

(c) Persons requesting such approval shall file with NPA a letter setting forth the names and addresses of the parties to any existing or proposed toll or conversion agreement; the kind, grade, and form of the refined copper or scrap involved; the tonnage of the refined copper or scrap and the estimated tonnage of the electrolytic or fire-refined copper, copper wire mill products, brass mill products, foundry products, copper-base alloy ingot, or other miscellaneous products resulting; the estimated rate and dates of delivery of such copper or copper products; the length of time such agreement or other similar agreement between the same parties has been in force; the duration of the agreement; the purpose for which such copper or copper products are to be used; and such other information as the applicant may wish to submit.

SEC. 8. Authorizations and directives. NPA may issue authorizations or directives from time to time with respect to the delivery, disposal, and conversion of copper raw materials. Such authorizations and directive shall be complied with by the recipients thereof.

SEC. 9. Applications for adjustment or exception. Any person affected by any provision of this order may file a request for adjustment or exception upon the ground that any provision works an undue or exceptional hardship upon him not suffered generally by others in the same trade or industry, or that its enforcement against him would not be in the interest of the national defense or in the public interest. In examining requests for adjustment claiming that the public interest is prejudiced by the application of any provision of this order, consideration will be given to the requirements of the public health and safety, civilian defense, and dislocation of labor and resulting unemployment that would impair the defense program. Each request shall be in writing, by letter in triplicate, and shall set forth all pertinent facts, the nature of the relief sought, and the justification therefor.

SEC. 10. Records and reports. (a) Each person participating in any transaction covered by this order shall make and preserve, for at least 3 years thereafter, accurate and complete records of receipts, deliveries, inventories, production, and use, in sufficient detail to permit the determination, after audit, whether each transaction complies with the provisions of this order. This order does not specify any particular accounting method and does not require alteration of the system of records customarily used, provided such records supply an adequate basis for audit. Records may be retained in the form of microfilm or other photographic copies instead of the originals by those persons who, at the time such microfilm or other photographic records are made, maintain such copies of records in the regular and usual course of business.

(b) All records required by this order shall be made available at the usual place of business where maintained for inspection and audit by duly authorized representatives of NPA.

(c) Any person who uses or processes copper or copper-base alloy in his operations and who falls within the general classification set forth in Column A of the table at the end of this paragraph shall complete and return the Bureau of Mines form identified in the corresponding section of Column B of the table to the address specified on the form, in the number of copies specified on the form, on or before the twentieth day of July 1951 with respect to such use or processing during June 1951, and on or before the fifteenth day of each succeeding month with respect to such use or processing during the preceding month except that the form indicated under item 5 in the table at the end of this paragraph shall be filed on or before February 28, 1952, with respect to operations during the year 1951.

(3) Primary smelters	6-1045-M.
(4) Primary refiners	6-1046-M.
(5) Brass mills,[1] copper wire mills,[1] miscellaneous users, and foundries	6-1115-AS.

[1] Except those required to file Form 6-1115-MS.

(d) Commencing December 17, 1951, any person other than a refiner, custom smelter, scrap dealer, or scrap generator, who deals in refined copper or who owns, melts, or otherwise uses in his operations, electrolytic or fire-refined copper, unalloyed copper in any form (including scrap), copper-base raw materials in any form (including ingot and scrap), or intermediate brass or copper wire mill shapes, shall complete and return Form NPAF-83 to the National Production Authority, Washington 25, D. C., Ref: M-16, in the number of copies specified on that form. Such reports shall be filed monthly in accordance with the reporting procedure specified on the form, except in those cases where the form indicates a quarterly report should be filed. The provisions of this paragraph do not apply to any person who owns less than 500 pounds of the forms of copper enumerated in this paragraph, or who melts or otherwise uses less than 500 pounds of such forms of copper per month.

(e) Commencing December 17, 1951, any person who produces copper or copper-base alloy controlled materials (brass mill products, copper wire mill products, foundry products, or powder mill products as defined in section 2 of this order), shall complete and return Form NPAF-84 to the National Production Authority, Washington 25, D. C., Ref: M-16, in the number of copies specified on that form. Such report shall be filed monthly in accordance with the reporting procedure specified on the form, except in those cases where the form indicates that a quarterly report should be filed.

(f) Any scrap dealer or broker whose aggregate end-of-month inventory or aggregate monthly purchases or aggregate monthly sales of scrap averaged 60,000 pounds or more (metal weight) during the first 6 months of 1952, shall complete and return Form NPAF-125 in triplicate not later than August 10, 1952, with regard to his operations during July 1952, and not later than the tenth day of each month thereafter with regard to his operations during each preceding month. SEC. 12. Violations. Any person who willfully violates any provision of this order, or any other order or regulation of NPA, or who willfully furnishes false information or conceals any material fact in the course of operation under this order, is guilty of a crime and upon conviction may be punished by fine or imprisonment or both. In addition, administrative action may be taken against any such person to suspend his privilege of making or receiving further deliveries of materials, or using facilities under priority or allocation control and to deprive him of further priorities assistance.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

[File Nos. 54-66, 59-61, 59-35]

FEDERAL WATER AND GAS CORP. ET AL.

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER APPROVING PLAN OF LIQUIDATION

NOVEMBER 17, 1952.

On September 18, 1951, the Commission, pursuant to section 11 (e) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act"), issued its findings and opinion and order approving a plan of liquidation of Federal Water and Gas Corporation ("Federal"), a registered holding company. Said order reserved jurisdiction to entertain such further proceedings and to make such supplemental findings and orders and to take such further action as the Commission might deem appropriate in connection with the enforcement of section 11 (b) of the act and in connection with the plan, the transactions incident thereto, and the consummation thereof.

Upon application of the Commission the plan was approved by the United States District Court for the District of Delaware by order entered on October 16, 1951, and ordered enforced. The enforcement order of the United States District Court also reserved to the Court jurisdiction to entertain such further proceedings, to make such further findings, to enter such supplemental orders, and to take such further action as it might deem appropriate in connection with the claims asserted against Federal, or in connection with the plan, the transactions incident thereto, and the consummation thereof.

At the time of filing said plan and at the time said orders approving the plan were entered, the principal liability of Federal was with respect to a claim by the United States for unpaid income taxes for the year 1947. In determining the amount of the cash reserve which should be set aside to meet all claims, Federal estimated that there might be due for income taxes for the year 1947, $361,190.75, against which there had been paid at the filing of the return the sum of $93,153.77, leaving $268,036.98 as the maximum claim which, it was estimated, could be asserted against Federal for unpaid income taxes for the year 1947, with interest. At that time, however, Federal took the position that its income taxes due the United States for the year 1947, including interest to December 15, 1951, amounted to $122,785.31, which amount has been paid.

Subsequent to Court enforcement of said plan the Commissioner of Internal Revenue has taken the position that the income taxes due the United States by Federal for the year 1947, including interest to September 15, 1952, amounts to $1,319,703.60 in addition to the amount already paid.

Federal has submitted to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue a proposal to settle its income tax liability for the year 1947 by paying an additional amount of $145,251.67 plus interest, which, computed to September 15, 1952, will amount to $66,844.65.

Federal has now filed an application with the Commission requesting that the Commission determine pursuant to section 11 (e) of the act that the proposed settlement of Federal's income tax liability for the year 1947 is fair and equitable to the parties affected by the settlement and that the Commission apply to the United States District Court for the District of Delaware pursuant to section 11 (e) of the act for an order approving and enforcing said settlement.

Federal's plan provided for the payment of all its liabilities which included, upon its determination, the income tax liability now proposed to be settled. Since upon satisfaction of its liabilities all its remaining assets were to be distributed to the holders of Federal's common stock, its only outstanding security, we found the plan fair, approved it and authorized the payment by Federal of its debts. The proposed settlement of this tax liability in no way affects that finding of fairness, and insofar as our jurisdiction may extend to the instant proposal by Federal to settle and pay its income taxes no further authorization by us is required.[1] If Federal deems it desirable to obtain authorization from the enforcement Court, a request therefor should be addressed to that Court. To the extent that the instant matter is within our reservation of jurisdiction, such jurisdiction is hereby released with respect to the proposed settlement and payment of income taxes.

It is so ordered.

By the Commission.

Subchapter B—Sugar Requirements and Quotas

[Sugar Reg. 814.7, Amdt. 4]

PART 814—ALLOTMENT OF SUGAR QUOTAS

PUERTO RICO, 1952

Basis and purpose. This amendment is issued under section 205 (a) of the Sugar Act of 1948 (hereinafter called the "act") for the purpose of revising § 814.7 (17 F. R. 2477, 6759, 7008, 7366) which allots the 1952 sugar quota for Puerto Rico for consumption in the continental United States (including raw sugar transferred for further processing and shipment within the direct-consumption portion of such quota) and the 1952 sugar quota for local consumption in Puerto Rico among persons (1) whose Puerto Rican raw sugar is brought into the continental United States or who transfer such sugar for further processing and shipment to the continental United States as direct-consumption sugar, and (2) who market sugar for local consumption in Puerto Rico.

The sugar quota for Puerto Rico for consumption in the continental United States is referred to herein as "mainland quota" and allotments thereof are referred to as "mainland allotments". The sugar quota for consumption in Puerto Rico and allotments thereof are referred to respectively as "local quota" and "local allotments".

Amendment 2 (17 F. R. 6758) to Sugar Regulation 813 increased the mainland quota for Puerto Rico by 45,155 short tons, raw value, and Amendment 5 (17 F. R. 10498) further increased the mainland quota by 15,444 short tons, raw value, to a total of 970,599 short tons, raw value. As established in Sugar Regulation 814.7 issued March 19, 1952 (17 F. R. 2477), representatives of all allottees stipulated for the record of the hearing with respect to allotment of the 1952 quotas for Puerto Rico, or subsequently in writing, that any increase in the 1952 sugar quotas after the initial allotment order shall be allotted, without further hearing, on the same basis as the initial allotments were made.

Since immediate action must be taken by a number of allottees to market the increases in allotments provided by Amendment 5 to Sugar Regulation 813, it is imperative that this amendment become effective at the earliest possible date in order to permit continued orderly marketing of sugar. Accordingly, it is hereby found that compliance with the 30-day effective date requirement of the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 237), is impracticable and contrary to the public interest and, consequently, this order shall be effective when published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Pursuant to the authority vested in the Secretary of Agriculture by section 205 (a) of the act, paragraph (a) of § 814.7, as amended, is hereby further amended to read as follows:

§ 814.7 Allotments of 1952 sugar quotas for Puerto Rico—(a) Allotments. The 1952 sugar quota for Puerto Rico for consumption in the continental United States (including raw sugar to be further processed and marketed within the direct-consumption portion of such quota), amounting to 970,599 short tons of sugar, raw value, and the 1952 sugar quota for local consumption in Puerto Rico, amounting to 110,000 short tons of sugar, raw value, are hereby allotted to the following processors in amounts which appear in columns (1) and (2) opposite their respective names:

[Lemon Reg. 462]

PART 953—LEMONS GROWN IN CALIFORNIA AND ARIZONA

LIMITATION OF SHIPMENTS

§ 953.569 Lemon Regulation 462—(a) Findings. (1) Pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 53, as amended (7 CFR Part 953; 14 F. R. 3612), regulating the handling of lemons grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and upon the basis of the recommendation and information submitted by the Lemon Administrative Committee, established under the said amended marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of the quantity of such lemons which may be handled, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this section is based became available and the time when this section must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient, and a reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for preparation for such effective time; and good cause exists for making the provisions of this section effective as hereinafter set forth. Shipments of lemons, grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona, are currently subject to regulation pursuant to said amended marketing agreement and order; the recommendation and supporting information for regulation during the period specified in this section was promptly submitted to the Department after an open meeting of the Lemon Administrative Committee on November 19, 1952; such meeting was held, after giving due notice thereof to consider recommendations for regulation, and interested persons were afforded an opportunity to submit their views at this meeting; the provisions of this section, including its effective time, are identical with the aforesaid recommendation of the committee, and information concerning such provisions and effective time has been disseminated among handlers of such lemons; it is necessary, in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, to make this section effective during the period hereinafter specified; and compliance with this section will not require any special preparation on the part of persons subject thereto which cannot be completed by the effective time of this section.

(b) Order. (1) The quantity of lemons grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona which may be handled during the period beginning at 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., November 23, 1952, and ending at 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., November 30, 1952, is hereby fixed as follows:

(i) District 1: 17 carloads;
(ii) District 2: 210 carloads;
(iii) District 3: 13 carloads.

(2) The prorate base of each handler who has made application therefor, as provided in the said amended marketing agreement and order, is hereby fixed in accordance with the prorate base schedule which is attached hereto and made a part hereof by this reference.

(3) As used in this section, "handled," "handler," "carloads," "prorate base," "District 1," "District 2" and "District 3," shall have the same meaning as when used in the said amended marketing agreement and order.

(48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 601)

Done at Washington, D. C., this 20th day of November 1952.

[SEAL] S. R. SMITH,
Director, Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Production and Marketing Administration.

TITLE 26—INTERNAL REVENUE

Chapter I—Bureau of Internal Revenue, Department of the Treasury

Subchapter A—Income and Excess Profits Taxes

[Regs. 111, T. D. 5946]

PART 29—INCOME TAX; TAXABLE YEARS BEGINNING AFTER DECEMBER 31, 1941

EXCESS PROFITS TAX; DEDUCTION OF EXPENDITURES FOR ADVERTISING AND GOOD WILL

On September 5, 1952, notice of proposed rule making, regarding certain provisions of the Excess Profits Tax Act of 1950, approved January 3, 1951, was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (17 F. R. 8048). No objection to such rules having been received, the amendments set forth below necessary to conform Regulations 111 to such provisions are hereby adopted.

PARAGRAPH 1. There is inserted immediately preceding section 29.23 (a)-1 the following:

SEC. 303. EXPENDITURES FOR ADVERTISING AND GOOD WILL (EXCESS PROFITS TAX ACT OF 1950, APPROVED JANUARY 3, 1951).

Section 23 (a) (1) (C) of the Internal Revenue Code (relating to expenditures for advertising and good will) is hereby amended to read as follows:

(C) Expenditures for advertising and good will. If a corporation has, for the purpose of computing its excess profits tax credit under Chapter 2E, or Subchapter D of this chapter, claimed the benefits of the election provided in section 733 or section 451, as the case may be, no deduction shall be allowable under subparagraph (A) to such corporation for expenditures for advertising or the promotion of good will which, under the rules and regulations prescribed under section 733 or section 451, as the case may be, may be regarded as capital investments.

PAR. 2. Section 29.23 (a)-14, relating to the deduction of expenditures for advertising or promotion of good will, is amended to read as follows:

§ 29.23 (a)-14 Expenditures for advertising or promotion of good will. A corporation which has, for the purpose of computing its excess profits credit, elected under section 733 (applicable to the excess profits tax imposed by subchapter E of chapter 2) or under section 451 (applicable to the excess profits tax imposed by subchapter D of chapter 1) to charge to capital account for taxable years in its base period expenditures for advertising or the promotion of good will which may be regarded as capital investments may not deduct similar expenditures for the taxable year. Such a taxpayer has the burden of proving that expenditures for advertising or the promotion of good will which it seeks to deduct for such later taxable years may not be regarded as capital investments under the provisions of the regulations prescribed under section 733 or 451, as the case may be. For rules for determining what expenditures for advertising or the promotion of good will may be regarded as capital investments, and for information required to be submitted with respect to such expenditures, see § 30.733-2 of Regulations 109 (26 CFR, 1941 Supp., 30.733-2) and § 35.733-2 of Regulations 112 (26 CFR, 1943 Cum. Supp. 35.733-2) (which sections are applicable to the excess profits tax imposed by subchapter E of chapter 2) and § 40.451-2 of this subchapter (Regulations 130 (applicable to the excess profits tax imposed under subchapter D of chapter 1)).

INCOME TAX; TAXABLE YEARS BEGINNING AFTER DECEMBER 31, 1941

CERTAIN DISTRIBUTIONS OF STOCK ON REORGANIZATION

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act, approved June 11, 1946, that the regulations set forth below in tentative form are proposed to be prescribed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury. Prior to the final adoption of such regulations, consideration will be given to any data, views, or arguments pertaining thereto which are submitted in writing in duplicate to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington 25, D. C., within the period of 30 days from the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The proposed regulations are to be issued under the authority contained in sections 62 and 3791 of the Internal Revenue Code (53 Stat. 32, 467; 26 U. S. C. 62, 3791).

[SEAL] JUSTIN F. WINKLE,
Acting Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

In order to conform Regulations 111 (26 CFR Part 29) to section 317 (relating to certain distributions of stock on reorganization) of the Revenue Act of 1951, approved October 20, 1951, such regulations are hereby amended as follows:

PARAGRAPH 1. Section 29.112 (a)-1, as amended by Treasury Decision 5402, approved September 5, 1944, is further amended by adding at the end of paragraph (f) thereof the following sentence: "See section 112 (b) (11), with respect to nonrecognition of gain upon the distribution of stock (other than preferred) in a corporation a party to a reorganization under certain circumstances without the surrender of stock."

PAR. 2. There is inserted immediately following § 29.112 (b) (10)-2 the following:

SEC. 317. CERTAIN DISTRIBUTIONS OF STOCK ON REORGANIZATION (REVENUE ACT OF 1951, APPROVED OCTOBER 20, 1951).

(a) Distributions not in liquidation. Section 112 (b) (relating to nonrecognition of gain or loss in the case of certain exchanges) is hereby amended by adding at the end thereof the following new paragraph:

(11) Distribution of stock not in liquidation. If there is distributed, in pursuance of a plan of reorganization, to a shareholder of a corporation which is a party to the reorganization, stock (other than preferred stock) in another corporation which is a party to the reorganization, without the surrender by such shareholder of stock, no gain to the distributee from the receipt of such stock shall be recognized unless it appears that (A) any corporation which is a party to such reorganization was not intended to continue the active conduct of a trade or business after such reorganization, or (B) the corporation whose stock is distributed was used principally as a device for the distribution of earnings and profits to the shareholders of any corporation a party to the reorganization.

(c) Effective date. The amendments made by this section shall be applicable with respect to taxable years ending after the date of the enactment of this Act, but shall apply only with respect to distributions of stock made after such date.

§ 29.112 (b) (11)-1 Certain distributions of stock on reorganization. (a) If there is distributed after October 20, 1951, in pursuance of a plan of reorganization, to a shareholder of a corporation which is a party to the reorganization stock (other than preferred stock) in another corporation which is a party to the reorganization, without the surrender by such shareholder of stock, no gain to such shareholder from the receipt of such stock shall be recognized, unless it appears that:

(1) Any corporation which is a party to such reorganization was not intended to continue the active conduct of a trade or business after such reorganization, or

(2) The corporation whose stock is distributed was used principally as a device for the distribution of earnings and profits to the shareholders of any corporation a party to the reorganization.

(b) For section 112 (b) (11) to be applicable, there must be a reorganization as defined in section 112 (g) (1) and a distribution to shareholders in pursuance of the plan of reorganization. Accordingly, for the purpose of section 112 (b) (11), there must be compliance with the rules prescribed in §§ 29.112 (a)-1, 29.112 (g)-1, and 29.112 (g)-2, relating to reorganizations and to exchanges and distributions. The distributions under section 112 (b) (11) must be of stock in a corporation which is a party to the reorganization.

(c) Section 112 (b) (11) involves cases in which one corporation, in a reorganization as defined in section 112 (g) (1) (D), transfers a part of its assets to another corporation in exchange for stock, and, in pursuance of the plan of reorganization, distributes or causes to be distributed on its behalf to its shareholders, without the surrender by them of stock in the transferor corporation, stock (other than preferred stock) received in the reorganization. For limitations specially applicable under section 112 (b) (11), see § 29.112 (b) (11)-2. The distribution of preferred stock or other property received in the reorganization, or of other property of the transferor corporation, is not within the provisions of section 112 (b) (11).

§ 29.112 (b) (11)-2 Limitations upon the application of section 112 (b) (11). (a) The benefits of section 112 (b) (11) are limited to a reorganization in which all of the corporations, parties to the reorganization, are intended to continue the active conduct of a trade or business after the reorganization, and in which the corporation whose stock is distributed is not used principally as a device for the distribution of earnings and profits to shareholders of any corporation a party to the reorganization. The underlying assumption of section 112 (b) (11) and of the rules applicable to reorganizations is that the reorganization and distribution of stock must result in a continuation of the old business activities and in a continuation of the interests of the shareholders therein.

(b) A corporation shall be considered for the purpose of section 112 (b) (11) to be engaged in the active conduct of a trade or business after the reorganization only if it directly conducts such business or indirectly conducts the business through ownership of stock in another corporation directly conducting the business, which other corporation is a subsidiary (whether or not majority-owned) of the corporation, a party to the reorganization. For the purpose of the preceding sentence, a corporation is considered a subsidiary of another corporation if a majority of its voting stock is owned by the other corporation or if a part of its stock (whether or not a majority of its voting stock) is owned by the other corporation under such circumstances that the policies of the first corporation are directed by the second corporation. The assets, if any, of a corporation used directly in the conduct of a business and stock, if any, held by a corporation in a subsidiary actively conducting a business must constitute a substantial part of all of the assets of the corporation.

(c) Ordinarily, the business reasons (as distinguished from any desire to make a distribution of earnings and profits to the shareholders) which support the reorganization and the distribution of the stock will require the distribution of all of the stock received by the transferor corporation in the reorganization.

Example 1. Corporation A owns and operates several mines and in addition owns 45 percent of the stock of Corporation X, 40 percent of the stock of Corporation Y, and 35 percent of the stock of Corporation Z. Corporation A is the largest single shareholder in each of these corporations, and directs their policies in such manner that these corporations are operated as subsidiaries of Corporation A. Corporations X, Y, and Z are each directly engaged in the active conduct of a trade or business. Corporation A transfers all its stock in Corporations X, Y, and Z to newly organized Corporation B in exchange for all of Corporation B's stock, which stock is distributed pro rata among the shareholders of Corporation A. Corporation B then directs the policies of these corporations in such manner that they are operated as subsidiaries of Corporation B. There are no other relevant facts. The distribution of the stock (other than preferred stock) in Corporation B to the shareholders of Corporation A is within the terms of section 112 (b) (11).

Example 2. Corporation C owns and operates a department store. It decides to provide parking facilities for the customers of the store. In order to provide such facilities, Corporation C enters into a contract to purchase land adjacent to its premises. The purchase price of the land is $100,000 and it is estimated that the cost of developing the parking lot will be $50,000. In order to separate the operations of the parking lot from those of the department store, Corporation C transfers to a newly formed Corporation D $90,000 in cash and $90,000 in bonds, together with the contract for the purchase of the land, in exchange for all the stock of Corporation D, which stock is distributed pro rata among the shareholders of Corporation C. The purchase of the land is completed on the date fixed in the contract, and the parking facilities are developed and operated by Corporation D. There are no other relevant facts. The transfer of the cash, bonds, and contract to Corporation D in exchange for its stock is a reorganization under section 112 (g) (1) and the distribution of stock (other than preferred stock) in Corporation D to the shareholders of Corporation C is within the terms of section 112 (b) (11).

Example 3. Corporation E is engaged in a manufacturing business. The assets of Corporation E include $300,000 in cash and $600,000 in bonds in addition to $450,000 in other assets used in the manufacturing business. Corporation E forms a new corporation, F, to which Corporation E transfers $200,000 in cash and the $600,000 in bonds in exchange for all the stock of Corporation F, which stock is distributed among the shareholders of Corporation C pro rata. There are no other relevant facts. The transfer of cash and bonds to Corporation F is not a reorganization under section 112 (g) (1) of the Code; therefore, the distribution of the stock of Corporation F is taxable as a dividend to the extent provided in section 115 (a).

PAR. 3. Section 29.112 (g)-1, as amended by Treasury Decision 5402, is further amended by inserting immediately preceding the last sentence of paragraph (b) thereof the following: "The nonrecognition of gain or loss is also prescribed with respect to the distribution occurring after October 20, 1951, in pursuance of a plan of reorganization, to a shareholder of a corporation which is a party to the reorganization, of stock (other than preferred stock) in another corporation which is a party to the reorganization, where such shareholder does not surrender any stock. (See section 112 (b) (11) and the regulations thereunder.)"

PAR. 4. Section 29.112 (g)-2 is amended by striking from paragraph (g) (which paragraph begins with the words "The term 'plan of reorganization'") the word "exchanges" wherever it appears and inserting in each instance in lieu thereof the words "exchanges or distributions".

PAR. 5. Section 29.112 (g)-5 is amended by adding at the end thereof the following sentence: "See § 29.112 (b) (11) with respect to the distribution occurring after October 20, 1951, to a shareholder, in pursuance of a plan of reorganization of stock (other than preferred stock) in another corporation which is a party to the reorganization, without the surrender by such shareholder of stock."

PAR. 6. There is inserted immediately after § 29.113 (a) (22)-1 the following:

SEC. 317. CERTAIN DISTRIBUTIONS OF STOCK ON REORGANIZATION (REVENUE ACT OF 1951, APPROVED OCTOBER 20, 1951).

(b) Basis of stock. Section 113 (a) (relating to unadjusted basis for determining gain or loss) is hereby amended by adding at the end thereof the following new paragraph:

(23) Tax-free distributions. If the property consists of stock distributed after the date of the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1951 to a taxpayer in connection with a transaction described in section 112 (b) (11) (hereinafter in this paragraph called "new stock"), or consists of stock in respect of which such distribution was made (hereinafter in this paragraph called "old stock"), then the basis of the new stock and of the old stock, respectively, shall, in the shareholder's hands, be determined by allocating between the old stock and the new stock the adjusted basis of the old stock; such allocation to be made under regulations prescribed by the Secretary.

(c) Effective date. The amendments made by this section shall be applicable with respect to taxable years ending after the date of the enactment of this Act, but shall apply only with respect to distributions of stock made after such date.

§ 29.113 (a) (23)-1 Basis of stock on certain distributions on reorganization. The distribution, in pursuance of a plan of reorganization, to a shareholder of a corporation (a party to the reorganization) of stock in another corporation (also a party to the reorganization) may be within the provisions of section 112 (g) of the Revenue Act of 1932, or the corresponding provisions of prior revenue laws, if made before January 1, 1934, or may be within the provisions of section 112 (b) (11) if made after October 20, 1951, and if the distribution consists of stock other than preferred stock. Section 112 (g) of the Revenue Act of 1932 and section 112 (b) (11) provide that no gain shall be recognized to the shareholder in the case of such distribution. The basis of the stock in respect of which the distribution was made and of the stock distributed to the shareholder is ascertained in accordance with the principles set forth in § 29.113 (a) (12)-1 in the case of such a distribution made before January 1, 1934. The same principles of § 29.113 (a) (12)-1 shall apply to the determination of the basis of such stock in the case of a distribution after October 20, 1951, to which section 112 (b) (11) is applicable.

PAR. 7. Section 29.115-11 as amended by Treasury Decision 5402, is further amended by striking subparagraph (1) of paragraph (c) thereof and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

(1) The distribution, in pursuance of a plan of reorganization, by or on behalf of a corporation a party to the reorganization, to its shareholders:

(i) Of stock or securities in such corporation or in another corporation a party to the reorganization in any taxable year beginning before January 1, 1934, without the surrender by the distributees of stock or securities in such corporation (see section 112 (g) of the Revenue Act of 1932); or

(ii) Of stock (other than preferred stock) in another corporation which is a party to the reorganization without the surrender by the distributees of stock in the distributing corporation if the distribution occurs after October 20, 1951 (see section 112 (b) (11)); or if no gain to the distributees from the receipt of such stock or securities was recognized by law.

(iii) Of stock or securities in such corporation or in another corporation a party to the reorganization in any taxable year (beginning before January 1, 1939, or on or after such date) in exchange for its stock or securities (see section 112 (b) (3))

GAINS FROM SALE OR EXCHANGE OF CERTAIN PROPERTY BETWEEN SPOUSES OR BETWEEN AN INDIVIDUAL AND A CONTROLLED CORPORATION

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act, approved June 11, 1946, that the regulations set forth below in tentative form are proposed to be prescribed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury. Prior to the final adoption of such regulations, consideration will be given to any data, views, or arguments pertaining thereto which are submitted in writing in duplicate to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington 25, D. C., within the period of 30 days from the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The proposed regulations are to be issued under the authority contained in sections 62 and 3791 of the Internal Revenue Code (53 Stat. 32, 467; 26 U. S. C. 62, 3791).

[SEAL] JUSTIN F. WINKLE,
Acting Comissioner of Internal Revenue.

In order to conform Regulations 111 (26 CFR, Part 29) to section 328 of the Revenue Act of 1951, approved October 20, 1951, such regulations are amended as follows:

PARAGRAPH 1. There is inserted immediately preceding § 29.117-1 the following:

SEC. 328. TREATMENT OF GAIN ON SALES OF CERTAIN PROPERTY BETWEEN SPOUSES AND BETWEEN AN INDIVIDUAL AND A CONTROLLED CORPORATION (REVENUE ACT OF 1951, APPROVED OCTOBER 20, 1951).

(a) Disallowance of capital gain treatment. Section 117 (relating to capital gains and losses) is hereby amended by adding at the end thereof the following new subsection:

(o) Gain from sale of certain property between spouses or between an individual and a controlled corporation—(1) Treatment of gain as ordinary income. In the case of a sale or exchange, directly or indirectly, of property described in paragraph (2)—

(A) Between a husband and wife; or any gain recognized to the transfer or from the sale or exchange of such property shall be considered as gain from the sale or exchange of property which is neither a capital asset nor property described in subsection (j).

(B) Between an individual and a corporation more than 80 per centum in value of the outstanding stock of which is owned by such individual, his spouse, and his minor children and minor grandchildren;

(2) Subsection applicable only to sales or exchanges of depreciable property. This subsection shall apply only in the case of a sale or exchange of property by a transferor which in the hands of the transferee is property of a character which is subject to the allowance for depreciation provided in section 23 (l).

(b) Effective date. The amendment made by subsection (a) shall be applicable with respect to taxable years ending after April 30, 1951, but shall apply only with respect to sales or exchanges made after May 3, 1951.

PAR. 2. There is added after § 29.117-10 the following new section:

§ 29.117-13 Gain from sale or exchange of certain property between spouses or between an individual and a controlled corporation. Section 117 (o) provides that any gain recognized to the transferor from the sale or exchange, directly or indirectly, between a husband and wife or between an individual and a controlled corporation, of property which, in the hands of the transferee, is property of a character subject to the allowance for depreciation provided in section 23 (l) (including such property with respect to which a deduction for amortization is allowable under section 23 (t)) shall be considered as gain from the sale or exchange of property which is neither a capital asset nor property described in section 117 (j). This rule is applicable for taxable years ending after April 30, 1951, but only with respect to sales or exchanges made after May 3, 1951. For the purpose of section 117 (o), a corporation is controlled when more than 80 percent in value of all outstanding stock of the corporation is owned (whether legal ownership or beneficial ownership) by the taxpayer, his spouse, and his minor children and minor grandchildren. For the purpose of this rule, the terms "children" and "grandchildren" include stepchildren and legally adopted children. The provisions of section 117 (o) are applicable whether the property be transferred from the corporation to the shareholder or from the shareholder to the corporation.

WAR LOSSES

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act, approved June 11, 1946, that the regulations set forth in tentative form below are proposed to be prescribed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury. Prior to the final adoption of such regulations, consideration will be given to any data, views, or arguments pertaining thereto which are submitted in writing in duplicate to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington 25, D. C., within the period of 30 days from the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The proposed regulations are to be issued under the authority contained in sections 62 and 3791 of the Internal Revenue Code (53 Stat. 32, 467; 26 U. S. C. 62, 3791).

[SEAL] JOHN B. DUNLAP,
Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

In order to conform Regulations 111 (26 CFR Part 29) to section 341 of the Revenue Act of 1951, approved October 20, 1951, such regulations are hereby amended as follows:

PARAGRAPH 1. There is inserted immediately preceding § 29.127 (c)-1 the following:

SEC. 341. WAR LOSSES (REVENUE ACT OF 1951, APPROVED OCTOBER 20, 1951).

(a) Tax upon war loss recovery. Section 127 (c) (relating to recoveries included in gross income) is hereby amended to read as follows:

(c) Recoveries—(1) General rule. Upon the recovery in the taxable year of any money or property in respect of property considered under subsection (a) as destroyed or seized in any prior taxable year, the amount of such recovery shall be included in gross income to the extent provided in paragraph (2), unless the provisions of paragraph (3) are applicable to the taxable year pursuant to an election made by the taxpayer under the provisions of paragraph (5).

(2) Inclusion in gross income—(A) Amount of recovery. The amount of the recovery of any money or property in respect of property considered under subsection (a) as destroyed or seized in any prior taxable year shall be an amount equal to the aggregate of such money and the fair market value of such property, determined as of the date of the recovery.

(B) Amount of gain includible. To the extent that the amount of the recovery plus the aggregate of the amounts of previous such recoveries do not exceed that part of the aggregate of the allowable deductions in prior taxable years on account of the destruction or seizure of property described in subsection (a) which did not result in a reduction of any tax of the taxpayer under this chapter or chapter 2, such amount shall not be includible in gross income and shall not be deemed gain upon the involuntary conversion of property as a result of its destruction or seizure. To the extent that such amount plus the aggregate of the amounts of previous such recoveries exceed that part of the aggregate of such deductions, which did not result in a reduction of any tax of the taxpayer under this chapter or chapter 2, such amount shall be includible in gross income but shall not be deemed a gain upon the involuntary conversion of property as a result of its destruction or seizure. To the extent that such amount plus the aggregate of the amounts of previous such recoveries exceed the aggregate of the allowable deductions in prior taxable years on account of the destruction or seizure of property described in subsection (a), such amount shall be considered a gain upon the involuntary conversion of property as a result of its destruction or seizure and shall be recognized or not recognized as provided in section 112 (f). If for any previous taxable year the taxpayer chooses under subsection (b) to treat any obligations and liabilities as discharged or satisfied out of the property or interest described in subsection (a), and if such obligations and liabilities were not so discharged or satisfied, the amount of such obligations and liabilities treated as discharged or satisfied under subsection (b) shall be considered for the purposes of this section as a deduction by reason of this section which did not result in a reduction of any tax of the taxpayer under this chapter or chapter 2. For the purposes of this paragraph an allowable deduction for any taxable year on account of the destruction or seizure of property described in subsection (a) shall, to the extent not allowed in computing the tax of the taxpayer for such taxable year, be considered an allowable deduction which did not result in a reduction of any tax for the taxpayer under this chapter or chapter 2.

(3) Tax adjustment measured by prior benefits. If the provisions of this paragraph are applicable to the taxable year pursuant to an election made by the taxpayer under the provisions of paragraph (5)—

(A) Amount of recovery. The amount of the recovery in the taxable year of any money or property in respect of property considered under subsection (a) as destroyed or seized in any prior taxable year shall be an amount equal to the aggregate of such money and the fair market value of such property, determined as of the date of the recovery. For the purpose of this paragraph, in the case of the recovery of the same property or interest considered under subsection (a) as destroyed or seized, the fair market value of such property or interest shall, at the option of the taxpayer, be considered an amount equal to the adjusted basis (for determining loss) of such property or interest in the hands of the taxpayer on the date such property or interest was considered under subsection (a) as destroyed or seized. The amount of the recovery determined under this subparagraph shall be reduced for the purposes of subparagraphs (B) and (C) by the amount of the obligations or liabilities with respect to the property considered under subsection (a) as destroyed or seized in respect of which the recovery was received, if the taxpayer for any previous taxable year chose under subsection (b) (2) to treat such obligations or liabilities as discharged or satisfied out of such property, and such obligations or liabilities were not so discharged or satisfied prior to the date of the recovery.

(B) Adjustment for Prior Tax Benefits.—That part of the amount of the recovery, in respect of any property considered under subsection (a) as destroyed or seized, which is not in excess of the allowable deductions in prior taxable years on account of such destruction or seizure of the property (the amount of such allowable deductions being first reduced by the aggregate amount of any prior recoveries in respect of the same property) shall be excluded from gross income for the taxable year of the recovery for the purpose of computing the tax under this chapter and chapter 2; but there shall be added to, and assesed and collected as a part of, the tax under this chapter for the taxable year of the recovery the total increase in the tax under this chapter and chapter 2 for all taxable years which would result by decreasing, in an amount equal to such part of the recovery so excluded, such deductions allowable in the prior taxable years with respect to the destruction or seizure of the property. Such increase in the tax for each such year so resulting shall be computed in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Secretary. Such regulations shall give effect to previous recoveries of any kind (including recoveries described in section 22 (b) (12)) with respect to any prior year, and shall provide for the case where there was no tax for the prior year, but shall otherwise treat the tax previously determined for any year in accordance with the principles set forth in section 3801 (d). All credits allowable against the tax for any year and all carry-overs and carry-backs affected by so decreasing the allowable deductions shall be taken into account in computing the increase in the tax, except that the computation of the excess profits credit under chapter 2E for any taxable year shall not be affected.

(C) Gain upon recovery. The amount of any recovery or part thereof, in respect of property considered under subsection (a) as destroyed or seized, which is not excluded from gross income under the provisions of subparagraph (B) shall be considered for the taxable year of the recovery as gain on the involuntary conversion of property as a result of its destruction or seizure and shall be recognized or not recognized as provided in section 112 (f).

(D) Recoveries treated as gross income for certain purposes. For the purposes of sections 51, 52, and 3801 (b) the recovery in the taxable year of any money or property in respect of property considered under subsection (a) as destroyed or seized in any prior taxable year shall be deemed to be an item includible in gross income for the taxable year in which the recovery is made.

(4) Restoration of value of investments referable to destroyed or seized property. For the purpose of this subsection the restoration in whole or in part of the value of any interest described in subsection (a) (3) by reason of any recovery of money or property in respect of property to which such interest related and which was considered under subsection (a) (1) or (2) as destroyed or seized shall be deemed a recovery of property in respect of property considered under subsection (a) as destroyed or seized. In applying paragraph (3) of this subsection such restoration shall be treated as the recovery of the same interest considered under subsection (a) as destroyed or seized.

(5) Election by taxpayer for application of paragraph (3). If the taxpayer elects to have the provisions of paragraph (3) applicable to any taxable year in which he recovered any money or property in respect of property considered under subsection (a) as destroyed or seized, the provisions of paragraph (3) shall be applicable to all taxable years of the taxpayer beginning after December 31, 1941, and such election, once made, shall be irrevocable. The election shall be made in such manner and at such time as the Secretary may by regulations prescribe, except that no election under this paragraph may be made after December 31, 1952, unless the taxpayer recovers money or property (in respect of property considered under subsection (a) as destroyed or seized) during a taxable year ending after the date of the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1951. If pursuant to such election the provisions of paragraph (3) are applicable to any taxable year—

(A) the period of limitations provided in sections 275 and 276 on the making of assessments and the beginning of distraint or a proceeding in court for collection shall not, with respect to—

(i) The amount to be added to the tax for such taxable year under the provisions of paragraph (3), and

(ii) Any deficiency for such taxable year or for any other taxable year, to the extent attributable to the basis of the recovered property being determined under the provisions of subsection (d) (2), expire prior to the expiration of two years following the date of the making of such election, and such amount and such deficiency may be assessed at any time prior to the expiration of such period notwithstanding any law or rule of law which would otherwise prevent such assessment and collection, and

(B) in case refund or credit of any overpayment resulting from the application of the provisions of paragraph (3) to such taxable year is prevented on the date of the making of such election, or within one year from such date, by the operation of any law or rule of law (other than section 3761, relating to compromises), refund or credit of such overpayment may, nevertheless, be made or allowed if claim therefor is filed within one year from such date.

In the case of any taxable year ending before the date of the making by the taxpayer of an election under this paragraph, no interest shall be paid on any overpayment resulting from the application of the provisions of paragraph (3) to such taxable year, and no interest shall be assessed or collected with respect to any amount or any deficiency specified in clause (A), for any period prior to the expiration of six months following the date of the making of such election by the taxpayer.

(d) Effective dates. The amendments made by this section shall be applicable to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1941.

PAR. 2. Section 29.127 (c)-1, as amended by Treasury Decision 5454, approved May 10, 1945, is further amended to read as follows:

§ 29.127 (c)-1 Recoveries in respect of war losses.—(a) General. (1) Upon the recovery by the taxpayer in the taxable year of any money or property in respect of property considered under section 127 (a) as destroyed or seized in any prior taxable year, the amount of such recovery must be included in gross income to the extent provided in section 127 (c) (2), unless pursuant to the taxpayer's election the provisions of section 127 (c) (3) are applicable to such recovery. For the treatment of war loss recoveries under such provisions, and the manner of making such election, see paragraphs (c) and (d) hereof.

(2) Except as provided in section 127 (c) (3) (A) and in this paragraph, the amount of the recovery in respect of a war loss in a previous taxable year is determined in the same manner for the purpose of section 127 (c) (2) or (3). The amount of the recovery of any money or property in respect of any war loss is the aggregate of the amount of such money and of the fair market value of such property, both determined as of the date of the recovery. If pursuant to the taxpayer's election under section 127 (c) (5) the provisions of section 127 (c) (3) are applicable to any taxable year in which he recovers the same property or interest considered under section 127 (a) as destroyed or seized in a previous taxable year, the fair market value of such property or interest shall, at the option of the taxpayer, be considered an amount equal to the adjusted basis (for determining loss) of such property or interest in the hands of the taxpayer on the date such property or interest was considered as destroyed or seized. Also, if the provisions of section 127 (c) (3) are applicable pursuant to the taxpayer's election, the amount of the recovery of any money or property in respect of property considered under section 127 (a) as destroyed or seized in any prior taxable year shall be reduced for the purpose of section 127 (c) (3) (B) and (C) by the amount of the obligations or liabilities with respect to such property, if the taxpayer for any previous taxable year chose under section 127 (b) (2) to treat such obligations or liabilities as discharged or satisfied out of such property, and such obligations or liabilities were not so discharged or satisfied prior to the date of the recovery. See § 29.127 (b)-1. The recoveries in respect of any war loss include the recovery of the property or interest treated as destroyed or seized under section 127 and the recovery of any money or property in lieu of such property or interest or on account of the destruction or seizure of such property or interest. For example, there is a recovery upon the return to the taxpayer after the termination of the war of his property which was treated as resulting in a war loss because it was located in a country at war with the United States. An award by a government on account of the seizure of the taxpayer's property by an enemy country is a recovery under section 127 (c). The amount obtained upon the sale or other transfer by the taxpayer of his right to any property treated as resulting in a war loss is also a recovery for the purpose of section 127 (c). Similarly, if a taxpayer who sustained a war loss under section 127 (c) upon the liquidation of a corporation has received the rights to any property of the corporation which was treated as destroyed or seized under section 127 (a) (1) or (2), any recovery by the taxpayer with respect to such rights is a recovery by him for the purposes of section 127 (c). Furthermore, if any interest of the taxpayer in or with respect to property was determined to be worthless and was treated as a war loss under section 127 (a) (3) (see § 29.127 (a)-4), or if the taxpayer retained an interest in a corporation with respect to which he sustained a war loss under section 127 (e), and if the interest in the hands of the taxpayer is restored in value, in whole or in part, by reason of a recovery with respect to the underlying assets treated as destroyed or seized under section 127, then such restoration in value is a recovery by the taxpayer for the purposes of section 127 (c). In the application of section 127 (c) (3) such restoration shall be treated as a recovery of the same interest considered as destroyed or seized. Property considered as destroyed or seized under section 127 (a) is considered as not being in existence from the date of the loss to the date of its recovery.

(3) For the purpose of section 127 (c), the recoveries considered are only those with respect to war losses sustained in prior taxable years. Similarly, the only deductions considered are those allowable for prior taxable years, and any allowable deductions for the year of the recovery are ignored for the purposes of applying such section to the recovery. If property is treated as destroyed or seized under section 127, and if in the same taxable year there is also a recovery with respect to such property, such recovery is not within the provisions of section 127 (c) but is taken into account under section 127 (b) in determining the amount of the loss, if any, on the destruction or seizure. See section 127 (b)-1. An allowable deduction with respect to a war loss is any deduction to which the taxpayer is entitled on account of any property or interest being treated as destroyed or seized under section 127, regardless of whether or not such deduction was claimed by the taxpayer or otherwise allowed in computing his tax. If a deduction was claimed by a taxpayer in computing his tax for any taxable year, and if such deduction was disallowed, such deduction will not be considered an allowable deduction for such taxable year since the previous determination will not be reconsidered.

(b) General rule; inclusion of recovery in gross income. (1) A taxpayer who has sustained a war loss described in section 127 and who has not elected to have the provisions of section 127 (c) (3) apply to any taxable year in which he recovered any money or property in respect of a war loss in any previous taxable year must include in his gross income for each taxable year, to the extent provided in section 127 (c) (2), the amount of his recoveries of money and property for such taxable year in respect of any war loss in a previous taxable year. Section 127 (c) (2) provides that such recoveries for any taxable year are not includible in income until the taxpayer has recovered an amount equal to his allowable deductions in prior taxable years on account of such war losses which did not result in a reduction of any tax under chapter 1 of the Internal Revenue Code, that is, of any income tax of the taxpayer, or chapter 2, including the excess profits tax imposed by subchapter E thereof. War loss recoveries are considered as made first on account of war losses allowable but not actually allowed as a deduction, and second on account of war losses allowed as a deduction but which did not result in a reduction of tax under chapter 1 or chapter 2. If there were deductions allowed on account of war losses for two or more taxable years which did not result in a reduction of any tax under chapter 1 or chapter 2, a recovery on account of such losses is considered as made on account of such losses in the order of the taxable years for which they were allowed, beginning with the latest. See § 29.127 (f)-1 for the determination of the amount of such deductions. Recoveries in excess of such amount are treated as ordinary income until such excess equals the amount of the taxpayer's allowable deductions in prior taxable years on account of war losses which did result in a reduction of any such tax under chapter 1 or chapter 2. Any further recoveries in excess of all the taxpayer's allowable deductions in prior taxable years for war losses are treated as gain on an involuntary conversion of property as a result of its destruction or seizure, and such gain is recognized or not recognized under the provisions of section 112 (f). See § 29.112 (f)-1. Such gain, if recognized, is included in gross income as ordinary income unless section 117 (j) applies to cause such gain to be treated as gain from the sale or exchange of a capital asset held for more than six months. See § 29.117-7.

(2) The determination as to whether and to what extent any recoveries are to be included in gross income is made upon the basis of the amount of all the recoveries for each day upon which there are any such recoveries, as follows:

(i) The amount of the recoveries for any day is not included in gross income, and is not considered gain on an involuntary conversion, to the extent, if any, that the aggregate of the allowable deductions in prior taxable years on account of war losses which did not result in a reduction of any tax of the taxpayer under chapter 1 or chapter 2 of the Internal Revenue Code, as determined under § 29.127 (f)-1, exceeds the amount of all previous recoveries in the same and prior taxable years.

(ii) The amount of the recoveries for any day which is not excluded from gross income under (i) is included in gross income as ordinary income, and is not considered gain on an involuntary conversion, to the extent, if any, that the aggregate of all the allowable deductions in prior taxable years on account of war losses (both those which resulted in a reduction of a tax of the taxpayer and those which did not) exceeds the sum of the amount of all previous recoveries in the same and prior taxable years and of that portion, if any, of the amount of the recoveries for such day which is not included in gross income under (i).

(iii) The amount of the recoveries for any day which is not excluded from gross income under subdivision (i) of this subparagraph and is not included in gross income as ordinary income under subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph is considered gain on an involuntary conversion of property as a result of its destruction or seizure. The following provisions then apply to this gain:

(a) Such gain is recognized or not recognized under the provisions of section 112 (f), relating to gain upon such conversion of property. For the purpose of applying section 112 (f), such gain for any day is deemed to be expended in the manner provided in section 112 (f) to the extent the recovery for such day is so expended.

(b) If such gain is recognized it is included in gross income as ordinary income or, if the provisions of section 117 (j) apply and require such treatment, as gain on the sale or exchange of a capital asset held for more than six months. For the purpose of applying section 117 (j), such recognized gain for any day is deemed to be derived from property described in that section to the extent of the recovery for such day with respect to such property, except such portion of such recovery as is attributable to the nonrecognized gain for such day.

(c) Section 127 (d) provides that in determining the unadjusted basis of recovered property, the total gain and the recognized gain with respect to such property must be determined. For such purpose, the recognized gain deemed to be derived from properties described in section 117 (j) may be allocated among such properties in the proportion of the recoveries with respect to such properties, reduced for each property by the portion of the recovery attributable to the nonrecognized gain for such day, and the recoveries with respect to properties not described in section 117 (j) may be similarly allocated. The total gain derived from any recovered property is the sum of the nonrecognized gain attributable to the recovery of such property and of the recognized gain allocable to such property.

(3) The foregoing provisions may be illustrated by the following examples:

Example (1). The taxpayer sustained war losses of $8,000 on account of properties A, B, C, and D. Of this amount, $1,000 did not result in a reduction of any income tax of the taxpayer, as determined under the provisions of § 29.127 (f)–1. In a subsequent taxable year, he received an award of $800 from the Government on account of property A. This is not included in income since it is less than the amount by which his allowable deductions for prior taxable years on account of war losses which did not result in any tax benefit, $1,000, exceed $0, the sum of all his previous recoveries. On a later date the taxpayer recovers property B, which is worth $1,500 on the date of recovery. This recovery is not included in gross income to the extent of $200, the amount by which the allowable deductions for prior taxable years on account of war losses which did not result in any tax benefit, of $1,000, exceed the sum of all previous recoveries, or $800. All of the remaining $1,300 of the recovery is included in gross income as ordinary income, and is not considered gain on the involuntary conversion of property, since it is less than the amount by which the aggregate of all the allowable deductions in prior taxable years on account of war losses, or $3,000, exceeds $1,000, the sum of the $800 of previous recoveries and of the $200 portion of the recovery with respect to B which is not included in gross income. On a still later date the taxpayer sells for $2,500 his rights to recover C. Since the allowable deductions for prior taxable years on account of war losses which did not result in any tax benefit ($1,000) do not exceed the previous recoveries by the taxpayer ($800 and $1,500, or $2,300), none of the recovery on account of C is excluded from gross income. This recovery is included in gross income as ordinary income, and is not considered gain on the involuntary conversion of property, to the extent of $700, the amount by which the aggregate of all the allowable deductions for prior taxable years on account of war losses ($3,000) exceeds $2,300, the sum of the $2,300 of previous recoveries and of the $0 portion of the recovery on account of C which is not included in gross income. The remaining $1,800 of the recovery is considered gain on an involuntary conversion of property on account of its destruction or seizure, and is not recognized if forthwith expended in the manner provided in section 112 (f). Thus, it is not recognized if it is forthwith expended for the acquisition of property relating in service or use to C. On a later date the taxpayer recovers D, which has a fair market value of $400 at the time of the recovery. Since the aggregate of all the allowable deductions for prior taxable years on account of war losses ($3,000) does not exceed the previous recoveries by the taxpayer ($800+$1,500+$2,500, or $4,800), all of the recovery with respect to D is considered gain on an involuntary conversion of property as a result of its destruction or seizure. Under the provisions of section 112 (f), this gain is not recognized if D is used for the same purposes for which it was used before it was deemed destroyed or seized under section 127.

Example (2). The taxpayer on one day recovers $3,000 for property A and $7,000 for property B, both of which were treated under section 127 as destroyed or seized in a prior taxable year, and $8,000 of such $10,000 recoveries is considered gain on the involuntary conversion of property as a result of its destruction or seizure. The taxpayer forthwith expends $5,000 in the acquisition of property similar in use to B. Therefore, $5,000 of the $8,000 gain is not recognized under section 112 (f), leaving $3,000 of recognized gain. Property B is within the provisions of section 117 (j), relating to gains and losses on the involuntary conversion of certain described property, but property A is not. Therefore, the provisions of section 117 (j) apply to $2,000 of the $3,000 gain, that is, the amount of the recovery with respect to B which is not attributable to the nonrecognized gain for such day ($7,000 minus $5,000). If the taxpayer forthwith expended $8,000 or more for the acquisition of property similar in use to B, none of the gain would be recognized. If the taxpayer forthwith expended the $5,000 to acquire property related in use to A, the $3,000 recognized gain would be considered derived from B to the extent of the recovery with respect to B ($7,000), not reduced by any nonrecognized gain since none of such recovery is attributable to such nonrecognized gain, and therefore all of the $3,000 recognized gain would be subject to the provisions of section 117 (j).

(c) Elective method; tax adjustment measured by prior benefits. (1) If the taxpayer elects pursuant to section 127 (c) (5) and in accordance with the provisions of these regulations to have the provisions of section 127 (c) (3) apply to any taxable year in which he recovers any money or property in respect of property considered under section 127 (a) as destroyed or seized in any previous taxable year, the amount of the recovery in respect of such property for any taxable year shall not be included in income until the taxpayer has recovered an amount equal to his allowable deductions in prior taxable years on account of the destruction or seizure of such property, whether or not such allowable deductions resulted in a reduction of any tax under chapter 1 or chapter 2 of the Internal Revenue Code. However, for the purposes of section 51, relating to the requirement of individual returns, section 52, relating to the requirement of corporation returns, and section 3801 (b), relating to the mitigation of the effect of the statute of limitations, the entire amount of the recovery shall be deemed to be an item includible in gross income for the taxable year in which the recovery is made. In lieu of including such amount in gross income, there shall be added to, and assessed and collected as a part of, the tax imposed under chapter 1 for the taxable year of the recovery and adjustment on account of any tax benefits in all prior taxable years resulting directly or indirectly from the fact that the loss from the destruction or seizure of such property was an allowable deduction. The amount of such adjustment shall be the total increase in the tax under chapter 1 of the Code, that is, any income tax of the taxpayer, and under chapter 2 including the excess profits tax imposed by subchapter E thereof, for all taxable years which would result by decreasing such allowable deductions with respect to the destruction or seizure of such property by an amount equal to that portion of the amount of the recovery which is not included in gross income for the taxable year of the recovery. The portion of the amount of the recovery which is in excess of such allowable deductions is included in gross income for the taxable year of the recovery as gain on the involuntary conversion of property as a result of its destruction or seizure and is recognized or not recognized as provided in section 112 (f). See § 29.112 (f)–1. Such gain, if recognized, is included in gross income as ordinary income unless section 117 (j) applies to cause such gain to be treated as gain on the sale or exchange of capital assets held for more than six months. See § 29.117–7.

(2) The determination as to whether and to what extent the amount of the recovery is to be excluded from gross income is to be made upon the basis of the total amount of the recoveries in each taxable year in respect of the same property considered under section 127 (a) as destroyed or seized in any previous taxable year, as follows:

(i) The amount of the recovery in any taxable year is excluded from the gross income of such year and is not considered gain on an involuntary conversion to the extent, that such amount does not exceed the aggregate of the allowable deductions in prior taxable years on account of the destruction or seizure of such property (whether or not such deductions resulted in a reduction of a tax of the taxpayer) reduced by the aggregate amount of any recoveries in intervening taxable years in respect of the same property.

(ii) The amount of the recovery in any taxable year which is not excluded from gross income under (i) is included in gross income and is considered gain on an involuntary conversion of property as a result of its destruction or seizure. The following provisions apply to this gain:

(a) Such gain is recognized or not recognized under the provisions of section 112 (f) relating to gain upon such conversion of property. For the purpose of applying section 112 (f), such gain for any taxable year is deemed to be expended in the manner provided in section 112 (f) to the extent the recovery in such taxable year is so expended.

(b) If such gain is recognized it is included in gross income as ordinary income or, if the provisions of section 117 (j) apply and require such treatment, as gain on the sale or exchange of a capital asset held for more than six months. In the case of the recovery of the same property or interest considered under section 127 (a) as destroyed or seized, any gain will not be deemed to be recognized under the provisions of section 112 (f) if such property is used for the same purpose for which it was used before it was deemed destroyed or seized under section 127 (a).

(3) The determination of the total increase in the tax under chapters 1 and 2 of the Code for all taxable years which would result by decreasing the deductions allowable in any prior taxable years with respect to the destruction or seizure of the property in respect of which the taxpayer has made a recovery by an amount equal to the part of such recovery not included in gross income for the taxable year of such recovery shall be made as provided in this subparagraph. Such total increase shall include the increases described in subdivisions (i), (ii), (iii), and (iv) of this subparagraph, and shall be added to, and assessed and collected as a part of, the tax under chapter 1 for the taxable year of the recovery. Proper adjustment of such increases shall be made on account of the application of the provisions of this subparagraph to intervening taxable years. The term "tax previously determined" as used in this subparagraph shall have the same meaning as used in section 3801 (d) of the Code and shall include any tax under chapter 1 or chapter 2 of the Code. In computing the amount of the increase in the tax previously determined under chapter 1 or chapter 2 for any taxable year, the principles of section 3801 (d) shall be applicable. See § 29.3801 (d)–1. However, the computation of the excess profits credit under chapter 2E for any taxable year shall not be affected by the adjustment provided in this subparagraph. All credits allowable against the tax for any year shall be taken into account in computing the increase in the tax previously determined. The increases referred to in this subparagraph include the following:

(i) The increase, if any, in the tax previously determined for each prior taxable year in which a deduction was allowable on account of the destruction or seizure of the property in respect of which there is a recovery in the taxable year. After the tax previously determined has been ascertained, such tax shall be recomputed by disregarding such allowable deduction (to the extent that it does not exceed the sum of the amount of such recovery not included in gross income for the taxable year of such recovery, plus the aggregate amount of any recoveries in intervening taxable years in respect of the same property) and any other deductions allowable on account of other war losses or any other losses, expenditures or accruals in such prior taxable year in respect of which, and to the extent that, recoveries in intervening taxable years have been excluded from gross income under section 127 (c) (3), section 22 (b) (12), or otherwise. The difference between the tax previously determined and the tax as recomputed will be the increase in the tax previously determined for the taxable year.

(ii) The increase, if any, in the tax previously determined for any taxable year (including the taxable year of the recovery) in which a net operating loss deduction was allowable, if all or a part of such deduction was attributable to the carry-over or carry-back to such taxable year of a net operating loss from another taxable year in which a deduction was allowable on account of the destruction or seizure of the property in respect of which there is a recovery in the taxable year to which such increase is to be added. After the tax previously determined has been ascertained, such tax shall be recomputed by redetermining such net operating loss deduction. In the determination of such net operating loss deduction the net operation loss shall be recomputed by disregarding the deduction allowable on account of the war loss in respect of which there is a recovery in the taxable year to which such increase is to be added (to the extent that such deduction does not exceed the sum of the amount of such recovery not included in gross income for the taxable year of such recovery, plus the aggregate amount of any recoveries in intervening taxable years in respect of the same property) and by disregarding any other deductions allowable on account of other war losses or any other losses, expenditures, or accruals in the taxable year in respect of which, and to the extent that, recoveries in intervening taxable years have been excluded from gross income under section 127 (c) (3), section 22 (b) (12), or otherwise. The difference between the tax previously determined and the tax as recomputed will be the increase in the tax previously determined for the taxable year.

(iii) The increase, if any, in the tax previously determined for any taxable year (including the taxable year of recovery) in which an unused excess profits credit was availed of in computing the unused excess profits credit adjustment for such taxable year, if all or a part of such adjustment was attributable to the carry-over or carry-back to such taxable year of an unused excess profits credit from another taxable year in which a deduction was allowable on account of the destruction or seizure of the property in respect of which there is a recovery in the taxable year to which such increase is to be added. After the tax previously determined has been ascertained, such tax shall be recomputed by redetermining such unused excess profits credit carry-over or carry-back. In the recomputation such carry-over or carry-back shall be redetermined by disregarding such allowable war loss deduction (to the extent such deduction does not exceed the sum of the amount of the recovery not included in gross income for the taxable year of such recovery, plus the aggregate amount of any recoveries in intervening taxable years in respect of the same property) and by disregarding any other deductions allowable on account of other war losses or any other losses, expenditures, or accruals in the taxable year in respect of which, and to the extent that, recoveries in intervening taxable years have been excluded from gross income under section 127 (c) (3), section 22 (b) (12), or otherwise. The difference between the tax previously determined and the tax as recomputed shall be the amount of the increase which shall be added to the tax for the taxable year of the recovery. In case there is an increase in the excess profits tax under chapter 2E for the taxable year in which an unused excess profits credit was availed of in computing the unused excess profits credit adjustment, and a decrease in the income tax under chapter 1 for such taxable year, the increase in the tax previously determined shall be considered to be an amount equal to the excess of the increase in the excess profits tax over the decrease in the income tax.

(iv) The increase, if any, in the tax previously determined for any taxable year (including the taxable year of the recovery) in which an unused excess profits credit was availed of in computing the unused excess profits credit adjustment for such taxable year, if all or a part of such adjustment was attributable to the carry-over or carry-back to such taxable year of an unused excess profits credit from another taxable year in which there was allowable a net operating loss deduction attributable to the carry-over or carry-back to such other taxable year of a net operating loss, and such net operating loss resulted in whole or in part from the deduction allowable on account of the destruction or seizure of the property in respect of which there is a recovery in the taxable year to which such increase is to be added. After the tax previously determined has been ascertained, such tax shall be recomputed by redetermining such net operating loss deduction and such unused excess profits credit carry-over or carry-back. In the redetermination of such net operating loss deduction the net operating loss carry-over or carry-back shall be recomputed by disregarding such allowable war loss deduction (to the extent that such deduction does not exceed the sum of the amount of such recovery not included in gross income for the taxable year of such recovery, plus the aggregate amount of any recoveries in intervening taxable years in respect of the same property) and by disregarding any other deductions allowable on account of other war losses or any other losses, expenditures, or accruals in the taxable year in respect of which, and to the extent that, recoveries in intervening taxable years have been excluded from gross income under section 127 (c) (3), section 22 (b) (12), or otherwise. The unused excess profits credit carry-over or carry-back shall then be recomputed to conform to the redetermination of the net operating loss deduction for the taxable year from which the unused credit is carried over or carried back. The difference between the tax previously determined and the tax as recomputed shall be the amount of the increase which shall be added to the tax for the taxable year of the recovery. In case there is an increase in the excess profits tax under chapter 2E for the taxable year in which an unused excess profits credit was availed of in computing the unused excess profits credit adjustment, and a decrease in the income tax under chapter 1 for such taxable year, the increase in the tax previously determined shall be considered to be an amount equal to the excess of the increase in the excess profits tax over the decrease in the income tax.

(d) Elective method; manner of making election and effect thereof. (1) The election of the taxpayer to have the provisions of section 127 (c) (3) applicable to any taxable year in which he recovered any money or property in respect of property considered under section 127 (a) as destroyed or seized shall be made by a written statement that the taxpayer elects to have such provisions apply which statement shall be made in (or attached to)—

(i) The return or an amended return filed for such taxable year;

(ii) A claim for refund or credit filed for such taxable year for an overpayment resulting from the application of such provisions;

(iii) A timely petition (or amended petition) to The Tax Court of the United States for a redetermination of any deficiency for such taxable year.

The date of the making of such election is the date such return, amended return, claim for refund or credit, petition, or amended petition is filed, except that an election made in a return filed before the last day prescribed by law for the filing thereof (including any extension of time for such filing) shall not be considered made until such last day.

(2) If the taxpayer makes an election to have the provisions of section 127 (c) (3) applicable to any taxable year in which he recovered any money or property in respect of a prior war loss, such provisions, and not the provisions of section 127 (c) (2), shall be applicable to all taxable years of the taxpayer beginning after December 31, 1941. Therefore, the taxpayer need not make an election with respect to each separate taxable year in which he had a recovery. An election for any taxable year in which the taxpayer had a recovery in respect of a prior war loss is sufficient to make the provisions of section 127 (c) (3) applicable also to war loss recoveries received by the taxpayer in any past taxable year beginning after December 31, 1941, and to any recoveries which may be received by the taxpayer in any future taxable year. Such election once made shall be irrevocable. Unless the taxpayer in a taxable year ending after October 20, 1951 (the date of the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1951), recovers money or property in respect of property considered under section 127 (a) as destroyed or seized in any prior taxable year, no election may be made by the taxpayer after December 31, 1952.

(3) If the provisions of section 127 (c) (3) are applicable to any taxable year pursuant to an election made by the taxpayer in accordance with the provisions of subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, the period of limitations provided in sections 275 and 276 of the Code on the making of assessments and the beginning of distraint or a proceeding in court for collection with respect to (i) the amount to be added to the tax for such taxable year under the provisions of section 127 (c) (3) and (ii) any deficiency for such taxable year or for any other taxable year to the extent attributable to the basis of the recovered property being determined under the provisions of section 127 (d) (2), shall not expire prior to the expiration of two years following the date of the making of such election. Such amount or such deficiency may be assessed at any time prior to the expiration of such period, notwithstanding any law or rule of law which would otherwise prevent such assessment and collection. No interest shall be assessed or collected with respect to any such amount or any such deficiency for any period prior to the expiration of six months following the date of the making of the election by the taxpayer.

(4) If the provisions of section 127 (c) (3) are applicable to any taxable year pursuant to an election made by the taxpayer in accordance with the provisions of subparagraph (1) of this paragraph and refund or credit of any overpayment resulting from the application of such provisions to such taxable year is prevented on the date of the making of such election, or within one year from such date, by the operation of any law or rule of law (other than section 3761 relating to compromises), refund or credit of such overpayment may nevertheless be made or allowed, provided claim therefor is filed within one year from such date. Thus, the amount of such overpayment which may be refunded or credited is not subject to the limitations contained in section 322 (b) or (d). No interest shall be paid on any overpayment resulting from the application of the provisions of section 127 (c) (3) to any taxable year ending before the date of the making of the election by the taxpayer.

(b) Basis of recovered property. Section 127 (d) (relating to basis of recovered property) is hereby amended to read as follows:

(d) Basis of recovered property—(1) In general. The unadjusted basis of property recovered in respect of property considered as destroyed or seized under subsection (a) shall be determined under this subsection. Such basis shall be an amount equal to the fair market value of such property, determined as of the date of the recovery, reduced by an amount equal to the excess of the aggregate of such fair market value and the amounts of previous recoveries of money or property in respect of property considered under subsection (a) as destroyed or seized over the aggregate of the allowable deductions in prior taxable years on account of the destruction or seizure of property described in subsection (a), and increased by that portion of the amount of the recovery which under subsection (c) is treated as a recognized gain from the involuntary conversion of property. Upon application of the taxpayer, the aggregate of the bases (determined under the preceding sentence) of any properties recovered in respect of properties considered under subsection (a) as destroyed or seized may be allocated among the properties so recovered in such manner as the Secretary may determine under regulations prescribed by him, and the amounts so allocated to any such property so recovered shall be the unadjusted basis of such property in lieu of the unadjusted basis of such property determined under the preceding sentence.

(2) Property recovered in taxable year to which subsection (c) (3) is applicable. In the case of a taxpayer who has made an election under the provisions of subsection (c) (5), the basis of property recovered shall be an amount equal to the value at which such property is included in the amount of the recovery under subsection (c) (3) (A) (determined without regard to the last sentence thereof), reduced by such part of the gain under subsection (c) (3) (C) which is not recognized as provided in section 112 (f).

(d) Effective dates. The amendments made by this section shall be applicable to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1941.

PAR. 4. Section 29.127 (d)–1 is amended as follows:

(A) By inserting immediately preceding the first sentence thereof the following: "(a) General rule."

(B) By striking "section 127 (d)" in each place where such term appears therein and inserting in lieu thereof in each place the following: "section 127 (d) (1)".

(C) By striking "§ 29.127 (c)–1" in each place where such term appears therein and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "§ 29.127 (c)–1 (b)".

(D) By redesignating paragraphs (b), (c), (d), (e) and (f) as subparagraphs (3), (4), (5), (6) and (7) of paragraph (a) and by adding at the end thereof the following new paragraph (b):

(b) Property recovered in taxable year to which section 127 (c) (3) is applicable. If, pursuant to an election made by the taxpayer under section 127 (c) (5) and § 29.127 (c)–1 (d) of these regulations, the provisions of section 127 (c) (3) are applicable to any taxable year in which the taxpayer recovered property in respect of a war loss under section 127, the unadjusted basis of such property shall be the fair market value of such property determined as of the date of the recovery, reduced by the amount of nonrecognized gain attributable to such recovery under the provisions of § 29.127 (c)–1 (c). However, if the property recovered is the same property or interest considered under section 127 (a) as destroyed or seized, and if the taxpayer under section 127 (c) (3) (A) includes such property or interest in the amount of the recovery at its adjusted basis (for determining loss) in his hands on the date such property or interest was considered under section 127 (a) as destroyed or seized, the unadjusted basis of such property shall be such adjusted basis, reduced by the amount of nonrecognized gain attributable to such recovery under the provisions of § 29.127 (c)–1 (c). The fair market value of any property recovered, or the adjusted basis (for determining loss) of such property or interest if the same property or interest treated as a war loss under section 127 is recovered, shall not be reduced in determining the unadjusted basis of such property or interest by the amount of the obligations or liabilities with respect to the property treated as a war loss under section 127 in respect of which the recovery was received, if the taxpayer for any previous taxable year chose under section 127 (b) (2) to treat such obligations or liabilities as discharged or satisfied out of such property but such obligations or liabilities were not so discharged or satisfied prior to the date of the recovery.

PAR. 5. Section 29.127 (f)–1, as amended by Treasury Decision 5454, approved May 10, 1945, is further amended as follows:

(A) By inserting immediately after the term "chapter 1" in each place where such term appears therein the following: "or chapter 2".

(B) By inserting immediately after the words "or of any tax imposed in lieu of such taxes" in the first sentence of paragraph (a) thereof the following: "or of any tax imposed by chapter 2 of the Internal Revenue Code."

PAR. 6. There is inserted immediately preceding § 29.131–1 the following:

SEC. 341. WAR LOSSES (REVENUE ACT OF 1951, APPROVED OCTOBER 20, 1951).

(c) Credit for foreign taxes. Section 131 (a) (relating to allowance of credit for taxes of foreign countries and possessions of the United States) is hereby amended by inserting after "section 102" the following: "and except the additional tax imposed for the taxable year under the provisions of section 127 (c) (3).

(d) Effective dates. The amendments made by this section shall be applicable to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1941.

PAR. 7. Section 29.131–1, as amended by Treasury Decision 5893, approved April 4, 1952, is further amended by striking paragraph (e) thereof and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

(e) For taxable years beginning before January 1, 1943, no credit for taxes shall be allowed against the tax imposed under section 102, relating to surtax on corporations improperly accumulating surplus, and for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1942, no credit for taxes shall be allowed against the tax imposed under section 102, relating to surtax on corporations improperly accumulating surplus, against the additional tax imposed under the provisions of section 127 (c) (3), relating to war loss recoveries, or against the victory tax imposed under section 450. No credit for taxes shall be allowed against the tax on self-employment income imposed by section 480.

PAR. 8. Section 29.275–1, as amended by Treasury Decision 5924, approved August 4, 1952, is further amended by adding at the end thereof the following undesignated paragraph:

For the period of limitation for assessing amounts determined under section 127 (c) (3) (relating to war loss recoveries) or any deficiency attributable to the basis of recovered property being determined under section 127 (d) (2), see section 127 (c) (5) and the regulations thereunder.

PAR. 9. Section 29.322–7, as amended by Treasury Decision 5837, approved April 5, 1951, is further amended as follows:

(A) By adding at the end of paragraph (a) thereof the following undesignated subparagraph:

For special provisions in the case of an overpayment resulting from the application of section 127 (c) (3) (relating to war loss recoveries), see section 127 (c) (5) and the regulations thereunder.

(B) By adding at the end of paragraph (d) thereof the following undesignated subparagraph:

[Docket No. AO–72–A17]

MILK IN TOLEDO, OHIO, MARKETING AREA

NOTICE OF RECOMMENDED DECISION AND OPPORTUNITY TO FILE WRITTEN EXCEPTIONS WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO TENTATIVE MARKETING AGREEMENT AND TO ORDER, AS AMENDED, REGULATING HANDLING

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), notice is hereby given of the filing with the Hearing Clerk of the recommended decision of the Assistant Administrator, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, with respect to a proposed amendment to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Toledo, Ohio marketing area. Interested parties may file written exceptions to this decision with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., not later than the close of business the 15th day after publication of this decision in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Exceptions should be filed in quadruplicate.

Preliminary statement. The hearing, on the record of which the proposed amendment to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order, as amended, was formulated, was conducted at Toledo, Ohio, on August 11 and 12, 1952, pursuant to notice thereof which was issued on July 31, 1952 (17 F. R. 7019).

The material issues of record were concerned with the following:

(1) Modifying the present method of determining the Class I price differential by increasing the amount of the fixed or standard Class I price differential and revising the supply-demand adjustment, or substituting an entirely new method of determining the Class I price differential;

(2) Broadening the scope of regulation by changing the definition of a handler to cover certain supplies now considered as "other source" milk under the order;

(3) Removing the provision for prorating other source milk with producer milk in computing the class utilization of the producer milk; and

(4) Increasing the rate of assessment for marketing services performed by the market administrator.

Findings and conclusions. The following findings and conclusions on the material issues decided herein are hereby made upon the basis of the record of the hearing:

1. Pricing provisions. The general level of the Class I price differential should not be changed. However, the supply-demand adjustment should be modified to depend upon utilization in the first and second months preceding the pricing month instead of utilization during the second and third preceding months and the contraseasonal provisions in the adjustment should be deleted.

Producers proposed substantial increases in the standard or fixed Class I price differentials, exclusive of the supply-demand adjustment. They proposed that the May and June differential of 75 cents be increased by 15 cents to a total of 90 cents, that the March, April, and July differential of $1.00 be increased by 25 cents to a total of $1.25, and that during the period of September through February the differential of $1.20 be increased by 50 cents to a total of $1.70. They proposed altering the supply-demand adjustment by deleting the contraseasonal provision and by providing that the maximum amount of price increases be applied during the entire period September through February instead of only during October, November and December. They maintained that the increase in the standard Class I differential was necessitated by increased costs of production and that such need was further demonstrated by the fact that the supply-demand adjustment had resulted in approximately the proposed new level of differentials during the past year without alleviating the shortage of milk in the market. The continued shortage was cited as evidence of the need for further price increases.

Handlers advanced a substantially different pricing proposal as a means of increasing the supply of producer milk. They proposed a Class I price differential of $1.65 during the months of September through December, subject to a discount of one cent for each percent that receipts of milk from producers failed to equal the sales of Class I milk in the market. The Class I differential would be increased to $1.70 when receipts reached 105 percent of Class I sales, and to $1.75 at 110 percent, with no further increases for receipts in excess of 110 percent of Class I prices. During the months of January, February, March, April, July, and August the Class I price differential would be $1.20, with a discount of one cent for each percent that receipts were less than 110 percent of Class I sales or more than 125 percent of Class I sales. During May and June the Class I differential would be 75 cents, subject to a discount of one cent for each cent that receipts were above 135 percent of Class I sales. It was contended that this system of differentials would encourage producers to supply the needs of the market for Class I milk and discourage either an undersupply or oversupply of milk.

There was general agreement that the supply of producer milk has been substantially less than the quantity needed to cover market requirements for Class I and Class II utilization. The supply-demand adjustment measures changes in the adequacy of supply by comparing receipts from producers with the total pounds of milk and cream products sold as Class I and Class II. The period June 1949 through May 1950 was considered normal. During this period producer receipts exceeded Class I and II sales in every month; 77.0 percent of receipts being equal to sales in Class I and II during June and 95.2 percent in October. For the year as a whole, receipts totaled 171 million as compared with Class I and II sales of 145 million pounds. However, in the following year (June 1950 through May 1951) receipts dropped to 167 million pounds while sales advanced to 155 million, and in the year 1951–52 receipts remained virtually constant at 167 million pounds while sales again increased substantially for a total of slightly under 167 million pounds. Monthly receipts of milk from producers failed to cover sales from September 1951 through February 1952 and in fact did not even cover Class I sales during the months of September through January. It is obvious that measures should be taken to assure the Toledo market of a considerably increased supply of fully inspected milk from a group of regular producers.

It appears, however, that favorable prices are not the only measure needed to attract increased supplies of producer milk. In fact there is considerable evidence that other measures may be more critical in the immediate circumstances. The operation of a supply-demand adjustment in Toledo since October 1, 1951, has provided considerably higher prices than order prices in any of the competing Federal order markets without attracting increased supplies. The supply-demand adjustment provided a 14-cent increase in October 1951, 50-cent increases during November, December, January and February, a 38-cent increase in March 1952, 25-cent increases during April through June, and increases of 19 cents in July, 20 cents in August, 25 cents in September, and 50 cents in October. During the 12-month period November 1951 through October 1952 the Class I price differential, inclusive of these supply-demand adjustments, has averaged $1.41. During the same period the differential under the Cleveland order has averaged $1.26, that in Dayton-Springfield $1.37 (inclusive of a drought adjustment of 35 cents per hundredweight during November through February) and $1.46 in Detroit, inclusive of supply-demand adjustments which averaged 11 cents per hundredweight. The Detroit price was subject to a deduction of 14 cents per hundredweight as a location adjustment in the territory where the two milksheds are most competitive. Cleveland handlers paid substantial premiums over the comparatively low order prices, but it is apparent that in the Toledo area it was the Toledo order price which determined the amount of such premiums. The comparatively favorable prices in Toledo are further demonstrated by the fact that the blend prices for milk containing 3.5 percent butterfat delivered to the marketing area during the period October, 1951 through August, 1952 averaged $5.05 in Toledo, $4.97 in Detroit, $4.73 in Cleveland, and $5.03 in Dayton-Springfield.

One of the factors other than price which has contributed to the shortage of producer milk in this market is that the seasonality of production has become substantially more uneven since the 1949–50 base period. Receipts of producer milk in May, the flush production month, rose from 16.5 million pounds in 1950 to 17.3 million in 1951 and 17.5 million in 1952. On the other hand receipts during November, the shortest month, fell from 12.5 million pounds in 1949 to 11.7 million in 1950 and 11.2 million pounds in 1951. In percentage terms, May receipts were 132 percent of those during the preceding November in 1949–50, then rose to 147 percent in 1950–51 and to 157 percent in 1951–52. This problem was not given any significant attention at the hearing but it is evident from the data that future consideration should be given to measures which will encourage a more uniform rather than less uniform production throughout the season.

A second contributing factor is that a Grade-A ordinance became effective in October, 1950. There was a substantial decrease in the number of producers during that year, and the net loss in producers has never been made good although production per producer has increased somewhat.

A third factor is that the order permits any handler to prorate "other source" milk during any month when producer receipts are less than 120 percent of the handler's Class I utilization. This point was thoroughly explored at the hearing and is discussed in detail below.

It is concluded that no change in the general level of Class I prices should be made at this time. Prospects are that the Class I price in Toledo, inclusive of the supply-demand adjustment, will continue to provide prices which are favorable in comparison with those which will prevail in the competing Federal order markets. These continued favorable prices, together with modifications designed to encourage an increase in the supply of producer milk, should be allowed to operate until a proper relationship between supply and price is established for this market. At such time, it may be desirable to consider modification of the standard Class I price differentials and the supply-demand adjustment.

Three types of changes in the supply-demand adjustment were discussed at the hearing. One related to the schedule of months during which given amounts of supply and demand adjustment are effective. It is concluded that this schedule should not be altered. October, November and December remain the months of shortest supply in this market and the maximum amount of price adjustment should not be extended beyond these months.

A second proposed change involved computing the "utilization percentage" on the basis of receipts and sales during the first and second months preceding the pricing month. This will make the adjustment more nearly current though somewhat less effective as an advance guide to producers and the trade. It will not unduly complicate handlers' pricing problems. They now know the supply-demand adjustment and the fixed portion of the Class I differential before the beginning of the month, but do not know the basic formula portion of the Class I price until early in the following month. Under the revised system they would not know the supply-demand adjustment until the twelfth of the month. All aspects considered, however, it appears that the advantages of more current utilization data would more than offset the delayed announcement of the amount of the adjustment. The shift to the first and second preceding months requires a corresponding shift of the standard utilization percentages.

A third feature of the supply-demand adjustment to be considered at the hearing related to the contraseasonal provision. This prevents the Class I price differential for December, January, and February from being lower than in November and, on the other hand, prevents that for July, August, and September from being higher than in June. This prevents any price response to indications of oversupply during the winter months or to indications of undersupply during the summer months. Also, the contraseasonal provision may continue for four months a supply-demand indication which may have been fortuitously affected by a market phenomenon of only limited duration. It is concluded that the contraseasonal provision of the supply-demand adjustment should be eliminated and the adjustment left free to rise or fall in accordance with the most recent available indications of supply and demand.

The pricing proposal advanced by handlers provides for lowering prices whenever supplies are below normal for any reason. Handlers also maintained that the supply-demand principle of increasing prices to counteract shortages, as incorporated in the present order, was in error since it provided an incentive to restrain production. This position disregards the fact that the normal functioning of a competitive price system provides higher prices for reduced supplies and lower prices for increased supplies. To the individual producers involved, a price increase (whether it results from a supply-demand adjustment, a change in basic formula prices, or an amendment to the order) stimulates increased production while a price decrease discourages production.

2. Scope of regulation. The definition of a handler under the order should not be changed.

Producers proposed that the definition of a handler be modified by limiting handler status to the operator of a fluid milk plant who receives more than half of his total receipts, excluding interhandler transfers, from producers. Testimony revealed that the proposed change was directed at possible circumvention of the pricing and other provisions of the order by operators of milk distribution stations, referred to as "stands", located outside the city limits of Toledo. It was disclosed, however, that no such problem exists at present. Moreover, the proposed change would not make the order fully effective under the stated conditions. Achievement of the proponents' objective would require major changes in the scope of the order through a redefinition of fluid milk plant. The proponents were not prepared to support such far-reaching changes.

3. Allocation of milk. The provision for prorating other source milk with producer milk in the allocation of producer milk to the several classes of utilization should be deleted, effective April 1, 1953.

The order now provides that other source milk may be allocated on a pro rata basis to the extent that producer receipts are less than 120 percent of Class I sales. On the other hand whenever producer receipts are in excess of 120 percent of the handler's Class I utilization, any purchases of other source milk by the handler must be allocated to the lowest class of utilization, thereby assigning producer milk to the higher classes of utilization.

The effect of the pro rata provision is to reduce substantially the handler's need to maintain a full supply of producer milk. As previously mentioned, this may well be one of the major factors accounting for the continued shortage of milk in this market. This particular form of prorating provision is not confined to those occasions when the market as a whole may have insufficient supplies of producer milk to cover requirements for fluid use. Instead, it applies whenever any individual handler's supply of producer milk is less than 120 percent of his Class I utilization. The pro rata provision enables individual handlers to pay the same blend price for the other source milk which is so allocated as for producer milk. This allows them to reduce their purchases of producer milk to the point where there is little or no summer surplus to handle, thus keeping the blend prices payable to their producers at virtually the Class I level.

One deficiency in this procedure is that other source milk does not meet the same rigorous health standards as apply to producer milk, particularly those applying to production conditions on farms. To the extent, therefore, that handlers rely upon other source milk rather than upon supplies from producers the order fails to achieve the objective of providing the market with an adequate supply of fully approved milk.

A second defect in the pro rata provision is that producer milk is allocated to the lower classes of utilization at the same time that other receipts are assigned to Class I. This deprives producers of financial returns which would otherwise encourage the additional production of producer milk for the market.

Finally, any handler who is able to obtain other source milk at less than his blend price payable to producers under the order has a competitive advantage over those whose entire supply is priced under the order. The data show that other source milk has increasingly been relied upon by handlers in the Toledo market. During the most recent 12-month period for which data are available, September 1951 through August 1952, the quantities of other source milk ranged from a high of 3.3 million pounds in October 1951 to a low of just over 0.5 million pounds in May 1952. During each of the months of March through July the quantity of producer milk allocated to Class III, and therefore available for Class I purposes, exceeded the quantities of other source milk utilized in Class I. The Class I utilization of other source milk during May and June 1952 was 9 times as large as in the same months as 1951 and in these months in turn was higher than in the corresponding months of any year since World War II. This sharply increased reliance on other source supplies is so extensive that it constitutes a serious breach of the principle of pricing milk uniformly to all handlers in accordance with utilization.

Removal of the pro rata allocation provisions will require that any other source milk utilized by a handler be assigned first to the lowest available utilization of milk by such handler.

Termination of the provision for prorating other source milk should be delayed until April 1, 1953, instead of being made effective immediately. Increased supplies of producer milk can not be made quickly available and handlers' plans for this season were made under the present terms of the order. All parties concerned will have a 5-month period to plan whatever changes in procurement policies they deem necessary, and the change will come at a time when producer supplies are generally ample.

4. Marketing services. To defray the cost of performing marketing services for producers who are not members of a cooperative association determined to be performing such services, the rate of deduction from payments to producers should be increased to 6 cents per hundredweight.

The deduction for marketing services has remained at 4 cents per hundredweight since May 1, 1940. This amount has proved insufficient to cover the costs of the necessary services and should be increased. Testimony based on experience under other Federal orders showed that comparatively low rates were charged for those of the marketing services which have been performed on a contract basis in Toledo.

General findings. (a) The proposed marketing agreement and the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(b) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the marketing area and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreement and the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(c) The proposed order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, will regulate the handling of milk in the same manner as, and will be applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Rulings on proposed findings and conclusions. Briefs were filed on behalf of producers and handlers. The briefs contained statements of fact, proposed findings and conclusions, and arguments with respect to the provisions of the proposed amendment. Every point covered in the briefs was carefully considered along with the evidence in the record in making the findings and reaching the conclusions hereinbefore set forth. To the extent that the findings and conclusions proposed in the briefs are inconsistent with the findings and conclusions contained herein, the request to make such findings or to reach such conclusions is denied on the basis of the facts found and stated in connection with the conclusions in this recommended decision.

Recommended marketing agreement and amendments to the order. The following amendments to the order, as amended, are recommended as the detailed and appropriate means by which the foregoing conclusions may be carried out. The recommended marketing agreement is not included in this decision because the regulatory provisions thereof would be identical with those contained in the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended.

Effective April 1, 1953, make the following changes:

1. a. Delete § 930.45 (a) and substitute therefor the following:

(a) Subtract from the total pounds of butterfat in Class III milk the total pounds of butterfat shrinkage allowed pursuant to § 930.41 (c) (2).

b. Delete paragraphs (c), (d) and (e) of § 930.45 and substitute therefor the following:

(c) Subtract from the pounds of butterfat remaining in each class, in series beginning with the lowest-priced utilization, the pounds of butterfat in other source milk.

c. Redesignate paragraph "(f)" of § 930.45 as paragraph "(d)".

2. In subdivision (i) of § 930.50 (a) (2) delete the phrase "in the second and third months preceding" and substitute therefor the phrase "in the first and second months preceding".

3. In subdivision (ii) of § 930.50 (a) (2) change the tabulation to read as follows:

January	92
February	86
April	83
May	81
June	78
July	76
August	80
September	86
October	90

4. In subdivision (iii) of § 930.50 (a) (2) replace the colon preceding the word "Provided" with a period and delete all language appearing thereafter.

5. In § 930.74 delete the phrase "4 cents per hundredweight" and substitute therefor the phrase "6 cents per hundredweight".

[7 CFR Part 949]

HANDLING OF MILK IN SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, MARKETING AREA

DECISION WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED MARKETING AGREEMENT AND PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO ORDER

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was conducted at San Antonio, Texas, on August 26, 1952, pursuant to notice thereof which was issued on August 19, 1952 (17 F. R. 7701).

The hearing was reopened at San Antonio, Texas, November 5, 1952, pursuant to notice thereof which was issued on November 1, 1952 (17 F. R. 9898), for the receipt of further evidence concerning proposals considered at the first hearing and also concerning several additional proposals.

The material issues of record related to:

(1) Prices for Class I milk during the remainder of 1952 and for the months of January, February, and March, 1953.

(2) The butterfat differential to be applied in calculating minimum prices to producers whose milk tested more or less than the basic test.

(3) The basic level of butterfat test to be used in connection with prices provided under the order.

(4) The removal of the limitation on the amount of price change which may be brought about under the "supply-demand" adjustment.

(5) Miscellaneous order provisions.

(6) The emergency character of marketing conditions and the need for immediate change in the order provisions.

Findings and conclusions. The findings and conclusions with respect to the aforementioned material issues to be considered in this decision, all of which are based on the evidence introduced at the hearing and the record thereof, are as follows:

1. Forty-six cents should be added to the price for Class I milk from the effective date hereof through February 1953, and 23 cents should be added to such price for March 1953.

An immediate increase in the order price for Class I milk is necessary because of adverse production conditions in the San Antonio milkshed. These conditions have increased the cost of producing milk. The local milk supply is now well below market requirements. In September, the latest month for which data are available, producer deliveries of milk amounted to less than three-fourths of the Class I sales by handlers. Further declines in production may result unless the Class I price is increased under the order.

The San Antonio milkshed is now in its second year of unfavorable production conditions. As a result of continued shortages of precipitation since June 1951, soil moisture conditions on the farms of producers have become progressively worse throughout most of the milkshed. Scattered months of above average rainfall have not overcome the moisture deficit present in the soil and subsoil. Higher than average temperatures increased the transpiration rate during the summer months of 1951 and 1952, and thereby intensified the effects of the abnormally low rainfall.

Crop conditions in fields and pastures are generally far below average. Testimony at the hearings indicates that yields of hay in the milkshed generally were less than half of normal during the past growing season. Some producers with large farms harvested no hay whatsoever in 1952. Grain and silage crops also were considerably below normal. Pastures have been poor on most farms for many months. Consequently, more than normal hay and silage feeding has been required.

Most producers normally purchase part of the hay they feed their dairy herds. However, the amount of hay to be purchased this year is unusually large. Some imported hay has been acquired at prices substantially higher than last year. Areas of Oklahoma and Colorado where supplemental hay is normally purchased are themselves short of hay this year. Widespread drought conditions have forced farmers in many South Central states to purchase outside hay. As a result, competition for hay is much greater than normal and it must now be obtained from more distant areas, and at considerably increased costs. Testimony on the hearing record indicates that little hay of suitable quality has been made available to San Antonio producers under special hay purchase programs.

Winter grazing of small grains on which San Antonio producers depend for much of their winter roughage is virtually non-existent this year. Even under ideal weather conditions it would now be late winter before such grazing could be obtained, and even then it would not be an important item this year because most producers have not taken steps to plant small grain crops. Permanent pastures will not provide pasture feed until late March or early April.

Unless an increase in the Class I price is provided many San Antonio milk producers may be forced to curtail production, or to sell their milk to other markets. This could have both immediate and lasting adverse effects on the San Antonio milk market. In an area unfavorable to dairying, as the San Antonio milkshed is, new producers and increased production are more difficult to acquire than in areas better adapted to dairying where ungraded milk is produced in considerable volumes.

Supplemental milk from areas outside the San Antonio milkshed has been scarce and expensive this fall. This situation may be expected to prevail until milk production shows substantial improvement. Widespread drought conditions in the South and Southwest have caused demand for supplemental milk to be at an unusually high level in many markets. Producers in some of the markets from which San Antonio handlers obtain supplemental milk have received emergency price increases under Federal orders. Such increases will continue through February or March in most cases, although at lower rates toward the end of the period.

In view of the foregoing conditions a temporary increase in the Class I prices above those now provided under the San Antonio order is necessary. Handlers have recognized this condition both by testimony contained in the hearing record, and by paying substantial premiums over present order prices. Such premiums are uncertain however, and the temporary increases herein found necessary should increase returns to producers until such time as producer milk supplies improve relative to Class I sales.

2. The producer butterfat differential should be reduced. The record discloses that the butterfat differential paid producers prior to the inception of the order was calculated on the basis of a 5 cent reduction for each one-tenth percent that the milk tested less than 4.0 percent or a 7 cent addition for each one-tenth percent above 4.0 percent. This low differential had the effect of encouraging the importation of Holstein cows into the milkshed, and as a result the average butterfat test of the milk received from producers declined. In spite of this reduction the average test of producer milk in September was still more than four-tenths of one percent above the average test of the fluid milk sales and two-tenths of one percent above the average test of all Class I sales.

The producer butterfat differential under the order has been calculated by multiplying the Chicago 92 score butter price by 1.2 and dividing by 10. This results in a differential considerably higher than that used prior to the inception of Federal regulation. For October milk the producer differential was 8.5 cents. Producer representatives contended that this higher differential places the producers of low butterfat milk in an unfavorable position in relation to producers of high butterfat milk. This situation could be expected in the long run to result in a shift toward the production of higher butterfat milk. More immediately, it could result in a loss of low butterfat milk to other markets since many producers of such milk now supplying San Antonio handlers are in a position to transfer their milk to another market where higher prices and lower butterfat differentials prevail.

It would not be in the best interest of the San Antonio market if low butterfat milk were to be lost to other markets or if the average butterfat test of producer milk were to increase. Shortages of skim milk are more expensive to the San Antonio market than shortages of butterfat, since the latter may be transported from northern surplus areas in the form of cream at comparatively low freight rates. Skim milk, on the other hand, is bulky and expensive to handle and is also more perishable. Local production of this product should be encouraged.

It is concluded therefore that the factor 1.2 which is now multiplied by the Chicago 92-score butter price in calculating the producer butterfat differential should be reduced to 1.1.

3. The basic butterfat test of 4.0 percent now used in the order should not be changed at this time. The proponents of this change contended that it would be desirable to lower the basic butterfat test from 4.0 percent to 3.5 percent since the latter figure represents more nearly the percentage of butterfat required by the market for fluid milk. It was contended also that the subtraction of butterfat differentials is confusing to producers and that it would be preferable to use a lower basic test, which would result more frequently in the addition of butterfat differentials, rather than the subtraction.

So far as these considerations are concerned there is no objection to the change proposed by producers. However, there arises the question of what base period prices should be used in rewriting the order to bring about such change in basic butterfat test. The base period price for 4.0 percent milk (1948–1950) now contained in the order is $5.99. According to testimony in the hearing record the butterfat differential used in paying producers during this period was 5 cents for milk testing less the 4.0 percent butterfat, and 7 cents for milk above that test. If the base period price is converted from the 4.0 percent level to 3.5 percent by using the 5 cent differential, it would result in an increased cost to handlers for Class I milk. This arises because the Class I butterfat differential to handlers now provided in the order is considerably higher than 5 cents. It was not shown conclusively in the hearing record that this increase in Class I price is necessary on a permanent basis. The record contains little evidence concerning what modification if any in the permanent Class I pricing provisions are necessary.

The point was made that the use of a 4.0 percent basis in the order for pricing Class I milk together with a higher butterfat differential than was in effect prior to the order results in an understatement of the average price received by producers during the base period because the average test of producer milk was somewhat less than 4.0 percent. It is impossible to appraise accurately what effect this may have however, because information is not contained in the record as to what the average test of milk actually was during the 1948–1950 period.

A change in basic test should not be made therefore until more complete evidence is available concerning what effect if any such change should have on handlers cost for Class I milk.

4. The limitation on the amount of price change which may be brought about under the supply-demand adjustment should not be removed.

The 60 cent limit on the operation of the supply-demand provision was adopted because it was determined that conditions which would call for adjustments greater than this would be rather abnormal. Since it is impossible to foresee what these conditions might be, nor to know what price adjustments they would require it was considered desirable that adjustments greater than this not be made without a public hearing at which such conditions could be explained and appraised. The record does not contain evidence which would lead to a different conclusion so far as the permanent provisions of the order are concerned. A finding has hereinbefore been made that the Class I price now provided under the order is insufficient in view of present market conditions. It is concluded however that the way to remedy this situation is to provide temporarily a stated increase in price (see foregoing issue number 1) rather than remove temporarily the limitation on the operation of the supply-demand provision. Whether the latter step would actually mean any increase in price is conjectural. A stated increase in price will be dependable so far as producers are concerned. Any further increase beyond the stated increase herein provided however is not considered necessary.

5. Miscellaneous order provisions. Five proposals were made and supported at the hearing by the Dairy Branch, Production and Marketing Administration. These were minor items, mostly administrative in nature. No evidence was adduced at the hearing to indicate that these matters deserved emergency treatment. Decision on these items is reserved therefore until a later date.

Thirteen additional proposals (proposals number 6 through 18 as contained in the notice of hearing) were abandoned by proponents, and the hearing record contains no evidence thereon. These are not deemed to be material issues at the hearing, and no decision is called for concerning said proposals.

6. The due and timely execution of the function of the Secretary under the Act imperatively and unavoidably requires the omission of a recommended decision by the Assistant Administrator of Production and Marketing Administration and the opportunity for exceptions thereto on the actions contained in the amendments herein provided.

Conditions complained of are such that it is urgent that remedial action be taken as soon as possible. Delay beyond the minimum time required to make the attached order effective will defeat the purpose of such amendment. Producers need some assurance now that the additional costs resulting from abnormal purchases of forages and concentrates will be reflected in somewhat higher prices than would otherwise prevail. Without that assurance, producers might be forced to adopt measures which would seriously impair the rate of production and result in added expense and difficulty in rebuilding herds and production in the future. Failure to change the producer butterfat differential at the earliest possible date might result in producer withdrawals to the detriment of the market. Accordingly, the time necessarily involved in the preparation, filing and publication of the recommended decision and the consideration of exceptions thereto would make such relief ineffective.

The propriety of omitting a recommended decision and opportunity of filing exceptions thereto with respect to the issues here decided was indicated in the hearing record.

Rulings on proposed findings and conclusions. Briefs were filed on behalf of certain persons interested in this proceding. The briefs contained suggested findings of fact, conclusions, and arguments with respect to the proposals discussed at the hearing. Every point covered in the briefs was carefully considered along with evidence in the record in making the findings and reaching the conclusions hereinbefore set forth. To the extent that the suggested findings and conclusions contained in the briefs are inconsistent with the findings and conclusions contained herein, the requests to make such findings or to reach such conclusions are denied on the basis of the facts found and stated in connection with the findings and conclusions in this decision.

General findings. (a) The proposed marketing agreement and the order, as hereby proposed to be amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(b) The parity prices of milk produced for sale in the said marketing area as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply of and demand for such milk, and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreement and in the order, as hereby proposed to be amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest; and

(c) The proposed marketing agreement and the order, as hereby proposed to be amended, will regulate the handling of milk in the same manner as, and are applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in the said marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Order of the Secretary directing the conduct of a referendum; determination of a representative period; and designation of referendum agent. Pursuant to section 8c (19) of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 608c (19)), it is hereby directed that a referendum be conducted among the producers (as defined in the order regulating the handling of milk in the San Antonio, Texas, marketing area) who, during the month of September 1952, which month is hereby determined to be the representative period for such referendum, were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing area specified in the aforesaid order to determine whether such producers favor the issuance of the order amending the order, which is filed herewith.

Orville A. Jamison is hereby designated agent of the Secretary to conduct such referendum in accordance with the procedure for the conduct of referenda to determine producer approval of milk marketing orders as published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on August 10, 1950 (15 F. R. 5177), such referendum to be completed on or before the 7th day from the date this decision is filed with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture.

Marketing agreement and order. Annexed hereto and made a part hereof are two documents entitled respectively "Marketing Agreement Regulating the Handling of Milk in the San Antonio, Texas, Marketing Area." and "Order Amending the Order, Regulating the Handling of Milk in the San Antonio, Texas, Marketing Area," which have been decided upon as the detailed and appropriate means of effectuating the foregoing conclusions. These documents shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and orders have been met.

It is hereby ordered that all of this decision except the attached marketing agreement, be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The regulatory provisions of said marketing agreement are identical with those contained in the order, as hereby proposed to be amended by the attached order which will be published with this decision.

This decision filed at Washington, D. C. this 19th day of November 1952.

[SEAL] K. T. HUTCHINSON,
Acting Secretary of Agriculture.

Order[1] Amending the Order, Regulating the Handling of Milk in the San Antonio, Texas, Marketing Area

§ 949.0 Findings and determinations. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order, and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held upon certain proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order, regulating the handling of milk in the San Antonio, Texas, marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order, as hereby amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The parity prices of milk produced for sale in the said marketing area as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds and other economic conditions which affect market supplies of and demand for such milk, and the minimum prices specified in the order as hereby amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest; and

(3) The said order, as hereby amended, regulates the handling of milk in the the same manner as and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered that on and after the effective date hereof the handling of milk in the San Antonio, Texas, marketing area shall be in comformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as hereby amended, as follows:

1. Change the period at the end of § 949.51 (c) to a colon and add the following: "Provided, That there shall be added to such price 46 cents from the effective date hereof through February 1953, and 23 cents during March 1953."

2. Delete the factor "1.2" in § 949.81 and substitute therefor "1.1".

TERMINATIONS OF APPROVALS OF EQUIPMENT

By virtue of the authority vested in me as Commandant, United States Coast Guard, by Treasury Department Order No. 120, dated July 31, 1950 (15 F. R. 6521), and in compliance with the authorities cited below, the following approvals of equipment are terminated because (1) the manufacturer is no longer in business, or (2) the manufacturer does not desire to retain the approval, or (3) the item of equipment no longer complies with the present Coast Guard requirements. In the case of power boilers it has been decided that since detailed plans of power boilers must be submitted for each vessel or a group of vessels of a particular design, there is no advantage in type approving such boilers and, therefore, the approvals for power boilers are being terminated and new designs will no longer be listed under the heading of approved equipment. All the termination of approvals except for power boilers and heating boilers shall be effective on the dates indicated at the end of each item in accordance with the original approvals published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The termination of approvals of power boilers and heating boilers made by this document shall be made effective upon the thirty-first day after the date of publication of this document in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Notwithstanding this termination of approval on any item of equipment as listed in this document, such equipment in service may be continued in use so long as such equipment is in good and serviceable condition.

II. Description of certificates. The certificates now offered will be an addition to and will form a part of the series of 2 percent Treasury Certificates of Indebtedness of Series C-1953 issued pursuant to Department Circular No. 912, dated August 4, 1952, will be freely interchangeable therewith, are identical in all respects therewith, and are described in the following quotation from Department Circular No. 912:

Subject to these reservations, all subscriptions will be allotted in full. Allotment notices will be sent out promptly upon allotment.

IV. Payment. Payment at par and accrued interest from August 15, 1952, to December 1, 1952, for certificates allotted hereunder must be made on or before December 1, 1952, or on later allotment. The full amount of interest due on the maturing certificates will be credited, accrued interest from August 15, 1952, to December 1, 1952, on the certificates to be issued ($5.91781 per $1,000) will be charged, and the difference will be paid to the subscribers following acceptance of the maturing certificates.

V. General provisions. A. As fiscal agents of the United States, Federal Reserve Banks are authorized and requested to receive subscriptions, to make allotments on the basis and up to the amounts indicated by the Secretary of the Treasury to the Federal Reserve Banks of the respective Districts, to issue allotment notices, to receive payment for certificates allotted, to make delivery of certificates on full-paid subscriptions allotted, and they may issue interim receipts pending delivery of the definitive certificates.

Other persons claiming credit for service of veterans must furnish like proof in support of their claims. Persons asserting preference rights, through settlement or otherwise, and those having equitable claims, shall accompany their applications by duly corroborated statements in support thereof, setting forth in detail all facts relevant to their claims.

National Production Authority

[Suspension Order 44; Docket No. 46]

COWIN AND COMPANY, INC.

SUSPENSION ORDER

A hearing was held in the above-entitled matter on October 16, 1952, at Minneapolis, Minn., before Stanley H. Johnson of Denver, Colo., a hearing commissioner of the National Production Authority, designated to hear the case by Walter H. Foster, Chief Hearing Commissioner, by a letter dated August 12, 1952.

The cause was heard upon four charges in a statement of charges made by Robert H. Winn, Assistant General Counsel of the National Production Authority. Charge 1 alleged that during the calendar quarter commencing October 1, 1951, respondent placed orders for carbon steel, 744,380 pounds in excess of its allotments in violation of section 19 (f) of CMP Regulation No. 1, dated May 3, 1951 (16 F. R. 4127), as amended November 23, 1951 (16 F. R. 11860). Charge 2 alleged that during the calendar quarter commencing January 1, 1952, respondent placed orders for 146,320 pounds of carbon steel, and 19,238 pounds of aluminum, in excess of its allotments. This charge was amended at the hearing to reduce the alleged excess of aluminum to 11,763 pounds. These excess orders were also alleged to be in violation of section 19 (f). Charge 3 alleged that respondent failed to return within the prescribed time, or thereafter, unused allotments for the third quarter of 1951 of 199,565 pounds of carbon steel, in violation of section 18 (b) of CMP Regulation No. 1, dated May 3, 1951 (16 F. R. 4127). Charge 4 alleged that respondent failed to return its unused allotment for the fourth quarter of 1951 of 68,860 pounds of carbon steel and 6,243 pounds of aluminum, in violation of same section.

Respondent's answer denied the allegation of Charge 1 and alleged that the charge included an alleged excess of 224,380 pounds of carbon steel in the K–7 (Buildings) division through improperly including 328,000 pounds of orders which should not be charged against the fourth quarter of 1951, and an alleged excess of 520,000 pounds of steel in the K–7 (Reinforcing) division, through improperly including 288,000 pounds of steel charged by respondent against its third quarter 1951 allotment. By amendment, paragraph (3a) made by respondent at the hearing, it alleged that the excess of 520,000 pounds of steel charged also improperly included 70,000 pounds which was "free steel" and by paragraph (3b) that the excess of 224,380 pounds of excess charged improperly included 20,380 pounds purchased from warehouses which did not require extension of allotment, and respondent believed such purposes were not required to be charged against its allotment. In answer to Charge 2 respondent alleged that the excess of 146,320 pounds of steel charged included 40,320 pounds purchased from warehouses which did not require extension of allotments; in regard to the excess of 11,763 pounds of aluminum, that the excess arose because of orders placed in September 1951, and a reduction of allotment in November 1951, and because respondent did not cancel the earlier orders, but reduced its orders for the first quarter of 1952; and that included in the alleged excess of aluminum were 7,645 pounds which respondent ordered to make use of 34,000 pounds of prefabricated aluminum purchased early in 1951, which respondent otherwise could not have used, and which were not delivered until the second and third quarters of 1952, and were charged by respondent against its second quarter allotment. Charges 3 and 4 were denied by respondent, which alleged that it had never been allotted substantially more than it needed.

Respondent denied that it had wilfully violated any regulations, and that, if it had, its violations were due to misunderstanding of the regulations.

The National Production Authority was represented by Berthold J. Harris, enforcement attorney of Chicago, and respondent by Faegre and Benson and Rex H. Kitts, attorneys in Minneapolis.

Findings of fact. From the evidence presented at the hearing the commissioner finds:

Charge 1. During the fourth quarter of 1951 respondent had K–7 allotments, not reinforcing bars, of 634,000 pounds of carbon steel. It placed orders for 530,380 pounds for fourth quarter delivery, and 328,000 pounds which it had charged to the third quarter were properly charged, under the regulations, to the fourth quarter, making an excess of 224,380 pounds. However, Calumet orders totaling 400,000 pounds of K–7 Building allotment steel were ordered by respondent prior to July 1951, when the regulations controlling materials took effect; for deliveries prior to that date 73,330 pounds were delivered in the third quarter, 265,610 pounds in the second and fourth quarters of 1952, and 61,060 pounds have never been delivered. During the same quarter respondent had K–7 Reinforcing allotments of 1,290,000 pounds of steel and placed orders for delivery in the fourth quarter for 1,242,000 pounds, but were charged under the regulations with 568,000 pounds of third quarter orders undelivered in that quarter against its fourth quarter allotment, making an excess of 520,000 pounds. However, the deliveries of 288,000 pounds which respondent had ordered for third quarter delivery, arrived only a few days after October 7, 1951. Under Direction 7 as it stood on October 1, 1951, respondent should have charged deliveries on third quarter orders for third quarter delivery but delivered after October 7 to its fourth quarter allotment. On October 22 this direction was amended and under the amendment respondent was required within 9 days, by October 31, to cancel outstanding orders for fourth quarter delivery to the extent that its orders for third quarter delivery not filled by October 8, plus its outstanding orders for fourth quarter delivery, exceeded its fourth quarter allotment. Respondent was unaware of this direction and continued to charge its orders for third quarter delivery to the third quarter. On January 5, 1952, an amendment to section 20 (f) permitted just such a charge-back of deliveries ordered for the fourth quarter and delivered late in 1952 against the fourth quarter allotment, but did not authorize a similar charge-back of late third quarter deliveries against the third quarter allotment. The officer of respondent whose duty it was to comply with NPA regulations was unaware that these late deliveries should have been charged against the fourth quarter. Furthermore, he understood from information received from certain warehouses where respondent was purchasing steel, which warehouses did not require extension of respondent's allotment, that this was "free steel," not requiring use of respondent's allotments. These orders included in K–7, 40,435 pounds of third quarter orders, 20,380 pounds in the fourth quarter, and 34,320 pounds in the first quarter 1952, and 6,000 pounds of K–1 steel in the latter quarter. A further extenuating circumstance was that orders for Class A products were placed by respondent with the expectation of receiving customer's allotments which were subsequently cancelled. There was no evidence of any intention upon respondent's part to violate any of the regulations, but the fact was, by reason of its failure to cancel orders made in the third quarter and not delivered by October 7, and by its failure to charge delayed deliveries against its fourth quarter allotment, it had orders placed chargeable to its fourth quarter allotment, 744,380 pounds in excess of that allotment.

Charge 2. Under K–1 for the first quarter of 1952 respondent had allotments for 568,000 pounds of carbon steel. It placed orders for 626,000 pounds, 58,000 pounds in excess of its allotments. Under K–7 it had allotments for 420,000 pounds of steel against which it placed orders for 508,320 pounds, an excess of 88,320 pounds. This made a total excess of orders of 146,320 pounds of steel for the first quarter.

Its K–7 allotment of aluminum for the first quarter was reduced to 5,600 pounds. It placed orders for 24,838 pounds of which 7,475 were transferred to the second quarter, leaving an excess of 11,763 pounds of aluminum.

As previously stated, some of this excess in steel was due to respondent's belief that it was receiving 40,320 pounds of "free steel" from warehouses. Taking receipts of deliveries of steel as a whole over the year's period beginning with the third quarter of 1951, respondent was over 900,000 pounds under its allotments in all divisions, although it was in excess of 248,000 pounds in K–7 Reinforcing. The aluminum it actually received during the year was also some 7,000 pounds under its allotments. It was in the charging of orders and not use of steel and aluminum that respondent was in violation, but of course these violations prevented reallocation by the Authority of allotment of the excess of orders in those quarters in which the excesses occurred. There was no evidence of willful violation as to the first quarter 1952.

Charge 3. By reason of the transfer by the compliance officer and his auditor of 328,000 pounds of steel ordered in the third quarter, and charged by respondent to the third quarter, to the fourth quarter, there resulted a technical total of unused allotments of steel for the third quarter 1951, of 109,565 pounds under K–7 and 90,000 pounds under K–1, or a total of 199,565 pounds which respondent by reason of its inadvertent error of course did not report. Section 18 (b), as of May 3, 1951, in effect during the third quarter, required a consumer, if he found in any month his requirements for the quarter less than his allotments, to report the excess of allotments by the "tenth of the month." If respondent had known that it had improperly charged steel orders to the third quarter, instead of the fourth quarter, and that it, therefore, had an excess of third quarter allotments of steel, it was its duty to report the excess. But there is no evidence that it knew it was in error. Furthermore, it could not tell from month to month when its orders might be filled and therefore knew of no excess allotments.

Charge 4. In the fourth quarter, respondent failed to report unused steel allotments of 68,860 pounds and aluminum allotments of 6,243 pounds, as required by section 18 (b) as amended November 23, 1951, by January 10, 1952. But it did not learn of this amendment until later in the first quarter, 1952. Thereupon, it reported unused allotments for the second and third quarters, 1952.

Had the January 5, 1952, amendment of section 20 (f) been retroactive, respondent would have been in excess 18,000 pounds of steel for the third quarter, 1951, over its allotment, and for the fourth quarter 232,000 pounds, instead of an underuse of allotments for the third quarter, and excess orders of 744,380 pounds for the fourth quarter. This factor alone would have reduced its excess of steel orders by 494,380 pounds.

Conclusions. 1. During the fourth quarter, 1951, respondent as alleged in Charge 1, in violation of section 19 (f), CMP Regulation No. 1, dated May 3, 1951, as amended November 23, 1951, placed orders for 744,380 pounds of carbon steel in excess of its allotments. The orders were not in fact, but under the regulations must be held to have been, placed in that quarter. Respondent under the ignorance of, or misunderstanding of, the regulations, charged a substantial amount of its orders to the third quarter. Deliveries of 288,000 pounds of orders for steel placed in the third quarter were received within 22 days of October 7, 1951. Respondent was unaware of Direction 7. 568,000 pounds of orders were placed in the third quarter or earlier, and 338,940 pounds of orders were placed before July 1951. 61,060 pounds of steel orders have never been delivered. It was advised and believed that 90,380 pounds of steel were not chargeable against its allotments.

2. During the first quarter 1952, respondent, as alleged in Charge 2 as amended, in violation of section 19 (f), placed orders for 146,320 pounds of steel and 11,763 pounds of aluminum in excess of its allotments.

3. During the entire year beginning July 1, 1951, respondent's actual use of steel and aluminum delivered to it was less than its allotments. None of its violations were willful, but they did result in a corresponding loss of allotments to other consumers in those quarters.

4. Charge 3 was not sustained.

5. During the fourth quarter 1951, respondent as alleged in Charge 4 failed to return within the prescribed time its unused allotments of 68,860 pounds of carbon steel under K–1, agricultural, and 6,243 pounds of aluminum under K–7. The violation was not willful, but was done in ignorance of Direction 7. Proper returns were made of unused allotments for subsequent quarters.

The enforcement attorney requested a suspension of 520,000 pounds of steel under Charge 1, and 146,320 pounds of steel and 11,763 pounds of aluminum under Charge 2, to be taken by respondent over the fourth quarter of 1952 remaining and the first and second quarters of 1953, in a manner least injurious to the company. Respondent's attorney requests that its suspension of steel orders be limited to 396,000.

Order. In order to correct the unauthorized excess of orders placed by respondent over its allotments and to restore proportionate allotments to other consumers, it is accordingly ordered:

1. That respondent's total allotments of carbon steel under K–1 be reduced 58,000 pounds as follows: 18,000 pounds during the remainder of the fourth quarter 1952, and 20,000 pounds each in the first and second quarters, 1953.

2. That respondent's total allotments of carbon steel under K–7 be reduced 438,000 pounds as follows: 138,000 pounds or more at the option of respondent in the fourth quarter 1952; one-half of the balance in the first quarter, 1953; and the remainder in the second quarter, 1953.

3. That respondent's total allotments of aluminum be reduced 11,763 pounds, as follows: 10,000 pounds in the fourth quarter 1952, and the balance in the first quarter 1953.

A signed copy of this order shall be served upon respondent by registered mail, return receipt requested, on Wednesday, November 5, 1952.

Issued at Denver, Colo., this 3d day of November 1952.

CHARLES SUSSMAN ET AL.

SUSPENSION ORDER

I. Statement. I was designated as the hearing commissioner of the National Production Authority to hear and determine this matter (NPA General Administrative Order 16–06, 16 F. R. 8628; 17 F. R. 8156; 17 F. R. 2098). A statement of the charges was submitted; respondents were notified and apprised of these charges; they are a part of the record; in short, they aver at length and specifically, violations of my suspension order against certain of these same respondents of May 29, 1952.

A hearing was held, both sides were represented, the facts were stipulated, arguments were made.

II. Findings of fact. 1. On May 29, 1952, Joseph Sloane, a hearing commissioner of the National Production Authority, issued a suspension order against Charles Sussman, David Sussman, and Morris Sussman, individually, and doing business as The Charles Company, wherein it was ordered:

(a) That all priority assistance be withdrawn and withheld from the respondents for a period of four (4) months commencing from the date of issuance of this order;

(b) That all allocations and allotments of material be withheld from the respondents for a period of four (4) months commencing from the date of issuance of this order;

(c) That the respondents be prohibited from producing or acquiring Class "A" products and from producing Class "B" products (as defined in National Production Authority CMP Regulation No. 1, as amended November 23, 1951, and as may be amended hereafter), and from acquiring, using, or disposing of any materials under control of the National Production Authority, except as may be directed by the Administrator of the National Production Authority for a period of four (4) months commencing from the date of issuance of this order; and

(d) In the event that the allocations and allotments of aluminum which would have been made to the respondents during the period of four (4) months commencing from the date of issuance of this order do not equal 62,457 pounds of aluminum, then all allocations and allotments of aluminum which may be made in accordance with established procedures to the respondents herein during the quarter commencing October 1, 1952, and succeeding quarters, shall be reduced by one-third (33⅓ percent) until such time as 62,457 pounds of aluminum shall have been withheld from the respondents herein.

2. (a) On July 1, 1952, Charles Sussman, David Sussman, and Morris Sussman organized and caused to be incorporated under the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania two corporations, to wit, Charles, Inc., 228 New Street, Philadelphia, Pa.; and Tri-Seal Storm Windows, Inc., 228 New Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

(b) The officers and directors of the aforesaid Charles, Inc., at all times since the date of incorporation have been: Charles Sussman, President and Director; David Sussman, Secretary-Treasurer and Director; and Morris Sussman, Director.

(c) The officers and directors of the aforesaid Tri-Seal Storm Windows, Inc., at all times since the date of incorporation have been: David Sussman, President and Director; Alvena Purdy, Secretary-Treasurer; and Morris Sussman, Director.

(d) Charles Sussman, David Sussman, and Morris Sussman owned, dominated, managed, controlled, and directed the two corporations, Charles, Inc., and Tri-Seal Storm Windows, Inc., and particularly so at all times during the third quarter of 1952.

3. Charles Sussman, David Sussman, and Morris Sussman, doing business as The Charles Company, a partnership, did not produce or manufacture any aluminum storm windows or doors during the third quarter of 1952, but acted as a sales agency for aluminum storm doors and windows manufactured during the third quarter of 1952, by the corporations Charles, Inc., and Tri-Seal Storm Windows, Inc.

4. (a) During the calendar month of July 1952, Charles, Inc., acting through Charles Sussman, David Sussman, and Morris Sussman, placed a purchase order with McDermott Metals Company, Philadelphia, Pa., certified under CMP Regulation No. 1, as amended November 23, 1951, and Direction 1 to CMP Regulation No. 1, as amended June 18, 1952, calling for delivery of 20,000 pounds of aluminum during the third quarter of 1952.

(b) Pursuant to this purchase order placed with McDermott Metals Company, Philadelphia, Pa., Charles, Inc., acting through Charles Sussman, David Sussman, and Morris Sussman, acquired during the third quarter of 1952 at least 19,625 pounds of aluminum and used all, or a portion, of said material during said period for the production and manufacture of Class "B" products (as defined in National Production Authority CMP Regulation No. 1, as amended November 23, 1951) in violation of the aforesaid suspension order.

(c) During the calendar month of July 1952, Tri-Seal Storm Windows, Inc., acting through Charles Sussman, David Sussman, and Morris Sussman, placed a purchase order with McDermott Metals Company, Philadelphia, Pa., certified under CMP Regulation No. 1, as amended November 23, 1951, and Direction 1 to CMP Regulation No. 1, as amended June 18, 1952, calling for delivery of 20,000 pounds of aluminum during the third quarter of 1952.

(d) Pursuant to this purchase order placed with McDermott Metals Company, Philadelphia, Pa., Tri-Seal Storm Windows, Inc., acting through Charles Sussman, David Sussman, and Morris Sussman, acquired during the third quarter of 1952 at least 20,482 pounds of aluminum and used all, or a portion, of said material during said period for the production and manufacture of Class "B" products (as defined in National Production Authority CMP Regulation No. 1, as amended November 23, 1951), in violation of the aforesaid suspension order.

III. Discussion. Respondents advance this plurality of argument against the Authority's charges: (1) The suspension order of May 29, 1952, does not bind the two corporation respondents since they were not parties to the action culminating in that suspension order, and the order does not bind "successors and assigns," though, indeed, these two new corporations belong entirely to the individual respondents and they were formed July 1, 1952, about a month after my suspension order came out. (2) The suspension order, supra, contemplated such an event as CMP Regulation No. 1 as amended June 18, 1952, which would relieve or help all buyers or consumers of restricted materials including the respondents; and (3) my suspension order excepted from the restrictions placed upon respondents any direction or regulation of the Administrator of NPA, and CMP Regulation No. 1 as amended June 18, 1952, was one such direction or regulation.

These arguments are not persuasive. Respondents were imposed with a suspension order which they should have honored to the letter and in its full comprehension of spirit. To say they were bound but not the new entities which they created to their immediate liking, is an evasion easily conceived and sometimes as easily sought out. I drew no such line upon the Sussmans that allowed them to escape the restrictions of the suspension order with the simple, well-known corporation device. The suspension order was not intended to be pursued or looked to with nice exactness. The suggested words "successors and assigns" were not the necessary wary words to direct respondents' future actions. They knew well enough, or should have known without these words, what they could and should not do, directly or indirectly, immediately or remotely.

The exception in paragraph 3 of the suspension order had nothing to do with a general order or direction of the Administrator. It had to do with these respondents; it gave some amplitude to the Administrator to lessen the rigor upon respondents and to depart from that much of the suspension order (not arbitrarily but if circumstances so warranted and in good discretion) without the necessity of a request or application for an amended order. For it is to be remembered that a suspension order guides the Authority as it controls a respondent. Both are bound by its terms, and neither may act perversely to it. The exception was as to these respondents specifically, not as to any order or regulation or direction relating to buyers or consumers of controlled materials generally.

The suspension order did not contemplate a future event of general amelioration. We need not refer to the day when controls may be marked off the statute books, which of course would move to respondents. Suspension orders would then automatically end, for there the Congress has spoken. But that is far from saying that a suspension order may be modified by a subsequent general regulation of the Administrator. If that were so, a suspension order would have only the efficacy the Administrator wants to give it. That is not the check-and-balance and separateness of our system. I have said that I think the Administrator is as much bound by a suspension order and its terms as is a respondent.

IV. Conclusions of law. 1. The corporate-respondents, Charles, Inc. and Tri-Seal Storm Windows, Inc., were formed and are owned, dominated, managed, and controlled by the other respondents, Charles Sussman, David Sussman, and Morris Sussman, individually, and as The Charles Company, for the purpose amongst others, of overcoming and evading the suspension order of May 29, 1952,

2. Each respondent and all of them, has and have evaded and violated the suspension order of May 29, 1952, particularly as set forth in the findings of fact.

V. Order. In order to correct the unauthorized use of aluminum occasioned by the violations found herein and in order to prevent future violations of National Production Authority regulations, orders, and directives by these respondents,

It is accordingly ordered: (1) That all priority assistance be withdrawn and withheld from Charles Sussman, David Sussman, and Morris Sussman, individually, and doing business as The Charles Company; Charles, Inc., a corporation, Charles Sussman and David Sussman, as officers of said Charles, Inc., their successors and assigns; Tri-Seal Storm Windows, Inc., a corporation, David Sussman, as an officer of said Tri-Seal Storm Windows, Inc., their successors and assigns, while the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, or as hereafter amended or extended, remains in effect.

(2) That all allocations and allotments of controlled materials and materials under control of the National Production Authority, be withdrawn and withheld from Charles Sussman, David Sussman, and Morris Sussman, individually, and doing business as The Charles Company; Charles, Inc., a corporation, Charles Sussman and David Sussman, as officers of said Charles, Inc., their successors and assigns; Tri-Seal Storm Windows, Inc., a corporation, David Sussman, as an officer of said Tri-Seal Storm Windows, Inc., their successors and assigns, while the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, or as hereafter amended or extended, remains in effect.

(3) That all privileges of self-authorization, self-certification, and automatic allotment, granted by the National Production Authority with respect to controlled materials and materials under control of the National Production Authority, be withdrawn and withheld from Charles Sussman, David Sussman, and Morris Sussman, individually, and doing business as The Charles Company; Charles, Inc., a corporation, Charles Sussman and David Sussman, as officers of said Charles, Inc., their successors and assigns; Tri-Seal Storm Windows, Inc., a corporation, David Sussman, as an officer of said Tri-Seal Storm Windows, Inc., their successors and assigns, while the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, or as hereafter amended or extended, remains in effect.

(4) That Charles Sussman, David Sussman, and Morris Sussman, individually, and doing business as The Charles Company; Charles, Inc., a corporation, Charles Sussman and David Sussman, as officers of said Charles, Inc., their successors and assigns; Tri-Seal Storm Windows, Inc., a corporation, David Sussman, as an officer of said Tri-Seal Storm Windows, Inc., their successors and assigns, be prohibited from acquiring, using, or disposing of controlled materials and materials under control of the National Production Authority, while the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, or as hereafter amended or extended, remains in effect.

Findings of fact. 1. That during the period commencing January 1, 1951, and ending June 30, 1951, Leviton Manufacturing Co., Inc., used in the manufacture of its products, 463,607 pounds of copper and copper-base alloys in excess of the amount lawfully authorized and permitted.

4. That the respondent, Bernard I. Leviton, during the period January 1, 1951, through April 10, 1952, committed acts prohibited by section 29.26 (b) of National Production Authority Order M-12, dated November 29, 1950 (16 F. R. 8219), as amended December 30, 1950 (16 F. R. 124); section 6 (c) of National Production Authority Order M-12 as amended March 9, 1951 (16 F. ELMER E. BAUER ET AL.

ORDER RELEASING JURISDICTION OVER FEES AND EXPENSES AND RECOMMENDING APPROVAL

NOVEMBER 18, 1952.

In the matter of Elmer E. Bauer, Trustee of Pittsburgh Railways Company, Debtor, and Philadelphia Company, File No. 52-28; Philadelphia Company, File No. 54-183; Philadelphia Company, Allegheny County Steam Heating Company, Cheswick and Harmar Railroad Company, Duquesne Light Company, Equitable Real Estate Company, Equitable Sales Company, File No. 70-2402.

The Commission having approved a Plan ("Combined Plan") (File Nos. 52-28, 54-183) filed jointly by Elmer E. Bauer, Trustee of Pittsburgh Railways Company, Debtor ("Railways"), and by Philadelphia Company ("Philadelphia"), the parent of Railways, and a registered holding company subsidiary of Standard Gas and Electric Company, also a registered holding company, for the reorganization of the Railways system under

Chapter X of the Bankruptcy Act and section 11 (f) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act") and for the discharge, pursuant to section 11 (e) of the act, of Philadelphia's guarantees affecting certain securities of Railways' system; and the Commission having granted and permitted to become effective certain applications-declarations (File No. 70-2402) in connection with said Combined Plan whereby Philadelphia was authorized, pursuant to the provisions of sections 9 (a) and 10 of the act, to acquire all the securities of and claims against the Railways system held by certain of Philadelphia's former subsidiaries; and the Commission having heretofore, by order dated June 8, 1950, consolidated the aforementioned proceedings;

Philadelphia having undertaken to pay such fees and expenses for services as the Commission might approve, award, or allocate; and the Commission, by orders dated March 27, 1950, December 27, 1950, and August 23, 1950, having reserved jurisdiction over all fees and expenses and the allocation thereof for services rendered in connection with such above-entitled consolidated matters under sections 9 (a), 10 and 11 (e) of the act;

Applications for allowances of fees and reimbursement of expenses having been filed herein by various participants in the proceedings, and a public hearing with respect to such applications having been held;

It appearing that since these applications were set down for hearing (a) Maurice J. Dix and James A. Geltz withdrew their application; (b) Froelich, Grossman, Teton & Tabin reduced their request for fees and expenses; (c) Richard W. Ahlers, William L. Fox and James E. Riely, Warren L. Casey, Stone & Webster Service Corporation, and Dilworth, Paxson, Kalish & Green reduced their claims for fees, the latter firm having also agreed to treat its reduced claim as a final allowance in these consolidated proceedings rather than as an interim allowance in certain other proceedings under section 11 (e) of the act involving Philadelphia (File No. 54-173); and (d) Philadelphia has requested that said reduced claims for allowances be approved and that jurisdiction with respect thereto be released:

It appearing that the applications, as reduced, for the allowance of fees and expenses are as follows:

	Fees	Expenses
Froelich, Grossman, Teton & Tabin, counsel for Philadelphia Co. and Standard Gas & Electric Co.	$130,000.00	$11,200.00
Stone & Webster Service Corp., financial analysts for Philadelphia	16,000.00	1,616.15
Richard W. Ahlers, counsel for Suburban Rapid Transit Street Railway Co.	32,567.27
Dilworth, Paxson, Kalish & Green, counsel for committee for Philadelphia Co. 6 percent cumulative preferred stock	2,475.00	388.79
William L. Fox and James E. Riely, counsel for committee of public holders of Philadelphia Co. common stock	4,000.00	362.29
Warren A. Casey, financial expert for the above common stockholders' committee	1,000.00

It further appearing that the request of Froelich, Grossman, Teton & Tabin includes the sum of $60,000 in fees received from Philadelphia and the sum of $60,000 received from Standard Gas and Electric Company, as well as an aggregate sum of $11,248.20 received from these companies for expenses; and that the fee request of Richard W. Ahlers includes the sum of $20,000 received from one of the Railways system companies merged into the reorganized company under the Combined Plan;

It having been proposed that the fees and expenses of Froelich, Grossman, Teton & Tabin be borne equally by Philadelphia and Standard Gas and Electric Company; and it appearing that to the extent that the allowance requested by said applicant embraces services relating to the Railways Chapter X proceedings the approval of the United States District Court for the Western District of Pennsylvania is required;

It further appearing that Moorhead & Knox, counsel for two of the underlier companies in the Railways System, which have been merged into the reorganized company under the Combined Plan, received certain fees from these underlier companies for legal services, some of which pertained to matters litigated outside the Bankruptcy Court; that payment of a portion of their fees, following the promulgation of the Combined Plan, was made possible by said underlier companies reducing dividend payments to stockholders, the largest of whom were the so-called Mellon Group and Philadelphia; that in compromise of various issues pertaining to their fees and expenses, Moorhead & Knox have refrained from filing an application for additional compensation in these consolidated proceedings, but have received from the so-called Mellon Group a fee of $160,000; and that, as part of the compromise, they have placed $19,049.08 in escrow for distribution of the stockholders of the two underlier companies, other than the Mellon Group and Philadelphia, in order to compensate such public stockholders for the aforesaid dividend reductions; and

The Commission having considered the record, and it appearing that the fees and expenses of the aforesaid applicants, the proposed payment by Philadelphia of the net amounts due on said allowance requests other than that of Froelich, Grossman, Teton & Tabin, the equal allocation to and payment by Philadelphia and Standard Gas and Electric Company of the request of Froelich, Grossman, Teton & Tabin, and the compromise arrangement with Moorhead & Knox, are not unreasonable, and that jurisdiction should be released in respect of these matters;

It is ordered, That the payments by Philadelphia of the above listed requests for fees and expenses, other than the fees and expenses of Froelich, Grossman, Teton & Tabin, and the payment by Philadelphia and Standard Gas and Electric Company in equal shares of the fees and expenses of Froelich, Grossman, Teton & Tabin, be, and hereby are, approved; that said payments be, and hereby are, authorized and directed to be made, subject to deduction for amounts previously received.

It is further ordered, That jurisdiction be, and hereby is, released in respect of the above fees and expenses and in respect of the fees and expenses of Moorhead & Knox.

It is further ordered, In respect of the fees and expenses of Froelich, Grossman, Teton & Tabin, That the aforesaid approval, authorization and direction to pay, and release of jurisdiction shall, to the extent that their services relate to the Railways Chapter X proceedings, be, and hereby is, subject to and conditioned upon the approval thereof by the United States District Court for the Western District of Pennsylvania.

By the Commission.

NORTHERN NEW ENGLAND CO. AND NEW ENGLAND PUBLIC SERVICE CO.

NOTICE OF FILING AND ORDER FOR HEARING ON PLAN FOR LIQUIDATION OF PARENT REGISTERED HOLDING COMPANY AND ORDER CONSOLIDATING HEARING WITH HEARING ON SUBSIDIARY HOLDING COMPANY PLAN

NOVEMBER 18, 1952.

Notice is hereby given that Northern New England Company ("Northern"), a registered holding company and a parent of New England Public Service Company ("NEPSCO"), also a registered holding company, has filed, under section 11 (e) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act"), a Plan for Liquidation and Dissolution ("Plan"). The stated purpose of the Plan is to complete compliance with the provisions of section 11 (b) of the act by effecting the liquidation and dissolution of Northern. As at September 30, 1952, Northern's assets consisted of cash, accrued dividends receivable, 312,193 shares of common stock of NEPSCO, and 10 shares of preferred stock, $6 Dividend Series, of NEPSCO. Northern has outstanding 227,084 shares of beneficial interest.

On November 6, 1952, NEPSCO filed its amended plan for liquidation and dissolution, which the Commission, by its order of November 10, 1952, set for hearing commencing December 2, 1952.

All interested persons are referred to the Plan of Northern and the application for approval thereof, which are on file in the offices of this Commission, for a full statement of the transactions therein proposed, which are summarized as follows:

1. The consummation date of the Northern Plan ("consummation date") shall be the consummation date of the NEPSCO plan.

2. (a) Prior to the consummation date, Northern will sell the preferred stock of NEPSCO which it owns.

(b) Prior to the consummation date, Northern will deliver to NEPSCO 312,193 shares of the common stock of NEPSCO for exchange, subject to the provisions of the NEPSCO plan, for 59,316$^{37}/_{100}$ shares of the common stock of Central Maine Power Company ("Central Maine"), 12,487$^{32}/_{100}$ shares of the common stock of Central Vermont Public Service Corporation ("Central Vermont"), and 28,097$^{37}/_{100}$ shares of the common stock of Public Service Corporation of New Hampshire ("New Hampshire"). On the consummation date Northern will distribute to and among the holders of Certificates of Beneficial Interest of Northern 59,041$^{84}/_{100}$ shares of Central Maine, 11,354$^{20}/_{100}$ shares of Central Vermont and 27,250$^{8}/_{100}$ shares of New Hampshire. For each share of Beneficial Interest of Northern, the holder will receive the following shares of common stock of Central Maine, Central Vermont and New Hampshire, subject to the provisions as to fractions of a share hereinafter set forth:

	Shares of common stock
	Central Maine	Central Vermont	New Hampshire
Northern share	26/100	5/100	12/100

Such distribution will result in 274$^{84}/_{100}$ shares of Central Maine, 1,123$^{32}/_{100}$ shares of Central Vermont and 847$^{28}/_{100}$ shares of New Hampshire remaining available for sale to provide in part the cash estimated to be required for Northern's debts and liabilities. On, or prior to, the consummation date, Northern will sell such available shares. Northern will pay such fees and expenses in connection with this Plan and prior plans as the Commission may determine, award, allocate or approve, but not more than the amount so determined, allocated, awarded or approved. To the extent, if any, that Northern's debts and liabilities, including liquidation fees and expenses and fees and expenses in connection with this and prior plans, are less than the assets remaining after the distribution to its shareholders of the shares of Central Maine, Central Vermont and New Hampshire, Northern will deliver the balance of such assets to the Liquidation Agent hereinafter referred to, to be distributed in accordance with the provisions of the Plan.

3. (a) Not later than 30 days prior to the consummation date, Northern will appoint the bank or trust company appointed by NEPSCO to act as Liquidation Trustee pursuant to the provisions of the NEPSCO Plan to act as Liquidation Agent pursuant to the provisions of the Northern Plan. On or prior to the consummation date Northern will deposit with the Liquidation Agent certificates for 59,041$^{84}/_{100}$ shares of Central Maine, 11,354$^{20}/_{100}$ shares of Central Vermont and 27,250$^{8}/_{100}$ shares of New Hampshire, to be distributed to and among the shareholders of Northern as provided in Paragraph 2 above. Shareholders of Northern shall be entitled to and shall receive the distribution provided in this Plan only upon surrender of their certificates of beneficial interest to the Liquidation Agent for cancellation. When Northern shall have deposited with the Liquidation Agent the common stock of Central Maine, Central Vermont and New Hampshire as provided above, Northern shareholders shall cease to have any rights as shareholders and thereafter the sole rights of these shareholders shall be to receive the distributions then remaining to be made to them under the Plan upon surrender of their certificates of beneficial interest for cancellation.

(b) No fractions of a share of the common stock of Central Maine, Central Vermont or New Hampshire will be issued, but in each case the Liquidation Agent will issue bearer scrip certificates which, when surrendered together with one or more similar certificates aggregating at least one whole share, will entitle the holder, at any time during a period commencing on the consummation date and ending one year thereafter, to a stock certificate for the number of whole shares represented by the scrip certificates surrendered and a new scrip certificate for any remaining fractions. Scrip certificates shall not entitle the holder thereof to any rights as a stockholder, or to the distribution of shares of Central Maine, Central Vermont or New Hampshire under this plan, unless and until the scrip is combined and exchanged for certificates for one or more full shares within one year from the consummation date. Scrip certificates will contain a provision to the effect that holders thereof may, under appropriate specified procedure, direct the Liquidation Agent during the said period of one year to sell the same for the account of the holder or to purchase for the account of the holder additional certificates to make, together with the scrip certificates aggregating less than a full share then held, one full share, without charge or commission to the holder. Scrip certificates may, at the option of the holder, be purchased or sold in the open market. At the expiration of said period of one year, the Liquidation Agent shall convert into cash, through either public or private sale, a number of shares of Central Maine, Central Vermont and New Hampshire equal to the aggregate number of shares represented by the then outstanding scrip certificates, disregarding any fractional shares. Holders of scrip certificates shall thereupon, and until the end of a period of five years from and after the consummation date, be entitled to present such scrip certificates to the Liquidation Agent and receive in payment and cancellation of the same such sum of money as may be represented by such scrip certificates, the amount thereof to be determined by the Liquidation Agent on the basis of the net proceeds received by it from the sale, authorized in this Paragraph 3 (b), of the shares of Central Maine, Central Vermont and New Hampshire, plus the amount of any dividends received by the Liquidation Agent on account of such shares.

(c) Dividends paid to the Liquidation Agent on any shares of Central Maine, Central Vermont or New Hampshire shall be paid over by it without interest to the shareholder entitled thereto at the time of the surrender of his certificate or certificates.

(d) The right of Northern shareholders and of the holders of scrip certificates issued under, and subject to the provisions of, Paragraph 3 (b) above, to receive the distributions provided by this plan, other than the distribution provided in this paragraph below, shall expire at the end of a period of five years from and after the consummation date. Upon the expiration of said five-year period, the Liquidation Agent shall convert into cash, in such manner as it may determine, all of the unclaimed shares of Central Maine, Central Vermont and New Hampshire remaining in its hands and promptly thereafter shall distribute such cash (and any other cash in its hands available for distribution) pro rata to and among the former shareholders of Northern who, pursuant to this plan, shall have surrendered their certificates of beneficial interest prior to the expiration of said five-year period.

(e) Northern will pay to the Liquidation Agent sufficient cash to provide for the payment of the latter's expenses incurred in carrying out this plan and reasonable compensation for his services thereunder.

(f) Each check issued and delivered by the Liquidation Agent to holders of Northern's shares or of scrip certificates shall be and become void unless presented for payment at or before the expiration of five years from the consummation date, or within 120 days after its date, whichever shall be later, and each such check shall contain appropriate legend to this effect. Any funds, represented by checks which have become void, shall be distributed to Central Maine, Central Vermont and New Hampshire in the proportion of 61 percent to Central Maine, 10 percent to Central Vermont and 29 percent to New Hampshire.

4. As soon as Northern shall have made the common stock of the three subsidiaries of NEPSCO and any cash available to its shareholders as herein provided, and shall have paid or provided for the payment of its debts and liabilities, including liquidation fees and expenses, and fees and expenses in connection with this and prior plans, it will initiate appropriate action to terminate its Declaration of Trust and will pursue the same with due diligence to the end that it will cease to exist as a common law trust as soon as orderly procedure will permit.

5. Northern requests the Commission (i) to find this plan necessary to effectuate the provisions of section 11 (b) (2) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 and fair and equitable to the persons affected thereby, (ii) to make an order approving this Plan, and (iii) thereupon to apply to a court, pursuant to the applicable provisions of said act, to enforce and carry out the terms and provisions of this plan.

Northern also requests that the orders of the Commission relating to the distributions pursuant to this plan contain the recitals and other provisions necessary to bring the transactions involved herein within the provisions of section 1808 (f) and Supplement R of the Internal Revenue Code.

6. Northern reserves the right to amend this plan at any time and from time to time, but if the Commission shall at the time have approved this plan, then only with the approval of the Commission, and if the Court referred to above shall at the time also have approved this plan, then only with the approval of the Commission and of said Court.

The Commission being required by the provisions of section 11 (e) of the act before approving any plan submitted thereunder to find, after notice and opportunity for hearing that the Plan, as submitted, or as modified, is necessary to effectuate the provisions of subsection (b) of section 11 of the act and is fair and equitable to the persons affected thereby; and it appearing to the Commission that it is appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers that notice be given and a hearing be held with respect to said plan to afford all interested persons an opportunity to be heard with respect thereto, and that said plan shall not become effective except pursuant to further order of the Commission;

It further appearing to the Commission that the NEPSCO and Northern Plans involve common questions of law and fact and that the two matters should be consolidated for the purpose of receiving evidence;

It is ordered, That the hearing on the Northern Plan, pursuant to the applicable provisions of the act and rules thereunder be consolidated with the hearing on the NEPSCO Plan and that such hearings be held on December 2, 1952, at 11 a. m., e. s. t., at the offices of the Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington, D. C., in such room as may be designated by the hearing room clerk in Room 193.

It is further ordered, That any person, other than those persons who previously have been granted participation in this proceeding, desiring to be heard in connection with this proceeding, or otherwise participate herein, shall file with the Secretary of the Commission on, or before, December 1, 1952, his request or application therefor as provided in Rule XVII of the rules of practice of the Commission.

It is further ordered, That Edward C. Johnson, or any other officer, or officers, of the Commission designated by it for that purpose, shall preside at the hearing in the proceeding. The officer so designated to preside at such hearing is hereby authorized to exercise all powers granted to the Commission under section 18 (c) of the act and to a hearing officer under the Commission's rules of practice.

The Division of Public Utilities of the Commission having advised the Commission that it has made a preliminary examination of the Plan and that, upon the basis thereof, the following matters and questions are presented for consideration without prejudice to its specifying additional matters and questions upon further examination:

1. Whether the Plan is necessary to effectuate the provisions of section 11 (b) of the act, and is in conformity with the requirements of the Commission's order of August 4, 1948;

2. Whether the Plan is fair and equitable to the persons affected thereby;

3. Whether the accounting entries are proper and conform to sound accounting principles;

4. Whether the fees and expenses and other remuneration which may be claimed in connection with this Plan and prior plans, and transactions incident thereto, are for necessary services, and are reasonable in amount;

5. Generally, whether the proposed transactions are in all respects in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers and consistent with all applicable requirements of the act and rules thereunder; and whether any terms and conditions should be imposed to satisfy the applicable statutory standards.

It is further ordered, That attention be directed at said hearing to the foregoing issues and such other matters and questions as may be presented by this Plan.

It is further ordered, That jurisdiction be reserved to separate either for hearing, in whole or in part, or for disposition, in whole or in part, any of the issues, questions or matters herein set forth, or which may arise in these proceedings, or to consolidate with these proceedings other filings or matters pertaining to the subject matter of these proceedings, and to take such other action as may appear conducive to an orderly, prompt, and economical disposition of the matters involved.

It is further ordered, That the Secretary of the Commission shall give notice of the aforesaid hearing by mailing copies of this Notice and Order by registered mail to New England Public Service Company, Northern New England Company, Central Maine Power Company, Central Vermont Public Service Corporation, Public Service Company of New Hampshire, The Federal Power Commission, Public Service Commission of New Hampshire, Public Service Commission of Vermont and Public Utilities Commission of Maine, and to all other persons previously granted participation in these proceedings; and that notice to all other persons shall be given by publication of this notice and order in the FEDERAL REGISTER and by general release of this Commission with respect to this notice and order to be distributed to the press and mailed to the mailing list for releases issued under the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935.

It is further ordered, That Northern give notice of this hearing to all record holders of its shares of beneficial interest by mailing a copy of the Plan, together with a communication giving the time and place of hearing, to such security holders at least seven days prior to the date set for hearing.

By the Commission.

NOVEMBER 18, 1952.

The Commission, by order dated April 28, 1952, having approved the issuance and sale of 920,573 shares of common stock by New England Electric System ("NEES"), a registered holding company, said order having reserved jurisdiction over the action to be taken to comply with the competitive bidding requirements of Rule U-50 under the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 and over all fees and expenses in connection with said issuance and sale of common stock; and MISSOURI LIGHT & POWER CO.

NOTICE OF FILING WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED ISSUANCE AND SALE OF SHORT-TERM UNSECURED NOTES

NOVEMBER 18, 1952.

Notice is hereby given that a declaration has been filed with the Commission pursuant to the act and the general rules and regulations promulgated thereunder, by Missouri Power & Light Company ("Missouri Power"), a public utility subsidiary of Union Electric Company of Missouri, a registered holding company and a public utility company, in which declarant states that it considers sections 6 (a) and 7 of the act and Rules U-20, U-23 and U-24, promulgated thereunder, as applicable to the proposed transactions.

All interested persons are referred to said declaration which is on file in the office of this Commission for a statement of the transactions therein proposed which are summarized below:

Declarant proposes to enter into a loan agreement with the Chase National Bank of the City of New York whereby such bank will extend to the company bank loans in the aggregate principal amount of $2,800,000. The first loan in the amount of $1,800,000 will be completed on or before December 10, 1952. The balance of the loan of $1,000,000 is to be made available as needed. Each loan will be evidenced by an unsecured promissory note, which notes in the aggregate will equal the principal amount of the loan. All such notes will mature on December 10, 1953, but may be prepaid without penalty. The interest on the initial loan will be at the rate of 3 percent per annum, and the interest rate on all other loans made as part of the proposed transactions will be at the bank's current prime rate of interest for such paper at the time of borrowing, but not to exceed 3¼ percent. The interest will be payable on June 10, 1953, and at maturity or earlier date of prepayment.

Declarant states that upon completion of the proposed initial loan, the Company will pay off $1,350,000 of unsecured promissory notes now outstanding and held by the Chase National Bank of the City of New York, and the balance of the proceeds of the initial loan will be added to the general funds of the Company to reimburse the treasury for capital expenditures previously made and for other corporate purposes. The balance of the loan is to be utilized as needed to finance the Company's construction program.

The filing states that no State or other Federal Commission has jurisdiction over the proposed transactions and that Missouri Power intends subsequently to fund the proposed loans through the issuance of stocks or bonds or other form of permanent financing.

Declarant estimates that the fees and expenses to be incurred in connection with the proposed transactions will not exceed $1,250, including $500 of legal fees. Declarant requests that the Commission's order herein issue on or before December 9, 1952, and that it be effective upon issuance.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than December 5, 1952, at 5:30 p. m., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request, and the issues, if any, of fact or law raised by said declaration proposed to be controverted, or may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C. At any time thereafter such declaration as filed, or as amended, may be granted as provided in Rule U-23 of the rules and regulations promulgated pursuant to said act, or the Commission may exempt such transactions as provided in Rules U-20 (a) and U-100 thereof.

By the Commission.

FALCON FIELD, NEVADA COUNTY, ARKANSAS

CRUDE PETROLEUM CEILING PRICES ADJUSTED ON AN IN-LINE BASIS

Statement of considerations. This special order adjusts the ceiling price for the purchase of crude petroleum produced from the Falcon Field (Travis Peak Formation), Nevada County, Arkansas.

The Office of Price Stabilization has been requested to eliminate the differentials heretofore imposed upon crude petroleum produced from the Falcon Field (Travis Peak Formation), Nevada County, Arkansas. During the base period there was a lack of competitive factors and as a result, this crude petroleum was sold at a lower price than that paid for crude petroleum of comparable quality produced in this same general area. It appears that this condition has now been eliminated and these differentials should no longer be imposed.

From the information available to this office, it appears that the requested price of $2.63 per barrel for 40° API gravity and above with a 2-cent differential less for each degree of gravity below 40°, down to $2.21 per barrel for below 20° API gravity does not exceed the ceiling price of comparable crude petroleum produced in this same area.

Special provisions. For the reasons set forth in the Statement of Considerations and pursuant to the provisions of section 3 of Supplementary Regulation 2 to Ceiling Price Regulation 32, It is ordered:

1. That the ceiling price at the lease receiving tank for crude petroleum produced from the Falcon Field (Travis Peak Formation), Nevada County, Arkansas shall be: $2.63 per barrel for 40° API gravity and above with a 2-cent differential less for each degree of gravity below 40°, down to $2.21 per barrel for below 20° API gravity.

2. All provisions of Ceiling Price Regulation 32, except as inconsistent with the provisions of this order, shall remain in full force and effect as to the commodities covered by this order.

3. This order may be amended, modified or revoked by the Director of Price Stabilization at any time.

Effective date. This special order shall become effective on November 26, 1952.

CIRCLE RIDGE FIELD, FREMONT COUNTY, WYOMING

CRUDE PETROLEUM CEILING PRICES ADJUSTED ON AN IN-LINE BASIS

Statement of considerations. This special order adjusts the ceiling price for the sale of crude petroleum produced from Circle Ridge Field, Fremont County, Wyoming.

The Office of Price Stabilization has been requested to eliminate the differentials heretofore imposed upon crude petroleum produced from the Circle Ridge Field, Fremont County, Wyoming. During the base period there was a lack of competitive factors and an excess supply of heavy crude petroleum and as a result, the crude petroleum produced from the Circle Ridge Field, Fremont County, Wyoming was sold at a lower price than that paid for crude petroleum of comparable quality produced in this same general area. It appears that this condition has now been eliminated and these differentials should no longer be imposed.

From the information available to this office, it appears that the following requested ceiling price does not exceed the ceiling price of comparable crude petroleum produced in this same area:

Gravity:	Price	Gravity:	Price
15–15.9	$1.28	28–28.9	$2.04
16–16.9	1.34	29–29.9	2.09
17–17.9	1.40	30–30.9	2.14
18–18.9	1.46	31–31.9	2.19
19–19.9	1.52	32–32.9	2.23
20–20.9	1.58	33–33.9	2.27
21–21.9	1.64	34–34.9	2.31
22–22.9	1.70	35–35.9	2.35
23–23.9	1.76	36–36.9	2.39
24–24.9	1.82	37–37.9	2.41
25–25.9	1.88	38–38.9	2.43
26–26.9	1.94	39–39.9	2.45
27–27.9	1.99	40 and above	2.47

Special provisions. For the reasons set forth in the Statement of Considerations and pursuant to the provisions of Section 3 of Supplementary Regulation 2 to Ceiling Price Regulation 32, It is ordered:

1. That the ceiling price at the lease receiving tank for crude petroleum produced from the Circle Ridge Field, Fremont County, Wyoming shall be: $1.28 per barrel for 15° API gravity and below, increasing to $2.47 per barrel for 40° API gravity and above, as listed on Page 1 of this order.

2. All provisions of Ceiling Price Regulation 32, except as inconsistent with the provisions of this order, shall remain in full force and effect as to the commodities covered by this order.

3. This order may be amended, modified or revoked by the Director of Price Stabilization at any time.

DARLING POOL, GLACIER COUNTY, MONTANA

CRUDE PETROLEUM CEILING PRICES ADJUSTED ON AN IN-LINE BASIS

Statement of considerations. This special order adjusts the ceiling price for the purchase of crude petroleum produced from the Darling Pool, Glacier County, Montana.

The Office of Price Stabilization has been requested to eliminate the differentials heretofore imposed upon crude petroleum produced from the Darling Pool, Glacier County, Montana. During the base period adequate low-cost transportation was not available and as a result, the crude petroleum produced from the Darling Pool, Glacier County, Montana, was sold at a lower price than that paid for crude petroleum of comparable quality produced in this same general area. It appears that this condition has now been eliminated and these differentials should no longer be imposed.

From the information available to this Office, it appears that the requested price of $2.7775 per barrel for 40° API gravity and above with a 2½-cent differential less for each degree of gravity below 40°, down to $2.50 per barrel for 29°–29.9° API gravity and below, does not exceed the area in-line ceiling price.

Special provisions. For the reasons set forth in the Statement of Considerations and pursuant to the provisions of section 3 of Supplementary Regulation 2 to Ceiling Price Regulation 32, It is ordered:

1. That the ceiling price at the lease receiving tank for crude petroleum produced from the Darling Pool, Glacier County, Montana, shall be: $2.7775 per barrel for 40° API gravity and above with a 2½-cent differential less for each degree of gravity below 40°, down to $2.50 per barrel for 29°–29.9° API gravity and below.

2. All provisions of Ceiling Price Regulation 32, except as inconsistent with the provisions of this order, shall remain in full force and effect as to the commodities covered by this order.

3. This order may be amended, modified or revoked by the Director of Price Stabilization at any time.

Effective date. This special order shall become effective on November 19, 1952.

CERTAIN FIELDS IN LOUISIANA

CRUDE CONDENSATE CEILING PRICES ADJUSTED ON AN IN-LINE BASIS

Statement of consideration. This special order adjusts the ceiling price for the sale of crude condensate produced from the following listed Louisiana fields:

Fields:	Parishes
Alliance	Plaquemines.
Bayou de Fleur	Jefferson-Plaquemines.
Coquille Bay	Plaquemines.
Delta Farms	Lafourche.
Gillis-English Bayou	Calcasieu.
Grand Bay	Plaquemines.
Lucy	St. Charles.
Main Pass (block 35)	Offshore, Plaquemines.
Main Pass (block 69)	Do.
Montz	St. Charles.
Quarantine Bay	Plaquemines.
Romere Pass	Do.
South Barataria	Jefferson.
St. Martinville	St. Martin.
West Delta Farms	Lafourche.

The Office of Price Stabilization has been requested to eliminate the differentials heretofore imposed upon crude petroleum produced from the above Louisiana fields. During the base period there was a lack of competitive factors and curtailed production of condensate caused by a lack of outlets for natural gas and as a result, this crude condensate was sold at a lower price than that paid for crude condensate of comparable quality produced in this same general area. It appears that this condition has now been eliminated and these differentials should no longer be imposed.

From the information available to this Office, it appears that the requested ceiling price of $2.85 per barrel flat does not exceed the ceiling price of comparable crude condensate produced in this same area.

Special provisions. For the reasons set forth in the Statement of Considerations and pursuant to the provisions of Section 3 of Supplementary Regulation 2 to Ceiling Price Regulation 32, It is ordered:

1. That the ceiling price at the lease receiving tank for crude condensate produced from the above listed Louisiana fields shall be: $2.85 per barrel flat.

2. All provisions of Ceiling Price Regulation 32, except as inconsistent with the provisions of this order, shall remain in full force and effect as to the commodities covered by this order.

3. This order may be amended, modified or revoked by the Director of Price Stabilization at any time.

Effective date. This special order shall become effective on November 19, 1952.

§ 562.22 Conditions of enrollment in specific course. • • •

(b) For advanced course, senior division. • • •

(1) Academic requirements. • • •

(i) Applicants for admission in the advanced course of the following technical services must be enrolled in the academic fields listed thereafter:

(a) Chemical Corps. Any academic course of instruction leading to a degree in a scientific or engineering subject, with preference for the chemical, biological, physical and mechanical arts and sciences. This provision will not affect students currently enrolled in Chemical Corps units or students who have been selected for enrollment prior to the publication of this section.

§ 562.28 Programs, content, and objectives of courses. • • •

(b) Junior division. The junior division, ROTC, will consist of the junior course only and will be conducted in whole at class HS institutions, and may be conducted in whole or in part at class MJC and class MI institutions with Department of the Army approval. without additional training from institutions operating on the preparatory school level, the Department of the Army will encourage and continue to furnish assistance to students in the junior division, ROTC, in high schools and other secondary schools prior to their undertaking further military training.

(1) Military training at a class HS institution will comprise a 3-year course of theoretical and practical instruction, consisting of 3 hours per week.

(1) The arrangement must be approved by the institutional authorities and the army commander.

(2) No reduction in the scope and content of the ROTC course will be permitted.

(b) The professor of military science and tactics with the approval of the head of the institution concerned is authorized to approve applications for the curtailment of the advanced course when all of the following conditions exist:

AUTHORITY: §§ 1013.001 to 1013.010 issued under R. S. 161, Sec. 202, 61 Stat. 500, as amended; 5 U. S. C. 22, 171a. Interpret or apply 62 Stat. 21; 41 U. S. C. 151-161.

DERIVATION: Sec. XIV, AFM 70-6.

§ 1013.001 Scope of part. This part implements the provisions of Part 413 of this title, and sets forth the procedures pertaining to the inspection and acceptance of supplies and services by the Department of the Air Force. Nothing in this part will be construed as waiving compliance with Part 413 of this title.

§ 1013.002 General policy—(a) Supplies and services. All supplies and services procured by the Air Force including supplies which are procured in accordance with the provisions of Subpart A of Part 403 of this title, "Single Department Procurement," will be inspected and accepted in accordance with the requirements of this part. Inspection will be conducted only when a bona fide contract exists, or when there is reasonable assurance that supplies so inspected will be reserved for delivery on Air Force or other military contracts.

(b) Quality control policy. Conformance with contractual requirements of supplies presented to the Air Force will be determined on the basis of objective quality evidence. Such evidence will be obtained by the contractor and will be evaluated and verified by the Air Force quality control representative exercising surveillance over the contractor's facility. Evidence may also be obtained independently by Air Force quality control personnel. Product inspection by Air Force quality control personnel will be used to the extent necessary to verify evidence of quality submitted by the contractor, or it may be used to determine acceptability of supplies on an individual or lot basis. The amount of evidence obtained or verified through product inspection by Air Force quality control personnel will depend on the nature and intended use of the product and the effectiveness of the contractor's control over quality.

§ 1013.003 Inspection requirements. In accordance with applicable directives, Air Matériel Command will establish inspection requirements sufficient to determine the acceptability of supplies and services presented to the Air Force. The Air Matériel Command may, when the public interest will be best served, prescribe the conditions under which supplies which are subject to Air Force inspection may be accepted and shipped without such inspection being performed in connection with each shipment.

§ 1013.006 Acceptance. Acceptance as defined in § 413.006 of this title is the responsibility of the Air Matériel Command, which may authorize proper Government agents to perform this function. Acceptance is effected through the execution of the prescribed acceptance documents.

§ 1013.007 Single department procurement. Normally Air Force inspection procedures will be used when inspection is performed by the Air Force on supplies being procured for delivery to another service.

§ 1013.008 Contract provisions. Any change to the standard clauses set forth in Part 406 of this title will be coordinated with the organization responsible for performing the inspection and/or acceptance and will be made in accordance with § 1000.109 of this chapter.

§ 1013.009 Inspection interchange agreements. Interchange agreements may be extended to foreign government agencies where procurements are being made by the Air Force in countries where suitable inspection practices have been established.

§ 1013.010 Inspection for other Government agencies. "Other Government agencies" are construed to mean U. S. agencies other than military. Air Force inspection may be performed for other Government agencies when such inspection would not unduly affect military inspection operations and the cost of such inspection can be defrayed on a reimbursement-in-kind basis.

Colonel, U. S. Air Force,
Air Adjutant General.

TITLE 32A—NATIONAL DEFENSE, APPENDIX

Chapter III—Office of Price Stabilization, Economic Stabilization Agency

[Ceiling Price Regulation 14, Amdt. 17]

CPR 14—CEILING PRICES OF CERTAIN FOODS SOLD AT WHOLESALE

REVISION OF TABLE A AND COMMODITY GROUP DEFINITIONS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.), as amended, Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this Amendment 17 to Ceiling Price Regulation 14 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment revises and brings up to date Table A and the commodity group definitions in CPR 14 in order to conform with General Overriding Regulation 7, Revision 1. The amendment also makes certain other minor corrections and clarifications in Table A and in the commodity group definitions.

General Overriding Regulation 7, Revision 1, decontrolled a number of food products as insignificant in the cost of living or as removed from price control by the Harrison Amendment which exempted fruits and vegetables in fresh or processed form from price control. Many of these food products had previously been covered by CPR 14 but, because of the nature of a general overriding regulation, were in effect removed from the ceiling price regulation even though they had not been deleted by formal amendment. However, in order to avoid confusion and misunderstanding, the table and commodity group definitions of CPR 14 are revised by the present action to conform with GOR 7, Revision 1. Although it has been necessary (in order to effectuate certain adjustment provisions) to list certain commodity group headings of fruits or vegetables even where no items in the listed commodity grouping remain under control, it is thought that none of the commodities decontrolled by GOR 7 now remains listed as controlled by CPR 14. Except for minor corrections and clarifications the revised table and commodity group definitions contain no substantive changes not already made through the overriding effect of GOR 7, Revision 1.

In view of the nature of this amendment, special circumstances have rendered consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, impractical. In the judgment of the Director the provisions of this amendment are generally fair and equitable, are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, and comply with all the applicable standards of that act.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Ceiling Price Regulation 14 is amended in the following respects.

[Ceiling Price Regulation 15, Amdt. 20]

CPR 15—CEILING PRICES OF CERTAIN FOODS SOLD AT RETAIL IN GROUPS 3 AND 4 STORES

REVISION OF TABLES A AND B AND COMMODITY GROUPS DEFINITIONS; UNIT RULE FOR BABY FOOD

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this Amendment 20 to Ceiling Price Regulation 15 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This statment of considerations covers Amendment 20 to Ceiling Price Regulation 15 and Amendment 20 to Ceiling Price Regulation 16. These amendments revise and bring up to date Tables A and B and the commodity group definitions in CPR's 15 and 16 in order to conform with General Overriding Regulation 7, Revision 1. The amendments also make certain other minor corrections and clarifications in Tables A and B and in the commodity group definitions. Finally, the amendments require retailers to revert to the single unit basis of establishing ceiling prices for baby food in cans.

General Overriding Regulation 7, Revision 1, decontrolled a number of food products as insignificant in the cost of living or as removed from price control by the Harrison Amendment which exempted fruits and vegetables in fresh or processed form from price control. Many of these food products had previously been covered by CPR's 15 and 16 but, because of the nature of a general overriding regulation, were in effect removed from the ceiling price regulations even though they had not been deleted by formal amendment. However, in order to avoid confusion and misunderstanding, the tables and commodity group definitions of CPR's 15 and 16 are revised by the present action to conform with GOR 7, Revision 1. Although it has been necessary (in order to effectuate certain adjustment provisions) to list certain commodity group headings of fruits or vegetables even where no items in the listed commodity grouping remain under control, it is thought that none of the commodities decontrolled by GOR 7 now remains listed as controlled by CPR's 15 and 16. Except for minor corrections and clarifications the revised tables and commodity group definitions contain no substantive changes not already made through the overriding effect of GOR 7, Revision 1.

These amendments also return baby foods to the single unit pricing provisions of CPR's 15 and 16. Recently OPS determined that manufacturers of baby food were entitled to adjustments under the OPS industry earnings standard and, accordingly, issued Supplementary Regulation 107 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation. However, after a short time it was shown by the manufacturers that if they realized the earnings standard increases permitted under SR 107 the result would be a reduction in the margins of retailers selling canned baby food. Therefore, Amendments 18 to CPR's 15 and 16 were issued to prevent a margin squeeze on the retailers by providing a means for retailers to establish a unit ceiling price on three cans of baby food instead of on the single unit basis otherwise provided in the regulations.

It now appears, however, that since the manufacturers have decided not to take the permitted increases, the result of the operation of the multiple unit rule authorized by Amendments 18 has been an unwarranted increase in retail markups. To continue Amendments 18 in effect is not only unnecessary to prevent a squeeze but also would result in unjustifiably higher ceiling prices to consumers and, therefore, these amendments remove from CPR's 15 and 16 the provisions for multiple unit pricing of baby foods. However, if a retail problem on baby food does develop in the future, the matter will be given further consideration at such time in the light of the retail markups then in effect.

In view of the nature of these amendments special circumstances have rendered consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, impractical. In the judgment of the Director the provisions of these amendments are generally fair and equitable, are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, and comply with all the applicable standards of that Act.

CPR 16—CEILING PRICES OF CERTAIN FOODS SOLD AT RETAIL IN GROUP 1 AND 2 STORES

REVISION OF TABLES A AND B AND COMMODITY GROUP DEFINITIONS; UNIT RULE FOR BABY FOOD

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this Amendment 20 to Ceiling Price Regulation 16 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This statement of considerations covers Amendment 20 to Ceiling Price Regulation 15 and Amendment 20 to Ceiling Price Regulation 16. These amendments revise and bring up to date Tables A and B and the commodity group definitions in CPRs 15 and 16 in order to conform with General Overriding Regulation 7, Revision 1. The amendments also make certain other minor corrections and clarifications in Tables A and B, and in the commodity group definitions. Finally, the amendments require retailers to revert to the single unit basis of establishing ceiling prices for baby food in cans.

General Overriding Regulation 7, Revision 1, decontrolled a number of food products as insignificant in the cost of living or as removed from price control by the Harrison Amendment which exempted fruits and vegetables in fresh or processed form from price control. Many of these food products had previously been covered by CPRs 15 and 16 but, because of the nature of a general overriding regulation, were in effect removed from the ceiling price regulations even though they had not been deleted by formal amendment. However, in order to avoid confusion and misunderstanding, the tables and commodity group definitions of CPRs 15 and 16 are revised by the present action to conform with GOR 7, Revision 1. Although it has been necessary (in order to effectuate certain adjustment provisions) to list certain commodity group headings of fruits or vegetables even where no items in the listed commodity grouping remain under control, it is thought that none of the commodities decontrolled by GOR 7 now remains listed as controlled by CPRs 15 and 16. Except for minor corrections and clarifications the revised tables and commodity group definitions contain no substantive changes not already made through the overriding effect of GOR 7, Revision 1.

These amendments also return baby foods to the single unit pricing provisions of CPRs 15 and 16. Recently OPS determined that manufacturers of baby food were entitled to adjustments under the OPS industry earnings standard and, accordingly, issued Supplementary Regulation 107 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation. However, after a short time it was shown by the manufacturers that if they realized the earnings standard increases permitted under SR 107 the result would be a reduction in the margins of retailers selling canned baby food. Therefore, Amendments 18 to CPRs 15 and 16 were issued to prevent a margin squeeze on the retailers by providing a means for retailers to establish a unit ceiling price on three cans of baby food instead of on the single unit basis otherwise provided in the regulations.

It now appears, however, that since the manufacturers have decided not to take the permitted increases, the result of the operation of the multiple unit rule authorized by Amendments 18 has been an unwarranted increase in retail markups. To continue Amendments 18 in effect is not only unnecessary to prevent a squeeze but also would result in unjustifiably higher ceiling prices to consumers and, therefore, these amendments remove from CPRs 15 and 16 the provisions for multiple unit pricing of baby foods. However, if a retail problem on baby food does develop in the future, the matter will be given further consideration at such time in the light of the retail markups then in effect.

In view of the nature of these amendments, special circumstances have rendered consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, impractical. In the judgment of the Director the provisions of these amendments are generally fair and equitable, are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, and comply with all the applicable standards of that act.

GCPR, SR 13—COKE, COAL CHEMICALS AND COKE OVEN GAS

ADJUSTMENTS OF CEILING PRICES, BY-PRODUCT OVEN COKE, COAL CHEMICALS AND GAS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this Amendment 13 to Supplementary Regulation 13 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment to Supplementary Regulation 13 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation authorizes an increase averaging 3.75 percent of ceiling prices of coke and coal chemicals produced in by-product coke oven operations and in addition permits a pass-through by each producer of such products of the actual amount of his increase in the delivered cost of coal. Adjustments in the ceiling prices of coke are permitted retroactive to September 29, 1952.

At the request of representatives of the by-product coke oven industry, the Office of Price Stabilization has completed a survey to determine whether the industry is qualified for an increase in its ceiling prices under the Industry Earnings Standard. In accordance with the requirements of this Standard, earnings data were obtained from a representative group of companies in the industry for the years 1946 through 1949, and for the first nine months of 1952. The price adjustment provided for by this amendment is based upon a comparison of the current earnings position of the companies surveyed with their earnings recomputed to 85 percent of earnings in the best three out of four years in the 1946-49 period. Owing to complications presented by the integration of coke oven operations with such activities as coal mining, steel, pig iron production, gas utility and chemical operations and the difficulty of obtaining net worth figures, and information available to the Office of Price Stabilization indicating the probability that net worth has increased, this Office decided to dispense with figures on net worth to avoid undue delay in completion of the survey.

A comparison of the earnings data indicated that the industry's earnings are below the minimum required by the Industry Earnings Standard as a result of increases in coal costs, freight rates, wages, other costs and expenses, to the extent that an average increase of 3.75 percent in ceiling prices is required. Since the amount of this increase will serve only to bring the industry up to the level of earnings found to be required under the Earnings Standard, it is further necessary to provide for recovery of higher coal costs resulting from the mine labor contracts which have recently been concluded. As the exact amount of such higher costs cannot now be determined, this amendment permits each company to compute its own increase in cost and to adjust its ceiling prices accordingly.

The output of the industry consists of a number of co-products: coke (of various qualities and uses), coal tar, ammonia (generally processed to sulfate of ammonia), gas, and light oil being the principal items. While to some extent coke oven operations are controllable, the nature of the operations is such that significant variations in the output of any one co-product is not possible. In contrast, the demand for any one or more products may vary appreciably without corresponding change in the demand for the remainder, due to the great diversity of the uses to which coke oven products are put.

Although the by-product coking operations convert a ton of coal into approximately 70 percent (both in value and in quantity) of coke and 30 percent coal chemicals, it was found that actual "open market sales" of such products do not reflect this percentage distribution. While granting relief to the industry, the Agency did not consider it proper that any producer should be allowed to place a greater portion of his increased cost on his open-market sales than they bore to the total production. In order to do this, this amendment requires that the amount of increase is to be distributed by each producer between his coke and coal chemicals in the same ratio as his open-market sales of each group of such products bore to the total production of such group during the 12-month period ended April 30, 1952. This period was selected because it was the most recent normal year of operations. For the purposes of this amendment "sales" are defined as all sales except those which are exempt from the coverage of SR-13, and intra-corporate transactions. This method will, in the opinion of the Director, permit each producer to recover the actual amount of increased costs attributable to these sales and will require absorption of increased costs attributable to the amount of product consumed in other operations of the industry, such as the coke which is produced and consumed by steel companies.

Each producer is permitted by this amendment to adjust individual product ceilings so as to recover the overall amount of allowable increase on his various coke and coal chemical products, subject to the limitation that no one ceiling price may be increased by more than 10 percent.

Since this amendment is intended to provide relief to the by-product coke oven industry, the provisions of section 3 permitting adjustment in ceiling prices are no longer applicable to those producers who take advantage of the relief granted under this amendment.

In the judgment of the Director of the Office of Price Stabilization, the provisions of this amendment are generally fair and equitable, and are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

So far as practicable the Director of Price Stabilization gave due consideration to the National defense effort to achieve the maximum production in the furtherance of the objectives of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

In formulating this amendment the Director has consulted with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, and has given consideration to their recommendations.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Supplementary Regulation 13 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation, as amended, is further amended in the following respects:

1. Section 2 is amended by adding paragraph (j) as follows:

(j) "Gross sales revenue" or "sales" as used in section 10 means the total dollars of revenue derived from the sales of products produced in a by-product coke oven plant, exclusive of revenue obtained from sales which are exempt under the provisions of section 4 and intra-corporate transactions; except that if a by-product coke oven producer wishes to include revenue obtained from a long-term contract in his gross sales revenue figure, he may do so but thereafter the contract will no longer be exempt from the provisions of this supplementary regulation.

2. Section 3 is amended by adding paragraph (e) as follows:

(e) None of the provisions of this section shall be applicable to any by-product coke oven producer who adjusts his ceiling prices under the provisions of section 10 of this Supplementary Regulation.

3. A new section 10 is added as follows:

SEC. .10. Adjustment for by-product coke oven operators. Each producer of by-product oven coke and coal chemicals may adjust the ceiling prices established under the General Ceiling Price Regulation and Supplementary Regulation 13 for the sales (as defined in section 2 (j)) of coke, coke breeze, gas and coal chemicals produced in his by-product coke oven operations by an amount equivalent to 3.75 percent of his gross sales revenue during the 12-month period ended April 30, 1952, plus the amount of increase in his delivered cost of coal occurring after October 1, 1952. The manner in which the adjustments shall be made is as follows:

(a) Increase in delivered cost of coal. Each producer shall determine his "coal cost increase". This shall be the difference between (1) his average delivered cost of coal per ton during any period of at least one month after October 1, 1952, and prior to December 31, 1952, and (2) his average delivered cost of coal per ton during the period June through September 1952, multiplied by the tonnage of coal carbonized during the 12-month period ended April 30, 1952.

(b) How to determine the allowable amount of increase in ceiling prices. To establish the amount of increase which may be added to his ceiling prices, each producer should assemble the following data and make the computations indicated below:

Data required for the 12-month period ended April 30, 1952:
(1) Tons of coke "sales".
(2) Tons of coal chemical "sales" (excluding gas "sales" and converting all products to tons).
(3) Dollar "sales" for each of the above items (including "sales" of gas in coal chemical "sales").

Computation A. Coke products:
(1) Multiply coke dollar "sales" by 3.75 percent.
(2) Multiply "coal cost increase" by the percentage of tons of coke "sales" to tons of coal carbonized.
(3) Add (1) and (2).

The ceiling price of any coke products may be increased by the amounts which, in total, would have increased the coke "sales" (dollars) for the period ended April 30, 1952, by the sum determined in this computation; except that, in no event, may any ceiling price be increased by more than 10 percent.

Computation B. Coal chemicals:
(1) Multiply coal chemical dollar "sales" by 3.75 percent.
(2) Multiply "coal cost increase" by the percentage of tons of coal chemicals "sales" to tons of coal carbonized.
(3) Add (1) and (2).

The ceiling prices of any coal chemicals may be increased by amounts which, in total, would have increased the coal chemical "sales" (dollars) for the period ending April 30, 1952, by the sum determined in this computation; except that, in no event, may any ceiling price be increased by more than 10 percent.

Example: Assume that you carbonized 100,000 tons of coal during the 12 months ending April 30, 1952, and of that total 70,000 tons of coke were produced, of which 60,000 tons were sold subject to the provisions of SR 13. The remaining production consisted of various coal chemicals, of which 15,000 tons were sold. You would then have the following data and make the following computations:

1. Computation of coal cost increase.

Data required:
(a) Cost of coal—current	$10.00
(b) Cost of coal—June–September 1952	9.50
(c) Tons of coal carbonized, 12 months ending April 30, 1952	100,000
Computation:
Coal cost increase = (a − b) × c, or	$50,000

2. Computation of allowable increase in ceiling prices.

Data required for the 12-month period ending April 30, 1952:
(a) Tons of coke "sales"	60,000
(b) Tons of coal carbonized	100,000
(c) Tons of coal chemical "sales"	15,000
(d) Coke "sales" (dollars)	$800,000
(e) Coal chemical "sales" (dollars)	$200,000
Computation A. Coke:
(1) Coke "sales" × 3.75 percent ($800,000 × 0.0375)	$30,000
plus
(2) Tons of coke "sales" × coal cost increase. Tons of coal carbonized / (60,000 / 100,000) × $50,000	30,000
Subject to the 10 percent limitation, you may increase ceiling prices of coke products so that coke "sales" in the 12-months ending April 30, 1952, would have been increased by this amount	60,000
Computation B. Coal chemicals. Follow same procedure as for coke, substituting coal chemical "sales" for coke "sales":
(1) $200,000 × 0.0375	$7,500
(2) (15,000 / 100,000) × $50,000	7,500
Subject to the 10 percent limitation, you may increase ceiling prices on coal chemicals so that coal chemicals "sales" in the 12 months ending April 30, 1952, would have been increased by this amount	15,000

(c) Retroactive increases in the ceiling prices of coke products. To the extent that a producer has availed himself of the adjustable pricing provisions of section 9 of this supplementary regulation, he may increase ceiling prices of his coke products as permitted by this section retroactively to September 29, 1952.

GCPR, SR 95—CEILING PRICES FOR PROCESSORS AND DISTRIBUTORS OF FLAXSEED FEED PRODUCTS

DIFFERENTIALS AT CERTAIN BASE POINTS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this amendment to Revision 1 of Supplementary Regulation 95 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

Supplementary Regulation (SR) 95, Revision 1, to the General Ceiling Price Regulation (GCPR) established dollar-and-cent ceiling prices for processors of flaxseed feed products at specified points of production. A base ceiling price was set for processors located at Minneapolis, the principal producing center. Higher ceiling prices were fixed for the other production points in order to preserve normal price relationships among the various points of production as well as among major consuming markets.

Since SR 95, Rev. 1, was issued the Director has kept these intermarket differentials under continuing study. Additional data have become available in regard to historical price relationships among the various points of production. Based on careful study of these data, the Director has decided that the differentials over the Minneapolis base ceiling are inadequate for several points of production. The Director has determined that, in order to accomplish his objective of preserving normal price relationships, ceiling prices of processors at these producing points should be increased. Accordingly, this amendment increases by $2.00 per ton the ceiling prices of processors of flaxseed feed products located at Cleveland, Buffalo, New York Harbor area, Philadelphia, Emporia and Fredonia, Kansas. Many of the plants located at these points, although possessing crushing facilities, have discontinued processing flaxseed at the present time. Consequently, it is estimated that the adjustment made by this amendment will apply to less than one-fifth of the total production of flaxseed feed products.

In the formulation of this amendment there has been consultation with industry representatives, to the extent practicable, and consideration has been given to their recommendations. Special circumstances have rendered consultation with trade association representatives impracticable.

In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization, the provisions of this amendment are generally fair and equitable, are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, and comply with all the applicable standards of that act.

Subchapter B—Wage Stabilization Board

[General Wage Regulation 12, Amdt. 1]

GWR 12—ESTABLISHMENT OF CONSTRUCTION INDUSTRY STABILIZATION COMMISSION

EXTENSION OF CISC JURISDICTION

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, (64 Stat. 816, as amended by Pub. Law 96, and Pub. Law 429, 82d Cong.), Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), Executive Order 10377 (17 F. R. 6891), and Executive Order 10390 (17 F. R. 7995), and General Order No. 16, Economic Stabilization Administrator (17 F. R. 6925), the Wage Stabilization Board has formulated and recommended to the Economic Stabilization Administrator, for promulgation, and the Administrator, concurring in the judgment of the Wage Stabilization Board, hereby promulgates this Amendment 1 to General Wage Regulation 12.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

GWR 12 is amended in the following respects:

1. Section 3 is amended to read as follows:

SEC. 3. Jurisdiction of the Construction Industry Stabilization Commission. The jurisdiction of the Commission covers the administration of stabilization rules with respect to all wages, salaries or other compensation paid to:

(a) Mechanics and laborers employed directly at the site of the work, except as otherwise provided in paragraph (b) of this section.

(b) Manual employees engaged in the fabrication or repair of materials if: (1) They are employed by an employer in the building and construction industry and some of the employees, in the unit of which they are a part, engage in work at the site; (2) they exercise the same skills as mechanics and laborers in the building and construction industry; and (3) there was a contract or practice in effect in the area on and prior to June 24, 1950, by which their wage rates bore a fixed relationship to the wage rates established for mechanics and laborers in the same craft. Where there is no such fixed relationship and where there are employees who regularly work both at and away from the site of the work, or where there is a unit containing both employees who work at the site of the work and those who do not, the Commission shall not have jurisdiction except upon petition to and delegation by the Board.

(c) Manual employees employed in maintenance work, by an employer in the building and construction industry who performs maintenance work on a contract basis for various plants and facilities.

2. A new section 4 is added to read as follows:

SEC. 4. Definitions. (a) "Mechanics and laborers" are employees performing manual labor in connection with a building or construction project, including mechanic's apprentices and working foremen who are not supervisors. The term does not include employees whose work, although connected with building and construction projects is non-manual, such as executive, administrative, technical or clerical employees.

(b) "Building and construction industry" includes all persons engaged in erecting, constructing, altering, remodeling, painting and decorating, or in maintaining on a contract basis for various plants and facilities, installations such as buildings, bridges, highways and the like. Work performed in the building and construction industry includes the transporting of materials and supplies to or from a particular building or construction project by the employees of the contractor performing the construction.

(c) "Site of the work" means the place or places at which the direct labor involved in a building or construction project is performed, and includes temporary installations used in connection with a particular project even though such installation may not be directly on the site of the project. Installations of a permanent or commercial nature used to serve numerous projects are not considered as being on the site of construction.

(d) "Project" means a particular building job or a particular construction job undertaken by an employer in the building and construction industry at a specified location. A project may be classified by the Commission as involving either building, heavy or highway construction, and the approved wage rates for a particular job classification in a particular area may vary depending on the type of construction involved in a project.

(e) "Area" means the geographical area, generally at least a county or metropolitan area, which is the historical basis for collective bargaining for the particular craft and type of construction.

PREMIUM RATES IN EXCESS OF PRE-APPROVED RATES

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (64 Stat. 816, as amended by Pub. Law 96, and Pub. Law 429, 82d Cong.), Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), Executive Order 10377 (17 F. R. 6640), Construction Industry Stabilization Commission Regulation No. 1 is hereby amended.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

The text of section 5 is redesignated as paragraph (a), and new paragraphs (b), (c), and (d) are added, to read as follows:

(b) Premium rate for key employees or especially qualified individuals. Without securing additional approval from the Board or Commission, a contractor may continue to pay a fixed hourly premium above the pre-approved area rate to individual employees exercising special qualifications or performing special responsibilities not being exercised or performed by other employees generally in his craft classification if, but only if—

(1) The contractor's ordinary business records clearly establish that in the period April 1–July 31, 1950, the contractor was paying the identical individual employee, or one employee that he replaced, the same hourly premium above the area rate then applicable to the job classification to which such employee belongs, and that the contractor has paid such employee, or one employee that he replaced, the same premium above the area rate regularly (i. e., during the entire time that the contractor was anywhere engaged in construction activity) since that date except when prevented by wage stabilization regulations. This provision shall not be construed so as to permit the payment of premium pay to all employees of the contractor in the aforesaid craft classification; such premium pay may be paid only to individual employees possessing the special qualifications or having the special responsibilities referred to in this paragraph.

(2) If the contractor desires to pay a premium above the area rate to employees having special qualifications other than as provided in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, a petition for approval must be filed with the Commission.

(3) The contractor must keep on file for inspection the business records for the period April 1–July 31, 1950, showing the names of all individual employees receiving such premium.

(c) A contractor may continue to pay a piece rate or bonus measured by the quantity of production of an individual employee or group of employees even though the payment of such piece rate or bonus yields compensation in excess of the area rate as defined in section 4 of Regulation 1 of the Construction Industry Stabilization Commission, provided:

(1) The contractor's ordinary business records clearly establish that the contractor was paying the same piece rate or production bonus during the period April–July 1950, and

(2) The contractor has paid the same piece rate or production bonus regularly (i. e., during the entire time that the contractor was anywhere engaged in construction activity) since that date except when prevented by wage stabilization regulations.

No increase in a piece rate or bonus rate may be made without prior approval of the Construction Industry Stabilization Commission.

(d) A contractor may continue to pay a non-production bonus within the meaning of General Wage Regulation 14, vacations with pay or holidays with pay, or a health and welfare plan, provided:

(1) The contractor's ordinary business records clearly establish that the contractor was paying such non-production bonus or such enumerated fringe item during calendar 1950; and

(2) The contractor has paid such compensation regularly (i. e., during the entire time that the contractor was anywhere engaged in construction activity) since then except when prevented by wage stabilization regulations.

No increase in such compensation rate, and no extension of such compensation to classes of employees not so compensated during calendar 1950, may be made without prior approval of the Construction Industry Stabilization Commission.

PROPOSED RULE MAKING

DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY

Bureau of Internal Revenue

[26 CFR Part 29]

INCOME TAX; TAXABLE YEARS BEGINNING AFTER DECEMBER 31, 1941

FOREIGN TAX CREDIT

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act, approved June 11, 1946, that the regulations set forth below in tentative form are proposed to be prescribed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury. Prior to the final adoption of such regulations, consideration will be given to any data, views, or arguments pertaining thereto which are submitted in writing in duplicate to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington 25, D. C., within the period of 30 days from the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The proposed regulations are to be issued under the authority contained in sections 62 and 3791 of the Internal Revenue Code (53 Stat. 32, 467; 26 U. S. C. 62, 3791).

[SEAL] JUSTIN F. WINKLE,
Acting Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

In order to conform Regulations 111 (26 CFR, Part 29) to the provisions of section 302 (relating to the foreign tax credit) of the Excess Profits Tax Act of 1950, approved January 3, 1951, such regulations are hereby amended as follows:

PARAGRAPH 1. There is inserted immediately preceding § 29.131–1 the following:

SEC. 302. FOREIGN TAX CREDIT (EXCESS PROFITS TAX ACT OF 1950, APPROVED JANUARY 3, 1951).

(a) That portion of section 131 (a) of the Internal Revenue Code which precedes paragraph (1) thereof is hereby amended by inserting after "subchapter E" the following: "and except, with respect to the tax imposed under subchapter D, only to the extent provided in subsection (j)".

(b) Section 131 of such code is hereby amended by adding at the end thereof the following new subsection:

(j) Tax imposed by Subchapter D. This section shall be applicable for purposes of the tax imposed by subchapter D, but the tax paid or accrued to any country shall be deemed to be the amount of such tax reduced by the amount of the credit allowed under this section with respect to such tax against the tax imposed by this chapter without regard to subchapter D. The amount of the credit taken under this subsection shall be subject to each of the following conditions:

(1) The amount of the credit in respect of the tax paid or accrued to any country shall not exceed the same proportion of the tax against which such credit is taken, which the taxpayer's excess profits net income from sources within such country bears to its entire excess profits net income for the same taxable year; and

(2) The total amount of the credit shall not exceed the same proportion of the tax against which such credit is taken, which the taxpayer's excess profits net income from sources without the United States bears to its entire excess profits net income for the same taxable year.

PAR. 2. Section 29.131–1, as amended by Treasury Decision 5893, approved April 4, 1952 is further amended by adding at the end of paragraph (e) thereof the following new sentence: "For taxable years ending after June 30, 1950, credit for taxes shall be allowed against the excess profits tax imposed by subchapter D of chapter 1, but only to the extent provided in section 131 (j) and § 29.131–10."

PAR. 3. Section 29.131–4, as amended by Treasury Decision 5812, approved October 6, 1950 is further amended by deleting "income" from the second sentence of paragraph (a) thereof, so that such sentence will read as follows: "The Commissioner will thereupon redetermine the amount of the tax of such taxpayer for the year or years for which such incorrect credit was granted."

PAR. 4. Section 29.131–8, as amended by Treasury Decision 5855, approved September 13, 1951 is further amended as follows:

(A) By inserting "for purpose of the income tax" in that part of the first sentence of paragraph (a) thereof which reads "is the tentative credit in respect of the taxes paid or accrued to such country or possession.", immediately after "tentative credit", so that such part will read "is the tentative credit for purpose of the income tax in respect of the taxes paid or accrued to such country or possession."

(B) By striking out the period at the end of the paragraph (a) thereof and inserting in lieu thereof "; and, for taxable years ending after June 30, 1950, there must also be excluded, except to the extent provided in section 131 (j) and § 29.131–10, the excess profits tax imposed by subchapter D of chapter 1."

(C) By adding at the end of paragraph (f) thereof, which paragraph precedes example (4) and begins with the words "As to the allowance of credit", the following new sentence: "As to the allowance of credit for such taxes against the excess profits tax imposed by subchapter D of chapter 1, see section 131 (j) and § 29.131–10."

PAR. 5. There is inserted immediately after § 29.131–9 the following new section:

§ 29.131–10 Credit against excess profits tax imposed by subchapter D. (a) For taxable years ending after June 30, 1950, a domestic corporation is allowed a credit against the excess profits tax imposed by subchapter D of chapter 1 for the amount of any income, war profits, and excess profits taxes paid or accrued during the taxable year to any foreign country or to any possession of the United States. To the extent pertinent, the provisions of section 131 and §§ 29.131–1 through 29.131–9 are applicable for the purpose of claiming credit for taxes under this section, except that for such purpose the amount of income and profits taxes paid or accrued during the taxable year to any foreign country or possession shall be deemed to be the amount of such taxes actually paid or accrued reduced by the amount of such taxes allowed as a credit under section 131 against the tax imposed by chapter 1 without regard to the excess profits tax imposed by subchapter D. See § 29.131–8 as to the amount of such credit allowable and as to the computation of the tax against which such credit may be taken.

(b) The amount of the income and profits taxes paid or accrued (including the taxes which, in accordance with the provisions of section 131 (f), are deemed to have been paid) during the taxable year to each foreign country or possession of the United States, limited under section 131 (j) (1) so as not to exceed that proportion of the excess profits tax which the taxpayer's excess profits net income from sources within such country or possession bears to its entire excess profits net income for the same taxable year, is the tentative credit for the purpose of this section in respect of the taxes paid or accrued to such country or possession. The sum of these tentative credits, limited under section 131 (j) (2) so as not to exceed that proportion of the excess profits tax which the taxpayer's excess profits net income from sources without the United States bears to its entire excess profits net income for the same taxable year, is the amount allowable as a credit against the excess profits tax for income or profits taxes paid or accrued to foreign countries or possessions of the United States. For the determination of the excess profits net income, see §§ 40.433 (a)–1 and 40.433 (a)–2 of this subchapter (Regulations 130). For the determination of the source of such net income, see section 119 and the regulations thereunder.

(c) The application of this section may be illustrated by the following examples involving the calendar year 1951.

Example (1). In this example it is assumed that the taxpayer has no income or loss from any foreign country other than Country X. Accordingly, the limitation under section 131 (j) (2) will not change the credit determined after applying section 131 (j) (1).

(A) Normal tax net income from all sources	$100,000
(B) Total normal tax and surtax (before section 131 credit)	45,250
(C) Normal tax net income from foreign Country X	90,000
(D) Foreign tax paid on Country X income	49,500
(E) Limitation on foreign tax under section 131 (b) (1) and (2) to determine section 131 (a) credit allowable against normal tax and surtax: $\frac{$90,000}{$100,000} \times $45,250$	40,725
(F) Foreign tax credit allowable against normal tax and surtax (foreign tax, but not in excess of above limitation of $40,725)	40,725
(G) Excess profits net income from all sources	$80,000
(H) Excess profits net income from foreign Country X	75,000
(I) Excess profits credit	60,000
(J) Excess profits tax (before section 131 credit)	6,000
(K) Foreign tax paid on Country X income for the purpose of section 131 (j): $49,500 – $40,725	8,775
(L) Limitation on foreign tax under section 131 (j) (1) and (2) to determine section 131 (j) credit allowable against excess profits tax: $\frac{$75,000}{$80,000} \times $6,000$	5,625
(M) Foreign tax credit allowable against excess profits tax (foreign tax for purpose of section 131 (j), but not in excess of above limitation of $5,625)	5,625
(N) Total income and excess profits tax (before section 131 credit): $45,250 + $6,000	51,250
(O) Total credit under section 131: $40,725 + $5,625	46,350
(P) Total income and excess profits tax after credit under section 131: $51,250 – $46,350	4,900

Example (2). The facts are assumed to be the same as those under example (1), except that there is a net loss of $10,000 allocable to foreign Country Y, which net loss was taken into account in determining the normal tax net income from all sources of $100,000 (item (A), example (1)) and the excess profits net income from all sources of $80,000 (item (G), example (1)). The total income and excess profits tax after credit under section 131 is computed as follows:

(A) Tentative foreign tax credit under section 131 (b) (1) allowable against normal tax and surtax (foreign tax paid on Country X income, but not in excess of limitation under section 131 (b) (1)): $\frac{$90,000}{$100,000} \times $45,250$	$40,725
(B) Limitation on foreign tax under section 131 (b) (2) to determine section 131 (a) credit allowable against normal tax and surtax: $\frac{$80,000}{$100,000} \times $45,250$	36,200
(C) Foreign tax credit allowable against normal tax and surtax (tentative credit under section 131 (b) (1), but not in excess of $36,200, limitation under section 131 (b) (2))	36,200
(D) Foreign tax paid for the purpose of section 131 (j): $49,500 – $36,200	13,300
(E) Tentative foreign tax credit under section 131 (j) (1) allowable against excess profits tax (foreign tax for purpose of section 131 (j), but not in excess of limitation under section 131 (j) (1)): $\frac{$75,000}{$80,000} \times $6,000$	5,625
(F) Limitation on foreign tax under section 131 (j) (2) to determine section 131 (j) credit allowable against excess profits tax: $\frac{$65,000}{$80,000} \times $6,000$	4,875
(G) Foreign tax credit allowable against excess profits tax (tentative credit under section 131 (j) (1), but not in excess of $4,875, limitation under section 131 (j) (2))	4,875
(H) Total income and excess profits tax (before section 131 credit): $45,250 + $6,000	$51,250
(I) Total credit under section 131: $36,200 + $4,875	41,075
(J) Total income and excess profits tax after credit under section 131: $51,250 – $41,075	10,175

Regulations 130 (26 CFR Part 40) are hereby amended by striking from § 40.455–2 (b) thereof the second, third, fourth, and fifth sentences, which read as follows: "The deduction for bad debts under section 23 (k) shall be allowed only with respect to debts which become worthless within the taxable year. No reserve for bad debts arising from installment accounts receivable may be set up for excess profits tax purposes only, and no bad debt deduction shall be allowed for any additions to such a reserve. Only those debts which have become worthless within the taxable year and which are allowed as a deduction in the computation of net income for the purposes of the normal tax and surtax for the taxable year shall be allowed in the determination of the bad debt deduction for excess profits tax purposes under section 455 (a). If a debt reflected in installment accounts receivable was created in a prior taxable year, and if the total amount of the profit represented by such installment accounts receivable is includible in gross income for such year under the accrual method of accounting, the amount of the deduction for the bad debt shall be computed upon the accrual method and shall not be limited to the unrecovered cost of the goods or articles sold in consideration of such debt."; and inserting in lieu thereof the following new sentences: "No reserve for bad debts arising from accounts receivable from installment sales or installment sales obligations may be set up for excess profits tax purposes unless a reserve has been established for income tax purposes. If a debt reflected in installment accounts receivable was created in a prior taxable year, and if the total amount of the profit represented by such installment accounts receivable is includible in gross income for such year under the accrual method of accounting, the amount of the deduction for bad debts, in the case of a taxpayer which bases its deduction for bad debts on the debts which become worthless within the taxable year, shall be computed upon the accrual method and shall not be limited to the unrecovered cost of the goods or articles sold in consideration of such debt. The same principle shall be applicable in determining the amount which may be deducted as a reasonable addition to a reserve for bad debts in the case of a taxpayer properly on the reserve method."

4. Amend that portion of subparagraph (1) of paragraph (b) of § 151.10, as amended (9 CFR and Supp. 151.10 (b) (1), as amended), immediately preceding the list of breeds in said subparagraph (1) to read as follows:

(b) Breeds and books of record in Canada—(1) Animals generally. The books of record of the Canadian National Live Stock Records, Ottawa, Canada, of which R. G. T. Hitchman is Director, are recognized for the following breeds: Provided, That no animals registered in the Canadian National Live Stock Records shall be certified under the act as purebred unless such animals trace only to animals which are proved to the satisfaction of the Bureau to be of the same breed: Provided further, That no Karakul sheep, Alpine goat, Nubian goat, or horse of the American Saddle, Canadian, or Arabian breeds in Canada shall be certified under the act as purebred unless a pedigree certificate showing three complete generations of known and recorded purebred ancestry of the particular breed involved, issued by the Canadian National Live Stock Records, is submitted for such animal.

The proposed revision of 9 CFR 151.10 (a) includes the substance of all prior amendments thereto. It also adds to the subdivision relating to horses the book of record entitled "Registro-Matricula de Caballos de Pura Sangre"; removes the books of record entitled "Herd Book Da La Race Bovine Charolaise" and "Herd-Book de la Race Normande Pure" from the subdivision relating to cattle, and the books of record entitled "Zuchtbuch der Fachschaft für Dobermannpinscher" and "Registro Genealogico de Caninos" from the subdivision relating to dogs; changes the name of the recognized breed of horses registered in the book of record entitled "Stambok over Fjordhest"; and incorporates certain corrections in the names, custodianship, and addresses of the associations sponsoring or publishing books of record listed therein. It is proposed to withdraw recognition of the four books of record named above because the sponsoring organizations have not furnished their records in reasonably current form as required by § 151.10. The proposed revision further removes the book of record entitled "Large Black Pig Society Herd Book" from the subdivision relating to hogs, and adds the Large Black breed of hogs to the list of breeds in the book of record entitled "Herd Book of the National Pig Breeders' Association" which are currently recognized by the Secretary of Agriculture. The "Large Black Pig Society Herd Book" no longer exists. The purebred registrations for Large Black hogs contained in this herd book have been taken over by the "Herd Book of the National Pig Breeders' Association".

The proposed amendment of subparagraph (1) of paragraph (b) of § 151.10 would require that no Nubian goat shall be certified under the act as purebred unless a pedigree certificate showing three complete generations of known and recorded purebred ancestry of the Nubian breed is submitted for such animal.

Any person who wishes to submit written data, views, or arguments concerning the foregoing proposed action may do so by filing them with the Chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry, Agricultural Research Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., within fifteen days after the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Done at Washington, D. C., this 19th day of November 1952.

Acting Secretary of Agriculture.

PILOT AND MEDICAL CERTIFICATE REQUIREMENTS FOR COPILOTS

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

Pursuant to authority delegated by the Civil Aeronautics Board to the Bureau of Safety Regulation, notice is hereby given that the Bureau has under consideration proposed amendments to Part 43 of the Civil Air Regulations as hereinafter set forth.

Interested persons may participate in the making of the proposed rules by submitting such written data, views, or arguments as they may desire. Communications should be submitted in duplicate to the Civil Aeronautics Board, attention Bureau of Safety Regulation, Washington 25, D. C. In order to insure their consideration by the Board before taking further action on the proposed rules, communications must be received by December 23, 1952. Copies of such communications will be available after December 26, 1952, for examination by interested persons at the Docket Section of the Board, Room 5412, Commerce Building, Washington, D. C.

At present §§ 43.40, 43.41, and 43.42 prescribe that a person shall not pilot an airplane unless he has in his personal possession pilot and medical certificates and is unaware of any physical deficiency which would render him unable to meet the requirements for issuance of his medical certificate. Since "to pilot" is defined in § 43.70 (b) as meaning to be in command of the aircraft during take-off, in flight, or landing, a person could serve as copilot in operations requiring two pilots without complying with §§ 43.40, 43.41, and 43.42. In order to correct this undesirable possibility, it is considered necessary to amend these sections to include copilots.

Accordingly, it is proposed to amend Part 43 of the Civil Air Regulations as follows:

1. By amending the first sentence of § 43.40 to read as follows:

§ 43.40 Pilot certificate. A person shall not serve as pilot in command or copilot of civil aircraft within the United States unless he has in his personal possession at all times while so serving a valid pilot certificate with appropriate ratings issued by the Administrator, or an appropriate and valid foreign pilot certificate and ratings. * * *

2. By amending the first sentence of § 43.41 to read as follows:

§ 43.41 Medical certificate and renewal. A person shall not serve as pilot in command or copilot of an aircraft under authority of a pilot certificate issued by the Administrator, unless he has in his personal possession at all times while so serving a medical certificate or other evidence satisfactory to the Administrator showing that he has met the physical requirements appropriate to his rating within the following time limits: • • •

3. By deleting from § 43.42 the phrase "A person shall not pilot any" and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "A person shall not serve as pilot in command or copilot of an".

This amendment is proposed under the authority of Title VI of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended. The proposals may be changed in the light of comments received in response to this notice of proposed rule making.

KEZAR FALLS WOOLEN CO.

ORDER GRANTING EXEMPTION

NOVEMBER 19, 1952.

Kezar Falls Woolen Company ("Kezar Falls"), having filed an application with this Commission pursuant to section 3 (a) (3) (A) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act") requesting exemption from the provisions of the act on behalf of itself and its subsidiaries, Cornish and Kezar Falls Light & Power Company, a public-utility company, and Kezar Falls Water Company, a non-utility company; and

Due notice of the filing of said application having been given and a hearing thereon not having been requested of, or ordered by, the Commission; and

The Commission having examined the application and the statements contained therein and having found that Kezar Falls is only incidentally a holding company, being primarily engaged in a business other than that of a public-utility company and not deriving, directly or indirectly, any material part of its income from one or more companies the principal business of which is that of a public-utility company; and further finding that the granting of an exemption to Kezar Falls as a holding company and to its subsidiaries as such will not be detrimental to the public interest or the interests of investors or consumers;

It is ordered, Pursuant to section 3 (a) (3) (A) of the act and subject to the provisions of section 3 (c) thereof, that Kezar Falls as a holding company and its subsidiaries as such be, and the same hereby are, exempted from all provisions of the act, said companies remaining subject, however, to any obligation imposed upon them in any capacity other than as a holding company or as subsidiaries of a holding company.

The Commission having examined said amendment and having considered the record herein and finding no reason for imposing any terms or conditions with respect to the price to be received by Philadelphia and Duquesne for the stock, the underwriters' spread, or otherwise, and it appearing appropriate to the Commission that the jurisdiction heretofore reserved over the results of competitive bidding with respect to the sale of Duquesne's common stock by Philadelphia and the issuance and sale of its common stock by Duquesne be released; and

The record having been completed with respect to certain fees and expenses and the Commission deeming it appropriate to release jurisdiction as to such fees and expenses provided such fees and expenses, paid or to be paid, as to which jurisdiction is being released, do not exceed the amounts stated below:

MASSACHUSETTS INVESTORS TRUST

NOTICE OF APPLICATION

NOVEMBER 19, 1952.

Notice is hereby given that Massachusetts Investors Trust (hereinafter called "MIT"), a strict trust organized in Massachusetts and an open-end, diversified management investment company registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940, whose address is 200 Berkeley Street, Boston 16, Massachusetts, has filed an application under Rule N-17D-1 of the rules and regulations under the act, promulgated pursuant to section 17 (d) of the act, with respect to a proposed Pension Plan and a proposed Profit-Sharing Plan for employees of MIT.

The Pension Plan provides for pensions and life insurance benefits to be funded by the purchase of level annual premium insurance company individual contracts purchased by the Pension Trustee. The rate of annual pensions at normal retirement age will be computed on the basis of the employee's aggregate basic compensation in excess of $3,600 in each year during the period of his coverage (including past years in which he would have been covered if the Plan had been in effect), but shall not be less than $120 a year. Provision is made for death benefits upon death of the employee prior to retirement.

The Profit-Sharing Plan provides for quarterly contributions for the account of each employee equal to 15 percent of his basic compensation (including bonuses) provided that the aggregate of contributions for all employees in any quarter shall not exceed ¾ of 1 percent of the net income of MIT (excluding capital gains or losses and as reported to shareholders before deductions of Profit Sharing Plan contributions for that quarter). Contributions will be invested in United States Government obligations except that any employee may elect in any quarter to invest all or one-half of his contribution in shares of MIT. Provision is made for conversion of accounts into cash upon or after retirement at the election of an employee and distributions are made in cash at retirement or severance over a ten-year period. Upon death an employee's account will be distributed to his beneficiary or beneficiaries in cash in a lump sum or as he may direct subject to the approval of the Retirement Committee.

Under both plans MIT will make all the contributions and bear the administrative expenses, except that under the Pension Plan an employee bears any extra life insurance premium caused by the fact that he is a substandard risk. At the present time nine employees of MIT are eligible to participate in the Pension Plan and twenty-three employees are eligible to participate in the Profit-Sharing Plan. If the Profit-Sharing Plan had been in effect for the entire year 1952, the contributions of MIT to the Plan would be $27,938, assuming no change in compensation of members. The first year premium costs of the Pension Plan to MIT will be $15,443.49, assuming all employees to be insurable. The costs of contributions to, and administration of, the Plans will be an additional operating expense of MIT.

The amended application states that the Plans have been approved by the Trustees for adoption in order to increase the stability of MIT's personnel which is composed at the analytical and professional level of highly trained specialists who are not easily replaceable and for whom MIT must compete with organizations offering deferred compensation plans, and that to the extent that shares of MIT are purchased by the Profit-Sharing Plan, the Plan itself acts as an incentive to employees to better the performance of MIT with respect both to capital appreciation and income.

For a more detailed statement of the matters of fact and law asserted, all interested persons are referred to said application which is on file in the office of the Commission in Washington, D. C.

Notice is further given that an order granting the application may be issued by the Commission at any time on or after December 5, 1952, unless prior thereto a hearing upon the application is ordered by the Commission as provided in Rule N-5 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act. Any interested person may, not later than December 3, 1952, at 5:30 p. m., submit to the Commission in writing his views or any additional facts bearing upon this application or the desirability of a hearing thereon, or request in writing that the Commission order a hearing be held thereon. Any such communication or request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C., and should state briefly the nature of the interest of the person submitting such information or requesting a hearing, the reasons for such request, and the issues of fact or law raised by the application which he desires to controvert.

CANNED GOODS IN OFFICIAL TERRITORY

REASSIGNING TIME FOR HEARINGS AND PRESCRIBING SPECIAL RULES DIRECTING INTERCHANGE OF PREPARED MATERIAL

In the matters of (1) reassigning the time for hearings, and (2) prescribing special rules directing interchange of prepared material prior to hearing.

It appearing, that a substantial number of motor carriers are being made respondents in No. MC-C-1431, and that these respondents would have insufficient notice of this proceeding adequately to prepare for hearing therein as now assigned:

It is ordered, That the hearings now scheduled at Washington, D. C., on December 2, 1952, in the above-entitled proceedings, be, and they are hereby, reassigned for hearing at the offices of the Interstate Commerce Commission, Washington, D. C., at 9:30 o'clock a. m., e. s. t., on January 26, 1953, before Examiner Oren G. Barber;

It is further ordered, That the following special rules shall be applicable herein:

1. Prepared statement interchange before hearing. The parties shall prepare in writing all evidence in chief of their witnesses and serve upon all other parties copies thereof together with any exhibits they intend to offer in evidence, such testimony and exhibits to be served by all parties on or before December 22, 1952. The filing and service of all testimony and exhibits in rebuttal of such direct evidence shall be made on or before January 12, 1953. A copy of all testimony and exhibits shall also be mailed to the examiner.

2. Participation limited. Any person not a respondent who desires to submit evidence herein shall, not later than seven days prior to the due date herein provided for submission of evidence (December 22 or January 12, as the case may be), file a petition for leave to intervene; and the subsequent reception of evidence, except as good cause therefor shall otherwise be shown at the hearing, will be limited to respondents and to those who by order shall have been permitted to intervene as herein provided.

3. Notification of desire to be served with testimony and exhibits. Any respondent or other party desiring to be served with exhibits and testimony as hereinbefore provided must notify the Acting Secretary of the Interstate Commerce Commission on or before December 8, 1952, of such desire. Thereafter, a list of parties will be compiled, and a copy thereof served upon all parties.

4. General specifications. Prepared statements shall conform to Rule 15 of the general rules of practice in respect to style, mimeographing or printing, etc. Evidence offered should be prepared carefully with conciseness and clarity and so as to avoid extraneous, immaterial, and irrelevant matter, and undue cumulation of testimony upon any point. The statements should be factual in character, and argument not be incorporated in the testimony. If not so limited the prepared statement may be excluded in whole or in part. Also the Commission on its own motion or on objection may exclude a statement or any portion thereof which is (a) not material or relevant to the questions presented in the proceeding, or (b) obviously incompetent.

5. Verification; relief from cross examination and personal appearance. There is no requirement that a prepared statement shall have an affidavit attached, but this does not preclude attaching an affidavit to the prepared statement. If that is done the following, or its equivalent, should appear on the top of the first sheet of the statement:

This statement is verified. Unless written request for cross examination is received by affiant or his attorney not later than January 15, 1953, affiant desires that the statement be considered for incorporation in the record without his personal appearance as a witness.

A witness making such a request and thereafter receiving a demand for cross examination must personally report at the hearing, or his verified statement may not be received. If a demand for cross examination is not made, the privilege of cross examination will be deemed to be waived if the statement is verified and the witness making the statement has requested to be relieved from personal appearance as above provided. It will be presumed that a witness preparing an unsworn statement intends personally to appear at the hearing for cross examination and to be sworn at that time. An unsworn statement may not be admitted.

6. Oral evidence limited. Implementing oral evidence to correct errors or to supply inadvertent omissions in prepared statements is permissible, but evidence in chief not previously interchanged in writing as herein provided may not be admitted except as good cause therefor shall be shown at the hearing.

7. How admitted to the record. To become part of the record it is necessary for the witness, or some one qualified to represent him, formally to offer the prepared statement in evidence at the hearing; and unless good reason shall otherwise appear, the statement will be admitted as an exhibit.

8. Materiality reserved. A prepared statement received in evidence with or without objection as to its admissibility is subject to subsequent challenge as to the weight to be accorded to the facts in such statement.

9. Witness examination. The examination of a witness should be conducted in a manner so as to make it rapid, distinct, and as little annoying to the witness as is consistent with eliciting the facts, and to this end counsel on the same side of an issue should agree upon one person to examine a witness.

10. Proposed findings; oral argument. At the close of the testimony the examiner shall call upon the parties to read into the record, or offer as an exhibit, a concisely prepared statement of numbered findings of fact and conclusions thereon which they believe should be made; and the parties should be prepared, as contemplated by Rule 88 of the general rules of practice, orally to argue the proceeding, or, in lieu thereof, to offer as an exhibit a written statement of oral argument:

And it is further ordered, That in addition to service hereof upon all parties of record, a copy hereof also shall be filed with the Director, Division of the Federal Register.

Dated at Washington, D. C., this 14th day of November A. D. 1952.

(17 F. R. 8020). No objections to such rules having been received, the amendments set forth below necessary to conform Regulations 105 (26 CFR Part 81) to such provisions are hereby adopted.

PARAGRAPH 1. There is inserted immediately preceding § 81.44 the following:

SEC. 302. EXEMPTION OF CERTAIN ORGANIZATIONS FOR PAST YEARS (REVENUE ACT OF 1950, APPROVED SEPTEMBER 23, 1950).

(a) Trade or business not unrelated. For any taxable year beginning prior to January 1, 1951, no organization shall be denied exemption under paragraph (1), (6), or (7) of section 101 of the Internal Revenue Code on the grounds that it is carrying on a trade or business for profit if the income from such trade or business would not be taxable as unrelated business income under the provisions of Supplement U of the Internal Revenue Code, as amended by this act, or if such trade or business is the rental by such organization of its real property (including personal property leased with the real property).

(b) Period of limitations. In the case of an organization which would otherwise be exempt under section 101 of the Internal Revenue Code were it not carrying on a trade or business for profit, the filing of the information return required by section 54 (f) of the Internal Revenue Code (relating to returns by tax-exempt organizations) for any taxable year beginning prior to January 1, 1951, shall be deemed to be the filing of a return for the purposes of section 275 of the Internal Revenue Code (relating to period of limitation upon assessment and collection). In the case of such an organization which was, by the provisions of section 54 (f) of the Internal Revenue Code, specifically not required to file such information return, for the purposes of the preceding sentence a return shall be deemed to have been filed at the time when such return should have been filed had it been so required. The provisions of this subsection shall not apply to a taxable year of such an organization with respect to which, prior to September 20, 1950, (1) any amount of tax was assessed or paid, or (2) a notice of deficiency under section 272 of the Internal Revenue Code was sent to the taxpayer.

(c) Denial of deductions. A gift or bequest to an organization prior to January 1, 1951, for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes (including the encouragement of art and the prevention of cruelty to children or animals) otherwise allowable as a deduction under section * * * 812 (d), 861 (a) (3), * * * of the Internal Revenue Code, may not be denied under such sections if a denial of exemption to such organization for the taxable year of the organization in which such gift or bequest was made is prevented by the provisions of subsections (a) or (b) of this section.

SEC. 162. NET INCOME (INTERNAL REVENUE CODE AS AMENDED BY SECTION 321, REVENUE ACT OF 1950, APPROVED SEPTEMBER 23, 1950).

The net income of the estate or trust shall be computed in the same manner and on the same basis as in the case of an individual, except that—

(a) Subject to the provisions of subsection (g), there shall be allowed as a deduction (in lieu of the deduction for charitable, etc., contributions authorized by section 23 (o)) any part of the gross income, without limitation, which pursuant to the terms of the will or deed creating the trust, is during the taxable year paid or permanently set aside for the purposes and in the manner specified in section 23 (o), or is to be used exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals, or for the establishment, acquisition, maintenance or operation of a public cemetery not operated for profit. Where any amount of the income so paid or set aside is attributable to gain from the sale or exchange of capital assets held for more than six months, proper adjustment of the deduction otherwise allowable under this subsection shall be made for any deduction allowable to the trust under section 23 (ee);

(g) Rules for application of subsection (a) in the case of trusts.

(2) Operations of trusts—(A) Limitation on charitable, etc., deduction. The amount otherwise allowable under subsection (a) as a deduction shall not exceed 15 per centum of the net income of the trust (computed without the benefit of subsection (a)) if the trust has engaged in a prohibited transaction, as defined in subparagraph (B) of this paragraph.

(B) Prohibited transactions. For the purposes of this paragraph the term "prohibited transaction" means any transaction after July 1, 1950, in which any trust while holding income or corpus which has been permanently set aside or is to be used exclusively for charitable or other purposes described in subsection (a)—

(i) Lends any part of such income or corpus, without receipt of adequate security and a reasonable rate of interest, to;

(ii) Pays any compensation from such income or corpus, in excess of a reasonable allowance for salaries or other compensation for personal services actually rendered, to;

(iii) Makes any part of its services available on a preferential basis to;

(iv) Uses such income or corpus to make any substantial purchase of securities or any other property, for more than an adequate consideration in money or money's worth, from;

(v) Sells any substantial part of the securities or other property comprising such income or corpus, for less than an adequate consideration in money or money's worth, to; or

(vi) Engages in any other transaction which results in a substantial diversion of such income or corpus to;

the creator of such trust; any person who has made a substantial contribution to such trust; a member of the family (as defined in section 24 (b) (2) (D)) of an individual who is the creator of the trust or who has made a substantial contribution to the trust; or a corporation controlled by any such creator or person through the ownership, directly or indirectly, of 50 per centum or more of the total combined voting power of all classes of stock entitled to vote or 50 per centum or more of the total value of shares of all classes of stock of the corporation.

(C) Taxable years affected. The amount otherwise allowable under subsection (a) as a deduction shall be limited as provided in subparagraph (A) only for taxable years subsequent to the taxable year during which the trust is notified by the Secretary that it has engaged in such transaction, unless such trust entered into such prohibited transaction with the purpose of diverting such corpus or income from the purposes described in subsection (a), and such transaction involved a substantial part of such corpus or income.

(D) Future charitable, etc., deductions of trusts denied deduction under subparagraph (C). If the deduction of any trust under subsection (a) has been limited as provided in this paragraph, such trust, with respect to any taxable year following the taxable year in which notice is received of limitation of deduction under subsection (a), may, under regulations prescribed by the Secretary, file claim for the allowance of the unlimited deduction under subsection (a), and if the Secretary, pursuant to such regulations, is satisfied that such trust will not knowingly again engage in a prohibited transaction, the limitation provided in subparagraph (A) shall not be applicable with respect to taxable years subsequent to the year in which such claim is filed.

(E) Disallowance of certain charitable, etc., deductions. No gift or bequest for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes (including the encouragement of art and the prevention of cruelty to children or animals), otherwise allowable as a deduction under section * * * 812 (d), 861 (a) (3), * * * shall be allowed as a deduction if made in trust and, in the taxable year of the trust in which the gift or bequest is made, the deduction allowed the trust under subsection (a) is limited by subparagraph (A). With respect to any taxable year of a trust in which such deduction has been so limited by reason of entering into a prohibited transaction with the purpose of diverting such corpus or income from the purposes described in subsection (a), and such transaction involved a substantial part of such income or corpus, and which taxable year is the same, or prior to the, taxable year of the trust in which such prohibited transaction occurred, such deduction shall be disallowed the donor only if such donor or (if such donor is an individual) any member of his family (as defined in section 24 (b) (2) (D)) was a party to such prohibited transaction.

(F) Definition. For the purposes of this paragraph the term "gift or bequest" means any gift, contribution, bequest, devise, legacy, or transfer.

(3) Cross reference. For disallowance of certain charitable, etc., deductions otherwise allowable under subsection (a), see section 3813.

SEC. 333. EFFECTIVE DATES (REVENUE ACT OF 1950, APPROVED SEPTEMBER 23, 1950).

Subsections (c) and (d) of section 3813 • • • of the Internal Revenue Code, added by section 331 of this Act, shall apply with respect to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1950, and subsection (e) of section 3813 of the Internal Revenue Code shall apply only with respect to gifts or bequests (as defined in section 3813 of the Internal Revenue Code) made on or after January 1, 1951.

PAR. 2. Section 81.44, as amended by Treasury Decision 5906, approved May 27, 1952, is further amended as follows:

(A) By changing the headnote of such section and of paragraph (a) to read as follows: "§ 81.44 Transfers for public, charitable, religious, etc., uses—(a) In general.";

(B) By striking the word "Deduction" at the beginning of the first sentence and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (b) of this section, deduction"; and

(C) By adding at the end of paragraph (a) the following paragraph (b).

(b) Disallowance of certain charitable, etc., deductions. (1) In the case of a decedent dying on or after January 1, 1951, no deduction which would otherwise be allowable under paragraph (a) of this section for the value of property transferred by the decedent during his lifetime or by will for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes (including the encouragement of art and the prevention of cruelty to children or animals) shall be allowed if (i) the transfer is made in trust and, for income tax purposes for the taxable year of the trust in which the transfer is made, the deduction otherwise allowable to such trust under section 162 (a) is limited by section 162 (g) (2) (A) by reason of the trust having engaged in a prohibited transaction described in section 162 (g) (2) (B); or (ii) the transfer is made to an organization subject to section 3813 which, for its taxable year in which the transfer is made, is not exempt from income tax under section 101 (6) by reason of having engaged in a prohibited transaction described in section 3813 (b).

(2) For the purpose of section 162 (g) (2) (E) and section 3813 (e) the term "transfer" includes any gift, contribution, bequest, devise, legacy, or other disposition. In applying such sections for estate tax purposes, a transfer, whether made before, on or after January 1, 1951, and whether made during the decedent's lifetime or by will, shall be considered as having been made at the moment of the decedent's death.

(3) Part 29 of this chapter, relating to the income tax, contain the rules for the determination of the taxable year of the trust for which the deduction under section 162 (a) is limited by section 162 (g) (2) and for the determination of the taxable year of the organization for which an exemption is denied under section 3813 (c). See §§ 29.162–3 (b) and 29.3813–1 of this chapter. Such taxable year must begin after December 31, 1950. Generally, such taxable year is a taxable year subsequent to the taxable year during which the trust or organization has been notified by the Commissioner that it has engaged in a prohibited transaction. However, if the trust or organization after December 31, 1950, and during or prior to the taxable year entered into the prohibited transaction for the purpose of diverting its corpus or income from the purposes described in section 162 (a) or from its exempt purposes, as the case may be, and such transaction involves a substantial part of such income or corpus, then the deduction of the trust under section 162 (a) for such taxable year is limited by section 162 (g) (2), or the exemption of the organization for such taxable year is denied under section 3813 (c), whether or not the organization has previously received notification by the Commissioner that it is engaged in a prohibited transaction. In certain cases, the limitation of section 162 (g) may be removed or the exemption may be reinstated for certain subsequent taxable years under the rules set forth in §§ 29.162–3 (b) and 29.3813–2, of this chapter.

(4) In cases in which prior notification by the Commissioner is not required in order to limit the deduction of the trust under section 162 (g) (2) or to deny exemption of the organization under section 3813, the deduction otherwise allowable under paragraph (a) of this section shall not be disallowed in respect to transfers made during the same taxable year of the trust or organization in which such prohibited transaction occurred or in a prior taxable year unless the decedent or a member of his family was a party to the prohibited transaction. For the purpose of the preceding sentence, the members of the decedent's family include only his brothers and sisters, whether by whole or half blood, spouse, ancestors, and lineal descendants.

PAR. 3. Section 81.45 is amended by adding at the end thereof the following: "For further limitations in the case of transfers by decedents dying on or after January 1, 1951, see § 81.44 (b), relating to transfers to trusts and organizations engaged in a prohibited transaction described in sections 162 (g) (2) (B) or 3813 (b)."

Information concerning such participation will be forwarded to the Director of Public Information, Office of the Secretary of the Air Force, Washington 25, D. C.

TITLE 32A—NATIONAL DEFENSE, APPENDIX

Chapter I—Office of Defense Mobilization

[Defense Mobilization Order 23]

DMO 23—AGENCY RESPONSIBILITIES IN COMPLETING AND MAINTAINING THE MOBILIZATION BASE

Purpose. The purpose of this document is to bring together and amplify the guidance which has been given to the several mobilization agencies engaged in strengthening the mobilization base and to fix their responsibilities for action programs concerned with the mobilization base.

Definition. The mobilization base is that capacity available to permit rapid expansion of production, sufficient to meet military, war-supporting, essential civilian, and export requirements in event of a full-scale war. It includes such elements as essential services, food, raw materials, facilities, production equipment, organization, and manpower.

Policy. It is the policy of the United States to provide a military preparedness, in association with friendly nations, which can be maintained as long as necessary as a deterrent to aggression, as an indispensable support of our foreign policy, as a basis for initial phases of full-scale war, should war prove unavoidable, and as a foundation for speedy full mobilization.

Due to the continuing threat of aggression and the uncertainty as to when or where an aggressor might attack, a course has been chosen of (a) maintaining defense production in order to support limited military forces in a high state of readiness, commensurate with world conditions, and (b) providing the esential elements of a mobilization base to meet the requirements of full-scale war. Requirements for the first are increasingly being met. Therefore, additional stress will be placed on filling the gaps in the mobilization base.

To the maximum extent possible, private enterprise will continue to be relied upon to take the steps necessary to meet the requirements of the mobilization base, with Government aid when appropriate. Policies and actions shall take into consideration the need to minimize dislocations in the economy which adversely affects business initiative and employment opportunities, labor standards, small business participation and other relationships necessary for high morale and general economic stability.

In formulating programs and in utilizing available funds, balance must be maintained between building the mobilization base and providing a war reserve of end-items. This is necessary so that the two taken together will come up to, but not exceed, properly time-phased war requirements. Productive capacity generally is less subject to obsolescence and costs less than the reserves of end-items which it displaces. However, it is recognized that regardless of cost or obsolescence, minimum war reserves of military end-items as established by the Department of Defense are necessary to bridge the gap between the start of hostilities and the attainment of production.

An appropriate balance must now be established among the most critical elements of the mobilization base. Since passage of the Defense Production Act in 1950 substantial progress has been made in increasing our resources in many essential elements, such as steel and aluminum, which take the greatest investment in time and money. Full allowance should be made for conversion of less essential civilian production facilities to the production of military items, and the requirements, resources and capacities of allied and other friendly nations contributing to mutual security activities in determining critical deficiencies in the mobilization base.

The mobilization base program will be a continuous process of determination and action to the end of keeping requirements and resources aligned.

Programming the mobilization base. In programming the mobilization base both general and specific approaches will be used. The general approach is concerned with the measurement of total resources and their maximum use in wartime. This general effort is to be guided by the ODM Mobilization Base Program Committee.

The specific approach is concerned with deficiencies and imbalances in limited areas of the economy. Moreover, it is closely tied with production programs. The work of the ODM Advisory Committee on Production Equipment is an example of the specific approach.

In logic, the general approach includes the specific. In practice they are complements. The general approach will be cut off at a relatively high level in terms of the number of resources examined. The specific approach will be used to determine deficiencies for specialized equipment required by a particular program which can be identified in no other way.

The task is now, and will increasingly be, to complete the program of identifying those deficiencies in the mobilization base which would seriously limit military production under full mobilization conditions, and of overcoming such deficits as quickly and fully as possible. Once deficiencies are uncovered the Office of Defense Mobilization will determine which are to have priority of attention.

The Office of Defense Mobilization, after consultation with the National Security Resources Board on over-all mobilization problems, will provide all defense agencies with guidance to assure consistency among the programs developed by the defense agencies.

Estimates for key elements (a) of total feasible full-mobilization requirements, (b) of existing resources and future availabilities to meet the requirements and (c) of resulting deficiencies, will be made by the appropriate agencies under the coordination and guidance of:

(1) Defense Production Administration for physical resources, except food and other agricultural commodities,

(2) The Department of Agriculture for food and other agricultural commodities,

(3) The Department of Labor (Defense Manpower Administration) for manpower.

In making the above computations, the agencies designated will work with the claimant agencies. In the absence of comprehensive and detailed requirements, agencies will use short-cut techniques to make interim determinations of deficiencies.

In calculating requirements and available resources, the needs and contributions of friendly countries will be taken into account. So far as feasible, U. S. mobilization base programming shall take account of full-mobilization base planning of other countries of the free world in a manner that will result in the maximum collective strength of the entire free world.

Studies will be continued to determine means of (a) maintaining the mobilization base, (b) minimizing its vulnerability, and (c) effecting rapid recuperation from wartime enemy attack. Proposals to achieve these objectives shall be developed by the agencies concerned under the guidance of the Office of Defense Mobilization and implemented through appropriate defense mobilization orders.

Action to complete the mobilization base. The agencies having mobilization programs will take action within the limits of present programs, authority and available funds, to overcome critical deficiencies. Whenever it is found that additional authority or funds are required, the need will be brought to the attention of the Director of Defense Mobilization.

Important examples of current programs and devices which will be continued to achieve the mobilization base, together with agencies having primary responsibilities for them, are listed below:

(a) Encouraging the expansion of industrial capacity and services by private enterprise with the use, where appropriate, of Government aids for projects determined to be in the interest of national defense: Primary responsibility—Defense Production Administration.

(b) Encouraging the expansion of food and agricultural capacity and effecting the necessary shifts in production patterns by the use, where appropriate, of Government aids and by procuring agricultural commodities for stockpiling or resale for industrial uses: Primary responsibility—Department of Agriculture.

(c) Administering, and preparing for administration under conditions of full mobilization, scheduling, limitation, conservation and other priority and allocation orders; and estimating, as delegated, requirements and resources for full mobilization for industrial production, industrial construction and civilian supply programs: Primary responsibility—Department of Commerce (National Production Authority).

(d) Engaging as many producers and facilities in current military production as is practicable: Primary responsibility—Department of Defense.

(e) Encouraging those engaged in military production to increase mobilization capacities were needed by expansion of facilities and subcontracting so that current military requirements may, to the extent practicable, be produced by one-shift operations, thus making expansion through a multi-shift operation available when needed: Primary responsibility, Department of Defense.

(f) When necessary to supplement capacity provided in paragraph (e) above, acquiring a selected reserve of machine tools and production equipment and, where practicable and desirable, putting these tools and equipment in place: Primary responsibility—Department of Defense.

(g) Determining stockpiling objectives for strategic materials: Primary responsibility—Department of Defense and Department of the Interior.

(h) Encouraging the expansion of facilities for production and processing of critical materials to meet the requirements determined by the Defense Production Administration and to fulfill stockpile objectives set up by the Munitions Board: Primary responsibility—Defense Materials Procurement Agency.

(i) Encouraging the expansion of facilities by friendly countries for production of materials, equipment, and products of which there are deficiencies or potential deficiencies in the free world full mobilization base: Primary responsibility — Director for Mutual Security.

(j) Encouraging the exploration for critical raw materials and the development of improved methods for their extraction and recovery: Primary responsibility—Department of the Interior—domestic; Director for Mutual Security—foreign.

(k) Encouraging the conservation of critical materials and developing improved methods for conservation: Primary responsibility—Defense Production Administration.

(l) Encouraging friendly countries to conserve in their uses of materials critical to mobilization needs and to plan for their minimum use under full-mobilization conditions: Primary responsibility—Director for Mutual Security.

(m) Providing manpower in the numbers and skills required for the mobilization base through programs designed to obtain better utilization of human resources and development of skills: Primary responsibility—Department of Labor (Defense Manpower Administration).

In accordance with guidance provided by the Office of Defense Mobilization, reports by the participating agencies on their progress in determining deficiencies and meeting mobilization base objectives will be furnished to the Office of Defense Mobilization as required.

This order is to take effect on November 27, 1952.

OFFICE OF DEFENSE MOBILIZATION,
HENRY H. FOWLER,
Director.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

Supplementary Regulation 3 to Ceiling Price Regulation 9, Revision 1, permits a manufacturer or wholesaler, who has established with the National office of the Office of Price Stabilization a uniform price in the continental United States for a branded product, to apply for a uniform price to prevail in any or all of the territories and possessions, if, for a period immediately prior to January 26, 1951, uniform prices were maintained for the branded product.

This Revision 1 to Supplementary Regulation 3 to Ceiling Price Regulation 9, Revision 1 permits retailers in any of the territories who sold, for a period immediately prior to January 26, 1951, a branded article or articles at the retail list price suggested by the manufacturer and if the Director of Price Stabilization has by order under section 43 of Ceiling Price Regulation 7, or Supplementary Regulation 4 of Ceiling Price Regulation 7, established uniform retail ceiling prices for the sale of the article or articles in the continental United States to apply for permission to use as ceiling prices the prices suggested by the manufacturer.

In addition, certain minor changes have been made in the supplementary regulation for purposes of clarity.

The Director of Price Stabilization, in formulating this Supplementary Regulation, has consulted with representatives of industry to the extent practicable and has given consideration to their recommendations.

In the judgment of the Director, the provisions of this revision to Supplementary Regulation 3 to Ceiling Price Regulation 9, Revision 1, are generally fair and equitable, and are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

[Ceiling Price Regulation 14, Amdt. 18]

CPR 14—CEILING PRICES OF CERTAIN FOODS SOLD AT WHOLESALE

FILING OF ADJUSTMENT APPLICATIONS AND REPORTS WITH FIELD OFFICES

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.), as amended, Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this Amendment 18 to Ceiling Price Regulation 14 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

In order further to effectuate the Director's program for decentralizing the processing of reports and adjustment applications received from wholesalers under Ceiling Price Regulation 14, this amendment requires the filing of all reports and adjustment applications with local OPS offices.

Heretofore, wholesalers applying for adjustments or filing reports under the provisions of this regulation were required in most cases to file their applications or reports with the National Office of OPS.

In view of the nature of this amendment, special circumstances have rendered consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, impracticable. In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization the provisions of this amendment are generally fair and equitable, are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, and comply with all the applicable standards of that Act.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Ceiling Price Regulation 14 is amended in the following respects:

1. Sub-paragraph (3), paragraph (a), section 23, is amended to read as follows:

(3) Before using different delivered prices for different zones under this section, you must report in writing to the OPS office for your area the amount of such differential and a description of your base zone and delivery zones. Before changing any zone differentials you previously reported, you must report in writing to the OPS office for your area your new zone differentials and the basis on which they were computed.

2. The first sentence of paragraph (d) of section 26 is amended to read as follows: "Such application must be filed in duplicate with the OPS office for your area."

3. The first sentence of paragraph (c) of section 27 is amended to read as follows: "Such application must be filed in duplicate with the OPS office for your area."

4. Paragraph (c) of section 27a is amended to read as follows:

(c) Your application must be filed in duplicate with the OPS office for your area. You may not price under this section until you have received specific authority from such OPS office.

5. The first sentence of sub-paragraph (1), paragraph (e), section 27b, is amended to read as follows: "Your application must be filed in duplicate with the OPS office for your area."

6. Sub-paragraph (3), paragraph (e), section 27b, is amended to read as follows:

(3) If at any time after you are authorized to make an addition to your "net cost" under this section your method of promoting the label or brand covered by your application changes in any material respect, you must report the changes immediately to the OPS office for your area.

7. The last sentence of sub-paragraph (4), paragraph (e), section 27b, is amended to read as follows: "You must, however, notify the OPS office for your area before you sell under this label or brand a food not listed in your application, or discontinue a food which you did list."

8. The last sentence of paragraph (f), section 27b is amended to read as follows: "If you desire to obtain authority to add a specific percentage figure to your "net cost" of foods you now sell or plan to sell under that label or brand, you may make an application (in duplicate) to the OPS office for your area."

9. Sub-paragraph (8), paragraph (f), section 27b is amended to read as follows:

(8) A description of your proposed advertising, promotion and merchandising programs, with respect to the label or brand involved, including representative layout copy of your proposed advertising, labels and promotion.

You may not operate under this paragraph until you are notified in writing by the OPS office for your area of the additional percentage figure, not to exceed five percent (5%), which you will be allowed to use. If your estimated expenditure is at least 1½ percent but not more than 3½ percent, you may be granted authority to add 3½ percent to your net cost. If your estimated expenditure is more than 3½ percent you may be granted authority to add your estimated percentage figure not to exceed 5 percent. In the event you are granted authority to add a specific percentage to your "net cost" of foods bearing the label or brand covered by your application, you must also reduce by the same percentage figure your "net cost" of all foods of the same type (i. e., "cut", "sieve", "pitted", vs. "unpitted", "peeled" vs. "unpeeled", etc.) of the same grade, variety and quality bearing labels or brands not owned or exclusively controlled by you. In addition, within 25 days after the close of the first six months of your operation under this paragraph, you must submit to the OPS office for your area a new application under the provisions of paragraph (a) of this section using your experience for this 6-month period.

The furnishing of a list of the foods for which you seek authority to add a specific percentage figure does not mean that the adjustment granted under this section is permanently restricted to the foods you have listed. You may at any time add new foods to be sold under the label or brand for which you have filed an application and make, with respect to them, any addition which you may have been allowed to make under this paragraph.

Moreover, you may, at any time, remove foods from the list which you have submitted. You must, however, notify the OPS office for your area before you sell under this label or brand a food not listed in your application or discontinue a food which you did list.

10. Paragraph (c), section 27c, is amended to read as follows:

(c) Your application must be filed in duplicate with the OPS office for your area. You may not price under this section until you have received specific authority in writing from such OPS office to do so.

11. Paragraph (d), section 28, is amended to read as follows:

(d) Such application must be filed in duplicate with the OPS office for your area. You may not use these requested markup figures until you have received specific authorization from such OPS office. Applications for adjustment are governed by Price Procedural Regulation 1.

12. The first paragraph of paragraph (c), section 28c, is amended to read as follows:

(c) Such application must be filed with the OPS office for your area. You may not use these requested markup figures until you have received specific authorization from such OPS office. A form for this purpose may be obtained from the OPS office for your area. If your application is approved, you will be authorized by such OPS office to add to your "net cost" the percentage markups set forth below for the food commodities group which includes the items which you are pricing before applying the markup in Table A for institutional wholesalers. If, at any time, after you are authorized to use such additional markup, your method of distribution changes in any material respect, you must report immediately the circumstances to the OPS office for your area, and upon a review of the facts, if it be determined that you no longer conduct your business in the manner required by this section, this authority may be withdrawn.

Effective date. This amendment shall become effective November 29, 1952.

NOTE: The record-keeping and reporting requirements of this amendment have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

[Ceiling Price Regulation 69, Revision 1, Amdt. 7]

CPR 69—FOOD PRODUCTS SOLD IN THE TERRITORY OF HAWAII

MODIFYING POSTING REQUIREMENTS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this Amendment 7 to Ceiling Price Regulation 69, Revision 1, is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

Ceiling Price Regulation 69, Revision 1, establishes ceiling prices for a number of food products sold in the Territory of Hawaii. Article III of the regulation establishes dollar-and-cent ceiling prices for pork derived from swine slaughtered in the Territory on the basis of the cost of live animals. Retailers of island pork are subject to section 1.7 of the regulation, as amended, which requires the posting of selling prices, although there is no specific reference to this requirement in Article III.

Article VII of CPR 69, Revision 1, establishes dollar-and-cent ceiling prices for the sale of beef and beef offal derived from bovine animals slaughtered in the Territory of Hawaii. Ceiling prices are established at both wholesale and retail levels of distribution. Section 7.8 of the regulation requires that retailers post conspicuously both ceiling and selling prices of the various cuts.

Informal compliance checks by OPS representatives in the Territory have revealed considerable variation in the manner of posting selling and ceiling prices under both section 1.7 and section 7.8 of CPR 69, Revision 1. No uniformity as to size, content or format of posters was evident.

In accordance with the OPS policy of consumer participation in the program of price stabilization, the Director has determined that it is necessary to amend CPR 69, Revision 1, in order (1) to clarify and simplify the posting requirements for the seller, and (2) to more readily apprise the purchasers of the ceiling prices of the various cuts of meat subject to CPR 69, Revision 1.

This amendment makes mandatory the use of official OPS posters upon which the various cuts of island beef and offal, and of pork offal and specialty items are listed together with the ceiling prices. The prices are those shown in section 3.1 (b) (2) and (3), section 7.4, and section 7.5, of CPR 69, Revision 1. Mainland beef and pork remain subject to Ceiling Price Regulation 9, Revision 1, and the ceiling prices of those products are in no way affected by this amendment.

In making provisions for these official posters, a new paragraph has been added to section 3.1 (b) (5), and section 7.8 has been modified to include specific requirements concerning their use and display. The addition of the new paragraph to section 3.1 (b) (5) clarifies the retailer's responsibility for posting ceiling prices by setting forth specific instructions for that section rather than requiring him to refer to section 1.7 of the regulation. The retailer's responsibility will be greatly simplified since he will be relieved of the duty of preparing his own poster.

The posters will provide uniformity in content, size, and form, and will permit the maximum participation by the consumer in the price control phase of the stabilization program.

Because of the nature of this amendment, and the fact that it imposes no new burdens on the sellers affected, formal consultation with the industry has been impracticable.

In the judgment of the Director, the provisions of this regulation are generally fair and equitable and are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

1. Subparagraph 5 of paragraph (b) of section 3.1 of Ceiling Price Regulation 69, Revision 1, is amended to read as follows:

(5) Reporting and posting—(i) Special reporting provision. If you are a wholesaler, you must, with every sale of island pork, furnish the buyer a statement of the live cost to you of the pork you are selling, in addition to the reports required by section 1.10 of this regulation.

(ii) Posting. Every person offering to sell the pork offal and specialty pork items at retail for which ceiling prices are established in subparagraphs 2 and 3 of paragraph (b) of this section, shall plainly mark the selling price and name of the pork offal and specialty item either on the commodity itself, or on the tray or shelf on which it is displayed. In addition, you must, not later than seven days after you receive an official OPS poster, post such official poster in a prominent place in your establishment near the meat counter where it can easily be seen and read by your customers. In the event you do not receive an official poster, you must, not later than December 15, 1952, obtain an official poster from your OPS Territorial Office, and post your ceiling prices in accordance with this subparagraph. If a poster is mutilated or becomes badly soiled or otherwise damaged, it must be replaced by a new one which may be obtained from the OPS Territorial Office. Erasures or changes in ceiling prices listed on your poster are prohibited unless authorized by the OPS.

2. Section 7.8 is amended to read as follows:

SEC. 7.8. Posting. Every person offering to sell island beef at retail shall plainly mark the selling price, name of the cut, and class (i. e., Class I or Class II) of the island beef either on the commodity itself or on the tray or shelf on which it is displayed. In addition, you must, not later than seven days after you receive an official OPS poster, post such official poster in a prominent place in your establishment near the meat counter where it can easily be seen and read by your customers. In the event you do not receive an official poster, you must, not later than December 15, 1952, obtain an official poster from your OPS Territorial Office, and post your ceiling prices in accordance with this section. If a poster is mutilated or becomes badly soiled or otherwise damaged, it must be replaced by a new one which may be obtained from the OPS Territorial Office. Erasures or changes in ceiling prices listed on your poster are prohibited unless authorized by the OPS.

CPR 74—CEILING PRICES OF PORK SOLD AT WHOLESALE

SUSPENSION

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161 and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order 2, this Amendment 18 to Ceiling Price Regulation (CPR) 74 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

The accompanying amendment to Ceiling Price Regulation (CPR) 74 suspends price control of pork sold at wholesale, except for sales subject to CPR 14.

Pork products generally have been selling at wholesale considerably below ceiling prices, except for the ceiling prices established for certain sellers by CPR 14. The general level of wholesale selling prices of pork has been not only below the seasonally increased ceiling prices of Amendment 11 to CPR 74 but has been below the lower ceiling prices previously in effect. In fact, most cuts of pork have been selling below the pre-Korean level. Moreover, it is expected that wholesale prices of pork will continue to decline. Although some strengthening of pork prices may occur in January of 1953, due to a customary seasonal increase, it is not expected that wholesale pork prices will increase to a point where the dollars and cents ceiling prices which could lawfully be fixed by this regulation would be reached or exceeded in the foreseeable future. For these reasons, the Director of Price Stabilization deems it appropriate to suspend the ceiling prices established by this regulation. This suspension also operates to suspend ceiling prices for pork under Ceiling Price Regulation 61.

The Director of Price Stabilization is maintaining a constant watch on the prices of pork and also on the available supply of hogs. If at any time he finds that market prices threaten to equal or exceed the then current legal minimum prices he will revoke this suspension order and reinstate ceiling prices which reflect the appropriate legal minima.

In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization, the provisions of this amendment are generally fair and equitable, are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, and comply with all applicable standards of the Act. In the formulation of this amendment, the Director of Price Stabilization has consulted, so far as practicable, with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, and has given full consideration to their recommendations.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Ceiling Price Regulation 74 is amended by adding a new Section 17 to read as follows:

SEC. 17. Suspension. As used in this section, "pork" means carcasses and meat derived from swine including but not limited to pork products. All provisions of this regulation are suspended on and after November 24, 1952. The suspension of the provisions of this regulation does not operate to place sales at wholesale of any product derived from swine under the General Ceiling Price Regulation. The suspension of the provisions of this regulation, moreover, includes suspension of those provisions which establish wholesale ceiling prices for pork under the General Ceiling Price Regulation or Ceiling Price Regulation 61. You must, however, continue to comply with all the requirements of section 11 of this regulation, and with all the requirements of section 16 of the General Ceiling Price Regulation, and with all the requirements of section 10 of Supplementary Regulation 47 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation, to the extent that each of these sections is applicable to all records you are required to preserve on November 24, 1952.

This suspension will continue unless and until the Director of Price Stabilization terminates or modifies it.

GOR 10—ADJUSTMENT OF CEILING PRICES FOR MANUFACTURERS

PLACE OF FILING APPLICATIONS FOR ADJUSTMENT OF CEILING PRICES

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this Amendment 6 to General Overriding Regulation 10 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment to General Overriding Regulation 10 is issued to carry out a plan for the extension of the authority of field offices to process applications filed under this regulation. Under the provisions of this amendment a manufacturer whose annual volume of net sales is $1,000,000 or less may file with the appropriate OPS District Office. However, if such a manufacturer distributes a substantial amount of the commodities he manufactures to persons located outside the OPS region in which his principal place of business is located, he should file his application with the Director of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C.

This amendment also restores the requirement that applications should be sent by registered mail.

The wide coverage of this amendment has made it impracticable to consult with industry representatives, including trade association representatives.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

In section 3, the text preceding paragraph (a) is amended to read as follows:

SEC. 3. Information to be submitted. A manufacturer seeking an adjustment under this regulation should file his application with the OPS District Office for the district in which his principal place of business is located if his net sales for his last complete fiscal year amounted to $1,000,000 or less and he does not sell a substantial amount of his commodities manufactured in the plants covered by his application to persons located outside the OPS region in which his principal place of business is located. Other manufacturers should file their applications with the Office of Price Stabilization, Washington, 25, D. C. In either case, the application should be sent by registered mail and include the following:

[Ceiling Price Regulation 180]

CPR 180—FERROCHROME, CHROMIUM METAL AND OTHER CHROMIUM PRODUCTS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this Ceiling Price Regulation is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This interim regulation sets forth specific ceiling prices for ferrochrome, ferrochrome silicon, ferrosilicon chrome, chrome manganese silicon alloys, and chromium metal which increase present ceiling prices established under the General Ceiling Price Regulation (GCPR),

It also establishes premiums for spot sales and special packing. A producer of a chromium metallurgical product of a unique grade, size or analysis must apply to the Office of Price Stabilization for a ceiling price.

There are only five producers of the chromium products named above in the United States and one of these has only recently entered the field in a small way.

Ferrochromium is of extreme importance to the defense program. It is a basic ingredient of jet alloys and of the stainless steels necessary to aircraft manufacture. It is also a component of all heavy guns, tank armor, and tool steels, and is required in almost every military and defense-supporting application of alloy steel. Chromium (added as ferrochromium) has become an important substitute for such alloying elements as nickel and molybdenum.

Practically all chrome ore for the production of ferrochromium is imported. Ore prices which are not subject to ceiling price control and could not be controlled because of the foreign origin of the ore have materially increased since June, 1950. Furthermore, it has been necessary for the producers to import ores of lower quality to meet defense production needs. Lower quality of the ores has also contributed to production cost increases. The price of ferrochromium was frozen under GCPR at the November 1950 level and no increases have been permitted since that time, in spite of greatly increased costs of labor, transportation, power and overhead. These items of cost together with ore costs constitute about 85 percent of total costs and the increase in ore costs constitutes the major portion of the total increased costs.

Pre-Korean unit margins have been so materially reduced that incentive to make needed increases in production, to continue and enlarge the use of low grade ores, and to exert every effort to increase imports of, and develop new sources of chrome ore to meet the requirements of the defense program has markedly declined. The Administrator of the National Production Authority has advised OPS of the essentiality of the products covered by this regulation to the defense program and has emphasized the necessity of expanding the imports of chrome ore and the output of these products.

Section 3 (b) (2) of General Overriding Regulation 29 provides for ceiling price adjustments beyond the break-even level regardless of the profit position in special cases where this is necessary in the interests of national defense. This section reads in part as follows:

> (2) If the Director of Price Stabilization deems it necessary, in order to promote the national defense, he may establish an adjusted ceiling price which includes an amount over your "total unit operating cost", despite the fact that your "current rate of return on net worth" equals or exceeds 85 percent of your "average rate of return on net worth in your normal base period.

On the basis of the information received from the Administrator of NPA, the Director finds that ferrochrome qualifies under the criteria established in section 3 (b) (2) and that price adjustment adequate to maintain a reasonable profit over total unit operating costs is necessary in order to promote the national defense.

GOR 29 was intended to permit relief in appropriate cases to individual manufacturers. In the case of ferrochrome, however, there were, for many years, only four producers (a fifth has only recently entered the field) and the prices charged by the four have always been uniform. If varying degrees of relief were separately provided for each of these companies under the provisions of GOR 29, serious market disruption would be inevitable. Moreover, the conditions warranting relief are similar in the case of all these companies. Consequently, the Director of Price Stabilization has determined that it would be appropriate in this case to consider together all data presented and to issue a single regulation providing uniform relief for all producers.

In determining the amount of relief appropriate under provisions of section 3 (b) (2) of GOR 29, the general policy of OPS has been to restore as nearly as possible the dollar-and-cents margins per unit of product which prevailed before the Korean outbreak. This same standard has therefore been applied in the present case. Each of the four long established producers has submitted data showing the increase in its costs and prices since the period preceding the Korean outbreak, including the increases which have occurred as a result of the wage negotiations just concluded. While the cost increases shown are not entirely uniform, they are reasonably consistent. On the basis of the figures submitted, the Director of Price Stabilization has determined that an increase of 3¢ per pound of contained chromium in the ceiling prices of high carbon chromium products and of 4¢ per pound of contained chromium in the ceiling prices of low carbon chromium products is required to restore the general level of unit margins prevailing before Korea. While the cost increases for individual products do not in all cases conform with the general pattern, it is important as a practical matter to maintain, insofar as possible, the existing price relationships between the high carbon and low carbon products, and for this reason the increases have been applied uniformly within the two groups of products. In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization the adjustments provided in this interim regulation are such as to maintain appropriate price relationships while granting the over-all amount of relief required.

In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization the provisions of this ceiling price regulation are generally fair and equitable and are necessary to effectuate the purpose of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

So far as practicable, the Director has given due consideration to the national effort to achieve maximum production in furtherance of the objectives of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, and to relevant factors of general applicability. In the judgment of the Director the provisions of this regulation comply with all of the requirements with respect to the establishment of ceiling prices set forth in the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

In the formulation of this regulation there has been consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, to the extent practicable, and consideration has been given to their recommendations.

In particular, the Director has consulted at several meetings with the Industry Advisory Committee with respect to the trade practices and the coverage of this regulation and has, in general, adopted the recommendations of the committee.

The provisions of this ceiling price regulation and their effect upon business practices, cost practices, or means or aids to distribution in the industry have been considered. It is believed that no changes in such practices or methods have been effected. To the extent, however, that the provisions of this regulation may operate to compel changes in such practices or methods, such provisions are necessary to prevent circumvention or evasion of the regulation and effectuate the policies of the act.

SECTION 1. What this regulation does.—(a) Commodities covered. This regulation establishes ceiling prices for ferrochrome, ferrochrome silicon, ferrosilicon chrome, chrome manganese silicon alloys, and chromium metal. The terms ferrochrome, ferrochrome silicon, ferrosilicon chrome, chrome manganese silicon alloys, and chromium metal are defined in section 13, Definitions.

(b) Persons and transactions covered. (1) This regulation applies to all sales of the commodities covered by this regulation by a producer of such commodities including export sales and sales for export. It also covers sales of any commodity covered by this regulation purchased by any person who is also a producer of the commodity, including sales of imported commodities. To this extent this regulation supersedes CPR 31 (Imports). It does not apply to re[illegible] who are not also producers of the commodity which they resell.

(2) This regulation also applies, insofar as purchases are concerned, to any person who, in the regular course of trade or business, buys the commodities covered by this regulation from a producer of these commodities.

(c) Geographical applicability. This regulation applies in the 48 States of the United States, the District of Columbia, Alaska, Guam, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

SEC. 2. Ceiling prices for high carbon ferrochrome, low carbon ferrochrome, ferrochrome silicon, ferrosilicon chrome, chrome manganese silicon alloys and chromium metal. (a) Your ceiling price for contract sales of high carbon ferrochrome, low carbon ferrochrome, ferrochrome silicon, ferrosilicon chrome, chrome manganese silicon alloys and chromium metal, is the applicable ceiling price set forth in Appendix A, Table 1 for the grade, analysis, size and quantity shipped. The terms "contract sales" and "spot sales" are defined in section 13, Definitions.

(b) Ceiling prices for high carbon chromium briquets, exothermic chromium products and chromium powders. Your ceiling price for contract sales of high carbon chromium briquets, exothermic chromium products and chromium powders is the applicable ceiling price set forth in Appendix A, Table 2 for the grade, analysis, and size and quantity shipped.

(c) Premiums. The premiums which may be added to the ceiling prices set forth in Appendix A, Tables 1 and 2 for spot sales, special packing for export shipment and packing in smaller than standard containers, are set forth in Appendix A, Table 3.

SEC. 3. Applications for establishment of ceiling prices. (a) If you sell any of the commodities covered by this regulation and cannot determine a ceiling price under section 2, you must file an application with OPS for the establishment of a ceiling price. Any such application must be signed by an authorized person, and must be filed by registered mail, return receipt requested, with the Industrial Materials and Manufactured Goods Division, Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., and must contain the following information: Your trade name and address; a metallurgical analysis and physical description of the commodity you propose to sell; a statement of the reasons why you are unable to determine a ceiling price under the provisions of this regulation; your proposed ceiling price and a statement of how you determined such price, and why you believe it is in line with the ceiling prices otherwise established by this regulation.

(b) Any ceiling price established by OPS pursuant to this section will be in line with the ceiling prices otherwise established by this regulation.

(c) After receipt of an application pursuant to this section, OPS may approve or disapprove your proposed ceiling price, establish a different ceiling price, or request additional information. Pending any such action, you may sell the commodity covered by your application at your proposed ceiling price: Provided, That you agree with the purchaser to refund the amount, if any, by which your proposed ceiling price exceeds the ceiling price established by OPS. If OPS has not acted upon your application within 30 days of the receipt thereof, your proposed ceiling price shall be deemed to be established for all deliveries made between the date of filing of your application and the date of any order issued by OPS disposing of your application.

(d) If you are required to file an application pursuant to this section and do not do so, OPS may issue an order establishing ceiling prices for you. Any ceiling price set forth in any such order will be in line with the ceiling prices otherwise established in this regulation and will apply to all deliveries for which a ceiling price was not otherwise established by this regulation, including deliveries completed prior to the date of the order. The issuance of such an order will not relieve you of your obligation to comply with the requirements of this regulation or of the various penalties for your failure to do so.

SEC. 4. Customary terms of sale. You must adjust the ceiling prices determined in accordance with section 2 of this regulation to reflect all cash discounts which you had in effect on January 25, 1951, and such price must carry all guarantees, servicing terms, and other applicable conditions of sale which you had in effect on that date. You may make a charge for extension of credit to a buyer if you customarily made such a charge during the period December 19, 1950, to January 25, 1951, but the amount of such charge must not be greater than that which you had in effect on that date.

SEC. 5. Petitions for amendment. Any person seeking an amendment of any provision of this regulation may file a petition for amendment in accordance with the provisions of Price Procedural Regulation No. 1, Revised.

SEC. 6. Adjustable pricing. Nothing in this regulation shall be construed to prohibit any person making a contract or offer to sell a product covered by this regulation at (a) the ceiling price in effect at the time of delivery, or (b) the lower of a fixed price or the ceiling price in effect at the time of delivery. No person, however, may deliver or agree to deliver such product at a price to be adjusted upward in accordance with any increase in a ceiling price after delivery.

SEC. 7. Excise, sales and similar taxes. You may collect in addition to the ceiling price established by this regulation, any excise, sales or similar tax imposed upon you by reason of your sale of any product covered by this regulation if you are not prohibited by law from making such collection and if you state separately from your selling price the amount of the tax collected and provided such separate statement and collection of the amount of the tax is not prohibited by law. However, if the tax was in effect on January 25, 1951, and you did not charge your customers for the tax during the period December 19, 1950, to January 25, 1951, you may not do so now.

SEC. 8. Record-keeping requirements. (a) (1) If you make sales covered by this regulation, you shall preserve for examination by the Office of Price Stabilization for as long as the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, remains in effect and for two years thereafter, all your existing records which you are required to use in adjusting your ceiling prices pursuant to section 4.

(2) Every seller covered by this regulation, and every person who, in the course of trade or business, buys from such seller, must prepare and keep for inspection by the Director of Price Stabilization for a period of two years accurate records or invoices of each sale of the commodities covered by this regulation showing: The date of sale; the name and address of the seller and buyer; the commodity sold, as described in the nomenclature used in this regulation; the quantity of each such commodity; the price charged for each such commodity; the point or points of shipment and the buyer's receiving point, and the amount of the transportation charges, if any, and by whom they were paid.

(3) Every seller covered by this regulation shall deliver to the purchaser at the time of any sale of a commodity covered by this regulation an invoice which shall set forth the information required by paragraph (a) (1).

(b) Retention by the buyer of an invoice issued in connection with the sale of a commodity covered by this regulation will be considered compliance with the provisions of this section if the invoice contains all the information required by paragraph (a) of this section.

SEC. 9. Interpretations. If you want an official interpretation of this regulation, you should write to the Division Counsel, Industrial Materials and Manufactured Goods Division, Washington 25, D. C. Any action taken in reliance upon and in conformity with a written official interpretation will constitute action in good faith pursuant to this regulation. Further information on obtaining official interpretations is contained in Price Procedural Regulation 1, Revised.

SEC. 10. Prohibitions. (a) No person shall do any act prohibited or omit to do any act required by this regulation, nor shall any person offer, solicit, attempt, or agree to do or omit to do any such acts.

(b) Specifically (but not in limitation of the above), no person shall, regardless of any contract or other obligation, sell, deliver, or negotiate the sale or delivery of any product, and no person in the regular course of trade or business shall buy or receive any product, at a price higher than the ceiling price established by this regulation. Every person covered by this regulation shall keep, make and preserve true and accurate records and reports, required by this regulation. If any person violates any provisions of this regulation, he is subject to criminal penalties, enforcement action, and action for damages.

SEC. 11. Evasions. (a) Any means or device which results in obtaining indirectly a higher price than is permitted by this regulation or in concealing or falsely representing information as to which this regulation requires records to be kept is a violation of this regulation. This prohibition includes, but is not limited to, means or devices making use of commissions, fees, services, cross sales, transportation arrangements, premiums, discounts, special privileges, upgrading, tie-in agreements and trade understandings, as well as the omission from records of true data and the inclusion in records of false data.

(b) No seller shall require a purchaser to subdivide a requirement into small or partial orders nor shall a purchaser subdivide his requirements into small or partial orders for the purpose of enabling the seller to obtain a higher unit price.

SEC. 12. Supplementary regulations. The Director of Price Stabilization may issue supplementary regulations modifying or supplementing this regulation as he deems appropriate.

SEC. 13. Definitions. (a) "Person" includes an individual, corporation, partnership, association, or any other organized group of persons, or legal successor or representative of any of the foregoing; the United States or any agency thereof; or any other government or any of its political subdivisions, or any agency of the foregoing.

CPR 135—BAKERS, WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DISTRIBUTORS OF FROZEN AND PERISHABLE BAKERY ITEMS

SR 2—INTERIM RELIEF FOR MILWAUKEE BAKERS

ADJUSTMENT OF MILWAUKEE BAKERS' CEILING PRICES

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency Order No. 2, this Revision of Supplementary Regulation 2 to Ceiling Price Regulation 135 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This revision of Supplementary Regulation (SR) 2 to Ceiling Price Regulation (CPR) 135 provides an across-the-board adjustment of ceiling prices of bakers located in the Milwaukee area.

When SR 2 was issued, this office announced that further study and consideration would be given to the substantial hardship experienced by the Milwaukee bakers under CPR 135, and that if appropriate, additional adjustments in ceiling prices would be made.

Findings made on the basis of data obtained from an OPS earnings survey of Milwaukee bakers indicate that the previous one cent adjustment in ceiling prices of the one-and-one-half pound loaf of white pan bread has been insufficient to eliminate undue hardship, and that a more extensive adjustment is required.

Even with the one cent white pan bread adjustment and the increases over GCPR ceiling prices under CPR 135, the earnings survey data show that Milwaukee bakers generally will be obliged to operate at a loss under their CPR 135 ceiling prices. The Director has, therefore, decided to relieve the area hardship by an across-the-board increase in Milwaukee bakers' ceiling prices for all items other than the one-and-one-half pound loaf of white pan bread. This is done by providing a factor of 1.20 for increasing 1949 prices instead of the CPR 135 factor of 1.16. The percent increases over 1949 prices now provided will permit Milwaukee bakers generally to earn net profits which, before taxes and with adjustments in net worth, will equal 50 percent of their average net profits during the best three years of the period 1946–49. The 50 percent earnings standard used in arriving at an earnings target to which adjustments are made is substantially lower than the 85 percent standard applied under CPR 135 in setting a level of ceiling prices for the entire baking industry. Application of a standard allowing greater adjustments would, however, result in raising the level of ceiling prices for the baking industry generally beyond the earnings level used in justifying the substantial adjustments in industry ceiling prices under CPR 135.

The one cent adjustment previously granted to Milwaukee bakers for their one-and-one-half pound loaf of white pan bread remains in effect under this revised supplementary regulation.

Bakers selling bread and bread-type roll items in the Milwaukee area, but with plants located elsewhere, may, of course, apply for inter-market adjustments in their Milwaukee area ceiling prices under section 2.13 of CPR 135.

All other pricing provisions of CPR 135 are incorporated by reference under this supplementary regulation.

In the formulation of this revised supplementary regulation there has been consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, to the extent practicable, and consideration has been given to their recommendations.

In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization, the provisions of this revised supplementary regulation are generally fair and equitable, are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, and comply with all the applicable standards of that act.

REGULATORY PROVISIONS

Sec.
1. What this supplementary regulation does.
2. Ceiling prices.
3. General applicability of Ceiling Price Regulation 135.

AUTHORITY: Sections 1 to 3 issued under sec. 704, 64 Stat. 816, as amended; 50 U. S. C. App. Sup. 2154.

SECTION 1. What this supplementary regulation does. (a) This supplementary regulation establishes ceiling prices for sales of bakery items by bakers located in the "Milwaukee area".

(b) "Milwaukee area" means the following counties in the state of Wisconsin: Fond du Lac, Sheboygan, Dodge, Washington, Ozaukee, Jefferson, Waukesha, Milwaukee, Racine, Kenosha, Walworth, and Rock.

SEC. 2. Ceiling prices. If you are a baker located in the Milwaukee area your ceiling prices for sales of bakery items are as follows:

(a) One-and-one-half pound white pan bread. Your ceiling price for any 1½ pound white pan bread item to your largest buying class of purchasers is your ceiling price under Ceiling Price Regulation 135 to the same class of purchasers plus $.01.

(b) Other items sold during 1949. Calculate your ceiling price for any other item sold during 1949 by following the directions set forth in section 2.1 of Ceiling Price Regulation 135 except that you apply the factor of 1.20 instead of the factor of 1.16.

(c) Items not sold during 1949; sales to new classes of purchasers; adjustments in ceiling prices. Follow the instructions set forth in the applicable provisions of Ceiling Price Regulation 135 if: (1) you are unable to calculate your ceiling price for an item under paragraph (b) of this section because you did not sell the item during 1949, or you were not in business during 1949 or you propose to sell the item to a new class of purchaser; or (2) you wish to make or apply for any adjustment or make calculations of ceiling prices provided under sections 2.5–2.10 and sections 2.12 and 2.13 of Ceiling Price Regulation 135.

SEC. 3. General applicability of Ceiling Price Regulation 135. All provisions of Ceiling Price Regulation 135 which are not inconsistent with the provisions of this supplementary regulation remain in full force and effect under this regulation.

Effective date. This supplementary regulation becomes effective November 29, 1952.

NOTE: The record-keeping and reporting requirements of this supplementary regulation have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

TIGHE E. WOODS,
Director of Price Stabilization.

[Distribution Regulation 1, Revision 1, Amdt. 5]

DR 1—FAIR DISTRIBUTION OF LIVESTOCK AND MEAT

RELAXATION OF REGISTRATION REQUIREMENTS AND OTHER CHANGES

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, Delegation of Authority by the Secretary of Agriculture with respect to meat, as amended, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order 5, Revision, this Amendment 5 to Distribution Regulation 1, Revision 1, is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment modifies substantially the registration requirements for livestock slaughterers and eliminates most other restrictions imposed by Distribution Regulation 1, Revision 1 (DR 1).

DR 1 has substantially confined registration to persons who operated in the slaughtering business during the base period from January 1, 1950, to February 9, 1951. However, a gradual relaxation of this program has been possible. Apart from legislative mandates, the Office of Price Stabilization has during the past several months been able to modify the program by permitting registration of slaughterers who kill livestock for farmers only, by suspending its reporting requirements, and by broadening its provisions for relief from hardship.

At the present time, livestock supplies have improved considerably. It also appears that a peak in defense production has almost been reached and that current increases in the country's livestock population have kept abreast of increases in consumer demand, as reflected in the softening of prices in several types of livestock and meat. At the same time, these improved conditions no longer justify the substantially complete exclusion of new commercial slaughterers.

It remains necessary, however, to obtain information about the country's slaughtering activities to prepare for any possible increase in the national emergency. Also, it is necessary at this time to maintain the requirement that each slaughterer mark his registration number on all accessible wholesale cuts of meat for the purposes of identification. In view of these needs, DR 1 will not be suspended entirely.

Instead, a limited registration program will be continued. All substantive standards governing entries into the slaughtering business have been removed. Hereafter, there will be open entry into that business, subject to the requirement of prior notification to the appropriate OPS office, receipt of a registration number, and the requirement of marking all accessible wholesale cuts with that number. No reporting requirements are presently in effect, and the amendment reduces substantially the record-keeping requirements. All pertinent sections of this regulation are amended to reflect this change in policy.

At the same time, other sections are amended to delete parts which have become obsolete or suspended, or which are otherwise surplus to the needs of the relaxed registration program.

If the situation should change in the future with regard to the size of the defense effort, the supply of livestock coming to market, or other developments adversely affecting the stabilization program, it may be necessary again to tighten requirements for registration.

In the formulation of this amendment, special circumstances have rendered consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, impracticable.

In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization the provisions of this amendment are generally fair and equitable, are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title I of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, are appropriate to promote the national defense and conform with all applicable standards of that act.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Distribution Regulation 1, Revision 1, is amended in the following respects:

1. Section 3 is deleted.

2. Section 5 (e) is amended to read as follows:

(e) Class 3 farm slaughterers. If you operate a farm on which you reside for more than six months a year, or if you actually raise or superintend the raising of your own livestock on your own premises from its birth or at least ninety days immediately before slaughter, and if you transfer during a calendar year no more than 6,000 pounds of meat resulting from the slaughter of your livestock, you are a Class 3 farm slaughterer. The transfer of meat includes the selling, giving, exchanging, lending, delivering, or consigning of meat unless the meat is for your own consumption.

3. Section 6 is amended to read as follows:

SEC. 6. Prohibition against slaughtering without registration. You may not slaughter livestock or have it slaughtered for you unless you are a registered Class 1, Class 2, Class 1A or Class 2A slaughterer, or unless you are a Class 3 farm slaughterer or slaughter "Club" or "Show" livestock under the terms of section 12 of this regulation.

4. Section 7 (b) is amended by deleting paragraph 7 (b) (2) and by changing the first sentence of the section to read as follows: "If you have received and retained a signed copy of Form DO 1-4 from a Class 1 slaughterer covering 1950 slaughter of livestock for you and have returned a signed copy of that form to that slaughterer, and if you have filed a copy of Form DO 1-4 or a statement of your slaughter bases with the National Office of the Office of Price Stabilization before December 1, 1952 you are a registered Class 1A slaughterer at that Class 1 slaughtering establishment."

5. Section 7 (c) is amended by deleting paragraph 7 (c) (2) and by changing the first sentence of the section to read as follows: "If you have received and retained a signed copy of Form DO 1-5 from a Class 2 slaughterer covering 1950 slaughter of livestock for you and have returned a signed copy of that form to that slaughterer, and if you have filed a copy of Form DO 1-5 with the appropriate office of the Office of Price Stabilization before December 1, 1952, you are a registered Class 2A slaughterer at that Class 2 slaughtering establishment."

6. Section 8 (a) is amended by deleting subsections (2) and (5) and redesignating subparagraphs (3) and (4) as sections 8 (a) (2) and 8 (a) (3), respectively.

7. The redesignated section 8 (a) (3) is amended to read as follows:

(3) You may not slaughter livestock for a Class 1A or Class 2A slaughterer for whom you did not slaughter livestock in 1950 (as shown on your Form DO 1-3), except as provided for in sections 9 (b), 12, 14, or 16 (transfers, "Club" and "Show" livestock, and new registrations).

8. Section 9 is amended by deleting subsections 9 (a) (2) and 9 (b) and the numeral (1) in subsection 9 (a) (1), and by redesignating subparagraph 9 (c) as section 9 (b).

9. The redesignated section 9 (b) is amended to read as follows:

(b) If you want to transfer your operations to another registered establishment, you may apply to the OPS office where you are registered for permission to transfer your registration. Permission will be granted if your application includes:

(1) The name and address of the Class 1 or Class 2 slaughterer who formerly slaughtered for you.

(2) The name and address of the Class 1 or Class 2 slaughterer whom you wish to perform slaughtering for you.

(3) A statement from the slaughterer to whose establishment you wish to transfer indicating that he is willing to slaughter for you.

You may transfer your operations after approval of the OPS and a new registration number have been obtained. Thereafter your operations at the establishment of your new slaughterer shall be subject to all applicable provisions of this regulation.

10. Section 10 is amended to read as follows:

SEC. 10. Class 3 farm slaughterers.—(a) Right to slaughter. As a Class 3 farm slaughterer, you may slaughter your own livestock or have it slaughtered for you by any registered Class 1 or Class 2 slaughterer either for your own consumption or for transfer of the resulting meat, provided that your total transfer of such meat obtained through Class 3 slaughter does not exceed 6,000 pounds during any calendar year.

(b) Statements by Class 3 farm slaughterers. Class 1 or Class 2 slaughterers may not slaughter livestock for you unless you have given them a dated and signed statement containing:

(1) A statement that you are a Class 3 farm slaughterer as defined in section 5 (e);

(2) The address of your farm or the place where the livestock was raised; and

(3) A description of the livestock to be slaughtered, by species, number of head, and live weight.

(c) Tagging Requirements. A tag, containing your name and address and the words "Class 3 farm slaughterer", must be attached to each leg of every carcass and to each wholesale cut transferred by you.

11. Section 11 is deleted.

12. Section 12 is amended to read as follows:

SEC. 12. Slaughter of "Club" and "Show" livestock.—(a) Authorization. Persons not otherwise registered to slaughter livestock or to have it slaughtered for them may do so if that livestock has been purchased by them;

(1) From members of 4-H Clubs, Future Farmers of America, or other recognized farm youth organizations at sales made at the place and time of a fair, show, or exhibition ("Club" livestock); or

(2) At a fair, show, or exhibition at which that livestock has been exhibited in competition, and in the course of a regularly scheduled public sale held at the place and time of such fair, show, or exhibition ("Show" livestock).

(b) Statement and Record required. (1) To have "Club" or "Show" livestock slaughtered for him, a person not otherwise registered must give to a registered slaughterer a signed statement reading as follows:

I certify that _____ head of _____ (State species)
to be slaughtered for me by _____
are ("Club") ("Show") (strike out one) animals purchased by me in accordance with Section 12 of Distribution Regulation 1, Revision 1.

(2) Persons not registered to slaughter livestock who purchase "Club" or "Show" animals and slaughter them themselves or have them slaughtered for them must keep for the period required by section 17 (f) a copy of the receipt or bill of sale covering each such purchase.

(c) Definition of "fair, show, or exhibition". For the purposes of this section, "fair, show, or exhibition" means a fair, show, or exhibition which is recognized generally as being of county, state, regional (embracing more than one state), national or international character, and whose traditional events include a regularly scheduled public sale for slaughter of some or all of the livestock exhibited there.

13. Section 13 is amended to read as follows:

SEC. 13. Transfer of Class 1 or Class 2 slaughtering establishment. (a) If you are a Class 1 or Class 2 slaughterer and wish to transfer your establishment, you must first notify the OPS office at which you are registered. That office will acknowledge the transfer of your registration if your application states the name and address of the establishment being sold or transferred, the names of all transferors and transferees, and the nature and size of the interest being transferred.

For the purpose of this section "transfer" means a change in the location of the establishment, a change in the ownership of the establishment (amounting to a transfer of 10 percent or more of the business equity), or a change in the name of the establishment.

(b) No transfer of registration will be acknowledged while the slaughtering establishment concerned is under suspension by any governmental body or agency.

14. Section 14 is amended to read as follows:

SEC. 14. Transfer of Class 1A or Class 2A Slaughterers' Registrations. If you are a Class 1A or Class 2A slaughterer you will be permitted to transfer your registration only if the transfer of registration is accompanied by the sale or transfer to the transferee of such registration of an establishment in which you sold meat derived from livestock which you had slaughtered for you as a Class 1A or Class 2A slaughterer. In the event of such transfer you must first notify the OPS office at which you are registered of the transfer, stating in your application the information required by section 13 (a).

15. Section 15 is amended to read as follows:

SEC. 15. New registrations for Class 1 or Class 2 slaughterers. If you wish to slaughter livestock as a Class 1 or Class 2 slaughterer but are not registered to do so, you must apply to the OPS for registration. Applications for Class 1 registrations must be made to the National Office of OPS; applications for Class 2 registrations must be made to the OPS District Office for the area in which your establishment is located. Your application must contain a list of all owners of the establishment (owning 10% or more of the business equity) and a description of the plant, including its sanitary facilities and slaughtering capacity. Upon receipt of your completed application you will be registered. You may not begin slaughtering operations until you have received registration from the OPS.

16. Section 16 is amended to read as follows:

SEC. 16. New registrations for Class 1A or Class 2A slaughterers. If you want to have livestock slaughtered for you as a Class 1A or Class 2A slaughterer but you are not registered to do so, you must apply to the OPS for registration. Applications for Class 1A registration must be made to the National Office of OPS; applications for Class 2A registration must be made to the District Office of OPS for the area in which the establishment of your Class 2 slaughterer is located. Your application must contain a list of all owners of your business (owning 10% or more of the business equity) and a statement from your prospective Class 1 or Class 2 slaughterer that he is registered and willing to custom slaughter for you. Upon receipt of your completed application you will be registered. You may not begin slaughtering operations until you have received registration from OPS.

17. Section 17 is amended in the following respects:

Subsections 17 (b), (e) and (j) and paragraphs 17 (c) (3) and 17 (c) (4) are deleted. Subsections 17 (c), (d), (f), (g), (h) and (i) are redesignated sections 17 (b), (c), (d), (e), (f) and (g) respectively.

Subsection 27 (s) is redesignated section 27 (m) and amended to read as follows:

(m) "Slaughter base" means the pounds live weight of slaughter of a given species of livestock which a slaughterer was assigned by the Office of Price Stabilization (as shown on OPS Public Form No. 34 or OPS Form DO 1-2) or of slaughter for him which was assigned by the Office of Price Stabilization (as derived from OPS Form DO 1-4 or DO 1-5) for each accounting period during 1950.

[General Ceiling Price Regulation, Amdt 38]

GENERAL CEILING PRICE REGULATION

PLACE FOR FILING REPORTS UNDER SECTION 6 AND APPLICATIONS UNDER SECTION 7 FOR RETAILERS, WHOLESALERS, SERVICE SUPPLIERS AND SMALL MANUFACTURERS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this Amendment 38 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment to the General Ceiling Price Regulation makes certain changes in the provisions of sections 6 and 7 pertaining to the place of filing of reports or applications.

The first of these changes is made for the purpose of clarifying the filing requirements with respect to a seller who expects to distribute his commodities nationally or over areas larger than the OPS region in which he is located. Any seller who expects to sell a substantial amount of the commodities covered by a report or application under these sections to persons located outside the OPS region where his place of business is located should file his report with the Director of Price Stabilization in Washington.

The second change is made for the purpose of carrying out a program of extending the authority of field offices to act on reports or applications filed pursuant to these sections. A manufacturer whose gross sales of manufactured commodities were under $1,000,000 in the last complete fiscal year should file his report or application with his OPS District Office. A new manufacturer who expects his first year's gross sales of manufactured commodities to be less than $1,000,000 should, likewise, file with his OPS District Office.

The wide coverage of this amendment has made it impracticable to consult with representatives of the affected industries or trade associations.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

The General Ceiling Price Regulation is amended in the following respects:

1. The first sub-paragraph of paragraph (b) of section 6 is amended to read as follows:

You should file your report with the OPS District Office for the district in which your place of business is located except as follows: Your report should be filed with the Director of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., if, (1) you expect to sell a substantial amount of the commodities covered by your report to persons located outside the OPS region in which your place of business is located, or (2) you are a manufacturer and your gross sales of your manufactured commodities for your last complete fiscal year amounted to $1,000,000 or more, or you are a new manufacturer who has not yet completed a fiscal year, but you expect your gross sales of your manufactured commodities to reach $1,000,000 during your first fiscal year, or (3) your report is made for a group of retail sellers determining uniform ceiling prices under section 12.

2. The last sub-paragraph of section 7 is amended to read as follows:

You should file your application with the OPS District Office for the district in which your place of business is located except as follows: Your application should be filed with the Director of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C. if, (1) you expect to sell a substantial amount of the commodities covered by your application to persons located outside the OPS region in which your place of business is located, or (2) you are a manufacturer and your gross sales of your manufactured commodities for your last complete fiscal year amounted to $1,000,000 or more, or you are a new manufacturer who has not yet completed a fiscal year, but you expect your gross sales of your manufactured commodities to reach $1,000,000 during your first fiscal year, or (3) your application is made for a group of retail sellers determining uniform ceiling prices under section 12.

Effective date. This amendment is effective November 29, 1952.

NOTE: The record keeping and reporting requirements of this amendment have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

GCPR, SR 87—CEILING PRICES FOR RESELLERS OF LUMBER AND ALLIED WOOD PRODUCTS

FILING WITH DISTRICT OFFICES

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this Amendment 1 to Supplementary Regulation 87 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

In conformance with current OPS policy, this amendment to Supplementary Regulation 87 to the GCPR provides that applications for the establishment of a percentage markup under section 14 shall be filed with the District Office of the Office of Price Stabilization in the District where a reseller's place of business is located. Those resellers who have places of business in more than one District shall continue to file with the National Office.

The character of this amendment made it impracticable to consult formally with industry representatives, although, wherever feasible, various representatives of industry were informally consulted and consideration was given to their recommendations.

In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization the provisions of this amendment are generally fair and equitable and are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Section 14 (a) is amended to read as follows:

(a) If you cannot determine a percentage markup for a lumber item under other provisions of this supplementary regulation, as, for example, because you were not in business during those periods, or because you are selling to an entirely new class of purchaser, etc., you must make written application for the establishment of a percentage markup to the District Office of the Office of Price Stabilization in the District in which your place of business is located. If you have places of business located in more than one District, then you must file your application with the Forest Products Division, Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C. Your application must be filed in duplicate and must be sent by registered mail with a return receipt requested. Your application shall state:

(1) Your name and address, or addresses, and the nature of your business, such as retailer, type of wholesaler, etc.

(2) As complete a description as possible of the lumber item or items for which you are seeking a markup.

(3) A statement as to whether your proposed markup is to apply to your current net invoice cost, acquisition cost, or your current average net invoice or acquisition cost, and the amount of such cost to you for the item you are pricing.

(4) Your proposed percentage markup, and the class or classes of purchasers to which the markup will apply for the quantities involved.

(5) A statement setting forth the reason why you cannot determine a markup for the lumber item under other provisions of this supplementary regulation.

(6) A statement setting forth how you determined your proposed markup, and why you believe it is in line with a markup determined under the other procedures established by this supplementary regulation.

Effective date. This amendment shall become effective November 29, 1952.

NOTE: The record-keeping and reporting requirements of this amendment have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

FILING WITH DISTRICT OFFICES

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this Amendment 1 to Supplementary Regulation 110 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

In conformance with current OPS policy, this amendment to Supplementary Regulation 110 provides that reports under section 5 shall be filed with the District Office of the Office of Price Stabilization in the District where a seller's place of business is located. Those sellers who have places of business in more than one District shall continue to file with the National Office. The amendment does not require sellers to refile reports which they have previously filed with the National Office.

The character of this amendment made it impracticable to consult formally with industry representatives, although, wherever feasible, various representatives of industry were informally consulted and consideration was given to their recommendations.

In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization the provisions of this amendment are generally fair and equitable and are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

(c) Reports made under this section shall contain your company name and address and be signed by you if an individual; if a partnership, by a partner, or if a corporation, by a duly authorized officer.

Effective date. This amendment shall become effective November 29, 1952.

NOTE: The record-keeping and reporting requirements of this amendment have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

[General Overriding Regulation 4, Amdt. 12 to Revision 1]

GOR 4—EXEMPTIONS AND SUSPENSIONS OF CERTAIN CONSUMER SOFT GOODS

CLARIFICATION OF SUSPENSION

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this amendment to General Overriding Regulation 4, Revision 1, is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

Amendment 1 to General Overriding Regulation 4, Revision 1, added to the commodities suspended from price controls three groups of yarns and fabrics when sold by manufacturers. It now appears that the language used in this amendment to suspend certain synthetic and silk yarns and fabrics went beyond the Agency's intention at the time and the present amendment is therefore being issued to clarify and properly limit the effect of Amendment 1. This is accomplished by the addition of a new category of exceptions making it clear that synthetic and silk yarns and fabrics composed of more than 50 percent by fiber weight of fibers or yarns which are neither wool, cotton, silk, synthetics nor combinations thereof, are not suspended from price controls.

The other changes effected by the present amendment are merely designed to make the regulation more easily understood.

In view of the clarifying nature of this amendment, special circumstances have rendered consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, impracticable.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

General Overriding Regulation 4, Revision 1, as amended, is further amended in the following respects:

1. Paragraph (c) of section 3 is amended to read as follows:

(c) Synthetics and silk. The following yarns and fabrics when sold by the manufacturer thereof: Spun, plied, thrown, dyed or otherwise processed yarns and greige and finished fabrics composed wholly or partly of synthetic or silk fibers or yarns, except sales in the territories and possessions of the United States and sales of the following: (1) Yarns or fabrics composed of more than 50 percent by fiber weight or fibers or yarns which are neither wool, cotton, silk, synthetics nor combinations thereof, (2) automotive parts, (3) synthetic tire fabric, (4) yarns or fabrics containing 25 percent or more of wool or wool waste by fiber weight, and (5) yarns or fabrics which consist, after production but before finishing, of 50 percent or more of cotton by fiber weight and containing less than 25 percent by fiber weight of any one of either wool, rayon, nylon or other fibers. Nothing in this paragraph shall be construed to apply to synthetic staple, tow, or continuous filament yarn as produced by the initial manufacturer, or to raw silk.

2. Paragraph (d) is amended by adding the headnote Wool, so that paragraph (d) will now read as follows:

(d) Wool. Yarns and fabrics, when sold by the manufacturers thereof, containing 25 percent or more of wool or wool waste by fiber weight, except sales made in the territories and possessions of the United States and sales of soft surface floor coverings.

3. Paragraph (e) is amended by adding the headnote Cotton, so that paragraph (e) will now read as follows:

(e) Cotton. Yarns and fabrics, when sold by the manufacturers thereof, consisting, after production but before finishing, of 50 percent or more of cotton by fiber weight and containing less than 25 percent by fiber weight of any one of either wool, rayon, nylon or other fibers, except sales in the territories and possessions of the United States.

Effective date. This amendment is effective November 24, 1952.

PART 9—AERONAUTICAL SERVICES

FREQUENCIES AVAILABLE; SERVICE TO BE RENDERED

In the matter of amendment of §§ 9.321 (e), 9.331 (a), and 9.412 (b) of the Commission's rules and regulations governing aeronautical services; Docket No. 10276.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D. C., on the 5th day of November 1952;

The Commission having under consideration the above captioned matter which proposed to amend Part 9, in order to implement that portion of the agreement concluded at the Extraordinary Administrative Radio Conference (EARC) Geneva, 1951 which made the frequency 3023.5 kc available for assignment to aircraft.

It appearing, that in accordance with the requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act, a notice of proposed rule making was duly published in Volume 17 of the FEDERAL REGISTER on August 16, 1952, which notice proposed the above amendment to the Commission's rules; and

It further appearing, that the period in which interested persons were afforded an opportunity to submit comments expired and all comments have been considered; and

It further appearing, that the Civil Aeronautics Administration in commenting on this proposal states, that Civil Aviation as a whole will benefit by transfer of the service now rendered on 3105 kc to the Internationally Agreed worldwide common frequency 3023.5 kc; and

It further appearing, that the Civil Aeronautics Administration states that essentially all of the approximate 600 CAA stations will be equipped to render service on 3023.5 kc by March 15, 1953, and that these stations can provide service to aircraft on 3105 kc as well as on 3023.5 kc for any reasonable minimum period which can be justified in the circumstances. Further, the CAA urged that the Commission extend for a like period the availability of the frequency 3105 kc to aircraft in order that the operational problems of transition within the United States will be eased and that an opportunity for more fully coordinating this frequency change with neighboring countries will be provided; and

It further appearing, that the comments filed in opposition to the proposed rule making were general in nature; either objecting to the change at any time or requesting that 3105 kc not be deleted on March 15, 1953. Comments included deletion dates ranging from six months to one year beyond March 15, 1953; and

It further appearing, that in view of the comments filed, an extension of the effective date for the discontinuation of use of 3105 kc from March 15, 1953, to March 15, 1954, appears to be a reasonable minimum period which is justified in the circumstances; and

It further appearing, that it would be in the public interest to amend §§ 9.321 (e) and 9.331 (a) so as to authorize all aircraft stations currently authorized to operate on the frequency 3105 kc to operate on the frequency 3023.5 kc during the term of their current licenses without the frequency 3023.5 kc being listed on such licenses; and

It further appearing, that the public interest, convenience and necessity will be served by this amendment, the authority for which is contained in sections 4 (i), 303 (a), (b), (c), and (r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended;

It is ordered, That effective December 15, 1952, Part 9 of the Commission's rules and regulations governing Aeronautical Services, is amended as set forth below.

(Sec. 4, 48 Stat. 1066 as amended; 47 U. S. C. 154. Interprets or applies sec. 303, 48 Stat. 1082, as amended; 47 U. S. C. 303)

Released: November 7, 1952.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION,
[SEAL] T. J. SLOWIE, Secretary.

1. Section 9.321 (e) is amended to read as follows:

(i) Allowed as deductions in computing net income under this chapter or prior income tax laws, and

(ii) Resulting (by reason of the deductions so allowed) in a reduction for any taxable year of the taxpayer's taxes under this chapter (other than subchapter E), subchapter E of chapter 2, or prior income, war-profits, or excess-profits tax laws, but not less than the amount allowable under this chapter or prior income tax laws. Clause (ii) of this subparagraph shall not apply in respect of any period since February 28, 1913, and before January 1, 1952, unless an election has been made under subsection (d).

SEC. 3. The amendments made by this Act shall apply in respect of taxable years beginning after December 31, 1936. Provisions having the effect of such amendments shall be deemed to have been included in the revenue laws respectively applicable to taxable years ending after December 31, 1931, and beginning before January 1, 1939.

PAR. 2. Section 29.113 (b) (1)–1 as amended by Treasury Decision 5873, approved December 7, 1951, is amended as follows:

(A) By inserting immediately preceding the paragraph (a) thereof the following headnote: "(a) Items properly chargeable to capital account," and by redesignating paragraphs (b) and (c) as subparagraphs (1) and (2).

(B) By striking paragraph (d) of such section, which paragraph begins with the words "The cost or other basis * * *", and paragraph (e) thereof, which paragraph begins with the words "The depreciation allowed * * *", and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

(b) Exhaustion, wear and tear, obsolescence, amortization, and depletion for periods since February 28, 1913—(1) In General. The cost or other basis must also be decreased, to the extent provided in subparagraphs (2), (3), and (4) of this paragraph, by the amount of the deductions for exhaustion, wear and tear, obsolescence, amortization, and depletion. The adjustment required for any taxable year or period is the amount allowed (or the portion thereof referred to in subparagraph (2) (i) or subparagraph (4) (i) of this paragraph, as the case may be) or the amount allowable for such year or period under the law applicable thereto, whichever is the greater amount. A taxpayer is not permitted to take advantage in a later year of his prior failure to take any depreciation allowance or of his action in taking an allowance plainly inadequate under the known facts in prior years. The determination of the amount properly allowable shall, however, be made on the basis of facts reasonably known to exist at the end of such year or period. The aggregate sum of the greater of such annual amounts is the amount by which the cost or other basis of the property shall be adjusted.

The deductions by which the cost or other basis is to be decreased shall include deductions allowed under section 114 (b) (2), (3), and (4) of the Revenue Act of 1932, the Revenue Act of 1934, the Revenue Act of 1936, the Revenue Act of 1938, and the Internal Revenue Code, for the taxable year 1932 and subsequent taxable years, but the amount of the diminution in respect of depletion for taxable years prior to 1932 shall not exceed a depletion deduction computed without reference to discovery value in the case of mines, or without reference to discovery value or a percentage of income in the case of oil and gas wells.

(2) Adjustment for periods beginning on or after January 1, 1952. The decrease required by subparagraph (1) of this paragraph for deductions in respect of any period beginning on or after January 1, 1952, shall be whichever is the greater of the following amounts:

(i) The amount allowed as deductions in computing net income under chapter 1 and resulting (by reason of the deductions so allowed) in a reduction for any taxable year of the taxpayer's taxes under chapter 1 (other than subchapter E, relating to the tax on self-employment income);

(ii) The amount properly allowable as deductions in computing net income under Chapter 1 (whether or not the amount properly allowable would have caused a reduction for any taxable year of the taxpayer's taxes).

(3) Adjustment for periods since February 28, 1913, and before January 1, 1952, where no election made. Except where an election has been properly made under section 113 (d) (see subparagraph (4) of this paragraph, the decrease required by paragraph (1) for deductions in respect of any period since February 28, 1913, and before January 1, 1952, shall be whichever of the following amounts is the greater:

(i) The amount allowed as deductions in computing net income under chapter 1 or prior income tax laws;

(ii) The amount properly allowable in computing net income under chapter 1 or prior income tax laws.

For the purpose of determining the decrease required by this paragraph it is immaterial whether or not the amount under subdivision (i) of this subparagraph or the amount under subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph would have resulted in a reduction for any taxable year of the taxpayer's taxes.

(4) Adjustment for period since February 28, 1913, and before January 1, 1952, where election made under section 113 (d). If an election has been properly made under section 113 (d) (see section 29.113 (d)–1), the decrease required by subparagraph (1) of this paragraph for deductions in respect of any period since February 28, 1913, and before January 1, 1952, shall be whichever is the greater of the following amounts:

(i) The amount allowed as deductions in computing net income under chapter 1 or prior income tax laws and resulting (by reason of the deductions so allowed) in a reduction for any taxable year of the taxpayer's taxes under chapter 1 (other than subchapter E, relating to the tax on self-employment income), subchapter E of chapter 2, or prior income, war-profits, or excess-profits tax laws;

(ii) The amount properly allowable as deductions in computing net income under chapter 1 or prior income tax laws (whether or not the amount properly allowable would have caused a reduction for any taxable year of the taxpayer's taxes).

(5) Determination of amount allowed which reduced taxpayer's taxes. For the purpose of determining whether the amount allowed which resulted in a reduction for any taxable year of the taxpayer's taxes under chapter 1 of the Internal Revenue Code (other than subchapter E), subchapter E of chapter 2, or prior income, war-profits, or excess-profits tax laws, which amount is hereinafter referred to as the "tax-benefit amount allowed", exceeded the amount allowable, a determination must be made of that portion of the excess of the amount allowed over the amount allowable which, if disallowed, would not have resulted in an increase in any such tax previously determined. If the entire excess of the amount allowed over the amount allowable could be disallowed without any such increase in tax, the tax-benefit amount allowed shall not be considered to have exceeded the amount allowable. If only part of such excess could be disallowed without any such increase in tax, the tax-benefit amount allowed shall be considered to exceed the amount allowable to the extent of the remainder of such excess.

For this purpose, the tax previously determined shall be determined under the principles of section 3801 (d), the only adjustments made in determining whether there would be an increase in tax shall be those resulting from the disallowance of the amount allowed, and the taxable years for which the determination is made shall be the taxable year for which the deduction was allowed and any other taxable year which would be affected by the disallowance of such deduction. Examples of such other taxable years are taxable years to which there was a carry-over or carry-back of a net operating loss or an unused excess-profits credit from the taxable year for which the deduction was allowed, and taxable years for which a computation under section 22 (b) (12) or section 127 was made by reference to the taxable year for which the deduction was allowed. In determining whether the disallowance of any part of the deduction would not have resulted in an increase in any tax previously determined, proper adjustment must be made for previous determinations under section 452, 734, or 3801, and for any previous application of section 113 (b) (1) (B) (ii).

If a determination under section 113 (b) (1) (B) (ii) must be made with respect to several properties for each of which the amount allowed for the taxable year exceeded the amount allowable, the tax-benefit amount allowed with respect to each of such properties shall be an allocated portion of the tax-benefit amount allowed determined by reference to the sum of the amounts allowed and the sum of the amounts allowable with respect to such several properties.

In the case of property held by a partnership or trust, the computation of the tax-benefit amount allowed shall take into account the tax benefit of the partners or beneficiaries, as the case may be, from the deduction by the partnership or trust of the amount allowed to the partnership or the trust. For this purpose, the determination of the amount allowed which resulted in a tax benefit to the partners or beneficiaries shall be made in the same manner as that provided above with respect to the taxes of the person holding the property.

A taxpayer seeking to limit the adjustment to basis to the tax-benefit amount allowed for any period, in lieu of the amount allowed, must establish the tax-benefit amount allowed. A failure of adequate proof as to the tax-benefit amount allowed with respect to one period does not preclude the taxpayer from limiting the adjustment to basis to the tax-benefit amount allowed with respect to another period for which adequate proof is available. For example, a corporate tranferee may have available adequate records with respect to the tax effect of the deduction for the taxable years 1946 and 1947 of erroneous depreciation, but may not have available adequate records with respect to the deduction of excessive depreciation for a prior period during which the property was held by its transferor. In such case, assuming a proper election is made under section 113 (d), the corporate transferee shall not be denied the right to apply this section with respect to the erroneous depreciation for the period for which adequate proof is available.

(6) Determination of amount allowable in prior taxable years. Under section 113 (b) (1) (B), one of the factors involved in determining the adjustment to basis as of any date is the amount allowable for periods prior to such date. The amount allowable for such prior periods is determined under the law applicable to such prior periods; all adjustments required by the law applicable to such periods are made in determining the adjusted basis of the property for the purpose of determining the amount allowable. Since provisions corresponding to the amendment to section 113 (b) (1) (B) made by Public Law 539 (82d Congress) are deemed included in all revenue laws applicable to taxable years ending after December 31, 1931, the amount allowable for any such taxable year must be computed with the application of such provisions. For example, if the adjusted basis of property is determined as of January 1, 1952, if an election was properly made under section 113 (d), and if the property was held since January 1, 1930, then the amount allowable which is taken into account in computing the adjusted basis as of January 1, 1952, shall be determined for all taxable years ending after December 31, 1931, with the application to each such taxable year of the provisions of section 113 (b) (1) (B) as amended by Public Law 539. Public Law 539 made no change in the law applicable in determining the amount allowable for taxable years ending before January 1, 1932. In any case in which, prior to the enactment of Public Law 539 (July 14, 1952) there was a final decision of a court determining the amount allowable for a particular taxable year, such determination (but only for the purpose of determining the adjustment under section 113 (b) (1) (B) by reference to such allowable amount) must be adjusted to the extent necessary to reflect the amendment made by Public Law 539 to the law applicable to the taxable year for which the amount was allowable.

Although Public Law 539 amends the law applicable to all taxable years ending after December 31, 1931, the amendment does not open for refund, credit, or assessment of a deficiency any taxable year for which such refund, credit, or assessment is barred by any law or rule of law.

(7) Property with transferred basis. The following rules apply in the determination of the adjustments to basis of property in the hands of a transferee, donee, or grantee which are required by section 113 (b) (2) with respect to the period the property was held by the transferor, donor or grantor:

(i) An election under section 113 (d) by a transferor, donor, or grantor made after the date of the transfer, gift, or grant of the property shall not affect the basis of such property in the hands of the transferee, donee, or grantee. Such an election made before the date of the transfer must be taken into account in determining under section 113 (b) (2) the adjustments to basis as of the date of the transfer, gift, or grant, whether or not an election under section 113 (d) was made by the transferee, donee, or grantee.

(ii) An election by the transferee, donee, or grantee shall be applicable in determining the adjustments to basis for the period during which the property was held by the transferor, donor, or grantor, whether or not the transferor, donor, or grantor had made an election: Provided, That the property was held by the transferee, donee, or grantee at any time on or before the date on which his election was made.

Example (1). The case of Corporation A discloses the following facts:

(1) Year	(2) Amount allowed	(3) Amount allowed which reduced taxpayer's taxes	(4) Amount allowable	(5) Amount allowable but not less than amount allowed	(6) Amount allowable but not less than amount allowed which reduced taxpayer's taxes
1949	$6,000	$5,500	$5,000	$6,000	$5,500
1950	7,000	7,000	6,500	7,000	7,000
1951	5,000	4,000	6,500	6,500	6,500
Total, 1949–51				19,500	19,000
1952	6,500	6,500	6,000		6,500
1953	5,000	4,000	4,000		4,000
1954	4,500	4,500	6,000		6,000
Total, 1952–54					16,500

The cost or other basis is to be adjusted by $16,500 with respect to the years 1952–1954, that is, by the amount allowable but not less than the amount allowed which reduced the taxpayer's taxes. An adjustment must also be made with respect to the years 1949–1951, the amount of such adjustment depending upon whether an election was properly made under section 113 (d). If no such election was made, the amount of the adjustment with respect to the years 1949–1951 is $19,500, that is, the amount allowed but not less than the amount allowable. If an election was properly made, the amount of the adjustment with respect to the years 1949–1951 is $19,000, that is, the amount allowable but not less than the amount allowed which reduced the taxpayer's taxes.

Example (2). Corporation A purchased a building on January 1, 1950, at a cost of $100,000. On the basis of the facts reasonably known to exist at the end of 1950, a period of 50 years should have been used as the correct useful life of the building; nevertheless, depreciation was computed by Corporation A on the basis of a useful life of 25 years, and was allowed for 1950 through 1953 as a deduction in an annual amount of $4,000. The building was sold on January 1, 1954. Corporation A did not make an election under section 113 (d). No part of the amount allowed Corporation A for any of the years 1950 through 1953 resulted in a reduction of Corporation A's taxes. The adjusted basis of the building as of January 1, 1954, is $88,166, computed as follows:

Year	Adjustments to basis as of beginning of taxable year	Adjusted basis	Remaining life	Depreciation allowable	Depreciation allowed
1950		$100,000	50	$2,000	$4,000
1951	$4,000	96,000	49	1,959	4,000
1952	8,000	92,000	48	1,917	4,000
1953	9,917	90,083	47	1,917	4,000
1954	11,834	88,166

Example (3). The facts are the same as in Example (2), except that Corporation A made a proper election under section 113 (d). In such case, the adjusted basis of the building as of January 1, 1954, is $92,000, computed as follows:

Year	Adjustments to basis as of beginning of taxable year	Adjusted basis	Remaining life	Depreciation allowable	Depreciation allowed
1950		$100,000	50	$2,000	$4,000
1951	$2,000	98,000	49	2,000	4,000
1952	4,000	96,000	48	2,000	4,000
1953	6,000	94,000	47	2,000	4,000
1954	8,000	92,000

Example (4). If it is assumed that in Example (2), or in Example (3), all of the deduction allowed Corporation A for 1953 had resulted in a reduction of A's taxes, the adjustment to the basis of the building for depreciation for 1953 would reflect the entire $4,000 deduction. In such case, the adjusted basis of the building as of January 1, 1954, would be $86,083 in Example (2), and $90,000 in Example (3).

Example (5). The facts are the same as in Example (2) except that for the year 1950 all of the $4,000 amount allowed Corporation A as a deduction for depreciation for that year resulted in a reduction of A's taxes. In such case, the adjustments to the basis of the building remain the same as those set forth in Example (2).

Example (6). The facts are the same as in Example (3) except that for the year 1950 all of the $4,000 amount allowed Corporation A as a deduction for depreciation resulted in a reduction of A's taxes. In such case, the adjusted basis of the building as of January 1, 1954, is $90,123, computed as follows:

Year	Adjustments to basis as of beginning of taxable year	Adjusted basis	Remaining life	Depreciation allowable	Depreciation allowed
1950		$100,000	50	$2,000	$4,000
1951	$4,000	96,000	49	1,959	4,000
1952	8,959	94,041	48	1,959	4,000
1953	7,918	92,082	47	1,959	4,000
1954	9,877	90,123

(C) By redesignating present paragraph (f) thereof beginning with the words "The cost or other basis shall also be decreased * * *" as paragraph (c) and by adding the following headnote: "(c) Exhaustion, wear and tear, obsolescence, amortization, and depletion—periods prior to March 1, 1913."

(D) By redesignating present paragraph (g) thereof, which paragraph begins with the words "In the case of stock, * * *" as paragraph (d) and by adding the following headnote: "(d) Certain stock distributions."

(E) By redesignating present paragraph (h) thereof, which paragraph begins with the words "In the case of stock of United States shareholders * * *", as paragraph (e) and by adding the following headnote: "(e) Stock of United States shareholders of a foreign personal holding company."

(F) By redesignating present paragraph (i) thereof, which paragraph begins with the words "Adjustments must always be made * * *", as paragraph (f) and by adding the following headnote: "(f) Other applicable rules.".

(G) By removing the designation (j) from paragraph (j) so that the paragraph stands undesignated.

PAR. 3. There is inserted immediately after § 29.113 (c)–1 the following:

PUBLIC LAW 539 (82D CONGRESS)
[APPROVED JULY 14, 1952]

SEC. 2. Section 113 of the Internal Revenue Code (relating to basis of property) is hereby amended by adding at the end thereof the following new subsection:

(d) Election in respect of depreciation, etc., allowed before 1952. Any person may elect to have clause (ii) of subsection (b) (1) (B) apply in respect of periods since February 28, 1913, and before January 1, 1952. Such an election shall be made in such manner as the Secretary may by regulations prescribe, shall be irrevocable, and shall apply in respect of all property held by the person making the election at any time on or before the date on which the election was made and in respect of all periods since February 28, 1913, and before January 1, 1952, during which such person held such property or for which adjustments must be made under subsection (b) (1). An election by a transferor, donor, or grantor made after the date of the transfer, gift, or grant of property shall not affect the basis of such property in the hands of the transferee, donee, or grantee. No such election may be made after December 31, 1952.

SEC. 3. The amendments made by this Act shall apply in respect of taxable years beginning after December 31, 1938. Provisions having the effect of such amendments shall be deemed to have been included in the revenue laws respectively applicable to taxable years ending after December 31, 1931, and beginning before January 1, 1939.

§ 29.113 (d)–1 Election as to amounts allowed in respect of depreciation, etc., before 1952—(a) In general. Any person may elect to have the adjustments to the cost or other basis of property under section 113 (b) (1) (B) determined in accordance with clause (ii) of such section, by filing with the director or collector of internal revenue, on or before December 31, 1952, the written statement of election provided in paragraph (b) of this section. The statement must be filed with the collector or director with whom the return must be filed (determined under section 53 (b) as of December 31, 1952). Such election shall be irrevocable after December 31, 1952, and shall apply with respect to all periods since February 28, 1913, and before January 1, 1952. The election shall apply to all properties held by the person making the election at any time on or before the date of such election.

A taxpayer may include in an election filed before December 31, 1952, a statement that the election shall take effect when filed, and in such case the election shall be irrevocable on the date filed, and shall not apply to any property acquired by the taxpayer after such date. If an election is made before December 31, 1952, and does not contain such statement, the election may be revoked by filing on or before December 31, 1952, in the same office in which the election was filed, a statement of revocation executed in the same manner as the election. Such an election made before December 31, 1952, and not revoked on or before that date, shall be deemed made on December 31, 1952, and shall apply to all property held by the taxpayer at any time on or before such date.

A copy of the written statement of election must be filed with the first income tax return, amended return, or claim for refund filed on or after the date on which the election is made.

An election by a partner is not an election by the partnership of which he is a member, but a separate election must be made by the partnership. Similarly, an election by the partnership applies only with respect to the partnership, and is not applicable to the separate property of the partners. A similar rule applies with respect to elections by trusts and beneficiaries of such trusts.

An election which conforms in substance to the provisions of this section shall not be deemed invalid solely because it was filed prior to the date on which the regulations in this section were promulgated.

(b) Rules applicable to making of election. The following rules are applicable to the making of an election under section 113 (d):

(1) Form of election. The election shall be in the form of a statement in writing addressed to the collector or director of internal revenue with whom filed, shall state the name and address of the taxpayer making the election, and shall contain a statement that such taxpayer elects to have the provisions of section 113 (b) (1) (B) (ii) apply in respect of all periods since February 28, 1913, and before January 1, 1952.

(2) Signature. The statement shall be signed by the taxpayer making the election, if an individual, or, if the taxpayer making the election is not an individual, the statement shall be executed in the same manner as is required in the case of the income tax return of such taxpayer.

(3) Filing. The written statement must be filed in the office of the collector or director of internal revenue on or before December 31, 1952. An election shall be considered as timely filed if it is placed in the mail on or before midnight of December 31, 1952, as shown by the postmark on the envelope containing the written statement of election or as shown by other available evidence of the mailing date.

The amendments to § 29.113 (b) (1)–1 of Regulations 111, covering taxable years beginning after December 31, 1941, set forth in this Treasury decision, are hereby made applicable to taxable years begining after December 31, 1931, and before January 1, 1942 (such years being covered by Regulations 77, 86, 94, 101, and 103).

EXCESS PROFITS CREDIT BASED ON INCOME IN CONNECTION WITH CERTAIN EXCHANGES

Notice is hereby given pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act, approved June 11, 1946, that the regulations set forth below in tentative form are proposed to be prescribed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury. Prior to the final adoption of such regulations, consideration will be given to data, views, or arguments pertaining thereto which are submitted in writing in duplicate to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington 25, D. C., within the period of 30 days from the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The proposed regulations are to be issued under the authority contained in section 62 of the Internal Revenue Code (53 Stat. 32; 26 U. S. C. 62).

[SEAL] JUSTIN F. WINKLE,
Acting Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

In order to conform Part II of Regulations 130 (26 CFR, Part 40) to Title V of the Revenue Act of 1951 (other than section 521 of that act), approved October 20, 1951, with respect to the excess profits credit based on income in connection with Part II transactions, such regulations are amended as follows:

PARAGRAPH 1. There is inserted immediately preceding § 40.461–1, as added by Treasury Decision 5865, approved November 13, 1951, the following:

SEC. 509. ALTERNATIVE AVERAGE BASE PERIOD NET INCOME (REVENUE ACT OF 1951, APPROVED OCTOBER 20, 1951).

(b) Technical amendments.

(2) Section 461 (relating to definitions for purposes of part II) is hereby amended by inserting at the end thereof the following new subsection:

(g) Application of section 442 (h). For the purpose of this part, the reference to section 442 (c) in any section in this part shall be deemed a reference to section 442 (c) or (h).

SEC. 519. TELEVISION BROADCASTING COMPANIES (REVENUE ACT OF 1951, APPROVED OCTOBER 20, 1951).

Section 459, as added by section 516 to 518 of this Act, is hereby amended by adding after subsection (c) thereof the following new subsections:

(d) Television broadcasting companies.

(6) Application of Part II. The Secretary shall prescribe regulations for the application of Part II for the purpose of this subsection in the case of an acquiring corporation or a component corporation in a transaction described in section 461 (a) which occurred prior to January 1, 1951.

* * * * *

SEC. 523. EFFECTIVE DATE OF TITLE V (REVENUE ACT OF 1951, APPROVED OCTOBER 20, 1951).

* * * the amendments made by this title (including sections 509 and 519) shall be applicable only with respect to taxable years ending after June 30, 1950.

PAR. 2. Section 40.461–6, as added by Treasury Decision 5865, is amended by changing the phrase "section 442 (c)" in (b) (1) thereof to read as follows: "section 442 (c) or (h)".

PAR. 3. Section 40.461–7, as added by Treasury Decision 5865, is hereby amended by adding at the end thereof the following new paragraphs (d) and (e):

(d) Average base period net income determined with partial reference to section 435 (d). The last two sentences of section 435 (d) as added by section 503 of the Revenue Act of 1951 (relating to a substitute 48-month period in lieu of the base period) are inapplicable for the purpose of any computations other than the determination of the average base period net income under the general average method of section 435 (d). Thus, in determining an alternative average base period net income under sections 442 (c), 442 (h) or 459 (d), with respect to a Part II transaction, the base period of the taxpayer and not the substitute 48-month period shall be used in computing the excess profits net income of such taxpayer.

(e) Non-availability of section 459 in the case of a Part II transaction. A corporation which was a party to a Part II transaction at any time during or after its base period shall not be entitled to determine its average base period net income, for the purpose of determining its excess profits credit for any taxable year ending after the date of the Part II transaction, under any subsection of section 459 other than subsection (d) of such section. The determination of the average base period net income of a corporation which was a party to a Part II transaction may be made with reference to section 459 (d) only in the case of a Part II transaction occurring prior to January 1, 1951. For computations under Part II with reference to section 459 (d), see § 40.461–8.

PAR. 4. There is added immediately after § 40.461–7, as added by Treasury Decision 5865, the following:

§ 40.461–8 Rules for application of section 459 (d) under Part II—(a) In general. Every corporation engaged in the business of television broadcasting throughout a period beginning before January 1, 1951, and ending with the close of the taxable year, which is a party to a Part II transaction occurring before January 1, 1951, whether as an acquiring corporation or as a component corporation, may compute its excess profits credit based on income with reference to section 459 (d) and to § 40.462–15. The provisions of the regulations under Part II applicable in the case of a taxpayer computing its excess profits credit with reference to section 435 (d) (the general average method for determining average base period net income) shall also be applicable to a taxpayer computing its excess profits credit under Part II with reference to section 459 (d), except as otherwise specifically provided in §§ 40.462–15, 40.463–1 (g), and 40.464–1 (f).

PAR. 5. There is inserted immediately preceding § 40.462–1, as added by Treasury Decision 5865, the following:

SEC. 504. AVERAGE BASE PERIOD NET INCOME—ALTERNATIVE BASED ON GROWTH IN CASE OF NEW CORPORATIONS (REVENUE ACT OF 1951, APPROVED OCTOBER 20, 1951).

* * * * *

(b) Amendment of Part II. Section 462 (c) (relating to the use by an acquiring corporation in a Part II transaction of an alternative average base period net income based on growth) is hereby amended as follows:

(1) By amending paragraph (1) thereof to read as follows:

(1) In the case of a transaction described in section 461 (a), other than a transaction described in section 461 (a) (1) (E)—

(A) The acquiring corporation shall not be denied the right to determine whether it is eligible for the benefits of section 435 (e) without reference to the recomputation of its excess profits net income provided for in section 462 (b) where the transaction occurred on or after July 1, 1950, but it shall be denied such right where the transaction occurred prior to July 1, 1950.

(B) Where, immediately prior to the date of the transaction, the acquiring corporation and all the component corporations (other than a corporation created incident to such transaction) met the requirements of section 435 (e) (1) (A) (i), and, in case the transaction occurred on or after July 1, 1950, had commenced business prior to the beginning of its base period (determined without reference to section 461 (d)), the acquiring corporation shall be entitled to compute its average base period net income under section 435 (e) with reference to the recomputation of its excess profits net income provided for in section 462 (b) if the tests of section 435 (e) are satisfied. For that purpose, the acquiring corporation shall combine with its total payroll and its total gross receipts for that portion of its base period which preceded such transaction the total payroll and total gross receipts of such component corporations for that portion of such period and it shall combine with its net sales for that portion of the period prior to January 1, 1951, which preceded such transaction the net sales of such component corporations for that portion of such period. The allocation of payroll and gross receipts amounts of a component corporation to any such portion of such period shall be made in accordance with the rules provided in section 435 (e) (4) and (5). For purposes of qualifying under section 435 (e) (1) (A) (i) (relating to total assets of the taxpayer), such acquiring corporation shall combine its total assets on the date specified in section 435 (e) (1) (A) (i) with the total assets of each component corporation on such date. The Secretary shall prescribe by regulations such rules as may be necessary to insure that such combined total gross receipts do not reflect a duplication for purposes of this section.

(C) Where, immediately prior to the date of the transaction, either the acquiring corporation or one or more component corporations (other than a corporation created incident to such transaction) did not meet the requirements of section 435 (e) (1) (A) (i), or, in case the transaction occurred on or after July 1, 1950, had not commenced business prior to the beginning of its base period (determined without reference to section 461 (d)), the acquiring corporation shall not be entitled to compute its average base period net income under section 435 (e) with reference to the recomputation of its excess profits net income provided for in section 462 (b). In any such case, where the transaction occurred on or after July 1, 1950, the monthly excess profits net income of the corporation entitled to the benefits of section 435 (e) for any month of the acquiring corporation's base period shall be, for purposes of the recomputation provided for in section 462 (b), one-twelfth of the average base period net income to which such corporation was entitled under section 435 (e), and such monthly excess profits net income shall be in lieu of the monthly excess profits net income determined under paragraphs (1) and (2) of section 462 (b).

(2) By striking from the second sentence of paragraph (2) thereof the words: "had commenced business prior to the beginning of its base period (determined without reference to section 461 (d)) and".

(3) By striking from paragraph (3) thereof the words "which had commenced business prior to the beginning of its base period" and by inserting in lieu thereof the following: "which had commenced business prior to the end of its base period".

SEC. 523. EFFECTIVE DATE OF TITLE V (REVENUE ACT OF 1951, APPROVED OCTOBER 20, 1951). * * * the amendments made by this title (including section 504) shall be applicable only with respect to taxable years ending after June 30, 1950.

PAR. 6. Section 40.462–1, as added by Treasury Decision 5865, is amended as follows:

(A) By changing the third sentence of paragraph (a) (1) to read as follows: "If computed with reference to section 462 (b), the excess profits net income of the acquiring corporation shall be the excess profits net income or deficit in excess profits net income for each month of the acquiring corporation's base period as defined in section 435 (b) (or the 48-month period prescribed in section 435 (d), if such period is available to the acquiring corporation), increased or decreased, as the case may be, by the addition or reduction resulting from including the excess profits net income or deficit in excess profits net income for that month of all component corporations in the manner provided in section 462 (b)."

(B) By changing the phrase "computed under section 442 (c) and (d)" in (a) (3) thereof to read as follows: "computed under section 442 (c), (d), or (h)".

(C) By inserting in the first sentence of paragraph (b) (1) (i) after the words "in the base period of the acquiring corporation" the following: "(or the 48-month period prescribed in section 435 (d), if applicable)".

(D) By inserting in the first sentence of paragraph (b) (1) (iii) after the words "the acquiring corporation's base-period" the following: "(or the 48-month period prescribed in section 435 (d), if applicable)".

PAR. 7. Section 40.462–2, as added by Treasury Decision 5865 is amended as follows:

(A) By amending (b) (1) (i) (b) thereof to read as follows:

(b) (1) If the Part II transaction occurs before July 1, 1950, if the acquiring corporation recomputes its excess profits net income under section 462 (b), and if the acquiring corporation qualifies under the rules of section 435 (e) (1) (A) after applying the rules set forth in subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph; or

(2) If the Part II transaction occurs after June 30, 1950, if the acquiring corporation (other than a corporation created incident to such transaction) and all the component corporations actually commenced business prior to the beginning of the acquiring corporation's base period, if the acquiring corporation recomputes its excess profits net income under section 462 (b), and if the acquiring corporation qualifies under the rules of section 435 (e) (1) (A) after applying the rules set forth in subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph.

(B) By amending (b) (2) (i) (b) and (c) thereof by striking from the phrase "and all component corporations actually commenced business prior to the beginning of the acquiring corporation's base period" the word "beginning" and substituting in lieu thereof the word "end".

(C) By amending paragraph (c) (1) (i) (b) thereof by striking therefrom the following: "If the component corporation actually commenced business prior to the beginning of its base period, and".

(D) By amending paragraph (c) (2) (i) (b) thereof by striking therefrom the following: "If the component corporation actually commenced business prior to the beginning of its base period,".

(A) By amending paragraph (a) (1) by changing the phrase "under section 442 (c) or (d)" in the first sentence thereof to read as follows: "under section 442 (c), (d), or (h)", and by striking from such sentence the word "either".

(B) By amending paragraph (a) (1) (i) thereof by changing the phrase "for the purpose of section 442 (c) or (d)" to read as follows: "for the purpose of section 442 (c), (d), or (h)".

(C) By amending paragraph (a) (1) (ii) thereof by changing the phrase "under section 442 (a)" to read as follows: "under section 442 (a) or (h)".

(E) By amending paragraph (a) (2) (i) thereof by inserting therein the phrase "or under section 442 (h) (2) (B) (to the extent made available under section 442 (h) (2) (D))", and the phrase "or (h), respectively," so that as amended such provision will read as follows:

(i) The substitute excess profits net income for any month identified under section 442 (c) (1) and (3) or under section 442 (h) (2) (B) (to the extent made available under section 442 (h) (2) (D)), of any corporation entitled to the benefits of section 442 (c) or (h), respectively, immediately prior to the transaction shall be considered the excess profits net income of that corporation for such month;

(F) By amending paragraph (b) (1) thereof by changing the phrase "under section 442 (c) or (d)" to read as follows: "under section 442 (c), (d), or (h)", and by striking therefrom the word "either".

(G) By amending paragraph (b) (2) thereof by changing the phrase "under section 442 (c) or under section 442 (d)" to read as follows: "under section 442 (c) or (h) or under section 442 (d)".

PAR. 9. Section 40.462–9 (a) (1), as added by Treasury Decision 5865, is amended by changing the phrase "or substitute excess profits net income if computed under section 442 (c)" to read as follows: "or substitute excess profits net income if computed under section 442 (c) or (h)".

PAR. 10. There is added immediately after § 40.462–14, as added by Treasury Decision 5865, the following:

§ 40.462–15 Alternative average base period net income under section 459 (d)—(a) Part II transactions other than a transaction described in section 461 (a) (1) (E). In the case of a Part II transaction occurring before January 1, 1951, other than a transaction described in section 461 (a) (1) (E), the acquiring corporation shall be entitled to determine its average base period net income under section 459 (d) in the manner provided therein after the application of the rules provided in subdivisions (1), (2), (3) and (4) of this paragraph if the requirements of section 459 (d) are satisfied after the application of such rules. The rules referred to in this paragraph are as follows:

(1) For this purpose, the base period experience of the component corporation prior to the date of the transaction shall be attributed to the acquiring corporation as if the business, or businesses, the assets, and the other items of the component corporation during the period prior to the transaction were those of the acquiring corporation.

(2) In applying the rule of subdivision (1) of this paragraph, proper adjustment as to each item shall be made to prevent duplication, including the elimination of such portion of any item with respect to the component corporation or the acquiring corporation as is attributable to transactions between either such component corporation and the acquiring corporation or such component corporation and another component corporation.

(3) In determining under the rules of subdivisions (1) and (2) of this subparagraph the total assets for any day prior to the date of the Part II transaction, the provisions of section 470 shall be applicable with respect to the assets of the component corporation if such section is applicable to the Part II transaction.

(4) The principles of § 40.461–3 (c) shall be applicable not only with respect to excess profits net income but also with respect to all other factors involved in the computation.

(b) Part II transactions described in section 461 (a) (1) (E). In the case of a part II transaction described in section 461 (a) (1) (E) which occurred prior to January 1, 1951, the provisions of paragraph (a) of this section shall be applicable except that there shall be available to the acquiring corporation in determining its average base period net income under section 459 (d) only such portion of each item of the component corporation's base period experience prior to the transaction as is allocable to the properties of such component corporation transferred to the acquiring corporation, determined under section 462 (i) (6) and § 40.462–9 (b). The acquiring corporation may apply section 459 (d) only if section 462 (i) (6) and § 40.462–9 (b) are applicable to such corporation. For special rules with respect to a Part II transaction described in section 461 (a) (1) (E) involving a transfer to an acquiring corporation not created incident to the transaction, or involving a transfer by more than one component corporation to an acquiring corporation, see § 40.461–7 (b).

(c) Other applicable rules. (1) If the stock in the component corporation is acquired by the acquiring corporation under circumstances requiring an adjustment under the principles of section 462 (j) (1) and § 40.462–10, the following rules shall apply subject to the principles of such sections.

(i) The base period experience of the component corporation shall, for the purpose of the determination under section 459 (d) (2) (A), be excluded to the extent attributable to such stock.

(ii) For the purpose of the determination of the individual rate of return under section 459 (d) (4), the base period experience of the component corporation attributable to the business of radio broadcasting (including total assets so attributable) shall be excluded for the period prior to the acquisition of such stock to the extent attributable to such stock.

(iii) If the acquisition of the stock occurs after the date as of which the ratio specified in section 459 (d) (5) is determined, then, such ratio shall, to the extent the assets used in the television broadcasting business are attributable to such stock, be determined and be applied as of the date of the acquisition of the stock. See also subparagraph (2) of this paragraph.

(2) For the purpose of the determination under section 459 (d) (2) (A), the provisions of section 459 (d) (5) shall (subject to the rule of subparagraph (1) (iii) of this paragraph, if applicable) be applied to the combined base period experience of the acquiring corporation and the component corporation, that is, the ratio under section 459 (d) (5) shall be determined (whether for a date prior to or after the Part II transaction) on the basis of the total assets of both corporations, and the ratio shall be applied to the excess profits net income of the acquiring corporation as determined under this section with reference to the component corporation. See paragraph (a) (1) and (3), of this section.

(3) If the Part II transaction occurred in a taxable year of the acquiring corporation ending after June 30, 1950, proper adjustment shall be made, under the principles of § 40.462–11, in determining the excess profits credit for such taxable year so that the benefit to the acquiring corporation from the application of section 459 (d) with respect to the component corporation shall be reduced to an amount which is such portion thereof as the number of days in the taxable year after the transaction is of the total number of days in such taxable year.

(4) For other applicable rules, see, in general, § 40.461–8.

PAR. 11. Section 40.463–1, as added by Treasury Decision 5865, is amended as follows:

(A) By adding after paragraph (b) (8) the following:

(9) For the purpose of section 435 (g) (8) (relating to adjustments for changes in inadmissible assets in case of banks) the original total assets, the average total assets, and the increase or decrease in total assets of the taxpayer shall be determined under the rules provided in this section for the determination of original inadmissible assets, average inadmissible assets, and the increase or decrease in inadmissible assets, as if the rules had reference to all assets, whether admissible or inadmissible assets as defined in section 440.

(10) For the purpose of section 435 (g) (10), the determination of an increase in operating assets shall be made under the rules provided in this section for the determination of an increase in inadmissible assets.

(B) By adding after the second sentence of (d) (2) the following: "In the computation for this purpose, section 445 (c) provides that the net capital addition or reduction shall be computed without regard to the limitation to 75 percent provided in section 435 (g) (3) (C) and section 435 (g) (4) (C) and (E);"

(C) By striking the words "and (8)" in paragraph (f) (1) (iii) and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "(8), (9), and (10)".

(D) By inserting at the end thereof the following:

(g) Application of section 459 (d). If the average base period net income is computed with reference to section 459 (d), the net capital addition or reduction computed under this section shall be adjusted in the manner required by section 459 (d) and the regulations thereunder. For the purpose of such adjustment, the principles of § 40.462–15 (a) (1) shall be applicable.

PAR. 12. Section 40.464–1, as added by Treasury Decision 5865, is amended as follows:

(A) By amending the phrase appearing in paragraph (a) (1) thereof and reading "under section 442 (c) with reference to section 462 (d)" to read as follows: "under section 442 (c) or (h) with reference to section 462 (d)".

(B) By adding immediately after the third sentence of paragraph (a) (1) thereof the following: "No base period capital addition shall be allowed the acquiring corporation with respect to any corporation a party to the Part II transaction (whether the acquiring or component corporation) the monthly excess profits net income of which is computed under section 435 (e) and section 462 (c) (1) (C) (see § 40.462–2 (b) (1) (iii) and § 40.462–2 (b) (2) (iii)); or, except to the extent provided by section 435 (f) (3), if the monthly excess profits net income of the corporation is computed under section 442 (c), (d), or (h) and section 462 (d) (2) (B) (see § 40.462–4 (a) (2) and § 40.462–4 (b) (2))."

(C) By inserting at the end thereof the following:

(f) Application of section 459 (d). If the average base period net income is computed with reference to section 459 (d), the base period capital addition computed under this section shall be adjusted in the manner required by section 459 (d) and the regulations thereunder. For the purpose of such adjustment, the principles of § 40.462–15 (a) (1) shall be applicable.

CIVIL AERONAUTICS BOARD

[14 CFR Parts 20, 21, 22, 24, 25, 26, 27, 33, 34, 35, 51]

REQUIREMENTS FOR DISPLAY OF AIRMAN IDENTIFICATION CARDS AND ACCEPTABILITY OF ARMED FORCES CARDS

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

Pursuant to authority delegated by the Civil Aeronautics Board to the Bureau of Safety Regulation, notice is hereby given that the Bureau will propose to the Board amendments to Parts 20, 21, 22, 24, 25, 26, 27, 33, 34, 35, and 51 of the Civil Air Regulations in substance as hereinafter set forth.

Interested persons may participate in the making of the proposed rules by submitting such written data, views, or arguments as they may desire. Communications should be submitted in duplicate to the Civil Aeronautics Board, attention Bureau of Safety Regulation, Washington 25, D. C. In order to insure their consideration by the Board before taking further action on the proposed rules, communications must be received by December 26, 1952. Copies of such communications will be available after December 30, 1952, for examination by

At the present time the Civil Air Regulations provide that the holder of an airman certificate issued under the provisions of a particular part shall not exercise the privileges conferred by such certificate unless he has "in his possession" a current airman identification card. In the administration of these provisions the Civil Aeronautics Administration has encountered certain difficulties due to an ambiguity as to whether or not the identification card must be carried on the person. In view of the fact that other sections of the Civil Air Regulations specify that airman and medical certificates must be in the personal possession of a flight crew member, or readily available in the case of other airmen, the language presently used may be interpreted contrary to the intent of the Board. In order that this ambiguity be removed, it is proposed that the airman identification card provisions be brought into conformity with the present requirements in the airman parts for the carrying of airman and medical certificates.

On July 11, 1951, several sections of the Civil Air Regulations were amended to provide that other identification cards acceptable to the Administrator could be used in lieu of the identification cards issued by the Administrator. The purpose of this provision was to permit persons possessing identification cards such as those issued by the various branches of the armed forces to use such cards in lieu of the identification cards provided for by the regulations. The Administrator has recently announced that armed forces identification cards are acceptable to him for such purpose. Since this provision was not originally made applicable to Parts 22, 25, 26, and 51, the Civil Aeronautics Administration has now requested that these parts contain similar provision, and the Bureau is in agreement with such extension. It should be noted that Part 26 will accordingly no longer restrict military identification card use to joint military-civil tower use.

These proposed amendments are interpretive or minor in nature and do not require notice and public procedure. The Bureau, however, desires to give all interested persons as much notice as possible so that they may again be informed of the identification provisions and their interpretation. It is for this reason that notice and public procedure hereon are allowed.

Accordingly, it is proposed to amend the identification provisions of Parts 20, 21, 22, 33, 34, and 35 of the Civil Air Regulations to require "personal possession," i. e., carriage on the person, of the necessary identification card while exercising the privileges of an airman certificate issued under one of such parts.

It is also proposed to amend the identification provisions of Parts 24, 25, 26, 27, and 51 of the Civil Air Regulations to allow the identification card to be kept "readily available" rather than in the personal possession of the holder while exercising the privileges of an airman certificate issued under one of such parts.

It is further proposed to amend the identification provisions of Parts 22, 25, 26, and 51 to allow the use of identification cards acceptable to the Administrator in lieu of identification cards issued by the Administrator.

These amendments are proposed under the authority of Title VI of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended. The proposals may be changed in the light of comments received in response to this notice of proposed rule making.

ARNOLD, SCHWINN & CO.

CEILING PRICES AT RETAIL

Statement of considerations. Special Order 585, as amended, issued under section 43 of Ceiling Price Regulation 7, establishes uniform ceiling prices for sales at retail of bicycles and accessories manufactured by Arnold, Schwinn & Company, 1718 N. Kildare Avenue, Chicago 39, Illinois, having the brand name "Schwinn."

On November 6, 1952, Arnold, Schwinn & Company requested a revocation of Special Order 585, as amended. In the opinion of the Director of Price Stabilization no reason appears for the denial of the request. Accordingly, the accompanying action revokes the Special Order and requires the holder to send a copy of the revocation to each of its resellers.

Revocation. 1. For the reason set forth in the Statement of Considerations, and in keeping with the provisions of Section 43 of Ceiling Price Regulation 7, Special Order 585, as amended, issued to Arnold, Schwinn & Company is hereby revoked.

2. Within 15 days after the effective date of this revocation, Arnold, Schwinn & Company must send a copy of the revocation to all purchasers for resale of "Schwinn" branded bicycles and accessories to whom it has given notice of Special Order 585, as amended. Twenty days after the effective date of this revocation each such purchaser for resale, before selling any "Schwinn" branded bicycle or accessory, must (a) remove all tags, which were affixed to any "Schwinn" branded bicycle or accessory in accordance with Special Order 585, as amended; and (b) determine ceiling prices for "Schwinn" branded bicycles and accessories under Ceiling Price Regulation 7, General Ceiling Price Regulation or whatever other ceiling price regulation is applicable to him.

Effective date. This order shall become effective November 19, 1952.

TIGHE E. WOODS,
Director of Price Stabilization.

[Docket Nos. 6584, 6585, 10336]

ALBUQUERQUE BROADCASTING CO. (KOB)

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER DESIGNATING APPLICATION FOR HEARING ON STATED ISSUES

In re applications of Albuquerque Broadcasting Company (KOB), Albuquerque, New Mexico, Docket No. 6584, File No. B5–MP–1738; for modification of construction permit; Albuquerque Broadcasting Company (KOB), Albuquerque, New Mexico, Docket No. 6585, File Nos. B5–L–1799, B5–Z–1583; for license to cover construction permit as modified and authority to determine operating power by direct measurement; Albuquerque Broadcasting Company (KOB), Albuquerque, New Mexico, Docket No. 10336, File No. BSSA–275; for extension of special service authorization.

1. The Commission has before it a petition filed October 21, 1952, pursuant to sections 309 (c) and 405 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, by American Broadcasting Company, Inc., licensee of Station WJZ, New York, New York, directed against the Commission's actions of September 30, 1952, removing from the pending file for prompt consideration and action, the above-entitled applications of Albuquerque Broadcasting Company (KOB) for construction permit and license for regular operation on 770 kc and granting the above-entitled application of KOB for Special Service Authorization for a period of six months or until thirty days after the issuance of a final decision on the above-entitled applications for regular operation on 770 kc, whichever is sooner. The petition requests the following: (1) that the 6 months' extension of the SSA on 770 kc be set aside; (2) that KOB be ordered forthwith to return to its licensed frequency of 1030 kc (with such extension for 48 hours on 770 kc as may be needed to adjust KOB's transmitter); (3) that the 770 kc record compiled in 1945 be dismissed or returned to the pending file to await a decision in the Clear Channel proceeding; and (4) that KOB and WBZ be ordered to show cause why they should not afford each other substantial protection on 1030 kc in accordance with suggestions previously outlined by WJZ.

2. The long history of the KOB license status and application has been detailed in previous Memorandum Opinions in the above-entitled proceedings and need not be repeated here. Petitioner, in support of the instant petition, alleges that the operation of KOB under its special service authorization results in objectionable interference to Station WJZ; that the result of the Commission's actions will be to continue the operation of KOB on 770 kc for an extended period of time; that the record made in the hearing on the above-entitled applications of KOB for regular operation on 770 kc is now outdated "through lapse of time, intervening court decisions, and change of circumstances" and could not support a decision favorable to KOB; and that the Commission's actions of September 30, 1952, are inconsistent with the decision of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit in American Broadcasting Company, Inc., v. Federal Communications Commission, 191 F. 2d 492. The petition also includes specific factual allegations in support of the foregoing which need not be detailed here.

3. Section 309 (c) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, provides in part as follows:

> When any instrument of authorization is granted by the Commission without a hearing as provided in subsection (a) hereof, such grant shall remain subject to protest as hereinafter provided for a period of thirty days. During such thirty-day period any party in interest may file a protest under oath directed to such grant and request a hearing on said application so granted. Any protest so filed shall contain such allegations of fact as will show the protestant to be a party in interest and shall specify with particularity the facts, matters, and things relied upon, but shall not include issues or allegations phrased generally. The Commission shall, within fifteen days from the date of the filing of such protest, enter findings as to whether such protest meets the foregoing requirements and if it so finds the application involved shall be set for hearing upon the issues set forth in said protest, together with such further specific issues, if any, as may be prescribed by the Commission. • • •

Upon consideration of the instant petition we find that it meets the specified requirements. We are, therefore, designating the above-entitled application for extension of Special Service Authorization for hearing. We note that petitioner has not set forth any issues upon which it wishes the application to be heard. We hereinafter specify those issues which we consider necessary and appropriate.

4. Section 309 (c) further provides:

> • • • The hearing and determination of cases arising under this subsection shall be expedited by the Commission and pending hearing and decision the effective date of the Commission's action to which protest is made shall be postponed to the effective date of the Commission's decision after hearing, unless the authorization involved is necessary to the maintenance or conduct of an existing service, in which event the Commission shall authorize the applicant to utilize the facilities or authorization in question pending the Commission's decision after hearing.

The Special Service Authorization held by KOB is necessary to the maintenance of a service which that station has been providing its listeners since October of 1941. An alternative operation appears open to KOB under its license for 1030 kc. The service which KOB could provide under that license, however, would differ substantially in coverage from that which it provides on 770 kc. We find that KOB's Special Service Authorization is necessary to the maintenance and conduct of an existing service and we are authorizing KOB to continue its operation on 770 kc pending a decision after hearing on its application for extension.

5. In so far as the instant petition is directed against our memorandum opinion and order of September 30, 1952, we are unable to see how petitioner is aggrieved by a mere announcement of our intention to adopt a proposed decision on the applications of KOB for regular operation on 770 kc. When and if a decision is released proposing action which is contrary to petitioner's interests, petitioner will have opportunity by way of exceptions and oral argument to present whatever objections it may have. For this reason and for the further reasons previously stated in our memorandum opinion and order of September 30, 1952, we are of the opinion that the instant petition should, except to the extent set forth above, be denied.

Accordingly: It is ordered, This third day of November 1952, that the above-entitled application of Albuquerque Broadcasting Company for extension of Special Service Authorization (BSSA-275) is designated for hearing commencing at 10:00 a. m., December 10, 1952, at Washington, D. C., upon the following issues:

(1) To determine the areas and populations which may be expected to receive service from the operation of Station KOB as proposed on 770 kc, with a power of 25 kw nighttime, 50 kw daytime and the availability of other primary and secondary service to such areas and populations.

(2) To determine the areas and populations which may be expected to receive service from the operation of Station KOB in accordance with the term of its license on 1030 kc and the availability of other primary and secondary service to such areas and populations.

(3) To determine the nature of and the extent to which the operation of Station KOB as proposed would involve objectionable interference with Station WJZ, New York, New York, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary and secondary service to such areas and populations.

(4) To determine the nature of and the extent to which the operation of Station KOB in accordance with the terms of its license on 1030 kc would involve objectionable interference with Station WBZ, Boston, Massachusetts, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary and secondary service to such areas and populations.

(5) To determine whether pending a final decision on the above-entitled applications of Albuquerque Broadcasting Company for regular operations on 770 kc (Dockets Nos. 6584 and 6585), the public interest would be better served by continued operation of KOB as proposed on 770 kc or by directing KOB to return to its licensed facilities of 1030 kc.

It is further ordered, That American Broadcasting Company, Inc., licensee of Station WJZ, New York, New York, is made a party to the above hearing;

It is further ordered, That Westinghouse Radio Stations, Inc., licensee of Station WBZ, Boston Massachusetts, is made a party to the above hearing;

It is further ordered, That the Hearing Examiner to be assigned to this proceeding shall conduct the hearing and issue his initial decision as expeditiously as possible;

It is further ordered, That pending a final decision in this proceeding Albuquerque Broadcasting Company is authorized to operate Station KOB with the facilities specified in the Special Service Authorization heretofore issued pursuant to the Commission's order of September 30, 1952;

It is further ordered, That the said petition filed October 21, 1952, by American Broadcasting Company, Inc. is in all other respects denied.

Released: November 6, 1952.

It appearing, that said application is mutually exclusive with the above-entitled applications of John C. Pomeroy and William R. 5. To determine whether the operation of the proposed station would involve objectionable interference with services proposed in the pending application of Station WSTR (Docket No. 10235; File No. BML-1489) and whether it is mutually exclusive with the applications of William R. Reed (Docket No. 10234; File No. BP-8510) and John C. Pomeroy (Docket No. 9895; File No. BP-7811) or with the services proposed in any other pending applications for broadcast facilities, and, if so, the nature and extent thereof, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

6. To determine whether the installation and operating of the proposed station would be in compliance with the Commission Rules and Standards of Good Engineering Practice Concerning Standard Broadcast Stations with particular reference to coverage of the Detroit metropolitan area, to the percentage of population residing between the normally protected and actual service contours, and the population residing within the blanket contours.

WGNS, INC.

ORDER SCHEDULING HEARING

In the matter of cease and desist order to be directed against WGNS, Inc.; Docket No. 10337.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D. C. on the 5th day November 1952;

The Commission having under consideration, the issuance of an order directed to WGNS, Inc., licensee of radio station WGNS, Murfreesboro, Tennessee, to cease and desist from violating section 318 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, by permitting radio broadcast station WGNS to be operated by an unlicensed operator, to cease and desist from violating § 3.165 of the Commission's rules, by permitting radio broadcast station WGNS to be operated by an operator not of the grade required by the Commission, unless the station has been granted a waiver of the requirement pursuant to § 1.334 of the rules and to cease and desist from violating § 3.181 of the rules by failing to keep the required operating and program logs;

It appearing, that Cecil Elrod, Jr., President and General Manager of station WGNS, was issued a restricted operator's permit, RP6-29-806, on November 6, 1951, and that such a permit does not authorize the holder to operate a standard broadcast station unless a special authorization is granted the station by the Commission to use operators of lesser grade than first class; and

It further appearing, that a special temporary authorization permiting station WGNS to use operators of lesser grade than first class, which had been previously issued, expired on February 28, 1952, and was not renewed or sought to be renewed; and

It further appearing, that Cecil Elrod, Jr., knowing that station WGNS had no valid outstanding authorization to operate with other than first class operators, operated station WGNS at various times between April 1, 1952 and May 9, 1952, and that during such periods no other person holding a first class operator's license was on duty at the station as required by §§ 3.165 and 13.61 of the Commission's rules, which operation constituted a violation of §§ 3.165 and 13.61 of the Commission's rules; and

It further appearing, that Garth Fort Freeze does not hold any operator's license or permit issued by the Commission authorizing him to operate a radio station; and

It further appearing, that Garth Fort Freeze, with knowledge of the management of station WGNS, operated radio station WGNS on May 9, 1952, without holding any operator's license, which constituted a violation of section 318 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended; and

It further appearing, that § 3.181 of the Commission's rules requires that operating and program logs be maintained by standard broadcast stations; and

It further appearing, that on May 9, 1952, station WGNS was, with knowledge of its management, operated without the required operating and program logs being kept, thus violating § 3.181 of the Commission's rules; and

It further appearing, that these actions on the part of the licensee of station WGNS were willful;

It is ordered, That, pursuant to section 312 (c) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, WGNS, Inc. be and is hereby directed to show cause why an order commanding it to cease and desist from violating section 318 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, by permitting station WGNS to be operated by a person not holding an operator's permit issued by the Commission, from violating § 3.165 of the Commission's rules by permitting station WGNS to be operated by an operator of lesser grade than required by the Commission's rules unless WGNS, Inc. holds a special authorization permitting it to use operators of lesser grade, and from violating § 3.181 of the Commission's rules by failing to keep the required operating and program logs; and

It is further ordered, That a hearing in this matter will be held in Washington, D. C., on January 12, 1953, in order to determine whether said cease and desist order should be issued, and that WGNS, Inc., is herewith called upon to appear at this hearing and give evidence upon the matter specified herein; and

It is further ordered, That said WGNS, Inc. is directed on or before December 15, 1952, to inform the Commission in writing whether it will appear at the hearing specified above, or whether it waives its right to a hearing, in which event the above cease and desist order will be forthwith issued. Failure to respond by December 15, 1952, or failure to appear at the hearing will be deemed to be a waiver of the right to a hearing.

WISCONSIN PUBLIC SERVICE CORP.

ORDER GRANTING AUTHORITY TO ISSUE SHORT TERM BANK LOAN NOTES

NOVEMBER 20, 1952.

Wisconsin Public Service Corporation ("Wisconsin"), a public utility subsidiary of Standard Power and Light Corporation and Standard Gas and Electric Company, both registered holding companies, having filed a declaration, and an amendment thereto, pursuant to sections 6 (a) and 7 of the act with respect to the following proposed transactions:

Wisconsin presently has outstanding $6,500,000 of 3 percent five and one-half month bank loan notes maturing November 25, 1952. Wisconsin proposes, on or prior to November 25, 1952, to issue and sell $6,300,000 of new 3 percent bank loan notes ("new notes"), maturing June 1, 1953, to the same banks which hold the presently outstanding notes. Wisconsin will have the privilege of prepaying the new notes without premium.

The declaration states that the net proceeds to be derived from the sale of the new notes, together with treasury cash, will be used in payment of the presently outstanding notes, the proceeds of which were used for construction purposes. Wisconsin also states that it will undertake permanent financing, prior to the due date of the new notes, and use a portion of the proceeds of such permanent financing for the payment of the new notes.

It is represented that no State Commission or any other Federal Commission has jurisdiction over the proposed transactions.

Wisconsin estimates that the expenses in connection with the proposed transactions will not exceed $500 and it requests that the Commission's order herein become effective upon issuance.

Due notice having been given of the filing of the declaration, and a hearing not having been requested of or ordered by the Commission; and the Commission finding that the applicable provisions of the act and the rules promulgated thereunder are satisfied and that no adverse findings are necessary, and deeming it appropriate in the public interest and the interest of investors and consumers that said declaration, as amended, be permitted to become effective forthwith:

It is ordered, Pursuant to Rule U-23 and the applicable provisions of the Act, that said declaration, as amended, be, and it hereby is, permitted to become effective forthwith, subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24.

PUBLIC SERVICE CO. OF NEW HAMPSHIRE

ORDER GRANTING AUTHORITY TO ISSUE AND SELL SHORT-TERM NOTES

NOVEMBER 20, 1952.

Public Service Company of New Hampshire ("New Hampshire"), a public utility subsidiary of New England Public Service Company, a registered holding company, having filed an application, and an amendment thereto, pursuant to the first sentence of section 6 (b) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act"), with respect to the following transactions:

New Hampshire proposes to issue and renew, from time to time, up to and including June 30, 1953, notes having a maturity of three months or less up to the maximum amount of $6,250,000 at any time outstanding (including notes presently in the amount of $1,825,000). Each such note, including the renewal notes, will be made payable to the First National Bank of Boston and will bear interest at the rate of 3 percent per annum, subject to change in interest rates for prime paper. It is stated at the present time that the interest rate for prime paper is 3 percent per annum. In case the interest rate should exceed 3¼ percent on any note, the company will file an amendment to its application stating the interest rate and other details of the note or notes at least five days prior to the execution and delivery thereof, and asks that such amendment become effective without further order of the Commission at the end of the five day period unless the Commission shall have notified the company to the contrary within said period.

The proceeds from the sale of the notes will be used for construction and other purposes. The application states that the company's construction program, for the nine months ending June 30, 1953, calls for the expenditures of approximately $5,050,000. It is also stated that it is the present intention of the company to issue approximately $5,000,000 principal amount of First Mortgage Bonds in May or June 1953 and in the latter part of 1953 to issue a sufficient number of share of common stock to raise approximately $4,000,000. However, it is stated that market conditions, among other things, may require some variation of the proposed financing.

It is represented that no State commission or any other Federal commission has jurisdiction over the proposed transactions, and that legal fees and expenses in connection with the application will amount to approximately $100. The applicant requests that the Commission's order herein become effective upon the issuance thereof.

Due notice having been given of the filing of the application, and a hearing not having been requested of or ordered by the Commission; and the Commission finding that the applicable provisions of the Act and Rules promulgated thereunder are satisfied and that no adverse findings are necessary, and deeming it appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers that said application, as amended, be granted, effective forthwith:

The foregoing amendment is for the purpose of authorizing the importation into Alaska of Japanese mandarin oranges subject to the requirements of the Fruits and Vegetables Quarantine, since it has been determined that such importations will not introduce into the United States the plant diseases specified in the Citrus Fruit Quarantine. The amendment constitutes a relieving of restrictions heretofore imposed. Japanese mandarin oranges are now being harvested and American importers are anxious to land shipments in Alaska. In order to be of maximum benefit to such importers, this amendment should be made effective as soon as possible. Therefore, pursuant to section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1003) it is found upon good cause that notice and public procedure on the foregoing amendment are impracticable, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest. Since this amendment relieves restrictions it may properly be made effective under said section 4 less than 30 days after its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

This amendment shall be effective November 21, 1952.

(Sec. 7, 37 Stat. 317; 7 U. S. C. 160)

Done at Washington, D. C., this 21st day of November 1952.

MARKETING QUOTA REGULATIONS, 1953-54 MARKETING YEAR

The amendment herein is based on the marketing quota provisions of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended, applicable to tobacco (7 U. S. C. 1311-1314), and is made for the purpose of amending paragraphs (c) and (d) of § 725.416 of the Burley and flue-cured tobacco marketing quota regulations, 1953-54 marketing year, relating to determination of 1953 tobacco acreage allotments for old farms (a) on which there were no 1952 tobacco acreage allotments or (b) on which the 1952 harvested acreages were in excess of the allotments by more than 10 percent. Since the amendment will affect the size of individual allotments for affected farms and since it is imperative that farmers be notified of their tobacco acreage allotments as early as possible in order to be able to complete their 1953 farming arrangements, it is necessary that the amendment become effective at the earliest possible date. Therefore, it is hereby found and determined that compliance with the provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act with respect to notice, public procedure, and effective date is impracticable and contrary to the public interest, and that the amendment made herein shall become effective upon the date it is filed with the FEDERAL REGISTER.

The Burley and Flue-cured Tobacco Marketing Quota Regulations, 1953-54 Marketing Year, are amended by changing paragraphs (c) and (d) of § 725.416 to read as follows:

(c) If no 1952 allotment was established for the farm, the preliminary allotment shall be the smaller of (1) the average acreage of tobacco harvested on the farm in the five years 1948-52, or (2) the acreage obtained by multiplying the farm's average acreage for the five years 1948-52 by the ratio of the farm's actual yield to the 1952 county average yield: Provided, That such preliminary allotment shall not be less than 0.1 acre.

(d) If the acreage of tobacco harvested on the farm in 1952 exceeded the 1952 allotment by more than 10 percent, the preliminary allotment shall be the 1952 allotment plus the smaller of (1) one-fifth of the excess acreage, or (2) the acreage obtained by multiplying one-fifth of the excess acreage by the ratio of the farm's actual yield to the 1952 county average yield.

(c) (1) The committee may require each handler making shipments of potatoes for export to include with his application applicable thereto a copy of the Department of Commerce Shippers Export Declaration Form No. 7525-V applicable to such shipment.

(2) The committee may require that each application to ship potatoes pursuant to subparagraphs (4) and (5) of paragraph (a) of this section be accompanied by the applicant handler's and the buyer's certification that the potatoes to be shipped are to be used for the purposes stated in the application.

(d) Such application may contain other appropriate information, and the committee may require additional documents necessary to safeguard against the entry of such potatoes into trade channels other than those for which the Certificate or Certificates are granted.

§ 957.131 Issuance. The committee, or its duly authorized agents, shall give prompt consideration to each application for a Certificate of Privilege and, pursuant to applicable provisions of this part, shall determine whether the application is approved. Approval of an application shall be evidenced by the issuance of a Certificate of Privilege authorizing the applicant named therein to ship potatoes for a specified purpose for a specified period of time.

§ 957.132 Reports. Each handler shipping potatoes under and pursuant to a Certificate of Privilege shall supply the committee with a report thereon showing the name and address of the handler, car or truck number, Federal-State Inspection Certificate number (if such inspection is required by regulation at time of such shipment), loading point, destination, consignee, bill of lading, and any other information deemed necessary by the committee.

§ 957.133 Denials and appeals. The committee may rescind a Certificate or Certificates of Privilege, issued to a handler pursuant to § 957.131, or deny Certificates of Privilege to a handler upon proof, satisfactory to the committee, that such handler has shipped potatoes contrary to the provisions of §§ 957.130 to 957.132, inclusive. Such committee action denying a Certificate or Certificates of Privilege shall apply to and not exceed a reasonable period of time as determined by the committee. Any handler who has been denied a Certificate of Privilege, or who has had a Certificate of Privilege rescinded, may appeal to the committee for reconsideration. Such appeal shall be in writing.

PART 76—HOG CHOLERA, SWINE PLAGUE, AND OTHER COMMUNICABLE SWINE DISEASES

CHANGES IN AREAS QUARANTINED BECAUSE OF VESICULAR EXANTHEMA

Pursuant to the authority conferred by sections 1 and 3 of the act of March 3, 1905, as amended (21 U. S. C. 123 and 125), sections 1 and 2 of the act of February 2, 1903, as amended (21 U. S. City of Baltimore, in Maryland;

Bristol County, in Massachusetts;

Franklin and St. Louis Counties; in Missouri;

Burlington, Camden, Gloucester, Hudson, Morris, and Ocean Counties, in New Jersey;

That part of Parker County lying north of U. S. Highway 180 and east of State Highway No. 51, in Texas.

(b) The Secretary of Agriculture, having determined that swine in the States named in paragraph (a) of this section are affected with the contagious, infectious and communicable disease known as vesicular exanthema and that it is necessary to quarantine the areas specified in paragraph (a) of this section, and the following additional areas in such States, in order to prevent the spread of said disease from such States, hereby quarantines the areas specified in paragraph (a) of this section and in addition:

Bergen, Essex, and Union Counties, in New Jersey;

Montgomery County, in Pennsylvania.

Effective date. This amendment shall become effective upon issuance. This amendment includes within the areas in which vesicular exanthema has been found to exist, and in which a quarantine has been established:

Hartford County, in Connecticut;
Peoria and Limestone Townships, in Peoria County, in Illinois;
City of Baltimore, in Maryland;

The State of Rhode Island.

This amendment also includes Montgomery County in Pennsylvania as a quarantined area.

Hereafter, all of the restrictions of the quarantine and regulations in 9 CFR Part 76, Subpart B, as amended (17 F. R. 10538) apply with respect to shipments of swine and carcasses, parts and offal of swine from these areas.

This amendment excludes from the areas in which vesicular exanthema has been found to exist, and in which a quarantine has been established:

The foregoing amendment in part relieves restrictions presently imposed and must be made effective immediately to be of maximum benefit to persons subject to such restrictions. In part the amendment imposes further restrictions necessary to prevent the spread of vesicular exanthema, a communicable disease of swine, and to this extent it must be made effective immediately to accomplish its purpose in the public interest. Accordingly, under section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1003) it is found upon good cause that notice and other public procedure with respect to the foregoing amendment are impracticable and contrary to the public interest and good cause is found for making the amendment effective less than 30 days after publication hereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Pursuant to the authority conferred by sections 1 and 3 of the act of March 3, 1905, as amended (21 U. S. C. 123 and 125), sections 1 and 2 of the act of February 2, 1903, as amended (21 U. S. C. 111 and 120), and section 7 of the act of May 29, 1884, as amended (21 U. S. C. 117), a notice of the existence of the sheep disease known as scrapie in a certain area and a quarantine and regulations restricting the movement of sheep because of scrapie are hereby promulgated to appear in a new Part 78 in Subchapter C, Chapter 1, Title 9, Code of Federal Regulations, as follows:

§ 78.2 Notice and quarantine. (a) Notice is hereby given that the contagious, infectious and communicable disease of sheep known as scrapie exists in the following area: Butte County in California.

(b) The Secretary of Agriculture, having determined that sheep in the State named in paragraph (a) of this section are affected with the contagious, infectious and communicable disease known as scrapie and that it is necessary to quarantine the area specified in paragraph (a) of this section in order to prevent the spread of said disease from such State, hereby quarantines the area specified in paragraph (a) of this section.

§ 78.3 General restriction. No sheep shall be moved interstate from or through any quarantined area specified in § 78.2 except as provided in the regulations in this part.

§ 78.4 Movement of sheep from and through a quarantined area. (a) Sheep that have been directly exposed to scrapie may be moved interstate for immediate slaughter from any quarantined area specified in § 78.2, under conditions prescribed in advance by a Bureau inspector in each instance, to an establishment approved for that purpose by the Chief of the Bureau, if such sheep are not infected with scrapie at the time of such movement.

Sodium hydroxide (lye) at the rate of 13 ounces to 5 gallons of water, or sodium carbonate (soda ash) at the rate of 1 pound to 3 gallons of water, or sal soda at the rate of 13½ ounces to 1 gallon of water, shall be used in such disinfection.

Effective date. The notice, quarantine and regulations set forth above shall become effective upon issuance.

Said notice, quarantine and regulations impose restrictions necessary to prevent the spread of scrapie, a communicable disease of sheep, from the State in which such disease has been found to exist to other States or Territories of the United States or the District of Columbia. They must be made effective immediately to accomplish their purpose in the public interest. Accordingly, under section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1003) it is found upon good cause that notice and other public procedure with respect to the notice, quarantine and regulations are impracticable and contrary to the public interest and good cause is found for making them effective less than 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

ELIMINATION OF CONFLICT WITH STATE REGULATIONS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), Delegation of Authority 41 (16 F. R. 12679), and Redelegation of Authority No. 18 (16 F. R. 12913), this Amendment 2 to Area Milk Price Regulation 18 (17 F. R. 3204) pursuant to Supplementary Regulation 63 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation, as amended (16 F. R. 9559; 17 F. R. 446, 853), is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment 2 to AMPR 18 is issued to eliminate any conflict between Office of Price Stabilization requirements in section 4 (c) of AMPR 18, as amended, for maintenance of price differentials and the requirements issued by the Director, Office of Milk Industry, New Jersey Department of Agriculture, which prohibit a milk dealer from renting or selling, or servicing refrigeration equipment or any type of dispensing or storing equipment to customers at less than fixed minimum charges and prices.

The order of the Director of the Office of Milk Industry is not within the scope of either the Bricker or Rains Amendment to the Defense Production Act. However, the Office of Price Stabilization desires to cooperate with state milk control agencies wherever it can do so within the limits of its obligations under the Defense Production Act. In this case, it is represented that the prices for milk products plus the minimum charges or prices for refrigeration equipment or any type of dispensing or storing equipment and service generally do not exceed the ceiling prices established under AMPR 18, as amended.

In this instance the Defense Production Act does not impose upon OPS duties contrary to the regulations of the state regulatory body. Accordingly this amendment to AMPR 18 is issued to clear the way for the control by the Director, Office of Milk Industry of New Jersey, of charges and prices for refrigeration equipment or any type of dispensing or storing equipment and the servicing thereof, furnished by milk dealers in the area covered by AMPR 18.

In the judgment of the District Director the provisions of this amendment to Area Milk Price Regulation 18 in Region II are generally fair and equitable, are necessary to effectuate the purpose of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950 and comply with all the applicable standards of that act.

In the formulation of this regulation, there has been consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, and consideration has been given to their recommendations.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Area Milk Price Regulation 18 is amended by adding thereto a new section 14 as follows:

SEC. 14. Comity with New Jersey law. No provision in this Area Milk Price Regulation 18 shall be construed to prohibit compliance with any order of the Director, Office of Milk Industry, New Jersey Department of Agriculture, establishing minimum charges, prices, terms and conditions for furnishing refrigeration equipment or any type of dispensing or storing equipment and any services relating thereto, in connection with the sale of milk and milk products.

Effective date. This Amendment 2 to Area Milk Price Regulation 18 under Supplementary Regulation 63 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation, as amended, is effective as of November 25, 1952.

It has now been ascertained that certain manufacturers of air conditioners, window and console (self-contained), are in need of the relief afforded by SR 30, CPR 22. Accordingly, this amendment is being issued.

In formulating this amendment, the Director of Price Stabilization has consulted with industry representatives and has given full consideration to their recommendations.

Supplementary Regulation 30 to Ceiling Price Regulation 22 is amended by addition of the consumer durable goods item "Air Conditioners, window and console (self-contained)", so that Appendix A to SR 30, CPR 22, shall read as follows:

ARTICLE I—SCOPE OF REGULATION

SECTION 1. What this regulation does. This regulation provides a formula whereby importers, wholesalers, and retailers of imported commodities shall compute their ceiling prices for sales thereof on the basis of prices in effect during a base period extending from July 1, 1949, to June 30, 1950, inclusive. All of the provisions of the General Ceiling Price Regulation, except section 14, heretofore applicable to importers and to the sale of imported commodities are superseded hereby except with respect to the sale of the commodities listed in Appendix A. Sales of the commodities listed in Appendix A shall continue to be governed by the provisions of the General Ceiling Price Regulation unless or until otherwise covered by specific ceiling price regulations. With respect to the sale by other than importers of imported commodities at wholesale and retail levels, Ceiling Price Regulation 7 shall govern the pricing at the retail level of all imported non-food commodities specifically covered thereby, and Ceiling Price Regulations 14, 15, and 16 shall govern the pricing at the wholesale and retail level of all imported food commodities specifically covered thereby. Any imported commodity which does not specifically fall within the coverage of Ceiling Price Regulations 7, 14, 15, and 16 shall be priced for wholesale or retail sale under sections 4 and 5 of this regulation, respectively.

SEC. 2. Applicability and prohibitions—(a) Applicability. This regulation is applicable to the continental United States.

(b) Prohibitions. On and after the effective date of this regulation, regardless of any contract or other obligation, excepting as set forth in section 14 (c) of this regulation, (1) you shall not sell or deliver any imported commodities covered by this regulation at prices higher than the ceiling prices fixed by this regulation; (2) you shall not buy or receive in the course of trade or business any imported commodities covered by this regulation at prices higher than the ceiling prices fixed by this regulation; and (3) you shall not agree, offer, solicit, or attempt to do anything prohibited in this regulation.

Prices lower than the ceiling prices may be charged, demanded, paid, or offered.

ARTICLE II—PRICING METHOD

SEC. 3. Formula for sales by importers. (a) If you are an importer, your ceiling price for the sale of any commodity covered by this regulation to any class of buyer (except retail customers) shall be the landed cost of the commodity, plus a dollar and cents markup based on sales by you of such commodity to that class of buyer during the base period, as calculated under section 6 of this regulation. If you made no sales of the commodity during the base period to buyers of that class, your markup shall be calculated under section 6 of this regulation but by reference to other sales as provided for in section 7 of this regulation.

(b) Where the commodity you are pricing is owned by you but has not arrived in the United States, you may estimate your landed cost of the commodity. Such estimated landed cost shall reflect your purchase contract cost and the costs of importation reasonably to be anticipated and not already included in the purchase contract cost. In the event such estimated costs exceed your actual costs, as finally determined, you shall either remit or credit the difference to your purchaser.

(c) You may not receive a commission from a foreign seller higher than that which you received during the base period, nor may you receive both a commission from a foreign seller and a markup on the same transaction, without prior application to and approval thereof by the Office of Price Stabilization, Exports-Imports Branch, Washington 25, D. C. In your application you must set forth in detail all of the facts relating to, as well as the historical background for, such a request.

SEC. 4. Formula for sales by wholesalers. If you are a wholesaler of imported commodities which you sell in essentially the same form in which imported, your ceiling price for the sale of any such commodity covered by this regulation, except food commodities specifically covered by name or category by Ceiling Price Regulation 14, to any class of buyer shall be your cost of acquisition plus a base period dollar and cents markup based on sales by you of such commodity to that class of buyer during the base period, as calculated under section 6 of this regulation. If you made no sales of the commodity during the base period to buyers of that class, your markup shall be calculated under section 6 of this regulation but by reference to other sales as provided for in section 7 of this regulation.

SEC. 5. Retailers—(a) Importing retailer. If you are an importer who sells at retail the commodities imported by you in essentially the same form in which imported, your ceiling price for any sale to retail customers shall be the landed cost of the commodity plus a base period percentage markup determined as follows:

(1) Choose one of the following bases for computing your markup:

(i) A commodity by commodity basis e. g., a specific doll;

(ii) A category by category basis, e. g., all toys;

(iii) A country of origin basis, e. g., imports from the United Kingdom, Switzerland, etc.;

(iv) A storewide, departmental or smaller selling unit basis, e. g., a markup for the furniture sales department;

You may elect a different basis for computing a markup for each department or other selling unit. Once you have elected one of the bases of this subparagraph for a department or other selling unit, you must use that basis in determining the markup for all imported commodities you price under this section which that selling unit offered or would have offered for sale during the base period.

(2) You shall next choose from the base period a representative quarter for your import business for the purpose of calculating your markups. However, if, during this representative quarter, you received no invoices and made no initial offerings of the commodity for which a markup is being determined, you shall refer to your invoices and initial offerings for that commodity in a quarter within the base period nearest in time to the representative quarter.

(3) Determine your percentage markup by reference to those records available to you from the quarter chosen by you which show all your landed costs and initial offering prices. This percentage markup shall be the markup computed on one of the four bases referred to in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph.

For example, if you elect a commodity by commodity basis for the men's and boys' shoe department, the markup on each commodity offered for sale by that department must be computed separately. If, however, you elect a category by category basis for the men's and boys' shoe department, and if you divide that department into two categories—e. g., the category of men's shoes and the category of boys' shoes—then, in determining the markup of the commodities included in each category, you must refer to the invoices of all the comodities in that category. Each commodity in the same category will have the same markup. If you elect a country of origin basis for a particular department, then all imported commodities in the department must be grouped according to their country of origin. The markup will then be determined for each country of origin grouping so that all commodities from the same country that are offered for sale by that department will have the same markup. If you elect a storewide, departmental or smaller selling unit basis, then, in determining the markup of the commodities offered for sale by that unit during the base period, you must refer to the purchase invoices of all those commodities. Each commodity will have the same markup.

All new commodities—that is, commodities that were not offered for sale during the base period—will have their markup determined in the following manner: Ascertain the department of selling unit which, in the base period would probably have been designated as the unit for selling that commodity. If that selling unit uses a commodity by commodity basis, then the new commodity must determine its markup under section 7 of this regulation. If that selling unit uses a category by category basis or a country of origin basis, then the new commodity must use the markup of that category or country of origin to which it belongs. If that selling unit uses the fourth basis, the selling unit basis, then the new commodity must use the markup of that selling unit to which it belongs.

To compute your percentage markup you shall:

(i) Total your landed costs as shown on your invoices;

(ii) Total your dollars and cents markups as calculated from the initial offering prices as shown on your invoices;

(iii) Divide your total dollars and cents markups by your total landed costs.

(4) You shall report all the base period percentage markups for imported commodities calculated by you under subparagraphs (1), (2) and (3) of this paragraph, not later than October 1, 1951. You shall furnish the Office of Price Stabilization District Office in your area by registered letter with the following information:

(i) The commodity or commodities you are pricing;

(ii) The department or selling unit selling the commodity or commodities during the base period;

(iii) Your basis elected under subparagraph (1) of this paragraph and described by you;

(iv) Your representative quarter elected under subparagraph (2) of this paragraph;

(v) The percentage markup per unit you have calculated under this regulation.

(5) For commodities not reported by you under subparagraph (4) of this paragraph and priced after October 1, 1951, you shall determine a percentage markup as provided in subparagraphs (1), (2), (3) of this paragraph, and report your percentage markup for each such commodity at the end of the calendar quarter during which it was first priced or offered for sale. You shall furnish the Office of Price Stabilization District Office in your area by registered letter with the following information:

(i) The commodity or commodities you are pricing;

(ii) The department or selling unit selling the commodity or commodities during the base period;

(iii) Your basis elected under subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, and described by you;

(iv) Your representative quarter elected under subparagraph (2) of this paragraph;

(v) The percentage markup per unit you have calculated under this regulation.

(6) If you are unable to determine a markup for such a commodity under subparagraphs (1), (2) and (3) of this paragraph, you shall determine your ceiling price and markup under the provisions of section 7 of this regulation.

(b) Non-importing retailer. (1) If you are a retailer (but not the importer) of imported commodities which you sell in essentially the same form in which imported, your ceiling price for any such commodity, except imported non-food commodities specifically covered by name or category by Ceiling Price Regulation 7, and except imported food commodities specifically covered by name or category by Ceiling Price Regulations 15 and 16, shall be your cost of acquisition plus a percentage markup calculated and reported in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (a) of this section. Use your cost of acquisition wherever "landed costs" is referred to in paragraph (a) of this section.

(2) If you have no records from the base period enabling you to price under the above provisions, you may either use your store markup or your departmental or other selling unit markup applicable to the imported commodity, reporting this markup pursuant to the provisions of paragraph (a) (4) of this section, or you may determine your ceiling price and markup for that commodity under the provisions of section 7 of this regulation.

(c) Imported commodities in inventory at the effective date. In determining your landed costs or cost of acquisition for your imported commodities in inventory on the effective date of this regulation, you shall take the invoice cost on the last invoice you received before January 26, 1951 for the particular commodity being priced. If you had no invoices for the commodity before January 26, 1951, you shall take the invoice cost from the first invoice received by you thereafter.

[Sec. 5 amended by Amdts. 1, 3 and 7]

SEC. 6. Calculation of base period dollar and cents import markup. (a) If you are an importer, wholesaler or a processor of imported commodities, unless you are a wholesaler pricing an imported food commodity under Ceiling Price Regulation 14, your base period dollar and cents markup for a commodity shall be calculated under this regulation as follows:

(1) You ascertain from your records all of your base period sales of the type upon which your base period markup is to be calculated, i. e., either base period sales of the commodity you are pricing to the class of buyer for which you are pricing, or base period sales of a kind you are permitted to use under the provisions of section 7 of this regulation.

(2) You then determine the total dollar sales value of all such base period sales.

(3) You then select, from such base period sales, any sale or sales which represent at least ten percent of the total dollar sales value of all such base period sales and calculate the weighted average dollars and cents markup per unit over landed cost of the commodity, if you are an importer, or over your cost of acquisition, if you are a wholesaler or a processor, yielded by those selected sales. Such weighted average may be determined, as illustrated in the example below, by computing the total dollar and cents markup for those selected sales (total sales price minus total of landed costs for an importer, or total costs of acquisition, for a wholesaler or processor) and dividing that total markup by the total number of units. The result is your weighted average dollar and cents markup per unit for sales of the commodity you are pricing to the class of buyer involved. (If you selected a single sale, which accounts for ten percent of your total dollar sales value of such base period sales, you may use the dollar and cents markup yielded by that single sale.

(i) Example: Suppose you base period sales upon which you are calculating your markup under the provisions of this section were as follows:

Sale	Units	Sales price	Percentage of total sales	Cost of acquisition or landed cost	Dollars and cents markup	Dollars and cents markup per unit
#1	2,500	$250.00	5%	$225.25	$24.75	$0.0099
#2	4,000	400.00	8%	364.00	36.00	.009
#3	11,000	1,100.00	22%	1,012.00	88.00	.008
#4	12,500	1,250.00	25%	1,150.00	100.00	.008
#5	20,000	2,000.00	40%	1,850.00	150.00	.00755

(ii) You may select sales #1 and #2 in order to determine the markup. You may not select either sale #1 or sale #2 alone, since neither sale alone accounts for ten percent of the total dollar sales value of base period sales. Taking the weighted average of the dollar and cents markups yielded by the two sales, you obtain a unit markup of $.009346 ($24.75+$36.00÷2,500+4,000=$.009346).

(b) In every case where you calculate for the first time the dollar and cents markup per unit you are going to use or do use in determining the ceiling price of an imported commodity, you shall furnish the Office of Price Stabilization District Office in your area by registered letter the following information in duplicate:

(1) The commodity.

(2) The class of buyer.

(3) The dollar and cents markup per unit you are permitted to use under this regulation.

List of markups for commodities in inventory as of May 9, 1951, shall be reported on or before July 15, 1951. Lists of markups for commodities contracted for as of May 9, 1951, shall be reported on or before July 15, 1951. Lists of markups for commodities neither in inventory nor contracted for as of May 9, 1951, shall be reported within fifteen days after receipt of the commodity.

[Paragraph (b) amended by Amdts. 1, 3 and 11]

SEC. 7. Sellers who cannot price under other sections. (a) If you are unable to compute your markup and ceiling price under any of the other sections of this regulation, then your markup and ceiling price shall be the landed cost or cost of acquisition, as the case may be, plus a base period markup as calculated under section 5 or section 6 of this regulation, whichever is applicable, based on sales, if you are an importer or wholesaler, or initial offerings, if you are a retailer, during the base period of the type set forth below in the following order of preference:

(1) Sales of the commodity you are pricing to buyers of the next most closely related class;

(2) Sales, if you are an importer or wholesaler, or initial offerings if you are a retailer, of a comparison commodity to buyers of the class for which you are pricing;

(3) Sales of a comparison commodity to buyers of the next most closely related class.

If you calculate your base period markup and ceiling price by reference to one of the types of base period sales or offerings set forth above, you shall, before making sales of the commodity you are pricing, advise the Office of Price Stabilization, Export-Import Branch, Washington 25, D. C., by registered letter, what markup and ceiling price you propose to use, showing how they were computed and describing the "comparison commodity" and/or "class of buyer" used. Unless this proposed markup and ceiling price are rejected by the Office of Price Stabilization within ten days of the postmarked date of your letter, you may proceed with sales until advised to the contrary.

(b) If you are unable to compute a markup and ceiling price for the commodity you are pricing, under paragraph (a) of this section, or under any provisions of this regulation, you may apply in writing to the Office of Price Stabilization, Export-Import Branch, Washington 25, D. C., for the establishment of a markup and ceiling price. Your application shall contain: (1) An explanation of why you are unable to compute a markup and ceiling price under this regulation; (2) a complete description of the commodity; (3) the nature of your business; (4) your landed costs or cost of acquisition broken down into the elements thereof; (5) your proposed markup, indicating how it was computed; (6) your proposed ceiling price, indicating how it was computed; (7) a reasonable markup and ceiling price, if any exists currently, and can be ascertained, in the trade for the commodity or for a comparison commodity. If your proposed markup and ceiling price are not rejected by the Office of Price Stabilization within ten days of the postmarked date of your letter, you may proceed with sales until advised to the contrary.

(c) Once you have determined under the provisions of this section a markup which has not been disapproved by the Office of Price Stabilization, you may continue to use that markup for future sales of the same commodity to the same class of buyer.

[Sec. 7 amended by Amdts. 6 and 7]

SEC. 8. Processing. If you are an importer and also process (as defined in section 18 of this regulation) commodities you import, you may, in determining your ceiling price, add the actual costs of processing to your landed costs. If you process imported commodities purchased from an importer, you may, in determining your ceiling price, add the actual costs of processing to your cost of acquisition: Provided, That if your markup as calculated under section 6 of this regulation included the costs of processing, you may add only those costs of processing which were in excess of the cost of processing during the base period.

SEC. 9. Sale of imported commodities in a related range or line. (a) If you are a seller of imported commodities in a related range or line, you may maintain your customary price differentials on those imported commodities, provided that their total sales value does not exceed that which would otherwise be their total sales value if you sold the items in the range or line separately at their respective ceiling prices.

(b) Where you have an inventory or purchase commitment of a commodity at a different ceiling price than the ceiling price of the same commodity received in a different shipment, you may use a uniform selling price (for that commodity), provided that in such case you shall compute a ceiling price for the entire inventory and purchase commitments by using properly weighted average costs of your inventory and purchase commitments, and provided that the total sales value shall not exceed that which would otherwise be the total sales value at ceiling prices for each item in such lot if sold separately.

ARTICLE III—GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 10. Taxes. In addition to your ceiling price, you may collect the amount of any excise, sales, or similar taxes paid by you only if, during the base period, you stated and collected such taxes separately from your selling price. In the case of such a tax imposed by law which is not effective until after June 30, 1950, you may collect the amount of the tax actually paid by you, in addition to your ceiling price, if not prohibited by the tax law. You must in all such cases state separately the amount of the tax.

SEC. 11. Restrictions on multiple handling. For the purposes of this Ceiling Price Regulation, markups shall be allowed only when the following sequences of distribution are followed. These are (a) sales by importers to industrial users, to processors, to wholesalers, or to retailers; (b) sales by wholesalers to industrial users, or to retailers; (c) sales by processors to wholesalers, to retailers or to consumers; (d) sales by retailers to consumers. If you are a wholesaler who buys commodities from another wholesaler, no markup may be added unless specifically authorized by order of the Office of Price Stabilization. Such authorization may be granted upon application to the Office of Price Stabilization, Exports-Imports Branch, Washington 25, D. C., when it can be established that the second wholesaler performs a recognized distributive function in accordance with the usual practice of the trade.

SEC. 12. Transfer of business or stock in trade. If the business, assets or stock in trade of any business were sold or otherwise transferred since July 1, 1949, or are sold or transferred after the effective date of this regulation, and the transferee carries on the business, or continues to deal in the same type of commodities, the maximum prices of the transferee shall be the same as those to which his transferor would have been subject if no such transfer had taken place, and his obligation to keep records sufficient to verify such prices shall be the same. The transferor shall either preserve and make available, or turn over, to the transferee all records of transactions prior to the transfer which are necessary to enable the transferee to comply with the record provisions of this regulation.

SEC. 13. Records. (a) This section tells you what records you shall preserve and what additional records you must prepare and keep available for examination by the Office of Price Stabilization for so long as the Defense Production Act of 1950 is in effect and for two years thereafter.

(b) You must preserve and keep available as required in paragraph (a) of this section those records in your possession showing the prices charged by you for the commodities you delivered during the base period, and those records you used to establish the markups you charged during the base period, and those records you used showing how you calculated your base period markup. You must also prepare and preserve a statement of your customary price differentials, terms and conditions of sale, and classes of purchasers, which you had in effect during the base period.

(c) You shall prepare and keep available, as required in paragraph (a) of this section, records of the kind you customarily keep; specifically you must also keep records showing the date of each sale or contract, the names of the parties thereto, the prices charged, the landed cost or the cost of the commodity to you. If you are a retailer, however, you are required only to preserve your purchase invoices and to record thereon your selling price.

(d) If you are a seller who has customarily given a purchaser a sales slip, receipt, or similar evidence of purchase, you shall continue to do so. Upon request from a purchaser, any seller, regardless of previous custom, shall give the purchaser a receipt showing the date, the name and address of the seller, the name of each commodity or service sold, and the price received for it.

SEC. 14. Exemptions. (a) This regulation does not apply to sales of commodities for which import ceiling prices have been or hereafter will be established under other regulations or supplements, or to sales of commodities which are specifically exempted from the application of ceiling prices by other regulations or orders of the Office of Price Stabilization.

(b) This regulation does not apply to sales of hand knotted oriental rugs and imported handicraft objects which are sold for household or personal use in substantially the same form as imported, and which are the product of individuals, families, tribes, or other small groups.

(c) Nothing in this regulation shall operate to prevent the performance of a written contract for the sale of an imported commodity entered into prior to May 9, 1951 and executed in strict compliance with the provisions of the General Ceiling Price Regulation: Provided, (1) That such contract covers a commodity which the seller as of the date of the contract had in inventory or under purchase commitment, and (2) That such contract covers a specified quantity of a described commodity at a fixed price per unit.

(d) This regulation does not apply to the sale of the commodities listed in Appendix A.

(e) This regulation does not apply to the sales of commodities transported into the continental United States for transshipment abroad and which do not enter into the domestic commerce of the United States and which are either,

(1) Entered at Customs in transit on a "Transportation and Exportation (TE) entry" or on an "Exportation (Exp.) entry" or

(2) Stored in transit in a bonded warehouse or stored in a foreign trade zone.

SEC. 15. Enforcement. If you violate any provision of this Ceiling Price Regulation you are subject to the criminal penalties, civil enforcement actions, and suits for treble damages provided for by the Defense Production Act of 1950.

SEC. 16. Evasion. Any practice which results in obtaining indirectly a higher price than is permitted by this regulation is a violation of this regulation. Such practices include, but are not limited to, devices making use of commissions, services, cross sales, transportation arrangements, premiums, discounts, special privileges, tie-in agreements or combination sales, and trade understandings.

SEC. 17. Petitions for amendment. If you wish to have this regulation amended, you may file a petition for amendment in accordance with the provisions of Price Procedural Regulation 1 (15 F. R. 9055).

SEC. 18. Definitions. This Ceiling Price Regulation and the terms which appear in it shall be contrued in the following manner:

(a) Classes of sellers and buyers—(1) Importer. This term means the person by whom a commodity is imported and who first sells it after importation.

(2) Wholesaler. This term means any person who performs a recognized distributive function, purchases imported commodities directly from an importer and who sells or delivers them in essentially the same form as imported to another wholesaler, industrial user, or a retailer in accordance with established trade practice.

(3) Retailer. This term means any person who buys or receives imported commodities and who actually sells them in essentially the same form as imported to an ultimate consumer other than an industrial or commercial user.

(4) Supplier. This term means the person from whom an importer covered by this regulation procures a commodity.

(5) Industrial user. This term means a person who uses an imported commodity or commodities in fabrication, manufacture, or production.

(6) Retail customer. This term means the person who buys commodities from a retailer in customary retail quantities and at customary retail prices for the purpose of normal individual or household consumption rather than for resale, fabrication, processing or manufacture.

(7) Wholesale customer. This term means the person who is not a "retail customer" and who buys commodities in customary wholesale quantities and at customary wholesale prices for purposes other than for normal individual or household consumption.

(8) Seller. This term includes the seller of any commodity. Where a seller at retail makes sales through more than one selling unit or place of business (other than salesmen making sales at uniform prices) each such selling unit or separate place of business shall be deemed to be a separate seller.

(9) Class of buyer. This term means that group of persons to which you sell imported products and which you distinguish from other groups of buyers with respect to price or terms and conditions of sale by reason of location, quantity purchased, or functions in distribution, i. e., manufacturer, wholesaler, retailer, processor or end user.

(10) Category. This term means a group of commodities which are normally classed together in your industry for purposes of accounting or sales.

(11) Selling unit. This term means an organizational grouping selling one or more commodities that are classed together in your business for purposes of accounting or sales.

[Subparagraphs 10 and 11 added by Amdt. 7]

(b) Pricing—(1) Commodity. This term includes not only those items or groups of items generally called commodities, but also materials, articles, or products.

(2) Comparison commodity. This term means a commodity which is one with the same or next lowest or highest current unit direct cost, whichever is closer to the cost of the new commodity, and which has the same essential characteristics as does the new commodity for which you are computing a ceiling price.

(3) Cost of acquisition. This term means the actual cost of the commodity to a buyer, which shall not exceed the ceiling price of the supplier at the point of delivery plus such costs of delivery actually incurred by the buyer.

(4) Foreign invoice cost. This term means the amount stated on your foreign invoice less any discount or allowances, but including separately stated charges except such charges as are included in costs of importation as herein defined.

(5) Costs of importation. This term means those costs actually incurred or to be incurred by you in moving the goods from the place of foreign origin to the place of destination and include, but are not necessarily limited to, foreign export and other taxes directly related to the transaction, foreign ocean and domestic transportation costs, customs duties, dock charges, clearance, insurance, letter of credit or other finance charges, and any customary buying commission to a purchasing agent outside the continental United States.

(6) Landed cost. This term means the foreign invoice cost plus the costs of importation. If your foreign invoice states charges included in the costs of importation, you shall not include the same item more than once.

(7) Purchase contract cost. This term means the price the importer paid for the commodity including any charges and expenses incurred in, or in connection with, the moving of the commodity to destination which are borne by the foreign seller.

(8) Next most closely related class of buyer. This term means the class of buyer to which you sold, during the base period, the commodity you are pricing, or a "comparison commodity," and which in terms of quantity and conditions of sale is most similar to the class of buyer for which you are pricing.

(9) Most closely competitive seller of the same class. This term means the seller with whom you are in most direct competition even though he may perform a different function with respect to the commodity. You are in direct competition with another seller who sells the same types of commodities to the same classes of purchaser in similar quantities, in similar terms and, if you are selling a commodity you supply approximately the same amount of service.

(10) Inventory. This term means the sum total of stocks or goods owned by the importer which are in the United States, its territories and possessions, or which are afloat destined for the United States, its territories and possessions.

(11) Purchase commitment. This term means an agreement between the foreign seller and American buyer for a specified quantity of a described article for definite shipment to the United States, its territories or possessions at a stated fixed price.

(c) General—(1) Base period. This term means the period from July 1, 1949 to June 30, 1950, inclusive.

(2) Ceiling price. This term means the highest price at which an imported commodity covered by this regulation may be sold.

(3) General Ceiling Price Regulation. This term means the General Ceiling Price Regulation issued on January 26, 1951 by the Director of Price Stabilization as amended and supplemented.

(4) You or person. This term includes any individual, corporation, partnership, association or any other organized group of persons, or legal successors or representatives of the foregoing, and the United States or any other government or their political subdivision or agencies.

(5) Records. This term includes but is not limited to books of account, sales lists, sales slips, orders, vouchers, contracts, receipts, invoices, bills of lading, and other papers and documents.

(6) Sell. This term includes sell, supply, dispose, barter, exchange, transfer or deliver.

(7) Imported. A commodity is imported which is transported from a place outside the continental limits of the United States to a place inside the continental limits of the United States, its territories and possessions. However, commodities shipped into the United States, its territories and possessions from outside thereof and entered in a foreign trade zone or under general order or in a bonded warehouse for transshipment and actually transshipped to a destination outside the continental limits of the United States shall not be deemed to be "imported".

(8) Delivered. A commodity shall be deemed to have been delivered during a specified period if during that period it was received by the purchaser or his agent or by any carrier, including a carrier owned or controlled by the seller, for shipment to the purchaser.

(9) Processing. This term means the sorting, grading, cleaning, repacking, assembling, or otherwise manipulating of a commodity but not to the extent that there results therefrom a new and different article having a distinctive character. The term "processing" includes, among other things, the grinding of imported or mixed domestic and imported spices, seeds or herbs, and the shelling, roasting or salting of imported nuts. If you process imported or mixed domestic and imported spices, seeds or herbs, or if you process imported nuts, you may continue to use your ceiling prices in effect on July 31, 1952 for such commodities, but if you have not previously filed for any such commodity under this regulation, you must comply with the provisions of section 7 (b) of this regulation before September 15, 1952 or before making any sales of the commodity, whichever occurs later.

[Subparagraph (9) amended by Amdt. 12]

SEC. 19. Appendix. The appendix to this regulation entitled "Appendix A" and listing the commodities excluded from the application of this regulation, is incorporated herein and made a part hereof.

SEC. 20. Adjustments. (a) Application for adjustment of price under this regulation shall be filed in accordance with Price Procedural Regulation No. 1, Revised. The Office of Price Stabilization may adjust by order any markup established under this regulation for any seller or group of sellers when it can be shown that the applicant had a markup for a commodity substantially below the normal markup in the trade so as to create a situation of hardship; or that the applicant's dollars and cents markup has become so small because of increased landed costs as to create a situation of hardship.

(b) The applicant in filing under this provision shall provide the following information:

(1) The percentage the sales of the commodity in question bore to the applicant's total sales of imports during the six months prior to the date of application for adjustment;

(2) An explanation of the abnormality of the markup and of the hardship resulting therefrom;

(3) His ceiling price under Ceiling Price Regulation 31;

(4) His markup under Ceiling Price Regulation 31;

(5) His ceiling price under the General Ceiling Price Regulation;

(6) His markup under the General Ceiling Price Regulation;

(7) His proposed ceiling price;

(8) His proposed markup;

(9) An explanation of the method by which he determined his proposed markup.

(c) The relief granted under this provision shall be no more than may bring the applicant's markup in line with markups prevailing in the trade.

[SEC. 20 added by Amdt. 7]

SEC. 21. Reports. Copies of forms that may be used in filing under this regulation may be obtained from any Regional or District Office of the Office of Price Stabilization.

[SEC 21 added by Amdt. 7]

NOTE: The record-keeping and reporting requirements of this regulation have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

Director of Price Stabilization.

CPR 31—IMPORTS

DEFINITION OF PROCESSING

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this Amendment 15 to Ceiling Price Regulation 31 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

The definition of "processing" in section 18 (c) (9) of Ceiling Price Regulation 31 is amended to give effect to the exemption from price control of all imported spices, seeds, and herbs under section 2 (h) (2) of General Overriding Regulation 7, Revision 1 (Amendment 13). The statement of considerations applicable to the action providing the exemption under GOR 7 is equally applicable here.

This amendment also eliminates the shelling, roasting or salting of imported nuts from the definition of "processing" in section 18 (c) (9) of Ceiling Price Regulation 31. This is done to conform this regulation to CPR 22, under which a supplementary regulation is being issued to provide that persons performing such operations constitute manufacturers covered by that regulation.

FINDINGS OF THE DIRECTOR

In formulating this amendment the Director of Price Stabilization has consulted extensively with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, and has given full consideration to their recommendations. In his judgment the provisions of this amendment are generally fair and equitable, are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, and comply with all the applicable standards of that act.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Section 18 (c) (9) is amended by deleting everything after the first sentence, so that the section, as amended, reads as follows:

(9) Processing. This term means the sorting, grading, cleaning, repacking, assembling, or otherwise manipulating of a commodity but not to the extent that there results therefrom a new and different article having a distinctive character.

(Sec. 704, 64 Stat. 816, as amended; 50 U. S. C. App. Sup. 2154)

Effective date. This amendment shall become effective November 26, 1952.

EDWARD F. PHELPS, Jr.,
Acting Director of Price Stabilization.

[Ceiling Price Regulation 119, Supplementary Regulation 1]

CPR 119—MECHANICAL PRECISION SPRINGS, METAL STAMPINGS, AND SCREW MACHINE PRODUCTS

SR 1—ADJUSTMENTS TO REFLECT INCREASED OUTBOUND TRANSPORTATION RATES

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order 2, this supplementary regulation to Ceiling Price Regulation 119 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This supplementary regulation authorizes manufacturers of commodities covered by Ceiling Price Regulation 119 to adjust their delivered ceiling prices to reflect increases in their outbound transportation costs resulting from increases in rates authorized by statute, by the Office of Price Stabilization, or by another federal or state regulatory agency. Manufacturers of mechanical precision springs, metal stampings, and screw machine products have traditionally determined their prices on the basis of "pricing formulas" and CPR 119 permits the continued use of such formulas in determining ceiling prices. However, the regulation requires, generally, that materials, labor, and other costs actually in effect on March 15, 1951, be used with established formulas to determine ceiling prices. Accordingly, the purpose of this supplementary regulation is to permit the reflection of outbound transportation cost increases that have occurred since that date.

Several similar supplementary regulations have been issued by the Office of Price Stabilization recently which permit the reflection of increases in outbound transportation costs. Among these supplementary regulations are Supplementary Regulation 122 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation, Supplementary Regulation 35 to Ceiling Price Regulation 22, and Supplementary Regulation 9 to Ceiling Price Regulation 30, and the reasons for the issuance of this supplementary regulation are generally the same as those contained in the statements of considerations accompanying those regulations. However, the methods for computing the increased costs of outbound transportation provided by those regulations are not applicable to manufacturers under CPR 119. The reason for this is that manufacturers under CPR 119 determine their prices by the use of "formulas" and make very few repetitive sales of the same commodities.

Accordingly, this supplementary regulation provides that manufacturers under CPR 119 may use current transportation costs in determining their delivered ceiling prices by the use of their approved pricing formulas if the outbound transportation cost used in the formula is not "marked up." If the transportation cost is marked up in the formula the manufacturer will be required to propose his own method of reflecting outbound transportation costs and receive specific approval of OPS before using it. However, on the basis of available information it appears that a very small number of manufacturers covered by CPR 119 apply a mark-up to outbound transportation costs.

In view of the broad coverage of this supplementary regulation, special circumstances have made consultation with all industry representatives impracticable. However, the relief provided by this supplementary regulation has been requested by many individual industry representatives.

In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization, the provisions of this supplementary regulation to Ceiling Price Regulation 119 are generally fair and equitable and are consistent with the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

ARTICLE I—GENERAL PROVISIONS

SECTION 1. What this supplementary regulation does. This supplementary regulation establishes methods by which manufacturers under CPR 119 may increase their delivered ceiling prices to reflect increases in their outbound transportation costs resulting from increases in rates authorized by statute or by OPS, or other federal or state regulatory agency. This supplementary regulation permits adjustments of ceiling prices established under CPR 119, including such ceiling prices as adjusted under General Overriding Regulation 20, 21, or 35. The methods which may be used are set forth in Article II of this supplementary regulation.

SEC. 2. Applicability of CPR 119. All provisions of CPR 119 shall be applicable to you except as those provisions are limited, modified, or supplemented by this supplementary regulation.

SEC. 3. Reporting and record-keeping requirements. You must keep available for inspection by OPS for the life of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, and for two years thereafter, records showing the method(s) used in determining the adjustments calculated and the commodities to which each method applies, and all records and work sheets which you used in determining an adjustment under this supplementary regulation. All reporting and record-keeping provisions of CPR 119 remain applicable to you except that you need not report the adjusted ceiling prices you determine under this supplementary regulation.

SEC. 4. Definitions—(a) Generally. Except as otherwise provided in this supplementary regulation, or as required by the context, the terms used in this supplementary regulation have the same meaning as in CPR 119.

(b) Transportation costs. This term means the actual net amount paid by you for transporting the commodity, from your manufacturing plant to the buyer or to a distribution point as defined in paragraph (d) (3). It does not include payments to any person who is an employee, subsidiary or affiliate of yours, or of whom you are a subsidiary or affiliate or any amounts for which you are reimbursed by the buyer. The term includes payments made to railroads, trucking companies, water carriers, payment for railway express, air freight, or parcel post shipments, etc., or allowances to buyers for these payments, insofar as these payments or allowances are not in excess of the rate authorized by statute, by OPS, or by other federal or state regulatory agency. It does not include warehouse charges, handling, unloading, sorting, checking, and other similar charges or expenses.

(c) Delivered ceiling price. This term includes the following:

(1) The case in which a manufacturer sells to all buyers at the same delivered price, or sells to all buyers in a zone or area at the same delivered price.

(2) The case in which a manufacturer quotes an f. o. b. factory price plus a transportation charge, and the transportation charge does not represent the actual transportation cost incurred by the manufacturer.

(3) The case in which a manufacturer quotes a price and makes an allowance from such a price for transportation to the buyer.

(4) The case in which a manufacturer quotes a price f. o. b. a distribution point not located at his manufacturing plant where it was the manufacturer's practice during his base period to ship the commodity from the manufacturing plant to the distribution point prior to shipment from the distribution point to the buyer.

ARTICLE II—ADJUSTMENT PROVISIONS

SEC. 21. How you calculate your transportation cost adjustment. You may adjust your delivered ceiling prices determined under CPR 119 by using current transportation costs in your approved price determining method(s) instead of transportation costs in effect on March 15, 1951. This adjustment may be made only if your delivered prices contain an amount not in excess of actual transportation costs. If you "mark up" the transportation cost so that the amount included in your delivered price is greater than actual transportation cost, you may propose a method for calculating a transportation cost adjustment in accordance with the provisions of section 22.

SEC. 22. How to propose a method for determining a transportation cost adjustment where delivered prices contain an amount in excess of actual transportation costs. If you cannot use the method prescribed by section 21 because your delivered prices contain an amount in excess of actual transportation cost you may propose a method or methods for determining a transportation cost adjustment. You must submit your proposed method in writing by registered mail, return receipt requested, to the Industrial Materials and Manufactured Goods Division, Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C. Your proposal should be identified as an "Application under section 22 of SR 1 to CPR 119" and must include the following:

(a) Your business name and address and a general description of the commodities you produce;

(b) A description of the method you have been using to determine your delivered ceiling prices under CPR 119.

(c) A detailed step-by-step description of the method you propose and the commodities to which it will apply.

(d) A statement of the reasons why you believe that the method which you propose will properly reflect the increases in outbound transportation cost which you have experienced.

(e) An illustration of your computations of transportation cost increases for each proposed method.

The Director of Price Stabilization may approve or disapprove your proposal in whole or in part. You may not use a transportation cost adjustment calculated by using your proposed method until such time as you have been notified by the Director of Price Stabilization that your proposed method has been approved.

Effective date. This supplementary regulation is effective December 2, 1952.

NOTE: The reporting and record-keeping requirements of this regulation have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

CPR 125—MANUFACTURERS OF REFRACTORY PRODUCTS

SR 1—CEILING PRICE FOR SILICA COKE OVEN SHAPES

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Ageney General Order No. 2, this Supplementary Regulation 1 to Ceiling Price Regulation 125 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This supplementary regulation to Ceiling Price Regulation (CPR) 125 increases the ceiling price for silica coke oven shapes by an amount sufficient to cover total unit operating costs incurred by the lower cost producer of the two manufacturers in the field. This action is temporary in nature pending further study of available data which may show that a higher ceiling is justified under the "product standard."

Coke oven brick are of varied and intricate design and are subject to very rigid specifications which result in rejections considerably in excess of those for all other types of refractory products manufactured. Each new battery of coke ovens is constructed to fit a specific condition, with the result that many changes are made in the brick shapes lining the ovens, thus necessitating new expensive steel molds and dies. Where by-product coke ovens formerly required about 250 different brick shapes, the present designs consist of about 900 special shapes.

There are only two companies in the United States which have the facilities and experience to produce silica coke oven shapes. In order to meet the government-sponsored program of increased by-product coke oven capacity, these companies, which also produce standard refractory products, have expanded their facilities at considerable cost. The present demand for silica coke oven shapes is about 150 percent above normal and it appears this high rate of demand will continue for several years to come.

While increased production of a product usually results in lower plant costs, this rule does not hold true in the manufacture of coke oven shapes, for, the greater the production of this product the greater the operating losses. This situation is due to necessary overtime operations, increased rejections and the utilizing of plant capacity that would otherwise be used in the production of more profitable refractory products. Silica coke oven brick are of such intricate design that they must be set in the kilns for burning so that they do not have to support any weight or be exposed to direct flame impingement. When the limit of normal demand is exceeded, there is not sufficient suitable kiln space for economical setting and burning of coke oven shapes; this necessitates the erecting of temporary checkerwork structure in the kilns, in which the coke oven shapes are placed, thus freeing them from supporting the weight of other brick on top. This checkerwork is built of burned standard shape brick and must be assembled anew and removed after each kiln burning. With this type of setting only about one-half the kiln capacity is available for saleable brick, thus creating an exorbitant cost for setting and burning.

In view of the nature of this supplementary regulation, and because the action is taken in response to the representations of the few manufacturers affected, formal consultation with industry representatives has been deemed to be impracticable and unnecessary. However, in the preparation of this supplementary regulation, consultation was held with individual industry representatives and consideration was given to their recommendations. In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization, the provisions of this supplementary regulation are generally fair and equitable and comply in all respects with the applicable provisions of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

Sec.
1. What this supplementary regulation does.
2. Ceiling prices for silica coke oven shapes.
3. Applicability of provisions of Ceiling Price Regulation 125.

AUTHORITY: Sections 1 to 3 issued under sec. 704, 64 Stat. 816, as amended; 50 U. S. C. App. Sup. 2154. Interpret or apply Title IV, 64 Stat. 803, as amended; 50 U. S. C. App. Sup. 2101–2110, E. O. 10161, Sept. 9, 1950, 15 F. R. 6105; 3 CFR, 1950 Supp.

SECTION 1. What this supplementary regulation does. This supplementary regulation increases the ceiling price for silica coke oven shapes established under CPR 125. "Silica coke oven shapes" means refractory shapes made from naturally occurring quartzite and ganister (of almost pure silica) and used exclusively in the construction and repairing of by-product coke ovens.

SEC. 2. Ceiling prices for silica coke oven shapes. Your ceiling price for silica coke oven shapes shall be as follows:

(a) For products sold f. o. b. plant, Mount Union, Pa., Birmingham, Ala., Sproul, Pa., and Clayburg, Pa.: $114.65 per net ton.

(b) For products sold f. o. b. plant, E. Chicago, Ind., Hayes, Pa., Windham, Ohio, Joliet, Ill., and Rockdale, Ill.: $116.00 per net ton.

(c) The prices stated in this section include the adjustment in ceiling prices provided for in Amendment 1 to CPR 125. Therefore, Amendment 1 to CPR 125 is not available to producers using this supplementary regulation.

SEC. 3. Applicability of provisions of CPR 125. Except to the extent expressly modified or supplemented by this regulation, all provisions of CPR 125 shall be applicable to any producer subject to this supplementary regulation.

Effective date. This supplementary regulation to Ceiling Price Regulation 125 is effective November 26, 1952.

CPR 150—MANUFACTURERS OF SMALL PNEUMATIC COMPRESSORS

ADJUSTMENTS TO REFLECT INCREASED OUTBOUND TRANSPORTATION RATES

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this supplementary regulation to Ceiling Price Regulation 150 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This supplementary regulation authorizes manufacturers of small pneumatic compressors, parts and accessories subject to Ceiling Price Regulation 150 to adjust their delivered ceiling prices to reflect increases in their outbound transportation costs resulting from increases in rates authorized by statute, by the Office of Price Stabilization, or by another federal or state regulatory agency.

Ceiling Price Regulation 150 established ceiling prices for these manufacturers at the same level of ceiling prices, generally, that prevailed under the General Ceiling Price Regulation thus permitting the reflection in delivered ceiling prices of outbound transportation costs that occurred before January 26, 1951. The purpose of this supplementary regulation is to permit the reflection of outbound transportation cost increases that have occurred since January 26, 1951.

The reasons for the issuance of this supplementary regulation are generally the same as those contained in the Statements of Considerations to Supplementary Regulation 122 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation, Supplementary Regulation 35 to Ceiling Price Regulation 22, and Supplementary Regulation 8 to Ceiling Price Regulation 30. Accordingly those statements of considerations are equally applicable to this supplementary regulation.

In the preparation of this supplementary regulation there has been consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, to the extent practicable and consideration has been given to their recommendations. In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization, the provisions of this supplementary regulation are generally fair and equitable and are consistent with the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

ARTICLE I—GENERAL PROVISIONS

SECTION 1. What this supplementary regulation does. This supplementary regulation establishes methods by which manufacturers under CPR 150 may increase their delivered ceiling prices to reflect increases in their outbound transportation costs resulting from increases in rates authorized by statute or by OPS, or other federal or state regulatory agency. This supplementary regulation permits adjustments of ceiling prices established under CPR 150, including such ceiling prices as adjusted under General Overriding Regulations 20, 21, or 35. The methods which may be used are set forth in Article II of this supplementary regulation.

SEC. 2. Applicability of CPR 150. All provisions of CPR 150 as that term is limited by section 1 shall be applicable to you except as those provisions are limited, modified, or supplemented by this supplementary regulation.

SEC. 3. Ceiling prices for new or modified commodities and for new sellers.—(a) Modified commodities. In determining ceiling prices under section 5 of CPR 150 subsequent to your calculation of the adjustment under this regulation, you use as your adjustment to reflect increases in outbound transportation costs the same adjustment calculated under this supplementary regulation for the commodity before modification.

(b) New commodities and new sellers. Inasmuch as ceiling prices for new sellers and other ceiling prices as established in accordance with section 6 of CPR 150 are required to be in line with ceiling prices otherwise established by the regulation, none of the adjustments permitted by this supplementary regulation may be applied to reflect transportation costs occuring before the establishment of such prices.

SEC. 4. Reporting and record-keeping requirements. You must keep available for inspection by OPS for the life of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, and for two years thereafter, records showing the method(s) used in determining the adjustments calculated and the commodities to which each method applies, and all records and work sheets which you used in determining an adjustment under this supplementary regulation. All reporting and record-keeping provisions of CPR 150 remain applicable to you except that you need not report the adjusted ceiling prices you determine under this supplementary regulation.

SEC. 5. Use of transportation bill. Wherever this supplementary regulation requires you to find what your transportation cost for a shipment would have been on the basis of rates in effect on your base date, you need not determine the rate in effect on the base date and calculate such transportation cost if you have a transportation bill which shows the transportation cost for such a shipment at a time when the base date rate or a higher rate was in effect.

SEC. 6. Allocation of costs of mixed shipments. Where for purposes of this regulation it is necessary to determine the transportation cost for a commodity included in a mixed shipment with one or more other commodities, you may determine such cost by allocating the amount of the transportation cost of the mixed shipment among the commodities included in it in any reasonable manner. Where you use this section in determining the current transportation cost of a commodity, you must determine the corresponding transportation cost of the commodity on the base date by the same method of allocation applied to the transportation cost of the same mixed shipment at the rates in effect on the base date.

SEC. 7. Recalculation. You may recalculate your transportation cost adjustments under this supplementary regulation at any time.

SEC. 8. Definitions—(a) Generally. Except as otherwise provided in this supplementary regulation, or as required by the context, the terms used in this supplementary regulation have the same meaning as in CPR 150.

(b) Base date. Your base date is January 26, 1951, or any later date you select for any particular shipment if on such later date the January 26, 1951 rate or a higher rate was in effect. However, if the ceiling prices which you adjust under this supplementary regulation were determined under General Overriding Regulation 20 or 21, your base date is July 26, 1951, or any later date you select for any particular shipment if on such later date the July 26, 1951 rate or a higher rate was in effect.

(c) Outbound transportation costs. This term means the actual net amount paid by you to carriers for transporting the commodity from your manufacturing plant to the buyer or to a distribution point as defined in paragraph (d) (3). It does not include payments to any person who is an employee, subsidiary, or affiliate of yours, or of whom you are a subsidiary or affiliate, or any amount for which you are reimbursed by the buyer. The term includes payments made to railroads, trucking companies, water carriers, payment for railway express, air freight, or parcel post shipments, etc., insofar as these payments are not in excess of the rate authorized by statute, by OPS, or by other federal or state regulatory agency. It does not include warehouse charges, handling, unloading, sorting, checking, and other similar charges or expenses.

(d) Delivered ceiling price. This term includes the following:

(1) The case in which a manufacturer sells to all buyers at the same delivered price, or sells to all buyers in a zone or area at the same delivered price.

(2) The case in which a manufacturer quotes an f. o. b. factory price plus a transportation charge, and the transportation charge does not represent the actual transportation cost incurred by the manufacturer.

(3) The case in which a manufacturer quotes a price f. o. b. a distribution point not located at his manufacturing plant where it was the manufacturer's practice during his base period to ship the commodity from the manufacturing plant to the distribution point prior to shipment from the distribution point to the buyer. Adjustments under this supplementary regulation for ceiling prices f. o. b. distribution points must be calculated in the same manner as prescribed for a uniform delivered ceiling price for a zone or area, treating each distribution point as a separate zone.

(e) Same shipment. This term means a shipment of the same commodity with the same packaging and delivery terms of the same weight, via the same carrier (or a carrier with the same or higher rates), and between the same points.

ARTICLE II—ADJUSTMENT PROVISIONS

SEC. 21. How you calculate your transportation cost adjustment. Three methods of calculating a transportation cost adjustment are provided by this article. You may use any method at your option. You may, except as limited in the succeeding sections, use one method for some of your commodities and another method for others.

SEC. 22. Method 1; Individual commodity method—(a) Adjustments for individual transactions. You will use this paragraph if you wish to adjust your delivered ceiling prices to reflect the exact dollar-and-cent amount of the increased outbound transportation costs per unit for each sale which you make.

(1) First, for each delivery of a commodity which you make, find the dollar-and-cent amount of your current transportation cost per unit as defined in section 8 for shipment of the commodity from your manufacturing plant to the point of delivery to the purchaser.

(2) In the same way, find what the dollar-and-cent amount of your transportation cost was or would have been per unit for the same shipment at the rates in effect on your base date, as defined in section 8.

(3) Subtract the cost determined under subparagraph (2) from that found under subparagraph (1). The difference is the dollar-and-cent amount by which you may increase your ceiling price per unit for the delivery in question.

(4) If you have made the calculation described in subparagraphs (1) through (3) of this paragraph for a shipment of any commodity, you may add the difference found under subparagraph (3) to your ceiling price for another shipment of the same or any other commodity having the same transportation cost per unit instead of repeating the calculations outlined in subparagraphs (1) through (3).

(b) Average adjustments for deliveries within a defined area. If you have uniform delivered ceiling prices for a commodity in one or more defined zones or areas, or if you have ceiling prices f. o. b. one or more distribution points as defined in section 8 (d), you may use this paragraph to determine an adjustment for each such ceiling price.

(1) Find, for each such zone, area, or distribution point, the total dollar-and-cent amount of your actual transportation cost, as defined in section 8, for the shipments of the commodity from your manufacturing plant(s) to the zone, area, or distribution point which you made during your last accounting period of not less than three months.

(2) In the same way, find what the total dollar-and-cent amount of your transportation cost would have been for the same shipments using the rates in effect on your base date, as defined in section 8.

(3) Subtract the cost determined under subparagraph (2) from that found under subparagraph (1). Divide the difference by the number of units of the commodity included in the shipments which you used in determining your transportation cost under subparagraph (1). The result is the dollar-and-cent amount by which you may increase your ceiling prices for sales of the commodity delivered to that zone, area, or distribution point.

(4) If you made more than four hundred shipments of a commodity to a zone, area, or distribution point, during your last accounting period of not less than three months, you may at your option, make the calculations set forth in subparagraph (1) through (3), using only the shipments made in the first, fourth, seventh, and tenth weeks of your last accounting period of not less than three months, but you may not use a week in which you made fewer than thirty shipments. If in the first, fourth, seventh, or tenth week you made fewer than thirty shipments, you must use instead of such week the first succeeding week in which you made thirty or more shipments.

(5) You may make the calculation described in subparagraphs (1) through (4) of this paragraph, for any group of commodities having the same unit transportation cost at the time of your calculation and at your base date, to determine a uniform adjustment for that group of commodities.

SEC. 23. Method 2; Average adjustment for a group of related commodities. This section permits you to determine a transportation cost adjustment factor for any product line, or category of commodities whose base period prices were delivered prices. This calculation is made in the following manner:

(a) Find the total dollar-and-cent amount of your outbound transportation cost for the product line or category incurred during your last accounting period of not less than three months. You may, but you need not, make a separate calculation for each zone in which you have a different ceiling price. The result is your current transportation cost.

(b) Find what the total dollar-and-cent amount would have been for those same shipments using rates in effect on your base date.

(c) Find the total dollar-and-cent net sales value of the shipments used in determining your current transportation cost under paragraph (a).

(d) Subtract your transportation cost found under paragraph (b) from your transportation cost found under paragraph (a). Divide the difference by the value of shipments found under paragraph (c). The result is the transportation cost increase factor by which you may increase your delivered ceiling prices for such commodities.

SEC. 24. Method 3; Option to propose an alternate method for calculating a transportation cost adjustment. If you believe that the preceding sections of this supplementary regulation do not provide an adequate method of reflecting the transportation cost increases which you have experienced, you may propose an alternate method for determining an adjustment.

You must submit your proposed method in writing by registered mail, return receipt requested, to the Office of Price Stabilization, Industrial Materials and Manufactured Goods Division, Washington 25, D. C. Your proposal should be identified as an "Application under section 24 of SR 1 to CPR 150," and must include the following:

(a) Your business name and address and a general description of the commodities you produce.

(b) A statement of the reasons why you believe that the methods provided by the preceding sections of this regulation do not permit you to properly reflect the transportation cost increases in outbound transportation cost which you have experienced.

(d) A statement of the reasons why you believe that the method which you propose will more adequately reflect the increases in outbound transportation cost which you have experienced.

(e) An illustration of your computations of transportation cost increases using your proposed method.

The Director of Price Stabilization may approve or disapprove your proposal in whole or in part. You may not use a transportation cost adjustment calculated by using your proposed method until such time as you have been notified by the Director of Price Stabilization that your proposed method has been approved.

CPR 161—CONSUMER DURABLE GOODS REGULATION

HOSPITAL, INSTITUTIONAL, AND PROFESSIONAL FURNITURE AND EQUIPMENT

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this amendment to Ceiling Price Regulation 161 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment 2 to Ceiling Price Regulation 161 clarifies its coverage.

Among the commodities listed in the Appendix A of that regulation as covered by it are: "Hospital and physician examining room and diagnostic equipment and supplies." This language was intended to cover hospital, institutional and professional furniture. Some manufacturers, however, have apparently not so understood it. To eliminate any further confusion, language is being added to make it clear that hospital, institutional and professional furniture are covered by CPR 161.

In view of the technical nature of the change made by this amendment, and the desirability of immediate correction, the Director of Price Stabilization has found that special circumstances have rendered consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, impracticable.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Ceiling Price Regulation 161 is hereby amended by deleting the listing "Hospital and physician examining room and diagnostic equipment and supplies" in paragraph 32 of Appendix A and substituting therefor the following:

Hospital, institutional and professional furniture and equipment, including examining room and diagnostic equipment and supplies.

(Sec. 704, 64 Stat. 816, as amended; 50 U. S. C. App. Sup. 2154)

Effective date. This amendment is effective December 2, 1952.

CPR 170—CEILING PRICES FOR THE WESTERN WOOD PRESERVING INDUSTRY (PRESSURE PROCESS ONLY)

CORRECTION

Through inadvertence the basic f. o. b. ceiling price for treated short round material was omitted from paragraph (e) of section (6).

Accordingly, paragraph (e) of section 6 is corrected by adding the following subparagraph:

(5) For treating short round material, and including unloading trucks or railroad cars to tram cars, and loading railroad cars from tram cars: $0.36 per cu. ft.

GCPR, SR 122—ADJUSTMENTS TO REFLECT INCREASED OUTBOUND TRANSPORTATION RATES

CERTAIN RESELLERS—DEL CREDERE FACTORS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this amendment to Supplementary Regulation 122 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

Supplementary Regulation 122 (SR 122) to the General Ceiling Price Regulation (GCPR) permits manufacturers covered by the GCPR to adjust their ceiling delivered prices for increases in transportation costs due to increases in outbound freight rates. This was done to place these manufacturers on an equal footing with manufacturers who sell on an f. o. b. plant basis and who were thus not required to absorb the outbound freight increases. Resellers in turn were permitted (by Supplementary Regulation 120 to the GCPR) to adjust their ceiling prices for increases of inbound freight to them.

Since the issuance of these regulations a situation has come to the attention of OPS involving del credere factors who are also manufacturers of commodities similar to those they sell as factors. These factors pay the manufacturer an f. o. b. plant price and sell at a delivered price to the buyer, but do not actually handle the shipment at any point, the shipment being made directly by the manufacturer to the buyer. The factor in this situation pays all of the outbound freight from manufacturer to buyer but has not been permitted under SR 122, which heretofore has applied only to manufacturers, to pass through any increased freight costs caused by the rate increases. The factor in this operation most closely resembles a reseller, but unlike resellers generally he does not receive the goods in his own warehouse and thus he has no inbound freight cost increase which he may pass on to his customer under Supplementary Regulation 120 to the GCPR. It is believed that this situation, which requires the factor to absorb the entire increase in freight cost from manufacturer to buyer, which is quite considerable in the case of some building materials, is inequitable to both the factor and the manufacturer. This action removes the inequity which exists in this situation.

This amendment applies only to cases in which the shipment is made directly from manufacturer to buyer without having been in the factor's warehouse at any time. As to shipments which are channeled through the factor's warehouse, the factor is considered to be a reseller, and he is entitled to such adjustments as may be available to other resellers in like position.

In view of the corrective nature of this amendment, special circumstances have rendered consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, impracticable.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Section 1 of Supplementary Regulation 122 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation is amended by designating the body of the present section 1 as "paragraph (a)" and adding a new paragraph designated "(b)" so that the amended section 1 reads as follows:

Section 1. (a) What this supplementary regulation does. This supplementary regulation establishes methods by which manufacturers under the GCPR may increase their delivered ceiling prices to reflect increases in their outbound transportation costs resulting from increases in rates authorized by statute or by OPS, or other federal or state regulatory agency. This supplementary regulation permits adjustments of ceiling prices established under the GCPR, including such ceiling prices as adjusted under General Overriding Regulation 20, 21, or 35. This supplementary regulation does not apply to ceiling prices established under the following supplementary regulations to the GCPR: 73, 80, 82, 83, 86, 95, 100, 103, 109, 113, 114, 115, 116, 121. The methods which may be used are set forth in Article II of this supplementary regulation.

(b) Certain resellers—del credere factors. This supplementary regulation also applies to del credere factors, as if they were manufacturers, Provided that each of the following conditions is met: (1) the commodity whose ceiling delivered price is to be increased is shipped directly from the manufacturer's plant to the factor's customer; (2) freight from the manufacturer's shipping point to the customer is, and customarily has been paid by the factor, and customarily has been included in the factor's delivered price to the customer; (3) the sale is made solely on the account of and in the name of the factor in that the price from the customer is payable only to the factor. In such cases, the freight from the manufacturer's plant direct to the customer plant is recognized under this supplementary regulation as the factor's outbound freight for which the factor can increase his delivered ceiling price.

Effective date. This Amendment 1 to Supplementary Regulation 122 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation is effective December 2, 1952.

[General Ceiling Price Regulation, Supplementary Regulation 127]

GCPR, SR 127—RATE ADJUSTMENTS FOR CONTRACT MOTOR CARRIERS OF IRON AND STEEL ARTICLES OPERATING INTRASTATE IN OHIO

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this Supplementary Regulation 127 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This supplementary regulation establishes for contract motor carriers engaged in the transportation of iron and steel articles (as defined in appropriate Schedules of Minimum Rates and Charges) in intrastate commerce in Ohio increased ceiling rates for such transportation above the rates contained in their Schedules of Minimum Rates and Charges on file with the Ohio Public Utilities Commission which are in effect on the effective date of this regulation.

There are approximately 32 contract motor carriers engaged in the transportation of iron and steel articles in intrastate commerce between points within the State of Ohio. Historically, these carriers have charged uniform rates for the performance of similar services between specific points in Ohio. These rates were frozen, by the General Ceiling Price Regulation, at the highest levels prevailing during the base period, December 19, 1950 to January 25, 1951, and the only adjustment machinery available to such carriers is that afforded by the provisions of Revision 1, Supplementary Regulation 39 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation, which only provides for individual adjustments.

Operating costs of these contract motor carriers have increased substantially since their ceiling rates were established by the General Ceiling Price Regulation. In order to determine the extent, if any, to which these carriers are in financial hardship, they were requested to submit financial data such as would be required if individual applications for adjustment were filed by each of the carriers under the provisions of Revision 1 to Supplementary Regulation 39. Twenty-six of these carriers filed such information. From the data submitted it has been determined that each carrier can justify an increase in ceiling rates and the average entitlement demonstrated by such carriers at this time amounts to 12 percent over present ceiling rates.

This regulation authorizes for this group of contract motor carriers a uniform adjustment of 12 percent in their rates based upon the average need of the group to offset hardship resulting from increased operating costs and thus enables the carriers to maintain the uniform rate structure which has hitherto prevailed.

The Wage Stabilization Board has approved 7 cents per hour wage increase to be effective February 1, 1953. This added cost would justify an additional 2 percent increase. Therefore, provision is made herein to permit each carrier an additional 2 percent increase in rates to become effective on such date, on or after February 1, 1953, as the individual carrier commences paying these increased wage rates.

All of the above-mentioned contract motor carriers have on file with the Ohio Public Utilities Commission schedules of minimum rates and charges applicable to the services in question or have formally adopted the schedules of other carriers in the group. It is the rates and charges specified in such schedules which are affected by this regulation.

In the formulation of this regulation, there have been consultations with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, to the extent practicable, and consideration has been given to their recommendations. In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization, the provisions of this supplementary regulation are generally fair and equitable and will effectuate the purposes of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

REGULATORY PROVISIONS

2. Eligibility for adjustment.
3. Extent of adjustment.

AUTHORITY: Sections 1 to 3 issued under sec. 704, 64 Stat. 816 as amended; 50 U. S. C. App. Sup. 2154. Interpret or apply Title IV, 64 Stat. 803, as amended; 50 U. S. C. App. Sup. 2101-2110, E. O. 10161, Sept. 9, 1950, 15 F. R. 6105; 3 CFR, 1950 Supp.

SECTION 1. What this supplementary regulation does. This supplementary regulation establishes for contract motor carriers engaged in the transportation of iron and steel articles (as defined in appropriate Schedules of Minimum Rates and Charges) in intrastate commerce in Ohio increased ceiling rates for such transportation over the rates contained in their Schedules of Minimum Rates and Charges on file with the Ohio Public Utilities Commission and in effect on the effective date of this regulation.

SEC. 2. Eligibility for adjustment. This supplementary regulation applies to you if, on the effective date of this regulation, you are a contract motor carrier transporting iron and steel articles (as defined in appropriate Schedules of Minimum Rates and Charges) in intrastate commerce in Ohio pursuant to appropriate authority issued by the Ohio Public Utilities Commission.

SEC. 3. Extent of adjustment. If you qualify for adjustment under Section 2 above, your ceiling rates for the transportation service referred to in Sec. 2 above shall be the rates contained in your applicable Schedule of Minimum Rates and Charges on file with the Ohio Public Utilities Commission and in effect on the effective date of this regulation increased by twelve (12) percent. In addition, on or after February 1, 1953, any carrier affected by this regulation may increase its rates an additional two (2) percent over the rates in effect on the effective date of this regulation on such date, on or after February 1, 1953, as that carrier commences payment of the 7 cents per hour wage increase authorized by the Wage Stabilization Board to become effective February 1, 1953. In computing any rate adjusted pursuant to this supplementary regulation fractions of one-half (½) cent or more may be increased to the next whole cent.

Effective date. This Supplementary Regulation 127 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation shall become effective December 2, 1952.

[General Overriding Regulation 3, Amdt. 6]

GOR 3—EXEMPTIONS OF CERTAIN RUBBER, CHEMICAL AND DRUG COMMODITY TRANSACTIONS

EXEMPTION OF CERTAIN PRINTING INKS AND OF CERTAIN CERAMIC AND GLASS COLORING PREPARATIONS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this Amendment 6 to General Overriding Regulation 3 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment exempts from price control printing inks as defined in the amendment, and certain ceramic and glass coloring and decorating preparations.

Printing inks. Due to the many variables that enter into the production of printing inks such as color, type of surface to be printed, printing process, type of press, type of paper, end use of printed product, weather conditions and numerous other factors, there are very few standard inks and many new formulations each month.

Formulations are generally made for each customer and job. It is estimated that there are 50,000 new formulations per month and that the average life of a formulation is about four months. The industry in general has to develop many ink modifications to meet certain specifications for a particular job on a short time schedule to meet a printer's deadline. Often it is necessary to develop, manufacture and use printing inks before costs are fully calculated and selling prices established. Due to the variety of colors, surfaces to be printed, and the large numbers of pigments, oils, driers and raw materials necessary to make constituent intermediate ingredients, producers of printing inks base their prices on estimated average standard costs and average labor burden, instead of actual and precise costs for each ink formulation. Because of the unusually large and involved number of new formulations, the methods of calculating ceiling prices for such new formulations under either the General Ceiling Price Regulation or Ceiling Price Regulation 22 are particularly burdensome on this industry.

Printing inks do not enter significantly into the cost of living of the average American family nor do they represent a significant cost of doing business for printers and publishers. While sales of printing inks during 1950 totalled 144 million dollars, this is but a small proportion of the cost of doing business when considered that this amount of printing inks is absorbed in the sale of eight billion dollars worth of printing and publishing products.

The printing ink industry uses a multitude of raw materials, the supply of which appears to be sufficient for all its needs. There are no foreseeable shortages of any of the major materials needed in the production of printing inks. Printing ink manufacturers are located in or near the large cities and centers of population. There are less than 7,000 workers employed in the printing ink industry. Exemption from controls, therefore, will not cause a drain by the industry of manpower in any particular locality or of essential materials needed for the defense effort. Large users of printing inks have informed the Office of Price Stabilization that they do not anticipate that exemption of printing inks from price controls will result in a significant rise in the cost of printing inks.

Ceramic and glass coloring and decorating preparations. The reasons for exempting ceramic and glass coloring and decorating preparations from price control are substantially the same as the reasons applicable to the printing ink industry. Almost the entire output of the ceramic and glass coloring and decorating preparations included in this amendment are sold directly to producers of the end products to which they are applied. Examples of such end products are tableware, earth-ware, floor and wall tile, ceramic electrical insulators, enameled metallic surfaces and glass products. There are thirteen principal producers engaged in the sale of these coloring preparations. Some of these firms produce only one or a small number of lines of color pigments, while others produce a wide range of colorants, as many as 20,000. As is true with printing inks, a large proportion of the production is custom-made. Some producers, particularly those making a varied line of colorants, are frequently called upon to quote prices for special coloring and decorating preparations, which may or may not eventually be ordered. If ordered, the preparation may be purchased only once and then only in a small quantity. Sellers are required before selling new preparations to determine the ceiling prices applicable to such preparations. Such determination requires the selection of appropriate base period commodities, calculation of current unit direct costs for both the new and comparison commodities, and application of the comparison commodity mark-up to the current unit direct costs of the new commodity to arrive at the ceiling price for the new commodity.

The supply of all major materials and most minor materials needed to produce the coloring preparations is adequate to satisfy current demands. A relatively small amount of cobalt and selenium is used in the manufacture of the coloring preparations. These pigments are now under allocation by the National Production Authority and such allocation prevents their diversion from use in the production of other commodities remaining under price control. This action does not affect price control on the basic pigments used in producing the coloring preparations but merely removes from control the mixtures of two or more basic pigments which produce the ceramic and glass coloring and decorating preparations covered by this amendment.

It is not expected that exemption of the coloring and decorating preparations covered by this amendment will materially increase the price level for these commodities. The cost of the colorants represents a very small proportion of the value of the end products to which they are applied. It does not enter significantly into the cost of living, business costs, or the defense program. In addition the administrative burdens, resulting from the necessity of calculating ceiling prices and the requirements for record-keeping and reporting for the unusually large number of new and frequently changing coloring preparations customary to this industry, outweigh the benefits to the stabilization program which may be derived from maintaining control on these commodities.

Findings of the Director. In the opinion of the Director, the provisions of this amendment are generally fair and equitable, and comply with all the applicable requirements of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended. The Director has found that the commodities covered by this amendment qualify for exemption from controls on the basis of the standards for decontrol adopted by the agency. The Director may at any time reimpose controls if he determines that such action is necessary or appropriate to carry out the purposes of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended. In the formulation of this amendment there has been frequent and extensive consultations with representatives of the printing ink industry and the trade association for this industry, as well as two meetings with the industry advisory committee and consideration has been given to their recommendations. In view of the nature of this amendment the Director has not found it necessary or practicable to conduct formal consultations with industry representatives representing manufacturers of ceramic and glass coloring preparations. This amendment, however, results from consideration of a petition for amendment filed with the Director by a large producer of these commodities.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Section 2 of General Overriding Regulation 3 is amended by adding at the end thereof two paragraphs to read as follows:

(h) Printing inks. Sales of printing inks. The term "printing inks" means solutions or suspensions of dyestuffs or pigments designed for use in typographic, planographic, intaglio or silk screen printing processes. The term "printing inks" also includes so-called clears, thinners, driers, compounds, lacquers and varnishes sold by printing ink manufacturers for use in printing processes. It does not include materials used primarily to color or decorate woven fabrics, nor materials called "inks" such as writing fluids, ball pen inks, stamp pad inks, show card inks and stencil inks which are customarily applied by processes other than printing.

(i) Ceramic and glass coloring and decorating materials. Sales of the following: Ceramic decorating and coloring preparations composed of ceramic pigments and stains which are mixtures of two or more basic pigments and which can be used only for ceramic products; glass colorants and stains which are mixtures of two or more basic pigments and which can be used only for glass products; squeegee media used in the application of these decorating and coloring preparations; and precious metal ceramic decorating compositions.

SUSPENSION OF WOMEN'S, MISSES AND JUNIOR MISSES' APPAREL, APPAREL FURNISHINGS AND APPAREL ACCESSORIES

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this Amendment 13 to General Overriding Regulation 4, Revision 1, is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment adds to the commodities suspended from price control most women's, misses' and junior misses' items of apparel, apparel furnishings and apparel accessories. This action is being taken in line with the policy of suspending or otherwise relaxing controls on commodities when their selling prices generally are materially below ceilings and are not expected to reach ceiling prices in the foreseeable future.

Following a period of continuing decline in textile prices, controls over most yarns and fabrics were suspended on May 20, 1952. The bulk of these yarns and fabrics appeared to be in plentiful supply and there was no evidence that their prices were likely to return to ceiling levels in the foreseeable future. The bulk of the wool, cotton and rayon fabrics used in the commodities suspended by this action are still some 20 to 25% below their ceilings.

As a sequel to the fabric suspension action a study of women's, misses' and junior misses' apparel and accessories has been completed, leading to a conclusion that, at this time, price controls on these items are not necessary to effectuate the purposes of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

The women's, misses' and junior misses' apparel group includes a wide range of items such as suits, coats, dresses, blouses, skirts, underwear, sportswear, etc. By October 1952, wholesale prices of women's and misses' apparel had declined 8.4 percent from the peak reached in July 1951. At the retail level, women's apparel prices in September 1952 (the most recent month for which retail price data are available) were down 3.8 percent from their peak in September 1951.

This area of apparel offers the greatest difficulty in following price changes. The bulk of women's apparel is made up of style items rather than staples. Furthermore, manufacturers of women's wear sell in traditional price lines and find it generally inexpedient to move away from their established price lines or from price ranges for which they are known, although they may add higher-priced lines when business is good and lower-priced lines when consumer resistance is encountered. Therefore, competition seldom takes the form of price changes, but consists of putting more or less materials and workmanship into the item at the same price. Such changes are sometimes slight and not readily identifiable and can rarely be translated into an actual price increase or decline. Consequently, many items of women's apparel show little or no change over a period of many months unless the manufacturer finds himself able to move a garment up to his next higher price line, or is forced to put it in his next lower price line. These factors tend toward understatement of price changes in women's apparel. Nevertheless, as indicated above, prices of women's and misses' apparel at both wholesale and retail levels are down considerably from the peaks reached in 1951.

There does not appear to be any likelihood of significant price increases in this area in the foreseeable future. Production data for 1952 are fragmentary, but those available indicate that production for the first part of 1952 is about equivalent to that of the corresponding period of 1951. It is known from trade reports that manufacturers are offering ample supplies in all price ranges to distributors and the chief factor in determining distributors' choice among price lines is their appraisal of consumer demand.

This segment of the apparel industry is characterized by comparative ease of entry into and exit from the ranks of the producers. Production facility requirements are fairly simple and entry into the business is even further simplified by the existence of a host of contractors who have all facilities and will perform the manufacturing operations on a piecework basis, thus obviating the need for substantial capital investment by the new manufacturer. Thus, when demand rises, the manufacturing capacity can be and is quickly expanded to keep competition keen. The strength of the competition in this area makes it unlikely that prices will rise appreciably in the foreseeable future.

Moreover, there has been a recent downward shift in consumer demand for this segment of the apparel industry as evidenced by the trends in the ratios of consumer expenditures for all apparel to total consumer disposable income. Thus, expenditures on clothing declined from an annual rate of 9.49 percent of disposable income during the first quarter of 1951 to 8.63 percent by the second quarter of 1952; and, significantly, the rate of expenditure was substantially lower than the average 10.69 percentage of income spent on apparel during the years 1947-49.

The women's, misses' and junior misses' items of apparel suspended at the manufacturing level by this action are covered by CPR 45, Rev. 1. Since the use of that regulation has not been made mandatory, manufacturers have had the option of determining their ceiling prices for these items under that regulation or the GCPR. In general, these same items are suspended by this action at the wholesale and retail levels. However, in order to avoid the confusion which would result from sub-dividing CPR 7 categories, it has been found advisable in some cases to suspend an entire category though it includes some items not suspended at the manufacturing level, or, in other cases, to keep the entire category under control.

In view of the above considerations, it is the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization that price controls on sales of these commodities are not required at this time to carry out the purposes of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

The Director may at any time modify or terminate this suspension if he determines that such action is required in the interest of the stabilization program. In any event, this suspension will be terminated as to any segment of these industries when controls are reimposed on the principal fabrics used by that segment in the manufacture of these commodities.

All records which were required to be prepared and preserved under the applicable ceiling price regulations in effect prior to this amendment must continue to be preserved.

In the formulation of this amendment there has been consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, to the extent practicable and consideration has been given to their recommendations.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Section 3 of General Overriding Regulation 4, Revision 1, is amended by adding the following paragraphs:

(n) The following articles, when sold by the manufacturer (including a manufacturing retailer):

(1) Women's, misses' and junior misses' apparel, apparel furnishings and apparel accessories made of textile materials, leather, fur, plastic, other materials which are normally sewed as part of the assembly operation, or a combination of such materials. The terms "women's", "misses'", and "junior misses'" refer to articles sold in the size ranges or groupings commonly designated by those terms. Specifically excluded from this paragraph, however, are articles for surgical corrective or orthopedic use such as knitted elastic corrective garments abdominal belts or orthopedic braces.

(2) Component parts manufactured exclusively for further processing into or for use as a part of any article included in subparagraph (1) above. Examples of such component parts are hat bodies, pockets, collars, brassiere and underwear straps, and shoulder pads.

(o) The following articles, when sold at wholesale or retail, except sales made in the territories and possessions of the United States. A sale at wholesale or retail is a sale by a person who buys an article and resells it without substantially changing its form. (The articles suspended by this paragraph are described, for convenience, in terms of the categories named in CPR 7—Retail Ceiling Prices for Certain Consumer Goods. However, all wholesale and retail sales of the articles described are suspended from price control regardless of whether their ceiling prices have been determined under the General Ceiling Price Regulation or under CPR 7.)

GOR 7—EXEMPTION OF CERTAIN FOOD AND RESTAURANT COMMODITIES

IMPORTED SPICES, SEEDS AND HERBS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161 and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this Amendment 13 to General Overriding Regulation 7, Revision 1, is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment to General Overriding Regulation 7, Revision 1, exempts imported spices, seeds, and herbs from price control.

Imported spices do not enter significantly into the cost of living of the average American family or into business costs. Imported spices are appropriately separable from other materials and there is no evidence to show that decontrol of imported spices will have a significant adverse effect on the price level.

The exemption from control of imported spices presents no substantial threat of diversion of materials and manpower from sellers remaining under control. In addition, control of imported spices involves administrative difficulties for OPS and the sellers of imported spices which are disproportionate in relation to the contribution of control of imported spices to the price stabilization program.

FINDINGS OF THE DIRECTOR

In formulating this amendment the Director of Price Stabilization has consulted extensively with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, and has given full consideration to their recommendations. In his judgment the provisions of this amendment are generally fair and equitable, are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, and comply with all the applicable standards of that act.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Paragraph (h) of section 2 of Article II of General Overriding Regulation 7, Revision 1, is amended to read as follows:

(h) No ceiling price regulation heretofore issued or which may hereafter be issued by OPS shall apply to spices, seeds, and herbs, whether produced in the United States or imported.

(Sec. 704, 64 Stat. 816, as amended; 50 U. S. C. App. Sup. 2154)

Effective date. This amendment shall become effective on November 26, 1952.

EDWARD F. PHELPS, JR.,
Acting Director of Price Stabilization.

GOR 9—EXEMPTIONS OF CERTAIN INDUSTRIAL MATERIALS AND MANUFACTURED GOODS

EXEMPTION OF USED GLASS CONTAINERS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this Amendment 28 to General Overriding Regulation 9 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment exempts from price control the sales, in the 48 states and the District of Columbia, of used glass bottles and containers. These are for the most part beer, wine or fruit juice bottles, and include those sold to bottlers and packers as "reconditioned." This exemption has no relation to the return of "deposit" bottles.

The collection of used bottles as junk and the business of "reconditioning" them together make up an insignificantly small industry, with an entirely negligible effect on the economy of the Continental United States. However, the reasons applicable to the Continental United States do not apply to the territories and possessions, which, for lack of adequate bottle-making facilities of their own, have frequently had to rely heavily on imports of used glass containers as well as new containers.

In view of the nature of this amendment special circumstances have rendered consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, impracticable.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Paragraph (a) of section 2 of General Overriding Regulation 9 is amended by adding at the end thereof the following subparagraph (29):

(29) Certain sales of used glass containers. This exemption applies to sales of used glass containers in the 48 states of the United States, and the District of Columbia, but does not apply to sales to and in the territories and possessions of the United States. "Used glass containers" are used bottles and glass containers such as, but not limited to beer, wine or fruit juice bottles whether or not they have been "reconditioned" by being washed, sterilized, sorted and packed.

FRESH BARTLETT PEARS, PLUMS, AND ELBERTA PEACHES GROWN IN CALIFORNIA

ORDER DIRECTING THAT REFERENDUM BE CONDUCTED; DESIGNATION OF REFERENDUM AGENTS TO CONDUCT SUCH REFERENDUM; AND DETERMINATION OF REPRESENTATIVE PERIOD

Pursuant to the applicable provisions of Marketing Agreement No. 85, as amended, and Order No. 36, as amended (7 CFR Part 936), and the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), it is hereby directed that a referendum be conducted during the 2 months' period of December 1952 and January 1953, among the producers who, during the current marketing season beginning on March 1, 1952 (which period is hereby determined to be a representative period for the purposes of such referendum), were engaged, in the State of California, in the production of any fruit (as such term is defined in the amended marketing agreement and order) for shipment in fresh form to determine whether such producers favor the termination of the said amended marketing agreement and order as to any one or more of the fruits covered thereby. Oscar H. Chapin and Harry J. Krade of the Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, are hereby designated as agents of the Secretary of Agriculture to perform, jointly or severally, the following functions in connection with the referendum:

(a) Conduct said referendum in the manner herein prescribed:

(1) By determining the time of commencement and termination of the period of the referendum, and by giving opportunity to each of the aforesaid producers to cast his ballot, in the manner herein authorized, relative to the aforesaid termination of the amended marketing agreement and order, on a copy of the appropriate ballot form. A cooperative association of such producers, bona fide engaged in marketing any such fruit or in rendering services for or advancing the interests of the producers of such fruits, may vote for the producers who are members of, stockholders in, or under contract with, such cooperative association (such vote to be cast on a copy of the appropriate ballot form); and the vote of such cooperative association shall be considered as the vote of such producers.

(2) By giving public notice, as prescribed in paragraph (a) (3) hereof, (i) of the time during which the referendum will be conducted, (ii) that any ballot may be cast by mail, and (iii) that all ballots so cast must be addressed to the Western Marketing Field Office, Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Room 302, 701 K Street, Sacramento 14, California, and the time prior to which such ballots must be postmarked.

(3) By giving public notice (i) by utilizing available agencies of public information (without advertising expense), including both press and radio facilities in the State of California; (ii) by mailing a notice thereof (including a copy of the appropriate ballot form) to each such cooperative association and to each producer whose name and address are known; and (iii) by such other means as said referendum agents or any of them may deem advisable.

(4) By conducting meetings of producers and arranging for balloting at the meeting places, if said referendum agents or any of them determine that voting shall be at meetings. At each such meeting, balloting shall continue until all of the producers who are present, and who desire to do so, have had an opportunity to vote. Any producer may cast his ballot at any such meeting in lieu of voting by mail.

(5) By giving ballots to producers at the meeting, and receiving any ballots when they are cast.

(6) By securing the name and address of each person casting a ballot, and inquiring into the eligibility of such person to vote in the referendum.

(7) By giving public notice of the time and place of each meeting authorized hereunder by posting a notice thereof, at least two days in advance of each such meeting, at each such meeting place, and in two or more public places within the applicable area; and, so far as may be practicable, by giving additional notice in the manner prescribed in paragraph (a) (3) hereof.

(8) By authorizing the chairman of the State Production and Marketing Administration Committee to appoint any member or members of a PMA county committee, in the State of California, and by appointing any other persons deemed necessary or desirable, to assist the said referendum agents in performing their duties hereunder. Each such person so appointed shall serve without compensation and may be authorized, by the said referendum agents or any of them, to perform any or all of the functions set forth in paragraphs (a) (5), (6), (7) and (8) hereof (which, in the absence of such appointment of subagents, shall be performed by said referendum agents) in accordance with the requirements herein set forth; and shall forward to the Western Marketing Field Office, Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Room 302, 701 K Street, Sacramento 14, California, immediately after the close of the referendum, the following:

(i) A register containing the name and address of each producer to whom a ballot form was given;

(ii) A register containing the name and address of each producer from whom an executed ballot was received;

(iii) All of the ballots received by the respective referendum agent in connection with the referendum, together with a certificate to the effect that the ballots forwarded are all of the ballots cast and which were received by the respective agent during the referendum period;

(iv) A statement showing when and where each notice of referendum posted by said agent was posted and, if the notice was mailed to producers, the mailing list showing the names and addresses to which the notice was mailed and the time of such mailing; and

(v) A detailed statement reciting the method used in giving publicity to such referendum.

(b) Upon receipt by the said Western Marketing Field Office of all ballots cast in accordance with the provisions hereof, Oscar H. Chapin, who is hereby designated as agent-in-charge, shall: (i) canvass the ballots and prepare and submit to the Secretary a detailed report covering the results of the referendum, the manner in which the referendum was conducted, the extent and kind of public notice given, and all other information pertinent to the full analysis of the referendum and its results; and (ii) forward such report, together with the ballots and other information and data, to the Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

(c) Each referendum agent and appointee pursuant hereto shall not refuse to accept a ballot submitted or cast; but should they, or any of them, deem that a ballot should be challenged for any reason, or if such ballot is challenged by any other person, said agent or appointee shall endorse above his signautre, on the back of said ballot, a statement that such ballot was challenged, by whom challenged, and the reasons therefor; and the number of such challenged ballots shall be stated when they are forwarded as provided herein.

(d) All ballots shall be treated as confidential.

The Director of the Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, is hereby authorized to prescribe additional instructions, not inconsistent with the provisions hereof, to govern the procedure to be followed by the said referendum agents and appointees in conducting said referendum.

Copies of the amended marketing agreement and order, and of this order, may be examined in the Office of the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, Room 1353, South Building, Washington, D. C., at the offices of the Field Representatives, Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, Room 302, 701 K Street, Sacramento, California, or 333 Fell Street, San Francisco, California, or at the office of the California Tree Fruit Agreement, 1515 Ninth Street, Sacramento, California. Ballots to be cast in the referendum, and other necessary forms and instructions, may be obtained at said offices of the Field Representatives, or from any referendum agent or appointee hereunder.

[Suspension Order 23; Docket No. 30—Revocation]

PERMA-SIDE CO.

REVOCATION OF SUSPENSION ORDER

As of June 30, 1952, John G. Alexander, Esq., as General Counsel for the National Production Authority, transmitted to the Chief Hearing Commissioner, National Production Authority, for appropriate action in an administrative adversary proceeding, statement of charges in seven counts against Samuel Rosenmutter, doing business as Perma-Side Company, 940 East Second Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Hon. George P. Jones, of Santa Ana, Calif., was designated as the NPA commissioner to hear the aforesaid matter.

In the course of the hearing, which was had August 15, 1952, a stipulation was entered into between counsel for the National Production Authority and the respondent in which count 7 of the statement of charges was withdrawn by the Government, while the charges contained in counts 1 to 6 were admitted by the respondent. At the conclusion of the hearing, tentative findings, conclusion, and order was presented to the commissioner by counsel for the National Production Authority for his signature, which he signed, and which has been published as Suspension Order 23, Docket No. 30.

This order provided:

1. That all priority assistance be withdrawn and withheld from the respondent for a period of 6 months commencing from the 1st day of September 1952.

2. That all allocations and allotments of controlled material under the control of the National Production Authority be withheld from the respondent for a period of 6 months commencing from the 1st day of September 1952.

3. That the respondent be prohibited from producing or acquiring Class "A" products and from producing Class "B" products (as defined in National Production Authority CMP Regulation No. 1, as amended November 23, 1951, and as may be amended hereafter), and from acquiring, using, or disposing of any materials under control of the National Production Authority, except as may be directed by the Administrator of the National Production Authority for a period of 6 months commencing from the 1st day of September 1952.

4. That all privileges of self-certification and self-authorization granted by the National Production Authority with respect to controlled materials and materials under control of the National Production Authority be withdrawn and withheld from Samuel Rosenmutter, doing business as Perma-Side Company, for a period of 6 months commencing from the 1st day of September 1952.

As of October 20, 1952, the aforesaid respondent petitioned the Chief Hearing Commissioner for relief under the provisions of paragraph (c) of section 5 of NPA Rules of Practice, 17 F. R. 8156. Among other things, irreparable harm was alleged, as was also the allegation that the above-identified suspension order was contrary to the intent of section 102 (b) of P. L. 429, 82d Congress, June 30, 1952, Ch. 530, 2d Session, S. 2594, 66 Stat. 296.

By designation of this office, a hearing on the facts was conducted by Commissioner Jones, on October 27, 1952, at Los Angeles, Calif. NPA Regional Attorney E. J. Spielman representing the Government and Attorney William Strong representing the petitioner, to wit, Samuel Rosenmutter, d/b/a Perma-Side Company. This proceeding was stenographically reported and the transcript, consisting of some 92 pages, now constitutes a part of the record.

The evidence as disclosed by the aforesaid transcript shows clearly that had the petitioner herein (respondent in the original proceeding) made his applications for aluminum and received his allotments properly, on time and in order, he would have been entitled to receive 135,814 pounds of aluminum during the last 2 quarters of 1951 and the 4 quarters of 1952. Up to the present time he has actually received only 95,068 pounds. To restate the matter, his allotments, from the third quarter of 1951 to and through the second quarter of 1952, totaled 55,814 pounds, while he was entitled under self-certification during the third and fourth quarters of 1952, to 80,000 pounds, amounting in all to 135,814 pounds. Deducting therefrom the 95,068 pounds actually received, said petitioner was entitled to 40,746 pounds above receipts. Therefore, the economic stock-pile was not depleted by the aforesaid Rosenmutter beyond what he was actually entitled to; as a matter of fact, it is conceded on the record that he should have a credit with said economic stock-pile in the amount of 40,746 pounds.

It is shown further by the evidence that the said Rosenmutter's activities fall within the small business class, as do the activities of four of his distributors. Combined, these concerns employ some 50 employees who are out of employment or otherwise vitally affected by the above-identified suspension order of August 15, 1952.

Under the provisions of paragraph (c) of section 5 of NPA Rules of Practice, 17 F. R. 8156, it is accordingly ordered that the aforesaid suspension order is hereby revoked, set aside, and held for naught, and that said Samuel Rosenmutter, d/b/a Perma-Side Company, be forthwith restored to the privilege of procuring such aluminum allocations as he may be entitled to through self-certification procedure or otherwise.

Ex cathedra, it may be here added that Commissioner Jones is in accord with the action here taken.

Issued this 13th day of November 1952, at Washington, D. C.

Deputy Chief Hearing Commissioner.

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION

[Docket Nos. G-1767, G-2035, G-2040, G-2047, G-2048, G-2049, G-2050, G-2091]

PANHANDLE EASTERN PIPE LINE CO. ET AL.

ORDER INSTITUTING INVESTIGATION, DENYING REQUESTS FOR SHORTENED PROCEDURE, CONSOLIDATING PROCEEDINGS, FIXING DATE OF HEARING, AND SPECIFYING ORDER OF PROCEDURE

NOVEMBER 20, 1952.

In the matters of Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Company, and Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Company, Southeastern Michigan Gas Company, Citizens Gas Fuel Company, Citizens Gas Company, Michigan Gas Utilities Company; Docket Nos. G-1767, G-2035, G-2040, G-2047, G-2048, G-2049, G-2050, G-2091.

On August 14, 1951, Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Company (Panhandle) filed an application at Docket No. G-1767 for a disclaimer of jurisdiction, or, in the alternative, a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing it to acquire and operate measuring facilities for the sale of gas to a glass plant of the Brockway Glass Company, Inc. (Brockway), near Lapel, Indiana.

The contract for service to Brockway, included in the application, provides for a volume obligation of 1,500 Mcf per day, of which the first 150 Mcf is to be sold on a firm basis and the remainder interruptible. The contract further provides:

28. The volumes of gas being sold hereunder to Buyer on a firm basis are contemplated to be an uninterruptible supply of gas: Provided, however, If there should occur at any point on the pipe line system of Seller a shortage of gas, Seller shall first, so far as practicable, curtail or interrupt deliveries of gas to customers purchasing gas from Seller on an interruptible basis; thereafter, Seller shall have the right to curtail and interrupt gas sold to Buyer hereunder on a firm basis, to the extent reasonably necessary in the judgment of Seller.

The obligation of Panhandle to provide firm service to its resale customers has been the subject of a number of proceedings before the Commission, including those which recently culminated in the issuance of Opinion Nos. 218 and 218-A, issued on August 31, 1951, and October 15, 1951, respectively. It was there noted that Panhandle's design capacity is 850,000 Mcf per day while its firm obligations considerably exceeded that figure. Of its firm obligations, only 3,000 Mcf was for direct sales of Panhandle, 2,000 Mcf being for the Bureau of Mines' installation at Mexico, Missouri, and 1,000 Mcf for farm tap customers.

Although the above-quoted provision of the Brockway contract may seek to recognize the priority of Panhandle's firm rate schedule obligations, it also appears to be designed to create, in effect, a new interruptible service between the firm classifications of Panhandle's tariff and the interruptible classification contemplated in Panhandle's "I" Rate Schedules. Thus, in the event of curtailment, wholesale customers purchasing interruptible gas under the "I" schedules would seem to be subject to curtailment before direct customers purchasing what would appear to be interruptible gas under contracts containing conditions similar to the one quoted above. This would appear to constitute the making or granting of an undue preference or advantage to certain customers and the subjecting of other customers to undue prejudice or disadvantage, and to constitute the maintenance of unreasonable differences in rates, charges, service, facilities and in other respects, either as between localities or as between classes of service.

A temporary certificate of public convenience and necessity was issued at Docket No. G-1767 on August 20, 1951, on condition that all service thereunder would be on an interruptible basis.

During the proceedings in Docket No. G-1612, et al., testimony was adduced indicating that Panhandle has commenced firm service, in whole or in part, to a number of its attached direct sale customers. Amended or new contracts covering service to these customers, filed with the Commission about that time under the provisions of Part 155 of the Commission's rules and regulations, all contain provisions similar to the above-quoted paragraph of the Brockway contract.

In addition, it appears that service was commenced to the Mueller Brass Company (Mueller) located in Port Huron, Michigan. Gas service in Port Huron is rendered by the Southeastern Michigan Gas Company (Southeastern). By Commission order issued December 1, 1950, Panhandle was authorized to sell and deliver natural gas to Southeastern at Clawson, Michigan, and Southeastern was authorized to construct and operate pipe-line facilities for the transportation of such gas to the Port Huron-Marysville area of Michigan. Panhandle, having no facilities which extend to Port Huron, entered into a transportation agreement with Southeastern for the delivery of gas to Mueller. No certificate authority for the sale to Mueller has been obtained by Panhandle, and Southeastern has neither obtained certificate authority to perform the transportation service for Panhandle nor filed a tariff, rate schedule, and service agreement covering the transportation service and charges therefor.

On August 26, 1952, Panhandle filed an application at Docket No. G-2035 for a disclaimer of jurisdiction, or, in the alternative, authority to sell and deliver natural gas to the food products processing plant of Mrs. Tucker's Products Division of Anderson, Clayton & Company located near Jacksonville, Illinois. A portion of the gas proposed to be sold is stated to be on a firm basis. The contract covering the sale, however, defines the firm classification in language similar to that quoted above from the Brockway contract.

On September 4, 1952, Panhandle filed an application at Docket No. G-2040, for a disclaimer of jurisdiction, or, in the alternative, authority to sell and deliver natural gas to the aluminum plant of Bohn Aluminum and Brass Corporation (Bohn) located in Adrian, Michigan. An amendment, filed September 11, 1952, eliminated the request for disclaimer of jurisdiction. Delivery is proposed to be made through the facilities of the Citizens Gas Fuel Company, the distribution company in Adrian. The nature of service classification of the gas proposed to be sold to Bohn is not clear, the contract stating that Seller may "curtail or interrupt" deliveries in order to meet the requirements of customers receiving service contemplating an "uninterruptible" supply of gas. There is no specification, however, of the status of Panhandle's proposed service in relation to the existing interruptible classification under its filed rate schedules.

An application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity, Docket No. G-2048, was filed by Panhandle on September 11, 1952, requesting authority to construct and operate 5½ miles of 6-inch diameter lateral transmission pipeline parallel to a portion of Panhandle's existing lateral to Adrian. These facilities are proposed to be constructed in order to permit deliveries to Bohn during the winter months when large volumes of firm gas must also be delivered to Citizens Gas Fuel Company. There is, therefore, a relationship between Docket Nos. G-2040 and G-2048. Temporary authorization in these dockets was issued on October 23, 1952.

On September 11, 1952, Panhandle filed an application at Docket No. G-2047, for a disclaimer of jurisdiction, or, in the alternative, a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing the construction and operation of a metering and regulating station and appurtenant equipment through which to serve natural gas to be used as fuel in the chemical plant of National Petro-Chemicals Corporation (Petro-Chemicals) located near Tuscola, Illinois. The contract for the sale of this gas states that it is contemplated to be sold as an uninterruptible supply; however, in the event of a shortage of gas Panhandle shall have the right to curtail such sales to the extent reasonably necessary, in its judgment, after first curtailing, so far as practicable, deliveries of gas to customers purchasing gas on an interruptible basis. Although the service to Petro-

Chemicals is not described as being firm, as in the case of the Brockway contract, the conditions under which there may be curtailment or interruption, in substance, appear to be similar.

In addition to its sale of gas to Petro-Chemicals for fuel purposes, Panhandle has contracted with Petro-Chemicals to sell to it certain volumes of ethane and heavier hydrocarbons contained in the stream of natural gas being transported in Panhandle's pipeline. The stream of gas in Panhandle's main line will be diverted through one of two 34-inch pipelines to be constructed by Petro-Chemicals, which will carry it to the Petro-Chemicals plant where the ethane and heavier hydrocarbons will be removed. The natural gas remaining after the removal of such components will be returned to the inlet of Panhandle's Tuscola Compressor Station by means of the second 34-inch pipeline.

Petro-Chemicals was organized by Panhandle and National Distillers Products Corporation, to engage in the extraction and manufacture of various chemicals from natural gas. By written contract, Panhandle has agreed and has become entitled to purchase 40 percent of the capital stock of Petro-Chemicals at a cost of $5,775,000 and to invest an additional $1,707,328 by purchase of additional shares of stock or loans, and to invest an additional $1,200,000 in Petro-Chemicals if additional funds are required to complete the project or to maintain its working capital. The extraction plant will be built by Petro-Chemicals and turned over to Panhandle to be managed and operated.

The application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity, in the alternative, filed at Docket No. G-2047, encompasses only the construction and operation of a measuring and regulating station and appurtenant equipment through which the fuel being sold to the plant is proposed to be metered. No application has been filed for the construction and operation by Panhandle of the connection of Panhandle's main line with the 34-inch lines to Petro-Chemicals' plant, or for the operation by Panhandle of the latter lines and Petro-Chemicals' plant.

It appears that the Petro-Chemicals plant and the pipelines serving it will comprise a means for Panhandle to transport natural gas in interstate commerce. The construction and operation of the facilities to be built and operated by Panhandle, and the operation of that portion of the facilities to be built by Petro-Chemicals and operated by Panhandle, may therefore be subject to the certificate jurisdiction of the Commission, and an investigation is warranted in order to determine such jurisdiction.

Examination of Panhandle's application indicates that, among other effects, the removal of ethane and heavier hydrocarbons from Panhandle's pipeline gas may reduce the volume of gas available for resale customers and may reduce the Btu content in the gas that is available. It is possible that this could have serious consequences on Panhandle's ability to meet its requirements and conditions of service, set out in its tariff, rate schedules and service agreements, and in the various orders of the Commission relating to such matters. It therefore appears that investigation of these matters should be instituted, together with the investigation to determine the Commission's jurisdiction.

On September 11, 1952, Panhandle filed an application at Docket No. G-2049, for a disclaimer of jurisdiction, or, in the alternative, authority to sell and deliver natural gas to the DeKalb Agricultural Association located at Tuscola, Illinois. Delivery is proposed to be made through the facilities of Citizens Gas Company, the distributing company in Tuscola. The conditions under which there may be curtailment or interruption appear to be substantially the same as those described as being in the Petro-Chemicals contract.

On September 11, 1952, Panhandle filed an application at Docket No. G-2050, for a disclaimer of jurisdiction, or, in the alternative, authority to sell and deliver natural gas to Monroe Paper Products Company in Monroe, Michigan. Delivery is proposed to be made through the facilities of Michigan Gas Utilities Company, the distributing company in Monroe. The proposed sale is to be on a temporary or "dump" basis.

No applications for certificates of public convenience and necessity have been filed by Citizens Gas Fuel Company of Adrian, Michigan, Citizens Gas Company of Tuscola, Illinois, and Michigan Gas Utilities Company, for authority to transport natural gas for the account of Panhandle to the plants of Bohn, DeKalb Agricultural Association, and Monroe Paper Products Company at Docket Nos. G-2040, G-2049, and G-2050, respectively. It appears that this operation may constitute transportation of natural gas in interstate commerce subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission; and if that be the case, prior to the rendition of such service, Citizens Gas Fuel Company, Citizens Gas Company, and Michigan Gas Utilities Company should secure certificates of public convenience and necessity and file appropriate tariffs, rate schedules, and service agreements.

Due notice of the filing of the applications has been given, including publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER, concerning Docket No. G-1767, on August 30, 1951 (16 F. R. 8806), Docket No. G-2035 on September 16, 1952 (17 F. R. 8308), Docket No. G-2040 on September 20, 1952 (17 F. R. 8464), Docket No. G-2047 on September 26, 1952 (17 F. R. 8598), Docket No. G-2048 on September 26, 1952 (17 F. R. 8599), Docket No. G-2049 on September 26, 1952 (17 F. R. 8599), and Docket No. G-2050 on September 26, 1952 (17 F. R. 8599).

Panhandle has requested that each of the applications, Docket Nos. G-1767, G-2035, G-2040, G-2047, G-2048, G-2049, and G-2050 be heard under the shortened procedure provided by § 1.32 (b) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.32 (b)). It appears, however, that these proceedings involve common questions of law and fact, either with respect to jurisdiction or to possible discriminatory aspects of the service involved, which can be determined only after unabridged hearings. The other docket herein considered either involves the same common questions of law and fact or is intimately interrelated to dockets involving such matters.

The Commission finds:

(1) Panhandle, a Delaware corporation having its principal place of business at Kansas City, Missouri, owns and operates, among other facilities, a natural-gas transmission pipeline system located in the States of Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Michigan, and by reason of such operations is engaged in the transportation and sale of natural gas in interstate commerce for resale for ultimate public consumption, subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, and is, therefore, a "natural-gas company" within the meaning of the Natural Gas Act, as heretofore found by the Commission's order of October 17, 1945, at Docket No. G-254, 4 F. P. C. 1081.

(2) Southeastern, a Michigan corporation having its principal place of business at Port Huron, Michigan, owns and operates among other facilities, a natural-gas transmission pipeline system, located in the State of Michigan, and by reason of such operations is engaged in the transportation of natural gas in interstate commerce, subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, and is, therefore, a "natural-gas company" within the meaning of the Natural Gas Act, as heretofore found by the Commission's order of December 1, 1950, at Docket No. G-1415.

(3) It is necessary and proper in the public interest that an investigation be instituted by the Commission, upon its own motion, to determine whether:

(a) Panhandle's maintenance of priorities of service for its direct sale customers, different from those set forth in its filed tariff and rate schedules, is unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential.

(b) The proposed transportation of natural gas by Panhandle to, through, and from the Petro-Chemicals plant is a transportation of natural gas in interstate commerce, subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, so that Panhandle's construction and operation of some facilities and its operation of other facilities for such transportation, without prior certificate authorization, is a violation of the Natural Gas Act, including particularly section 7.

(c) The removal of ethane and heavier hydrocarbons from the natural gas transported by Panhandle, incident to the proposed transportation described in (b) above, will affect Panhandle's service to its resale customers, in a manner contrary to the provisions of its tariff, rate schedules, and service agreements on file with the Commission, the various Commission orders pertaining to such service, the Natural Gas Act, and the rules and regulations of the Commission thereunder.

(d) Panhandle is violating the Natural Gas Act, including particularly section 7, by reason of its sale of natural gas to Mueller without having first secured a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing such sale.

(e) Southeastern is violating the Natural Gas Act, including particularly sections 4 and 7, by reason of its transportation of natural gas, sold by Panhandle to Mueller, without having first secured a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing such transportation, and without having first filed with the Commission a tariff, rate schedule, and service agreement showing the applicable rates and charges for such transportation.

(f) Citizens Gas Fuel Company of Adrian, Michigan, will, by reason of its transportation of natural gas, proposed to be sold by Panhandle to Bohn under the authorization sought by Panhandle at Docket No. G-2040, become a "natural-gas company" within the meaning of the Natural Gas Act, so that the rendition of such transportation service without certificate authorization and the filing of appropriate tariff, rate schedule, and service agreement, will be in violation of the Natural Gas Act, including particularly sections 4 and 7.

(g) Citizens Gas Company of Tuscola, Ill., will, by reason of its transportation of natural gas, proposed to be sold by Panhandle to DeKalb Agricultural Association under the authorization sought by Panhandle at Docket No. G-2049, become a "natural-gas company" within the meaning of the Natural Gas Act, so that the rendition of such transportation service, without certificate authorization and the filing of appropriate tariff, rate schedule and service agreement, will be in violation of the Natural Gas Act, including particularly sections 4 and 7.

(h) Michigan Gas Utilities Company will, by reason of its transportation of natural gas proposed to be sold by Panhandle to Monroe Paper Products Company under the authorization sought by Panhandle at Docket No. G-2050, become a "natural-gas company" within the meaning of the Natural Gas Act, so that the rendition of such transportation service, without certificate authorization and the filing of appropriate tariff, rate schedule, and service agreement, will be in violation of the Natural Gas Act, including particularly sections 4 and 7.

(4) Good cause has not been shown for granting Panhandle's requests that its applications at Docket Nos. G-1767, G-2035, G-2040, G-2047, G-2048, G-2049, and G-2050 be heard under the shortened procedure as provided by the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, and said requests should be denied as hereinafter ordered.

(5) It is appropriate for carrying out the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that hearings be held as hereinafter ordered in Docket Nos. G-1767, G-2035, G-2040, G-2047, G-2048, G-2049, G-2050, and in the investigation initiated herein, which is docketed as G-2091 and that good cause exists for consolidating all of these dockets for purposes of hearing.

The Commission orders:

(A) Pursuant to the provisions of the Natural Gas Act, including particularly sections 4, 5, 7, 14, 15, and 16, and the Commission's rules and regulations thereunder, investigation be and the same hereby is instituted with respect to the matters set forth in finding (3) above for the purpose of ascertaining the relevant facts as a basis for such action by the Commission as may be appropriate in the circumstances.

(B) Panhandle's requests that its applications in Docket Nos. G-1767, G-2035, G-2040, G-2047, G-2048, G-2049 and G-2050 be heard under the shortened procedure provided by § 1.32 (b) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.32 (b)), be and the same hereby are denied.

(C) The proceedings in Docket Nos. G-1767, G-2035, G-2040, G-2047, G-2048, G-2049, G-2050, and G-2091 be and the same hereby are consolidated for the purpose of hearing.

(D) Pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Power Commission by the Natural Gas Act, including particularly sections 4, 5, 7, 14, 15 and 16, and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a public hearing be held commencing on December 16, 1952, at 10:00 a. m., in the Hearing Room of the Federal Power Commission, 1800 Pennsylvania Avenue NW., Washington, D. C., concerning the matters presented and the issues involved in the consolidated proceedings.

(E) Interested State commissions may participate as provided by §§ 1.8 and 1.37 (f) (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37 (f)) of the said rules of practice and procedure.

(F) At the hearing, except for such deviation and additions as the Presiding Examiner may determine to be required in the interest of expedition, Panhandle shall go forward first and shall present its case-in-chief as to the matters herein consolidated. Thereafter each of Panhandle's witnesses shall be cross-examined. Following the completion of such cross-examination, Southeastern, Citizens Gas Fuel Company, Citizens Gas Company, Michigan Gas Utilities Company, Interveners, and the Staff, in the order named, shall each present their case-in-chief, to the followed, upon completion of all such presentations, by cross-examination thereof.

Date of issuance: November 21, 1952.

OHIO EDISON CO.

ORDER PERMITTING SUBMISSION TO STOCKHOLDERS OF PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION TO AUTHORIZE ADDITIONAL SHARES OF PREFERRED STOCK AND INCREASE PAR VALUE OF COMMON STOCK

NOVEMBER 21, 1952.

Ohio Edison Company ("Ohio"), a registered holding company and a public utility company, having filed a declaration, and an amendment thereto, pursuant to sections 6 (a), 7 and 12 (e) of the act and Rule U-62 promulgated thereunder with respect to the following proposed transactions:

Ohio's construction program for 1953 anticipates expenditures approximating $57,000,000. In addition, Ohio has obligated itself to invest approximately $3,300,000 in the common stock of the Ohio Valley Electric Corporation, a new corporation formed by various public utility companies to provide the Atomic Energy Commission with its electric energy requirements for its proposed plant near Portsmouth, Ohio. Ohio estimates that based upon the present level of earnings and current expectations as to the progress of the construction program additional securities will be sold to the public in 1953 for approximately $32,000,000. Ohio believes that it would be desirable, assuming favorable market conditions, to raise the necessary funds for 1953 by the public sale, early in the year, of 150,000 additional shares of preferred stock and, at or about the same time, of an additional 479,846 shares of common stock on a rights offering.

Ohio states that under its Articles of Incorporation it has only 13,700 shares of authorized but unissued preferred stock. The Articles also provide that additional shares of preferred stock may be issued only if the excess of the aggregate par value of the outstanding common stock (which presently has a par value of $8 per share) over $14,366,776 is at least equal to the product of $75 times the number of shares of preferred stock outstanding (including the shares to be issued) in excess of 200,000. This provision would, so long as the par value of the common stock is $8 per share, limit the number of additional shares of preferred stock issuable at present to approximately 34,000 shares and the number of such shares issuable after the sale of an additional 479,846 shares of common stock to approximately 85,000 shares.

In order to enable Ohio to issue and sell additional shares of preferred stock in 1953, as contemplated, the company proposes to submit to the common stockholders a proposed amendment to the Articles of Incorporation which will

(a) Increase the authorized number of shares of preferred stock, par value $100 per share, from 500,000 to 1,000,000; and

(b) Increase the par value of the shares of common stock from $8 per share to $12 per share.

Ohio proposes to submit to its common stockholders, at a special meeting to be called for that purpose, the proposed amendment to its Articles. For the amendment to become effective, it must be approved by the holders of two-thirds of the outstanding shares of common stock. In connection with such special meeting, Ohio proposes to solicit proxies to be voted in favor of the proposed amendment and it further proposes, if it shall become necessary or advisable in its opinion, to employ professional proxy solicitors.

To reflect the proposed increase in the par value of its presently outstanding common stock, Ohio proposes to transfer to Common Stock Capital an amount equal to $4 per share of common stock outstanding, such transfer to be made from Premium on Common Stock Account and from Capital Surplus Account of $12,010,452 and $7,183,388, respectively.

The declarant's expenses are estimated at not to exceed $10,500 for printing and mailing, $1,500 for counsel fees, $1,500 for solicitation costs, and if professional proxy solicitors are employed $10,000 for expenses and compensation of such solicitors.

Declarant states that no State or other Federal Commission has jurisdiction over the proposed transactions and the company requests that the Commission's order herein become effective forthwith upon issuance.

Said declaration, as amended, having been filed and notice of said filing having been duly given in the form and manner prescribed by Rule U-23 promulgated pursuant to the Act, and the Commission not having received a request for hearing with respect to said declaration within the period specified in said notice, or otherwise, and not having ordered a hearing thereon; and

The Commission finding with respect to said declaration, as amended, that the requirements of the applicable provisions of the Act and Rules thereunder are satisfied, and deeming it appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers that said declaration, as amended, be permitted to become effective, forthwith:

It is ordered, Pursuant to Rule U-23 and the applicable provisions of the act, that said declaration, as amended, be and the same hereby is, permitted to become effective forthwith, subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24.

It is further ordered, That jurisdiction be, and the same hereby is, reserved over the fees and expenses of counsel and of any professional proxy solicitors who may be employed in connection with the proposed transactions.

By the Commission.

[SEAL] ORVAL L. DUBOIS,
Secretary.

TITLE 7—AGRICULTURE

Chapter VIII—Production and Marketing Administration (Sugar Branch), Department of Agriculture

Subchapter B—Sugar Requirements and Quotas

[Sugar Reg. 811, Rev. 2]

PART 811—SUGAR REQUIREMENTS, CONTINENTAL UNITED STATES

REQUIREMENTS FOR 1952

Basis and purpose. The revised determination set forth below is made pursuant to section 201 of the Sugar Act of 1948. The act requires that the Secretary shall revise the determination of sugar requirements at such times during the calendar year as may be necessary. It now appears that an increase in the estimate of requirements for the calendar year 1952 is necessary. The purpose of this revision is to make such determination conform to the requirements indicated on the basis of the factors specified in section 201 of the act.

Immediate availability of a part of the additional supply of sugar provided by this determination of sugar requirements is necessary to insure orderly marketing and to maintain a continuous and stable supply of sugar at prices that are not excessive to consumers. Therefore, in order effectively to carry out the purposes of the Sugar Act, it is necessary that the revision of the determination be made effective as soon as possible. Accordingly, it is hereby determined and found that compliance with the notice, procedure and effective date requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001) is impracticable and contrary to the public interest, and the revision of the determination made herein shall be effective on the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

By virtue of the authority vested in the Secretary of Agriculture by the Sugar Act of 1948 (61 Stat. 922, 7 U. S. C. Sup. 1100) and the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 237, 5 U. S. C. 1001) Sugar Regulation 811, the determination of the amount of sugar needed to meet the requirements of consumers in the continental United States for 1952, as revised (16 F. R. 12929; 17 F. R. 9615), is hereby further revised to read as follows:

§ 811.4 Sugar requirements, 1952. The amount of sugar needed to meet the requirements of consumers in the continental United States for the calendar year 1952 is hereby determined to be 7,900,000 short tons, raw value.

Statement of bases and considerations. On December 20, 1951, the supply of sugar required from quota sources in 1952 was determined to be 7,700,000 short tons, raw value. It was indicated at that time that distribution in the 12 months ended October 31, 1951, was about 7,850,000 short tons, raw value, that about 150,000 tons had been used in the 12 months from "invisible" inventories and that further depletion in such inventories probably would occur by December 31, 1951. Final distribution data for 1951 show a total of about 7,737,000 tons and "invisible" inventory statistics indicate the use of an additional quantity of approximately 250,000 tons. Thus, total use in 1951 appears to have been about 8,000,000 short tons. These quantities were utilized at annual average prices of 6.06 cents per pound for raw sugar and 8.38 cents, wholesale, New York basis, for refined sugar. Prices of 5.75 cents for raw sugar and 8.25 cents for refined prevailed at the time that the 7,700,000 ton determination was made. In that determination it was stated that these prices were too low to maintain the domestic sugar industry as required by the Sugar Act of 1948 and the quantity established reflected a reduction of 400,000 tons as a price stimulus.

On October 21, 1952, Revision 1 to Sugar Regulation 811 increased sugar requirements to 7,800,000 short tons, raw value. At that time it was pointed out that sugar distribution in 1952 to September 1 exceeded that for the corresponding period of 1951 by 240,000 tons but that it was necessary to continue a negative allowance for price effect.

Beginning in early June, the price of raw sugar, duty paid, New York, fluctuated between 6.37 and 6.62 cents per pound and the generally quoted basic price for refined sugar was 8.80 cents. Average prices for the first ten months of 1952 were 6.27 cents for raw sugar and 8.59 cents for refined sugar. In light of the criteria set forth in section 201 of the Sugar Act of 1948 and trends of other prices, refined sugar prices have not attained levels which are "excessive to consumers".

By November 1, refiners, importers and processors of mainland sugarcane and sugar beets had distributed 6,992,171 short tons of sugar, raw value. This was 334,000 tons more than was distributed in the comparable period of 1951. In 1952 distribution in September and October was more than 100,000 tons higher than the highest for the same months in any of these four years. If November-December distribution should be about 1,100,000 tons as in the preceding four years, total 1952 distribution should be about 8,100,000 tons. The difference between actual distribution and total quota charges for a year is accounted for by changes in refiners and importers stocks.

Although an increase in quotas is necessary for continued market activity, in consideration of all stock and price data, the increase is limited to 100,000 tons, continuing a negative allowance for price effect.

Accordingly, the total of the quotas is increased by this action to 7,900,000 short tons, raw value.

[Sugar Reg. 813, Amdt. 6]

PART 813—SUGAR QUOTAS AND PRORATIONS OF QUOTA DEFICITS

DETERMINATION AND PRORATION OF 1952 QUOTAS

Basis and purpose. The amendments herein are issued pursuant to sections 202 and 204 (b) of the Sugar Act of 1948 and are made for the purpose of giving effect to the revision of the determination of sugar requirements made by the Secretary of Agriculture.

After providing for quotas in specific amounts for domestic sugar producing areas and the Republic of the Philippines, section 202 of the act provides that the difference between the sum of such quotas and total requirements shall be prorated to foreign countries other than the Republic of the Philippines on the basis of stated percentages. Thus, the statute states specifically how quotas are to be revised when there is a change in sugar requirements. Furthermore, in order to make available the additional sugar authorized by this amendment to meet current demand at stable prices and thereby protect the interests of consumers, it is essential that this amendment be made effective immediately. Therefore, it is hereby determined and found that compliance with the notice, procedure and effective date requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act is impracticable, unnecessary and contrary to the public interest. The amendments made herein shall become effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

By virtue of the authority vested in the Secretary of Agriculture by the Sugar Act of 1948 (61 Stat. 922, 7 U. S. C. Sup. 1100) and the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 237, 5 U. S. C. 1001), Sugar Regulation 813 (16 F. R. 13032; 17 F. R. 5691, 6758, 8449, 10498), establishing sugar quotas for 1952 is hereby amended as hereinafter set forth.

1. Section 813.32 is changed to read:

§ 813.32 Basic quotas for other areas. There are hereby established, pursuant to subsections (b) and (c) of section 202 of the act, for foreign countries for the calendar year 1952 the following quotas.

Area:	Quotas in terms of short tons, raw value
Republic of the Philippines	974,000
Cuba	2,621,851
Other foreign countries	36,149

2. Paragraphs (e) and (f) of § 813.33 are changed to read:

§ 813.33 Determination and proration of area deficits. * * *

(e) Deficit in proration of quota for foreign countries other than Cuba and the Republic of the Philippines. It is hereby determined, pursuant to section 204 (b) of the act, that unfilled prorations to foreign countries of the quota for foreign countries other than Cuba and the Republic of the Philippines established under section 202 (c) of the act amount to 36,625,299 pounds of sugar, raw value, and that by September 1, 1952, Colombia, Costa Rica, the Dominican Republic, Haiti, Netherlands, Peru, and the United Kingdom had filled their prorations of such quota in effect on that date.

(f) Allotment of unfilled prorations of quota for foreign countries other than Cuba and the Republic of the Philippines. An amount of sugar equal to the unfilled prorations to foreign countries determined in paragraph (e) of this section is hereby prorated, pursuant to subsections (b) and (d) of section 204 of the act as follows:

Country:	Additional prorations in pounds, raw value
Colombia	508
Costa Rica	39,100
Dominican Republic	12,658,870
Haiti	1,749,512
Netherlands	413,577
Peru	21,098,054
United Kingdom	665,678

3. Paragraph (a) of § 813.34 is changed to read:

Statement of bases and considerations—Revised quotas due to increase in requirements. The revised quotas for Cuba and "Other Foreign Countries" have been established by prorating the amount by which the revised estimate of requirements exceeds the quotas for domestic areas and the Republic of the Philippines on the basis of 98.64 per centum to Cuba and 1.36 per centum to "Other Foreign Countries" as provided in section 202 (c) of the act. In addition, the revised quota for "Other Foreign Countries", after setting aside 500,000 pounds for an unallotted reserve, has been prorated on the basis of the division of the quota made in General Sugar Quota Regulations, Series 4, No. 1, issued December 12, 1936, as provided in section 202 (c).

Area deficit. Section 204 (b) of the act provides that if on the first day of September in any calendar year any part or all of any proration of the basic quota to a foreign country other than Cuba and the Republic of the Philippines has not been filled, the Secretary may revise the prorations and allot the unfilled portions to those foreign countries which have filled their prorations by such date. Such revision was made by S. R. 813, Amendment 3 (17 F. R. 8449) on the basis of the basic quota for such countries prevailing on that date. Inasmuch as only Colombia, Costa Rica, the Dominican Republic, Haiti, Netherlands, Peru, and the United Kingdom had filled their prorations of the smaller basic quota then prevailing, the unfilled portions of the quota established in § 813.32 herein and prorated in § 813.34 (a) is reallotted in § 813.33 (f) to the seven countries indicated above.

After giving effect to the changes set forth in this amendment to Sugar Regulation 813, the quotas for all areas are as follows:

TITLE 16—COMMERCIAL PRACTICES

Chapter I—Federal Trade Commission

[Docket 5736]

PART 3—DIGEST OF CEASE AND DESIST ORDERS

BEE JAY PRODUCTS, INC., ET AL.

Subpart—Using, selling or supplying lottery devices: § 3.2475 Devices for lottery selling. Selling or distributing in commerce, push cards, punchboards, jar games, spindle games, or other lottery devices which are to be used or which, due to their design, are suitable for use in the sale and distribution of merchandise to the public by means of a game of chance, gift enterprise, or lottery scheme; prohibited.

(Sec. 6, 38 Stat. 722; 15 U. S. C. 46. Interprets or applies sec. 5, 38 Stat. 719, as amended; 15 U. S. C. 45) [Cease and desist order, Bee Jay Products, Inc., Chicago, Illinois, and Universal Manufacturing Company, Kansas City, Missouri, et al., Docket 5736, September 29, 1952]

In the Matter of Bee Jay Products, Inc., and Joseph Berkowitz, Reuben Berkowitz, and Maurcy M. Ball, Individually and as Officers of Bee Jay Products, Inc., and Universal Manufacturing Company, a Corporation, and Mrs. Anna Berkowitz, Reuben Berkowitz, and Bertha Berkowitz, Individually and as Officers of Universal Manufacturing Company

Pursuant to the provisions of the Federal Trade Commission Act, the Federal Trade Commission on January 25, 1950, issued and subsequently served its complaint in this proceeding upon the respondents named in the caption hereof, charging them with the use of unfair acts and practices in commerce in violation of the provisions of that act. After the filing by respondents of an answer to the complaint, a hearing was held before a hearing examiner of the Commission theretofore duly designated by it at which hearing counsel for all of the respondents except Maurcy M. Ball and Mrs. Anna Berkowitz requested leave to withdraw their answer to the complaint and to substitute therefor an answer admitting all of the material allegations of fact in the complaint and waiving all intervening procedure and further hearing as to the facts, the substitute answer reserving, however, the right of such respondents to appeal from any decision rendered in the proceeding by the hearing examiner and/or the Commission. The substitute answer was tendered upon condition that the initial decision of the hearing examiner in the proceeding be deferred until the determination by the Commission of another proceeding, that of Superior Products, Docket No. 5561. The request to file such substitute answer being granted by the hearing examiner, it was duly received and filed as a part of the record in the proceeding. At the hearing testimony was received with respect to respondents Maurcy M. Ball and Mrs. Anna Berkowitz, the two respondents not joining in the substitute answer, and such testimony was duly recorded and filed in the office of the Commission. Thereafter, the Commission having rendered its final decision in the Superior Products case, the hearing examiner, on February 15, 1952, filed his initial decision herein.

Within the time permitted by the Commission's rules of practice, counsel for all respondents, other than Maurcy M. Ball and Mrs. Anna Berkowitz, filed with the Commission an appeal from said initial decision and thereafter this proceeding regularly came on for final consideration by the Commission upon the record herein, including briefs in support of and in opposition to said appeal (respondents' application for oral argument of counsel before the Commission having been denied); and the Commission, having issued its order granting said appeal in part and denying it in part and being now fully advised in the premises, finds that this proceeding is in the interest of the public and makes this its findings as to the facts[1] and its conclusion drawn therefrom[1] and its order, the same to be in lieu of the initial decision of the hearing examiner.

It is ordered, That respondents Bee Jay Products, Inc., a corporation, and Universal Manufacturing Company, a corporation, and their respective officers, and Joseph Berkowitz, Reuben Berkowitz and Bertha Berkowitz, individually and as officers of either or both of said corporations, and their respective agents, representatives and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, do forthwith cease and desist from:

Selling or distributing in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act push cards, punchboards, jar games, spindle games, or other lottery devices which are to be used or which, due to their design, are suitable for use in the sale or distribution of merchandise to the public by means of a game of chance, gift enterprise, or lottery scheme.

It is further ordered, That respondents Bee Jay Products, Inc., Universal Manufacturing Company, Joseph Berkowitz, Reuben Berkowitz and Bertha Berkowitz shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon them of this order, file with the Commission a report in writing setting forth in detail the manner and form in which they have complied with this order.

It is further ordered, That the complaint be, and it hereby is, dismissed as to respondents Mrs. Anna Berkowitz, deceased, and Maurcy M. Ball.

Issued: September 29, 1952.

By the Commission.

PART 3—DIGEST OF CEASE AND DESIST ORDERS

NUCLEAR PRODUCTS CO.

Subpart—Advertising falsely or misleadingly: § 3.195 Safety; § 3.205 Scientific or other relevant facts. Subpart—Neglecting, unfairly or deceptively, to make material disclosure: § 3.1890 Safety; § 3.1895 Scientific or relevant facts. In connection with the offer and sale, sale or distribution in commerce, of devices containing the element polonium as an active ingredient, (1) representing, directly or by implication, that such devices are safe for use, unless it is clearly and conspicuously disclosed, in immediate connection with the representation, that the polonium in said devices is dangerous to health if inhaled into the lungs or ingested; (2) representing, directly or by implication, that polonium is harmless; or, (3) offering for sale, selling or distributing such devices unless adequate cautionary or warning notices are clearly and conspicuously impressed or imprinted upon said devices or permanently attached thereto, indicating possible harmful effects of ingesting or inhaling polonium and directing the user not to touch the polonium element and to keep the device away from children; prohibited, subject to the provision, however, as respects the above third prohibition, that such warning or cautionary notices may be condensed if they clearly refer to and are amplified by adequate directions for safe use separately printed and enclosed in the carton or permanent container in which said devices are shipped and kept.

(Sec. 6, 38 Stat. 722; 15 U. S. C. 46. Interprets or applies sec. 5, 38 Stat. 719, as amended; 15 U. S. C. 45) [Cease and desist order, Nuclear Products Company, Costa Mesa, Calif., Docket 5949, September 20, 1952]

This proceeding was heard by J. Earl Cox, hearing examiner, upon the complaint of the Commission, respondent's answer, and a stipulation whereby it was stipulated and agreed that a statement of facts, signed and executed by counsel for respondent and J. W. Brookfield, Jr., counsel supporting the complaint, might be taken as the facts in the proceeding and in lieu of testimony in support of and in opposition to the charges stated in the complaint, and might serve as the basis of findings as to the facts and conclusion based thereon and order disposing of the proceeding, respondent, however, expressly requesting the right to file proposed findings, conclusion and order.

Thereafter the proceeding regularly came on for final consideration by said examiner upon the complaint, answer thereto, stipulation and proposed findings, conclusions and orders submitted by counsel, oral argument not having been requested and said examiner, having approved said stipulation and having found, after duly considering the record in the matter, that the proceeding was in the interest of the public, made his initial decision comprising certain findings as to the facts,[1] conclusion drawn therefrom,[1] and order to cease and desist.

No appeal having been filed from said initial decision of said hearing examiner as provided for in Rule XXII, nor any other action taken as thereby provided to prevent said initial decision becoming the decision of the Commission thirty days from service thereof upon the parties, said initial decision, including said order to cease and desist, accordingly, under the provisions of said Rule XXII became the decision of the Commission on September 20, 1952.

The said order to cease and desist is as follows:

It is ordered, That the respondent, Nuclear Products Company, a corporation, its officers, agents, representatives and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the offering for sale, sale or distribution in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, of devices containing the element polonium as an active ingredient, do forthwith cease and desist from:

1. Representing, directly or by implication, that such devices are safe for use, unless it is clearly and conspicuously disclosed, in immediate connection with the representation, that the polonium in said devices is dangerous to health if inhaled into the lungs or ingested.

2. Representing, directly or by implication, that polonium is harmless.

3. Offering for sale, selling or distributing such devices unless adequate cautionary or warning notices are clearly and conspicuously impressed or imprinted upon said devices or permanently attached thereto, indicating possible harmful effects of ingesting or inhaling polonium and directing the user not to touch the polonium element and to keep the device away from children; provided, however, that such warning or cautionary notices may be condensed if they clearly refer to and are amplified by adequate directions for safe use separately printed and enclosed in the carton or permanent container in which said devices are shipped and kept.

By "Decision of the Commission and order to file report of compliance", Docket 5949, September 19, 1952, which announced and decreed fruition of said initial decision, report of compliance was required as follows:

It is ordered, That the respondent herein shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon it of this order file with the Commission a report in writing setting forth in detail the manner and form in which it has complied with the order to cease and desist.

Issued: September 19, 1952.

TITLE 24—HOUSING AND HOUSING CREDIT

Chapter I—Home Loan Bank Board, Housing and Home Finance Agency

Subchapter D—Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation

PART 161—DEFINITIONS

WHO ARE INSURED MEMBERS FOR PURPOSES OF INSURANCE OF ACCOUNTS

NOVEMBER 25, 1952.

Resolved that, pursuant to Part 108 of the general regulations of the Home Loan Bank Board (24 CFR Part 108) and § 167.1 of the rules and regulations for insurance of accounts (24 CFR 167.1), notice and public procedure having been duly afforded (17 F. R. 9079), effective November 29, 1952, § 161.2 of the rules and regulations for insurance of accounts (24 CFR 161.2) is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 161.2 Insured member. An "insured member" may be an individual, a partnership, an association, or a corporation holding an insured account. Each officer, employee, or agent of the United States, of any State of the United States, of the District of Columbia, of any Territory of the United States, of Puerto Rico, of the Virgin Islands, of any county, of any municipality, or of any political subdivision thereof, herein called "public unit," having official custody of public funds and lawfully investing the same in an insured account is an insured member in such custodial capacity separate and distinct from any other officer, employee, or agent of the same or any public unit having official custody of public funds and lawfully investing the same in the same insured institution in custodial capacity. Each valid trust estate invested by the fiduciary in an insured account is an insured member separate and distinct from any other valid trust estate invested by the same or another fiduciary in the same insured institution. If the owner or the beneficiary of any such trust estate has any other investment in the same insured institution, held in a different capacity and right, he is, as to such investment, an insured member separate and distinct from such trust estate. In the event the funds of more than one trust estate, such trust estate being the interest of each beneficiary in such trust funds, are invested by the fiduciary in one insured account in an insured institution and the interest of each particular trust estate in such insured account is disclosed upon the records of the insured institution or upon the records of the fiduciary maintained in good faith and in the regular course of business, each such trust estate will be considered as a separate insured account as disclosed upon such records. In the event a fiduciary invests in one insured account funds of more than one trust estate which are commingled, each such trust estate in such insured account will be considered as a separate insured account for an amount determined by apportioning the total amount in the insured account to the trust estates having an interest therein upon the same ratio as the interest of such trust estates in the total commingled fund out of which the investment was made by the fiduciary.

Resolved further, that, this amendment being for the purpose of conformity with the amendment of section 401 (b) of the National Housing Act, as amended, in Public Law 558 of the 82d Congress, approved July 16, 1952, no reason exists for the deferment of its effective date under the provisions of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act, and the amendment shall become effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(Sec. 402, 48 Stat. 1256, as amended; 12 U. S. C. 1725. Interprets and applies sec. 401, 48 Stat. 1255, as amended by Pub. Law 558, 82d Cong.; 12 U. S. C. 1724)

By the Home Loan Bank Board.

TITLE 32—NATIONAL DEFENSE

Chapter V—Department of the Army

Subchapter F—Personnel

PART 581—PERSONNEL REVIEW BOARDS

ARMY BOARD FOR CORRECTION OF MILITARY RECORDS

Section 581.3 is hereby rescinded and the following is substituted therefor:

§ 581.3 Army Board for correction of military records—(a) Purpose. This section establishes procedures for making application, and the consideration of applications, for the correction of military records by the Secretary of the Army acting through the Army Board for Correction of Military Records (hereinafter referred to as the Board).

(b) Establishment, functions, and jurisdiction of the Board—(1) Establishment and composition. (i) Pursuant to the provisions of section 207 of the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1946, as amended, the Army Board for Correction of Military Records is established in the Office of the Secretary of the Army.

(ii) The Board will consist of civilian officers or employees of the Department of the Army in such number, not less than three, as may be appointed by the Secretary of the Army. Three members present shall constitute a quorum of the Board. The Secretary of the Army will designate one member as the Chairman. In the event of absence or incapacity of the Chairman, an Acting Chairman chosen by the Board shall act as Chairman for all purposes.

(2) Function. The function of the Board is to consider all applications properly before it for the purpose of determining the existence of an error or an injustice and to make appropriate recommendations to the Secretary of the Army.

(3) Jurisdiction. The Board shall have jurisdiction to review and determine all matters properly brought before it consistent with existing law.

(c) Application for correction—(1) General requirements. (i) The application for correction should be submitted on DD Form 149 (Application for Correction of Military or Naval Record) or exact facsimile thereof, and should be addressed to: Army Board for Correction of Military Records, Department of the Army, Washington 25, D. C. Forms and explanatory matter may be obtained from The Adjutant General, Washington 25, D. C. For those applicants in the military service, these forms may be obtained through publications supply channels.

(ii) Except as provided in subdivision (iii) of this subparagraph, the application shall be signed by the person requesting corrective action with respect to his record and will either be sworn to or will contain a provision to the effect that the statements submitted in the application are made with full knowledge of the penalty provided by law for making a false statement or claim. (18 U. S. C. 287, 1001.)

(iii) When the record in question is that of a person who is incapable of making application himself, or whose whereabouts are unknown, or when such person is deceased, for the purpose of bringing the matter before the Board the application may be made (except where compliance with the provisions of the law with respect to time limitations for filing an application may require otherwise) by such person as the Board shall determine to be competent and suitable and to have a proper interest therein, including but not limited to a spouse, a parent, or relative. Such proof of suitability and proper interest shall be submitted as may be required by the Board.

(2) Time limit for filing application. The claimant, his heirs at law, or legal representatives, must file a request for correction of a record with the Secretary of the Army prior to October 25, 1961, or within 3 years of discovery of the alleged error or injustice, whichever be the later. The failure to file such request within the time prescribed may be excused by the Board on its finding that it is in the interest of justice to do so.

(3) Exhaustion of other remedies. No application will be considered until the applicant has exhausted all effective administrative remedies afforded him by existing law or regulations, and such legal remedies as the Board shall determine are practical and appropriately available to the applicant.

(4) Other proceedings not stayed. The application to the Board for correction of a record shall not operate as a stay of any proceedings being taken with respect to the person involved.

(5) Denial of application. It shall be adequate ground for denial of any application that a sufficient basis for review has not been established or that effective relief cannot be granted.

(d) Entitlement to hearing—(1) General. When an application has been found to be within the jurisdiction of the Board and sufficient evidence has been presented indicating probable error or injustice, the applicant will be entitled to a hearing before the Board either in person or by counsel of his own selection or in person with counsel.

(2) Notice. (i) In each case in which a hearing is authorized, the Board will transmit to the applicant and counsel, if any, a written notice stating the time and place of hearing. The notice will be mailed to the applicant and counsel, if any, at least 30 days prior to the date of hearing, except that an earlier date may be set where the applicant waives his right to such notice in writing.

(ii) Upon receipt of notice of hearing, the applicant will notify the Board in writing at least 15 days prior to the date set for hearing as to whether he will be present at the hearing and will indicate to the Board the name of counsel, if represented by counsel, and the names of such witnesses as he may intend to call in his behalf. Cases in which the applicant notifies the Board that he does not desire to be present at the hearing, will be considered in accordance with paragraph (e) (2) (ii) of this section.

(3) Counsel. As used in this section, the term "counsel" will be construed to include members in good standing of the Federal Bar or the Bar of any State, accredited representatives of veterans organizations recognized by the Veterans' Administration under section 200 of the act of June 29, 1936 (40 Stat. 2031; 38 U. S. C. 101), and such other persons who, in the opinion of the Board, are considered to be competent to present equitably and comprehensively the request of the applicant for correction, unless barred by law.

(4) Witnesses. The applicant will be permitted to present witnesses in his behalf at hearings before the Board. It will be the responsibility of the applicant to notify his witnesses and to arrange for their appearance at the time and place set for hearing.

(5) Access to records. (i) The applicant shall have access to such official records as are deemed necessary to an adequate presentation of his case. It will be the responsibility of the applicant to procure such evidence not contained in the official records of the Department of the Army as he desires to present in support of his case.

(ii) Classified or privileged matter shall not be disclosed or made available without express finding of the Chairman that such disclosure is required in the case and is not detrimental to the public interest. Such disclosure must be in accordance with law and departmental regulations concerning the security of classified material. When appropriate the applicant may be supplied only with a summary or extract of classified matter.

(e) Hearing—(1) Convening of Board. The Board will be convened at the call of the Chairman and will recess or adjourn at his order.

(2) Conduct of hearing. (i) The hearing shall be conducted by the Chairman, and shall be subject to his rulings so as to insure a full and fair hearing. The Board shall not be limited by legal rules of evidence but shall maintain reasonable bounds of competency, relevancy, and materiality.

(ii) If the applicant, after being duly notified, has indicated to the Board that he does not desire to be present or to be represented by counsel at the hearing, the Board will consider the case on the basis of all the material before it, including, but not limited to, the application for correction filed by the applicant, any documentary evidence filed in support of such application, any brief submitted by or in behalf of the applicant, and all available pertinent records.

(iii) If the applicant, after being duly notified, has indicated to the Board that he will be present or be represented by counsel at the hearing, and without good cause and timely notice to the Board, he or his representative fails to appear at the time and place set for the hearing, the Board may consider the case in accordance with the provisions of subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph, or will make such other disposition of the case as is indicated under the circumstances.

(iv) All testimony before the Board shall be given under oath or affirmation. The proceedings of the Board and the testimony given before it will be recorded verbatim.

(3) Continuance. The Board may continue a hearing on its own motion. A request for continuance by or in behalf of the applicant may be granted by the Board if a continuance appears necessary to insure a full and fair hearing.

(f) Action on application—(1) Action by the Board—(i) Deliberations, findings, decisions, and recommendations. (a) Only members of the Board and its staff shall be present during the deliberations of the Board.

(b) Whenever, during the course of its review of the case, it appears to the Board's satisfaction that the facts have not been fully and fairly disclosed by the records or by the testimony and other evidence before the Board, the Board may require the applicant to obtain, or the Board may obtain, such further information as it may consider essential to a complete and impartial determination of the facts and issues.

(c) Following a hearing, the Board will make written findings, decisions, and recommendations. A majority vote of the members present on any matter before the Board will constitute the action of the Board and shall be so recorded.

(d) Where the Board deems it necessary to submit comments or recommendations to the Secretary of the Army as to matters arising from but not directly related to the issues of any case, such comments and recommendations shall be the subject of separate communication.

(ii) Minority report. In case of a disagreement between members of the Board a minority report may be submitted, either as to the findings, decision, or the recommendations or to all, including the reasons therefor.

(iii) Records of proceedings. When the Board has completed its proceedings, a record thereof shall be prepared. Such record shall indicate whether or not a quorum was present at the hearing and at the Board's deliberations. The record shall include the application for relief, a transcript of any testimony, affidavits, papers, and documents considered by the Board, briefs and written arguments filed in the case, the findings, decision and recommendations of the Board and all other papers, documents, and reports necessary to reflect a true and complete history of the proceedings. The record so prepared will be certified by the Chairman or his designee as being true and complete.

(iv) Withdrawal. The Board may permit an applicant to withdraw his application without prejudice at any time before its proceedings are forwarded to the Secretary of the Army.

(2) Action by Secretary of the Army. The record of proceedings of the Board will be forwarded to the Secretary of the Army who will direct such action in each case as he determines to be appropriate, which may include the return of the record to the Board for further consideration when deemed necessary.

(3) Staff action. (i) Upon final action by the Secretary of the Army the complete record in each case will be returned to the Board. The Board will transmit the decision of the Secretary of the Army to The Adjutant General for appropriate action.

(ii) Upon receipt of the record of proceedings after final action by the Secretary of the Army, the Board will communicate the decision to the applicant and counsel, if any.

(iii) When all necessary administrative action has been completed the applicant will be informed of such action by The Adjutant General.

(iv) Written notice specifying the action taken and the date thereof will be transmitted to the Chairman of the Board.

(v) The record of the decision of the Secretary of the Army will not be filed in the military records of the subject of the application where the effect of such action would be to nullify the relief granted.

(vi) The applicant shall not be entitled to copies of the record of proceedings, but such record shall be made available for his inspection except where, in the discretion of the Chairman, it is detrimental to the public interest.

(4) Reconsideration. After final adjudication further hearing before the Board will be granted only upon presentation by the applicant of newly discovered relevant evidence not previously considered by the Board and then only upon recommendation of the Board and approval by the Secretary of the Army.

(g) Settlement of claims—(1) Authority. (i) The Department of the Army is authorized to settle and pay claims for amounts paid as fines or forfeitures or for losses of pay (including retired or retirement pay), allowances, compensation, emoluments, or other monetary benefits as the case may be which are found to be due, under applicable provisions of law, on account of military service, and as the result of action heretofore or hereafter taken under section 207 of the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1946, as amended, except as provided in subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph.

(ii) The Department of the Army is not authorized to pay any claim heretofore compensated by Congress through enactment of a private law, or to pay any amount as compensation for any benefit to which the claimant might subsequently become entitled under the laws and regulations administered by the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs.

(2) Application for settlement. (i) Settlement and payment of claims shall be made only upon a claim of the person whose record has been corrected or of his legal representative, his heirs at law, or his beneficiaries. Such claim for settlement and payment may be filed as a separate part of the application for correction of the record.

(ii) In case the person whose record has been corrected is deceased, and where no demand is presented by a duly appointed legal representative of the estate, payments otherwise due shall be made to the decedent's widow, widower, legal heirs, or beneficiaries, in the order of precedence or succession as may be prescribed by the applicable provisions of law relating to the kind of payment involved and when not otherwise so provided, in the order of precedence as set forth in the act of February 25, 1946 (60 Stat. 30; 10 U. S. C. 868), or as may be prescribed by the applicable provisions of law relating to the kind of payment involved.

(iii) Upon request, the applicant or applicants shall be required to furnish requisite information to determine their status as proper parties to the claim for purposes of payment under applicable provisions of law.

(3) Settlement. (i) Settlement of claims shall be upon the basis of the decision and recommendations of the Board, as approved by the Secretary of the Army. Computation of the amounts due shall be made by the appropriate Finance Office. In no case will the amount found due exceed the amount which would otherwise have been paid or have become due under applicable laws had no error or injustice occurred. To the extent authorized by law and regulations, amounts found due may be reduced by the amount of any existing indebtedness to the Government arising from military service.

(ii) Prior to or at the time of payment, the person or persons to whom payments are to be made shall be advised by the appropriate Finance Officer as to the nature and amount of the various benefits represented by the total settlement, and shall be advised further that acceptance of such settlement shall constitute a complete release by the claimants involved of any claim against the United States on account of the correction of the record.

(4) Report of settlement. (i) In every case where payment is made, the amount of such payment and the names of the payee or payees, shall be reported to the Chairman of the Board.

(ii) The Chairman of the Board shall make a semiannual report to the Secretary of the Army of all claims paid during the period covered by the report, including a statement of the amount paid, the names of the payee or payees and a brief description of the claim in each case.

(h) Miscellaneous—(1) Staff assistance. (i) At the request of the Board, The Adjutant General will assemble the original or certified copies of all available military records pertinent to the relief requested. Such records and all supporting papers will be transmitted to the Board.

(ii) The Board is authorized to call upon the Office of the Secretary of the Army, and the Department of the Army General and Special Staffs for investigative and advisory services and upon any other Department of the Army agency for assistance within the specialized jurisdiction of that agency.

(2) Expenses. No expenses of any nature whatsoever voluntarily incurred by the applicant, his counsel, his witnesses, or by any other person in his behalf will be paid by the Government.

(3) Changes in procedures. The Board may initiate recommendations for such changes in procedures as established herein as may be considered necessary for the proper functioning of the Board. Such changes will be subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Army and of the Secretary of Defense.

TITLE 32A—NATIONAL DEFENSE, APPENDIX

Chapter I—Office of Defense Mobilization

[Defense Manpower Policy 10]

USE OF DOMESTIC AND FOREIGN MIGRATORY AGRICULTURAL WORKERS

Preface. This policy has been recommended by the interagency Manpower Policy Committee and by the national Labor-Management Manpower Policy Committee of the Office of Defense Mobilization. It is issued for information and guidance to labor and management concerned with defense production; and assigns to Government agencies the responsibility for providing assistance and leadership in the fields of action required of them.

I. Purpose. Food and fiber production is a basic part of the defense production program. Increasing quantities are needed for continued maintenance of a strong domestic economy, a constantly increasing population, the armed forces, and for export to countries of the free world. Production at levels adequate to meet those requirements is essential to the national health, safety, and interest.

The purpose of this statement is to focus attention on the immediate policy and program actions which should be taken under existing legislation to help make available sufficient migratory workers required to meet agricultural production goals; to enlist on a local, State, and national basis the support and assistance of employers, workers, and public and private agencies in the development and execution of these programs; and to set forth the policies of the Federal Government and the responsibilities of Government agencies concerned with agricultural manpower programs. The scope of the paper does not include many long-range problems involving migratory farm workers, the solution of which will require additional study and action.

II. Policy statement. It is the policy of the Federal Government to take action through appropriate governmental agencies and to encourage the taking of actions by employers, workers, community groups, and appropriate local and State agencies which will aid in achieving the following objectives, limited in scope to existing legislation:

A. To meet, insofar as possible, seasonal farm labor requirements by the fullest possible employment and utilization of local labor.

B. Provide the greatest possible continuity of employment and income from productive employment for migratory workers and workers available from areas of underemployment and areas of seasonal unemployment to meet the labor requirements that cannot be met through full utilization of the local labor supply.

C. Encourage the use of agricultural workers from territorial possessions of the United States to the extent practical and necessary, in preference to bringing in supplementary workers from foreign sources.

D. Attract domestic workers by the improvement of employment and living conditions of seasonal agricultural workers and thus minimize the necessity for the employment of foreign workers.

E. Develop greater cooperation among employers, workers, and other private groups and appropriate public agencies in recruiting and making full use of seasonal agricultural workers.

F. When labor is not available from local and other domestic sources, bring in only the minimum number of supplementary foreign workers necessary to meet seasonal agricultural labor requirements for employment under conditions and in numbers which will not adversely affect wages and working conditions of domestic agricultural workers. Such foreign labor temporarily employed in the United States should be employed, as at present, with the consent of both their Government and ours.

III. Recommendations. Employers, workers, community groups, and public and private agencies have an important responsibility to assist in meeting these objectives in the following manner:

A. Assist in meeting seasonal agricultural labor requirements through full use of the public employment offices and other organizations. Employers should provide accurate information on production and minimum labor requirements as far in advance of the season as possible and continue to work with the public employment office by participating in recruitment and utilization programs. Workers should cooperate by registering their qualifications and indicating their availability for employment as early as possible in advance of the season.

B. Continue to take action to improve employment conditions and to provide the greatest possible continuity of employment and income from productive employment.

C. Continue to expand and improve reception, supervision, and on-the-job training of seasonal farm workers.

D. Continue to cooperate through the exchange of workers and equipment between employers and between communities.

E. Continue to increase production efficiency through improved farm practices such as improved seed, machinery, chemicals, management, and land use.

F. Continue to improve educational, housing, transportation, recreational and health facilities available for migratory and out-of-area workers.

G. Cooperate to insure that only foreign workers who have entered the United States legally are employed.

H. Cooperate to improve employer-worker relations on the farm.

I. Cooperate in seeing that proper standards of operation are observed by labor contractors.

J. Assist in attaining integration of migratory workers into the community and encourage their participation in the community life.

IV. Assignment of responsibility. In order that the desired objectives can be achieved in accordance with the above-stated policy, the following assignments of responsibility are made to the specified departments and agencies of the Government:

A. The Department of Labor shall:

1. Encourage and assist State employment security agencies to determine more accurately seasonal labor requirements through detailed analysis of all pertinent data.

2. Encourage and assist State employment security agencies to determine more accurately seasonal domestic labor supplies through extensive information and recruitment programs.

3. Encourage and assist agricultural employers to specify minimum numbers and job qualifications of workers needed.

4. Encourage State employment security agencies to provide migrant workers with adequate information concerning living and working conditions at the time of recruitment.

5. Improve and expand information on labor market demand and supply for both workers and employers.

6. Expand the use of effective methods for recruiting workers not normally in the agricultural labor market such as day-haul programs, exchange of workers, and through special arrangements, employment of youth, part-time workers, and others.

7. Encourage expansion of recruitment programs for workers from underemployed areas to make possible longer and more continuous employment.

8. Continue to cooperate with the Department of Agriculture in studies of under-employment and seasonal unemployment to provide more factual data for the purpose of directing available workers to areas of labor demand.

9. Exercise leadership in cooperation with the Department of State under existing legislative authority in making arrangements for obtaining the minimum number of foreign workers necessary to meet shortages in the domestic agricultural labor supply in accordance with standards provided by law and international agreements.

10. Continue to provide information on prevailing wage determination in connection with Public Law 78, 82d Congress, certification of need for foreign workers by area, numbers of foreign workers employed, and terms and working conditions provided by law and international agreements.

11. Continue to improve procedures under Public Law 78, 82d Congress, for determining need for Mexican National agricultural workers and for insuring that the employment of Mexican National agricultural workers does not adversely affect the wages and working conditions of domestic agricultural workers similarly employed.

12. Insure that Mexican National agricultural workers are not employed below the appropriate prevailing wage rate through determination of pre-season and prevailing agricultural wage rates as required under Public Law 78 by collecting and analyzing wage information and by other appropriate methods such as public hearings.

13. Develop, in cooperation with Labor-Management Manpower Committees, a program for more effective consultation with labor, management, and other interested groups at the local, state, regional, and national level on problems of recruitment and utilization of agricultural labor.

14. Promote public understanding of and compliance with the child-labor provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act with respect to agricultural employment.

15. Cooperate with appropriate state and federal agencies, and other organizations with respect to the provision for necessary educational opportunity for migrant farm workers and their children.

16. Develop and make available information concerning the problems involved in the inter-state transportation of agricultural workers. Cooperate with appropriate state agencies in developing suggested minimum requirements with respect to provision of adequate and safe transportation of agricultural workers.

17. Develop and make available information concerning the problems arising out of the methods of operation of labor contractors in the recruitment and employment of agricultural workers. Cooperate with appropriate State agencies in developing suggested minimum requirements for labor contractors.

18. Encourage employers, workers, private industries, local and State agencies in the development of suitable rest stops which will provide migrant agricultural workers with adequate stop-over and over-night accommodations.

19. Cooperate with State committees on migratory labor and other State and local interested groups in the development of State and community programs to improve conditions for migrants.

20. Collect information on State experience in adapting and applying labor laws to agricultural workers and make available such information.

B. The Department of Agriculture shall:

1. Continue to provide information on production plans, programs and progress, on current and prospective levels of agricultural employment, on trends in farm population and potential labor supply and on labor utilization and farm wages to manpower agencies for use in the effective guidance and recruitment of migratory workers.

2. Encourage and provide assistance to attain maximum productivity of the seasonal farm work force through better use of land, improved cultural and animal husbandry practices, fuller use of chemicals and fertilizers, use of improved seed, expanded use of labor-saving machinery and methods and provision of credit for production and housing.

3. Render leadership and assistance to employers, employer groups and agencies to improve working and living conditions for migrant workers including management, supervision, work methods, housing and continuity of employment, and in the planning and conducting of on-the-job training programs for seasonal workers.

4. Conduct in cooperation with the Department of Labor studies of underemployment, and seasonal unemployment to provide more factual information on living and working conditions for use in guiding workers to areas of labor demand.

C. The Federal Security Agency shall:

1. Assist appropriate State and private agencies to understand the problems of migratory farm workers with respect to their need for educational, health, recreational and emergency services.

D. The Department of Justice shall:

1. After consultation with and concurrence by the Department of State concerning the sources from which foreign workers shall be admitted for temporary employment in this country, grant permission to and assist employers for whom certification has been made by the Secretary of Labor and who are otherwise eligible under immigration laws, to bring in foreign workers for employment in agriculture and insure their departure on completion of their term of legal stay in the United States.

2. Continue to apprehend and deport illegal entrants. Report such action in respect to agricultural workers to the Secretary of Labor.

E. The Housing and Home Finance Agency shall:

1. Continue to make housing under its control available to migratory agricultural workers to the maximum extent permitted by present law.

V. This policy shall take effect on November 29, 1952.

SR 3—APPROVAL OF CERTAIN AUTOMOTIVE AND FARM TRACTOR REPAIR SERVICE FLAT RATE MANUALS

APPROVAL OF ADDITIONAL FLAT RATE MANUALS AND LABOR SCHEDULES

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this Amendment 12 to Supplementary Regulation 3 (16 F. R. 8828) to Ceiling Price Regulation 34, is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment adds various flat rate manuals and labor schedules and supplements thereof to the list of approved flat rate manuals and labor schedules in section 2 of Supplementary Regulation 3 to Ceiling Price Regulation 34.

The Statement of Considerations which accompanied Supplementary Regulation 3 to Ceiling Price Regulation 34, and Amendment 1 to that regulation are equally applicable to this amendment and are incorporated herein by this reference.

The character of the approval granted by this amendment made it impracticable and unnecessary to consult formally with representatives of the industry and trade associations although in each instance representatives of the publishers of the manuals were consulted and consideration was given to their recommendations. In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization the provisions of this amendment are generally fair and equitable and are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Supplementary Regulation 3 to Ceiling Price Regulation 34 is amended in the following respects:

1. Section 2 is amended by adding after paragraph (uu), paragraph (vv) and (ww) as follows:

(vv) Lincoln-Mercury 1953 Supplement to 1952 suggested Labor Time Schedule.

(ww) Willys Flat Rate Manual 1949–52.

2. Appendices VV and WW are added after Appendix UU as follows:

APPENDIX VV

This is the Notice for the Lincoln-Mercury 1953 Supplement.

NOTICE

You are permitted by OPS to use this Supplement to arrive at your ceiling price for a given job:

If—

(1) You use the Labor Conversion Table at the front of the 1952 Manual to compute the ceiling price for each job by multiplying the time allowance of each operation by your customers' hourly rate, which you charged in the base period, December 19, 1950, to January 25, 1951, inclusive; and

(2) Your present ceiling price for that job, as determined under section 5 of Ceiling Price Regulation 34, is not a "fixed charge" which is lower than the price you determined by the use of this Manual (a fixed charge is a charge not computed on the basis of the hourly rate. Examples: Minor tune-up, all Blank Models, $____, Relining brakes on 1951 Blank Cars, $____); and

(3) Where you did not use a previous edition of this Manual for the job during the base period, the supplementary statement which you file shows that such job is included among those jobs for which you will hereafter determine your ceiling price by the use of this Manual. (You must file with your District OPS Office in accordance with section 18 of Ceiling Price Regulation 34 a statement of your intention to use all or any part of this Manual for determining your ceiling price of any of your jobs for which you did not use an earlier edition of this Manual during the base period, December 19, 1950, to January 25, 1951, inclusive.)

(4) The notice which you post in your place of business, within ten days after you begin to use this Manual, states that such job is included among the jobs for which you will hereafter determine your ceiling price by the use of this Manual.

Important. In case you are in doubt about your ceiling prices, consult your OPS District Office.

This notice must be attached to your Manual.

APPENDIX WW

This is the Notice for the Willys Flat Rate Manual, 1949–52.

CPR 34—SERVICES

SR 22—SERVICE CHARGES FOR BANKS

MODIFICATIONS OF APPROVAL REQUIREMENTS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this Amendment 2 to Supplementary Regulation 22 to Ceiling Price Regulation 34 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment to Supplementary Regulation 22 to Ceiling Price Regulation 34 permits certain changes in banking practices to be instituted prior to written approval from OPS in those cases where the applicant is not required to submit special financial data to OPS.

Previously, section 3 to Supplementary Regulation 22 of Ceiling Price Regulation 34, required OPS to approve, in writing, all applications thereunder, for permission to change from one method of computing earnings credit on depositors' checking accounts to another method. Information available to the OPS indicates that there is no significant difference in the amount of earnings credit under any of the methods described in section 3. Therefore, there is no requirement under that section that applications contain special financial data. Accordingly, since there is no financial data to be analyzed by OPS there is no need to continue the requirement that written authority must be given by OPS before the bank can change its method of computing earnings credit on depositors checking accounts.

Similarly, under section 8 (b) of Supplementary Regulation 22 to Ceiling Price Regulation 34, any bank that did not have a branch office during the base period is authorized to institute in new branch offices, the schedule of ceiling prices at the principal bank for the same service to the same class of purchaser. This section is available to any bank that did not have branch offices during the base period and the application is in effect merely a reporting of ceiling prices. Accordingly, section 8 (c) is amended to permit new branch banks to institute the schedule of service charges of their principal bank ten days after filing an application therefor without written approval from OPS.

Provision is not made for such automatic approval of section 8 (a) since that section is made available only to banks that had branch offices with uniform prices during the base period. It is therefore necessary for this office to consider the application with respect to determining if all the branch banks did, in fact, have uniform prices during the base period.

In the formulation of this amendment there has been consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, to the extent practicable, and consideration has been given to their recommendations.

Supplementary Regulation 22 to Ceiling Price Regulation 34, as amended, is amended in the following respects:

1. Section 3 is amended by striking out the last two sentences and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "You may not change your method of computing earnings credit on depositors' checking accounts under this section until your application therefor has been approved by OPS, but your application shall be considered approved 10 days after mailing the application or in the event any additional information is requested by OPS, ten days after mailing such additional information, unless within that time OPS notifies you that your application has been disapproved. Nothing in this section shall be construed to authorize any bank to lower the rate it allows to its depositors with respect to credit on depositors' checking account, and in your application you must certify that your bank will not lower its rate of credit on depositor's checking accounts."

2. Section 8 (c) is amended to read as follows:

(c) If you are applying for permission to establish ceiling prices for your services under paragraph (a) or (b) of this section your application must contain a list of the addresses of the principal bank and all branch offices together with a schedule of the ceiling prices for services in effect at the principal office on the date of your application and if you have ever been authorized to adjust your service charges by the Office of Price Stabilization, you must adequately identify the order under which you were authorized to make such adjustment. You may not supply the service for which you are requesting a ceiling price under paragraph (a) of this section until you are advised in writing of OPS approval, which will be given only where granting such approval is consistent with the purpose of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended. You may not supply the services for which you are requesting ceiling prices under paragraph (b) until your application therefor has been approved by OPS, but your application under section 8 (b) shall be considered approved 10 days after mailing the application or in the event any additional information is requested by OPS, ten days after mailing such additional information unless within that time OPS notifies you that your application has been disapproved.

Effective date. This amendment to Supplementary Regulation 22 to Ceiling Price Regulation 34, as amended, shall become effective December 3, 1952.

CPR 54—ALUMINUM SCRAP AND SECONDARY ALUMINUM INGOT

CEILING PRICE OF SECONDARY ALUMINUM INGOT

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this amendment to Ceiling Price Regulation 54, Revision 1 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment to Ceiling Price Regulation 54, Revision 1 changes the ceiling prices for secondary aluminum ingot from a delivered basis to a shipping point basis with an allowance for transportation charges.

The ceiling prices for secondary aluminum ingot under CPR 54 were set forth on a delivered basis. Most shipments of secondary aluminum ingot occur in large quantities that travel comparatively short distances. In such cases, the cost of transportation per pound of ingot is not large and in view of the margin between the ceiling prices for aluminum scrap and secondary aluminum ingot can be absorbed by the seller. In view of the past increases in transportation costs, the cost of transporting small quantities large distances often is 2 to 3 cents per pound and in these shipments sufficient margin does not exist for the seller to obtain a profit. This amendment maintains the same ceiling prices for secondary aluminum ingot as in the original regulation but sets forth these prices on a shipping point basis with an allowance for transportation costs up to 75 cents per 100 pounds, instead of on a delivered basis. If the cost of transporting the ingot to the buyer's receiving point is in excess of 75 cents per 100 pounds, the buyer may charge for the transportation costs incurred in excess of 75 cents per 100 pounds. This allowance is the amount which was used in determining the ceiling delivered prices set forth in this regulation as originally issued.

This amendment is not expected to have any appreciable effect on the prices of secondary aluminum ingot.

In formulating this amendment, the Director of Price Stabilization has consulted with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, to the extent practicable, and has given consideration to their recommendations.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

The first paragraph of section 6 (a), (1) of Ceiling Price Regulation 54, Revision 1, is amended to read as follows:

(1) The ceiling price for each kind of secondary aluminum ingot listed in Table F, when sold by any person other than the United States Government, is that applicable price set forth in that table. These prices include an allowance for the cost of transportation up to 75 cents per 100 pounds. If secondary aluminum ingot is transported from the point of shipment to the buyer's receiving point by a public (common or contract) carrier, the actual transportation costs in excess of 75 cents per 100 pounds may be charged to and paid by the buyer. If secondary aluminum ingot is transported from the point of shipment to the buyer's receiving point in a vehicle owned or controlled by the buyer, an allowance equal to the lowest published motor common carrier charge for transporting such ingot, up to 75 cents per 100 pounds, shall be made from the ceiling price listed in Table F. If secondary aluminum ingot is transported from the point of shipment to the buyer's receiving point in a vehicle owned or controlled by the seller, and if the lowest published motor common carrier charge exceeds 75 cents per 100 pounds, the seller may make a transportation charge equal to the amount by which such motor common carrier charge exceeds 75 cents per 100 pounds.

Effective date. This amendment to Ceiling Price Regulation 54, Revision 1, shall become effective December 3, 1952.

CPR 67—RESELLERS' CEILING PRICES FOR MACHINERY AND RELATED MANUFACTURED GOODS

INT. 1—CARRY-OVER PRICES BY DISTRIBUTORS (SECTIONS 14 (A) AND 17 (Q))

Certain manufacturers under Ceiling Price Regulation 30, and certain distributors who are resellers under Ceiling Price Regulation 67, have "carry-over" or refinancing agreements with the dealers to whom they sell which permit the dealer to refinance if payment is not made by an agreed maturity date. These agreements usually provide that if a "carry-over," or refinancing after delivery to the dealer is necessary, the seller's price in effect at the time of the refinancing will be the price ultimately paid by the dealer. The question has been raised as to whether or not a dealer who purchases from such a seller and subsequently refinances may be charged the new ceiling price in effect at the time of the "carry-over" of refinancing if this new ceiling price exceeds the ceiling price in effect at the time of delivery.

Section 46 of Ceiling Price Regulation 30 prohibits the sale of any commodity subject to that regulation in excess of the ceiling price established thereunder. The term "sell" is defined to include delivery. To the same effect, only more explicitly with respect to the use of the term "delivery," CPR 67 in addition to defining the term "sell," to include delivery, provides (section 14 (a)) that "No person shall sell or deliver • • • at a price higher than the ceiling price established by this regulation." The General Ceiling Price Regulation which, prior to CPRs 30 and 67, established ceiling prices for both the manufacturers and distributors, and which still cover those manufacturers who have elected not to use CPR 30, contains a similar definition of the term "sell," to include delivery. Accordingly, a "carry-over" or refinancing provision in any agreement between sellers under CPR 30 or CPR 67 and their dealers, permitting a subsequent revision of prices to an amount in excess of the ceiling price in effect at the time of the sale (which term, as indicated, includes delivery) to the dealer, is prohibited.

In addition, section 38 of CPR 30 provides that a commodity subject to the regulation may not be delivered at a price to be adjusted upward in accordance with any increase in a ceiling price after delivery. This serves explicitly to prohibit sellers under that regulation from engaging in the practice described.

CPR 98—RESELLERS OF IRON AND STEEL PRODUCTS

STAINLESS STEEL STRIP

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this Amendment to Ceiling Price Regulation 98 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment to Ceiling Price Regulation (CPR) 98 extends to stainless steel strip the pricing technique provided for stainless sheets sold by warehouse resellers.

Stainless strip was originally omitted from the coverage of CPR 98 because only a limited number of warehouses carry stainless strip as a stock item and because the tonnage handled by them is not substantial. As a result the resale of stainless steel strip has remained under the coverage of Supplementary Regulation (SR) 29 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation (GCPR).

The resulting different pricing system of stainless sheets and strip was not disturbing until recently because the application of SR 29 to the GCPR to stainless strip yielded ceiling prices substantially similar to those which would have resulted from the application of the pricing technique provided by CPR 98 for stainless sheets. However, this situation changed by the issuance of Amendments 3 and 6 to CPR 98. These amendments permit warehouse resellers to increase their ceiling prices after the suppliers increased their prices on the basis of a regulation issued by OPS, irrespective of the inventories which the warehouse resellers may have on hand. On the other hand, Amendments 11 and 13 to SR 29 to the GCPR permit comparable ceiling price increases only after the reseller's inventory purchased at the previous lower prices is exhausted. In view of the fact that stainless steel strip is closely related to stainless steel sheet and may be slit from sheets for many uses, the elimination of their different treatment price-wise is justified and necessary to re-establish the historical warehouse pricing practices.

So far as practicable, the Director has given due consideration to the national effort to achieve maximum production in furtherance of the objectives of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, and to relevant factors of general applicability.

In formulating this amendment, the Director consulted with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, to the extent practicable and has given full consideration to their recommendations.

Every effort has been made to conform this amendment to existing business practices or means or aids to distribution. Insofar as any provisions of this regulation may operate to compel changes in the business practices, or means or aids to distribution, such provisions are found by the Director of Price Stabilization to be necessary to prevent circumvention or evasion of the regulation and to effectuate the purposes of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Ceiling Price Regulation 98 is amended as follows:

1. Section 13 (a) is amended by modifying the first line in Table C from "stainless sheets" to read:

Stainless sheets and strip.

2. Section 13 (b) is amended by modifying its title from "stainless steel sheets, bars, angles, and plates" to read:

Stainless steel sheets and strip, bars, angles, and plates.

[Ceiling Price Regulation 110, Amdt. 3]

CPR 110—MANUFACTURERS OF COPPER WIRE MILL PRODUCTS

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this Amendment to Ceiling Price Regulation 110 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment to Ceiling Price Regulation 110 makes several miscellaneous changes to remove ambiguities in the regulation and to provide a method of in line pricing for products which differ only slightly from other products which have been covered specifically in this regulation.

Ceiling Price Regulation 110 is intended to cover the sale of copper wire mill products by the manufacturer of the copper wire mill product involved. It is not intended that a person, even though he is a manufacturer of some copper wire mill products, who buys a copper wire mill product from its manufacturer and resells this product without performing any operations on it, have his sale price for the copper wire mill product covered by this regulation. Resellers of these products are covered by CPR 67. This amendment clarifies the coverage of this regulation to indicate clearly that the regulation covers sales of copper wire mill products by the manufacturer of the product and not by any person who happens to sell a copper wire mill product.

In establishing the ceiling price for special wiring harnesses and assemblies, this regulation requires the manufacturer to base the ceiling price on several factors. One of these factors is the ceiling price under the regulation for the wire used in the manufacture of these special wiring harnesses and assemblies. Since a manufacturer of copper wire mill products may have different ceiling prices for this wire depending on the class of purchaser to whom he sells, there may be doubt as to which of his ceiling prices for wire he should use. This amendment indicates that he must use the ceiling price for the sales of his wire to manufacturers rather than to any other class of purchaser in computing the ceiling price of special wiring harnesses and assemblies.

This regulation sets forth certain formulas and prices for listed copper wire mill products. Products that are not listed are priced on the basis of the individual manufacturer's selling price in effect on January 25, 1951. Some of these unlisted products differ only slightly from the listed products, and have historically been priced by applying a dollars and cents differential or formula to the price of the similar listed product. This amendment permits this historical practice to be continued by providing that those products that differ only in gauge, stranding construction, type or thickness of insulation, or covering from a listed product, and which were priced by applying a differential or formula to the listed product, may continue to be priced according to historical practice.

In the establishment of a ceiling price for unlisted products, this amendment makes a slight change with respect to copper wire mill products purchased from another manufacturer and used in the manufacture of another wire mill product. Whereas previously, the ceiling price of such a product depended on the manufacturer's price during the base period December 19, 1950, to January 25, 1951, inclusive, this amendment permits a manufacturer to adjust this ceiling price, to reflect the increased cost under this regulation of a copper wire product used in the manufacture of his product over its cost during the base period.

In computing the ceiling price for rolling and drawing services, a price of 24½ cents per pound is used for copper. This price is intended to be 24½ cents per pound, Connecticut Valley basis with the customary differentials being used for the price of copper in other parts of the country. This amendment clarifies that intention by adding the words "Connecticut Valley basis"—after the price of 24½ cents per pound. A definition of the word manufacturer as used in this regulation is also added by this amendment to clarify the coverage of this regulation and to persons to whom it applies.

In the formulation of this amendment there has been consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, to the extent practicable, and consideration has been given to their recommendations.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Ceiling Price Regulation 110 is amended in the following respects:

1. Section 1 (c) is amended to read as follows:

(c) Persons and transactions covered. (1) This regulation applies to all sales, including export sales and sales for export, of copper wire mill products by the manufacturer, to sales or transfers of reels, spools, and other containers furnished in connection with such products by the manufacturer thereof, and to all sales of the services covered by this regulation by the manufacturer of copper wire mill products.

(2) This regulation also applies, insofar as his purchases are concerned, to any person who in the regular course of trade or business buys the products and services covered by this regulation from the manufacturer.

2. Section 2 (a) (5) is amended to read as follows:

(5) You must allow, in addition to class of purchaser discounts provided for in the price books, any other class of purchaser discounts which you had in effect on January 25, 1951. You may charge, in addition to adders provided for in the price books, any adders which you had in effect on January 25, 1951.

3. Section 2 (f) (1) is amended to read as follows:

(1) Ascertain the ceiling price established by this regulation for sales to manufacturers, of wire if any, manufactured by you and used in the product you are pricing.

4. Section 2 (g) (1) is amended to read as follows:

(1) Ascertain the ceiling price established by this regulation for sales to manufacturers, of wire if any, manufactured by you and used in the product you are pricing.

5. Section 3 (b) is amended to read as follows:

(b) Ceiling prices. (1) If the product you are pricing differs from a product covered in section 2 in gauge, stranding, construction, type or thickness of insulation, or covering, and if you had in effect on January 25, 1951, a dollars and cents differential or formula which you applied to the price of such product to compute the price of the product you are pricing, then you may apply the same differential or formula to such product covered by section 2, to compute the ceiling price of the product you are pricing.

(2) If you cannot determine your ceiling price in accordance with subparagraph (1), you must determine your ceiling price by selecting the first of the following prices which applies to the product you are pricing.

(i) The highest price for the sale of the same product to a purchaser of the same class set forth in a published price list which you had in effect during the base period;

(ii) The highest price you charged for a delivery of the same products to a purchaser of the same class during the base period;

(iii) The highest price at which you offered in writing to deliver the product to a purchaser of the same class during the base period.

(3) If the ceiling price of the product you are pricing is determined under subparagraph (2) above, and you use a copper wire mill product purchased from another manufacturer in the manufacture of your finished product, and if the ceiling price of the purchased wire mill product under this regulation is in excess of your cost of this purchased product from your regular supplier as of January 25, 1951, you may increase the ceiling price of the product you are pricing as determined under subparagraph (2) above by adding the actual dollar and cents increased cost of the product which you are purchasing over its cost from your regular supplier on January 25, 1951 in proportion to the amount actually used in your finished product. "Your regular supplier" is the person from whom you purchased the largest quantity of the product in question during the year 1950.

6. Section 5 (a) (2) (i) is amended to read as follows:

(i) For copper bars, a price of 24½ cents per pound, Connecticut Valley basis.

7. Section 16 (p) is added to read as follows:

(p) "Manufacturer" means any person engaged in one or more operations in the fabrication, processing or assembling of any product covered by this regulation.

(Sec. 704, 64 Stat. 816, as amended; 50 U. S. C. App. Sup. 2154)

CPR 160—CEILING PRICES FOR USED STEEL DRUMS SOLD IN ALASKA AND FOR THE SERVICE OF RECONDITIONING

EXEMPTION OF CERTAIN USED STEEL DRUMS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this Amendment 1 to Ceiling Price Regulation 160 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

Ceiling Price Regulation 160 established dollar and cent ceiling prices at all levels of distribution for certain used steel drums sold in the Territory of Alaska. Although the Alaskan regulation was patterned after Ceiling Price Regulation 36, the mainland regulation, certain exemptions for ICC–5 and ICC–5B drums were made in that regulation which were not incorporated into CPR 160. It has been determined that the inclusion of these types of drums in the coverage of CPR 160 has created certain inequities and distorted the customary price pattern.

This amendment corrects these inequities by revising sections 1 and 9 of CPR 160 to exclude ICC–5 and ICC–5B drums from the coverage of that regulation. The ceiling prices for these drums will be the ceiling prices established under the General Ceiling Price Regulation.

ICC–5 and ICC–5B type drums do not generally enter commercial trade channels, but are used by oil companies in their own transportation service or for certain deliveries of products on a returnable barrel basis. They are also used extensively by the military.

The initial cost of these drums at Richmond, California, before the recent steel increases was $9.95 per drum for ICC–5 galvanized and $7.10 per drum for ICC–5 ungalvanized and painted, as compared with $5.12 for other types. Industry should, therefore, receive a higher price for these types of drums than that provided in CPR 160.

In the formulation of this amendment, consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, was impracticable.

In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization, the revisions provided in this amendment are fair and equitable and are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

1. Section 1 of Ceiling Price Regulation 160 is amended to read as follows:

SECTION 1. What this regulation does. This regulation establishes ceiling prices at all levels of distribution for (a) empty raw and reconditioned used steel drums, and (b) the service of reconditioning raw steel drums covered by this regulation. The term "drum" when used in this regulation means any single-walled cylindrical or bilged steel shipping package, liquid tight, having a welded side seam, with a capacity of 40 to 58 gallons inclusive, constructed of steel sheets of 16–20 U. S. Standard gauge, inclusive, except 55-gallon drums fabricated of 16 gauge steel, numbered as ICC–5 or ICC–5B drums. This regulation supersedes Ceiling Price Regulation 9 and the General Ceiling Price Regulation for all such sales.

2. Paragraph (b) of Section 9 of Ceiling Price Regulation 160 is amended to read as follows:

(b) "Drum" as used in this regulation is defined in section 1.

Effective date. This Amendment 1 to Ceiling Price Regulation 160 is effective November 28, 1952.

REVISION OF CEILING PRICES

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this amendment to Supplementary Regulation 95, Revision 1 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment increases processors' ceiling prices of linseed meal and other flaxseed feed products at all producing points by $4.00 a ton. Under Supplementary Regulation (SR) 95, Revision 1, to the General Ceiling Price Regulation (GCPR) a ceiling price of $78.00 a ton, bulk, was established for linseed meal produced at Minneapolis, the principal producing center. Higher ceiling prices, reflecting normal differentials, were provided for other producing points. This amendment raises the ceiling price of linseed meal produced at Minneapolis to $82.00 a ton, bulk. Present differentials provided for other points of production are maintained.

This upward adjustment in ceiling prices of flaxseed feed products is the result of a reappraisal of price relationships of linseed meal to competing feeds, changes in market conditions, and a study of new data which have become available since the time that the $78.00 ceiling was established. The Director has kept under continuing study the various factors which affect the demand for and the price of linseed meal and other flaxseed feed products. Account has been taken of the prospective supply of linseed meal in the current season relative to supplies of other feeds. As new and more complete information as to the size of this year's crops have become available, it has been possible to develop more reliable estimates of the relative supply position of linseed meal in the general feed picture. Consideration has also been given to the demand pattern for linseed meal compared to that of other feeds. Because of special properties which make linseed meal desirable for winter feeding, there is a normal tendency for demand to strengthen during the winter months. This is reflected in linseed meal prices, which normally are at a higher level during these months. The Director has, in addition, examined current processing margins as affected by changes in raw material costs and returns from sales of end products. Moreover, normal price relationships of linseed meal to competing feeds have been evaluated in the light of additional data now available on crop production and prospective feed supplies.

In the formulation of this amendment, there has been consultation with industry representatives, to the extent practicable, and consideration has been given to their recommendations. Special circumstances have rendered consultation with trade association representatives impracticable.

In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization, the provisions of this amendment are generally fair and equitable, are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, and comply with all the applicable standards of that Act.

GCPR, SR 100—ADJUSTMENTS FOR IRON AND STEEL PRODUCTS

STEEL S. O. 1—ADJUSTABLE PRICING ORDER FOR STEEL MILL PRODUCTS

INCREASES IN CEILING PRICES FOR STEEL MILL PRODUCTS DELIVERED AFTER THE STEEL STRIKE, BUT PURCHASED, FABRICATED AND READY FOR DELIVERY PRIOR TO THE STRIKE

The question has been asked whether a steel mill may charge the price increases permitted under Supplementary Regulation 100, Revision 1, to the General Ceiling Price Regulation, for steel mill products which were purchased, fabricated and ready for delivery prior to the commencement of the steel strike (June 2, 1952) and not delivered until after July 26, 1952, the date when the steel strike was terminated.

Steel Special Order 1 was issued on July 30, 1952 and provides, in part: "On and after July 26, 1952 all steel mill producers subject to this order are authorized to deliver their steel mill products which are subject to this order at prices to be adjusted upwards in accordance with such future order or orders which the Director of Price Stabilization may be required to issue by reason of [an] * * * official and mandatory directive of the Acting Director of the Office of Defense Mobilization."

On August 19, 1952 Supplementary Regulation 100, Revision 1, to the General Ceiling Price Regulation was issued. This supplementary regulation set forth the specific amounts by which ceiling prices of steel mill products could be increased, as provided in Steel Special Order 1.

Steel Special Order 1 and SR 100, Revision 1, to GCPR permit an increase in ceiling prices of all steel mill products covered by them and delivered on or after July 26, 1952, even though such products may have been fabricated and ready for delivery prior to the steel strike. The criterion by which it is determined whether such products are subject to the permitted ceiling price increases is that the delivery of the product occurred on or after July 26, 1952. The date of delivery, rather than the date of completion of fabrication of the product or date when it was ready for delivery, was made the criterion in order to expedite the flow of steel products which might otherwise have been held up pending issuance of the regulation granting the increased prices.

No opinion is expressed as to whether or not a particular contract with a steel mill supplier for the sale of steel mill products permits the supplier to increase his prices under the contract to a purchaser with respect to the material in question.

INT. 2—APPLYING ADJUSTMENTS PERMITTED UNDER GCPR, SR 100, REV. 1 (SECTIONS 7 AND 8)

The Office of Price Stabilization has been asked whether steel mill producers of stainless steel products may apply the increase permitted under Supplementary Regulation 100, Revision 1, to the General Ceiling Price Regulation, to the base price, standard quantity extras and boxing, packaging, and packing extras.

Section 7 of SR 100, Rev. 1, to the GCPR provides as follows:

"If you produce any stainless steel mill product, your ceiling price for this product is your ceiling price established by the General Ceiling Price Regulation or a supplementary regulation to the General Ceiling Price Regulation issued on or before April 24, 1952, or an individual letter order issued prior to this regulation plus an amount to be calculated by multiplying your ceiling base price plus extras and deductions established by the General Ceiling Price Regulation or a supplementary regulation to the General Ceiling Price Regulation issued on or before April 24, 1952, or an individual letter order issued prior to this regulation by 4.7 percent."

The term "extras and deductions" is defined in section 8 as meaning additions to or deductions from the base price to make adjustments for variations in the products, such as variations in size or other physical characteristics, chemical analysis, processing, quality or quantity; it does not include any outgoing freight costs or other delivery charges.

In light of the foregoing ceiling price adjustment procedure, the increase for stainless steel products permitted under SR 100, Rev. 1, to the GCPR, should be applied only to the base price, plus the standard quantity extras; that is before boxing, packaging and packing extras are applied, as variations in the latter extras are not variations in the product such as indicated above.

It further appearing, that this proposed amendment is procedural in nature and therefore the notice and procedure provided for in section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act are unnecessary and this order may be made effective immediately; and

It further appearing, that authority for the proposed amendment is contained in section 4 (i) and 303 (r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended;

It is ordered, Effective immediately, that the undesignated second paragraph of § 1.767 (b) be amended to read as follows:

Proof of service as provided in the foregoing shall be made by appropriate certificate describing the service which shall be signed and attached to the original and copies of which shall be attached to all copies filed with the Commission. If service has been made by a delivery of a copy to the attorney, written acknowledgment thereof on the original filed will be considered proof of service; in such case an appropriate notation of such acknowledgement shall be made on all copies filed.

PART 7—STATIONS ON LAND IN THE MARITIME SERVICE

PART 8—STATIONS ON SHIPBOARD IN THE MARITIME SERVICE

FREQUENCIES BELOW 3000 KC, FOR BUSINESS AND OPERATIONAL PURPOSES

In the matter of amendment of §§ 7.365 and 8.362 of the Commission's rules.

1. These proceedings were instituted by a notice of proposed rule making issued by the Commission on May 29, 1952. The rules amendments were proposed in order to make clear that medium frequencies (2738 kc and 2214 kc) in the 2 Mc band would not be available for use by limited coast stations or by ship stations for communications with limited coast stations where the communications desired were primarily over distances for which frequencies above 30 Mc would be suitable. The rationale underlying the proposal was to insure that, in the interest of efficient frequency utilization, frequencies be assigned for uses commensurate with their propagational characteristics.

2. The period during which comments on this proposal could be filed has expired. Numerous comments were received from licensees operating ship and coast stations in the Lake Dallas, Texas and Lake Texoma, Texas, area. These comments protested the proposed rules amendments on the assumption that they would, by reason of the proposed amendments, be deprived of their currently authorized ship-shore use of the frequency 2738 kc. It is apparent that these comments are based on a misunderstanding of the proposed rule amendments.

3. The proposal dealt solely with the conditions under which frequencies in the 2 Mc band would be authorized for use by limited coast stations and by ship stations for communication with such coast stations. Limited coast stations are coast stations not open to public correspondence whose primary purpose is to serve the business and operational needs of ships. Ship and coast stations in the Lake Dallas and Lake Texoma areas presently authorized to use the frequency 2738 kc are classified under the Commission's rules as "public." These proposed rule amendments, therefore, have no application to such coast stations, nor to public ship stations when communicating with them.

4. The use by public coast stations and by ship stations of the frequency 2738 kc is governed by existing rules provisions which were adopted effective July 23, 1951, after proposed rule making which did not elicit any unfavorable comments. These existing rules provisions provide as follows:

• • • each public coast station licensed prior to July 23, 1951, for the use of telephony on the radio channel of which 2738 kc is the authorized carrier frequency may continue to be licensed for use of this radio-channel until expiration of the current term of the particular coast station license which provides such authorization. [Section 7.304 (a)]

• • • each ship station licensed prior to July 23, 1951, for communication, by telephony on the radio-channel of which 2738 kc is the authorized carrier frequency, with one or more public coast stations using telephony on this radio-channel, may continue to be licensed for such operation until expiration of the current term of the particular ship station license which provides such authorization. [Section 8.354 (c)]

The net effect of these existing rules provisions is to preclude public coast and ship stations from securing a renewal of their outstanding licenses so as to obtain continued authority to use the frequency 2738 kc. This effect of the existing rules provisions is, however, independent of the proposed rule amendments which are the subject of this proceeding. The matter of public coast and ship use of 2738 kc will be considered in a forthcoming separate proceeding in connection with the promulgation of a revised over-all plan of assignment for 2 Mc maritime mobile frequencies which is necessitated by certain international agreements to which the United States is a party.

5. Other comments received in this proceeding appeared to be directed primarily to the effect of the proposed rules upon a pending application of the Kansas City Southern Railway Company for authority to construct a limited cost station utilizing the frequency 2738 kc on a swing span bridge at Simmesport, Louisiana. Although the proposed rules would make clear that such communications on the frequency 2738 kc were precluded if they were primarily of a short range nature, communications of this type would be available if frequencies above 30 Mc were utilized. Having in mind the purpose of the proposed rules, it does not appear that the lack of VHF radio equipment on vessels should be considered to be a valid reason for authorizing new radio installations for short range communication on the frequency 2738 kc since it is apparent that such authorizations would encourage perpetuation of such usage.

6. In view of the foregoing it is ordered that, effective December 23, 1952, Parts 7 and 8 of the Commission's rules are amended as set forth below.

Adopted: November 19, 1952.

Released: November 24, 1952.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION,
[SEAL] T. J. SLOWIE,
Secretary.

1. Amend § 7.365 by adding a new paragraph (c) to read as follows:

(c) In no event, however, shall the carrier frequencies 2738 kc and 2214 kc be available for assignment under this section in any instance in which the desired radio communication is primarily over distances for which frequencies above 30 Mc would be suitable.

2. Amend § 8.362 by redesignating paragraph (c) as paragraph (d) and adding a new paragraph (c) to read as follows:

(c) In no event, however, shall the carrier frequencies 2738 kc and 2214 kc be available for assignment under this section in any instance in which the desired radio communication is primarily over distances for which frequencies above 30 Mc would be suitable.

[Docket No. AC-197-A1]

MILK IN LIMA, OHIO, MARKETING AREA

DECISION WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED MARKETING AGREEMENT AND PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO ORDER REGULATING HANDLING

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing the proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was conducted at Lima, Ohio, on June 23 and 24, 1952, pursuant to notice thereof which was issued on June 5, 1952 (17 F. R. 5195).

Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at the hearing and the record thereof, the Assistant Administrator, Production and Marketing Administration, on October 17, 1952, filed with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, his recommended decision in this proceeding. The notice of filing such recommended decision and opportunity to file written exceptions thereto was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on October 24, 1952 (17 F. R. 9627).

The material issues of record were concerned with the following:

(1) Increasing the level of the Class I price premiums, providing a separate classification and lower price for cream utilized for fluid consumption, and substituting a cheese price formula for the butter-cheese formula as one of the three alternative methods of determining the basic formula price;

(2) Enlarging the marketing area to include all of Allen County, Ohio;

(3) Altering the definition of Class I milk to designate specifically the products covered instead of depending upon the requirements of local health authorities;

(4) Providing that other source milk be allocated on a pro rata basis with producer milk under certain conditions;

(5) Determining the producer butterfat differential on the basis of a fixed ratio of the market price for butter; and

(6) Increasing the rate of assessment for marketing services performed by the market administrator.

Findings and conclusions. The following findings and conclusions on the issues decided herein are hereby made upon the basis of the record of the hearing:

(1) Pricing provisions. The Class I price differentials should be increased by an annual average of 20 cents per hundredweight, cream should continue to be priced at the Class I level, and the butter-cheese formula currently included as one of the three alternative methods of determining the basic formula price should be deleted.

Producers proposed that the Class I price in Lima for any given month be set at the higher of two alternatives, one being the Class I price under the Cleveland order less the handler location differential from Lima to Cleveland and the second being the arithmetical average of the Class I prices provided by the Toledo and Dayton-Springfield orders. This proposal was based upon the close competition for milk supplies between Lima and the other three markets. Cleveland shippers are located throughout the same territory as those supplying Lima, and a Cleveland handler maintains a country station in Lima from which some milk is bottled and distributed locally and the greater portion is shipped bulk to Cleveland. The Lima milkshed overlaps with those of Toledo to the north and Dayton-Springfield to the south. Producers considered it necessary that Class I prices under the Lima order be at least equal to Cleveland order prices at all times, and to the average of the competing markets to the north or south whenever such average was higher than the net Cleveland price.

Handlers opposed this method of pricing and proposed instead that increases in the Class I differential averaging 9½ cents annually would be sufficient to restore order prices to competitive levels. They testified that the producer proposal would fail to result in blend prices equal to those in the competing markets even though Class I prices would be the same. Such differences would result from variations in the classification and utilization of milk in the various markets. They also felt that abnormal conditions in any one of the three competitive markets would affect Lima prices even though the abnormal condition might not extend to the Lima supply and distribution territories.

It is apparent that the need for raising the level of Class I prices in Lima originated in price actions taken in the competing markets in the fall of 1951. Effective October 1, 1951, the Dayton-Springfield order was amended to provide for a supply-demand adjustment and, of more immediate effect, for an emergency increase of 35 cents per hundred pounds through February, 1952 to help offset drought conditions. A supply-demand adjustment became effective in Toledo at the same time. It resulted in a 14-cent increase in October and 50-cent increases each month from November through February. These price increases in Toledo and Dayton-Springfield coincided with an aggressive policy on the part of Cleveland handlers to obtain increased supplies of milk for that market. They paid sufficient premiums in the Lima, Toledo, and Dayton-Springfield areas to meet the local competition. The Lima handlers also found it necessary to pay premiums in order to maintain their regular supplies of milk. Although there is considerable intermarket competition for milk, it was not shown at the hearing that marketing conditions in Lima are so subsidiary to those in one or a combination of the competing markets as to require identical pricing. The emergency period in Dayton-Springfield terminated at the end of February and the amount of the supply-demand adjustment has steadily declined as the supply-demand ratio has returned to more normal levels. The supply-demand ratio in Toledo improved somewhat during the summer months, with a corresponding decrease in the amount of the price adjustment.

In the circumstances, maintaining the Class I differential at 85 cents per hundredweight during April, May, and June and increasing them to $1.15 during February, March, and July and to $1.45 during August through January will best serve the needs of this market. During August the highest rate of differential will apply, instead of the intermediate rate, as at present, in order to maintain closer competitive relationships with Cleveland and to encourage producers to increase fall production. The proposed Class I differentials average $1.225 per hundredweight. This is only slightly above the differential for Grade A milk under the Dayton-Springfield order and somewhat below the differentials, inclusive of the supply-demand adjustments which prevailed in Toledo during the year beginning October 1, 1951.

The proposals by handlers and producers that skim milk and butterfat utilized in the form of fluid cream and specified cream products be classified separately and priced at a definite rate per hundredweight below the Class I price were abandoned by both parties at the hearing.

The present butter-cheese formula was designed some years ago to measure the value of milk for all manufacturing purposes rather than the value of milk used for making cheese. Also it reflects a much higher proportion of butter relative to cheese than is currently being produced, and the prices developed by the formula are usually considerably below the other basic formula prices. It should, therefore, be deleted.

A revised formula, designed to measure the value of milk for cheese-making was introduced at the hearing. However, it appears that there has not been opportunity for as full a consideration of the formula as the problem warrants and it should not be adopted at this time.

(2) Marketing area. No change should be made in the marketing area.

Handlers proposed that the present marketing area which includes only the city of Lima be extended to include all of Allen County. They testified that the city and county health authorities were to be combined for the purpose of milk inspection and regulation. The same requirements would be extended throughout the county as are presently in effect for Lima. It was their position that once such uniformity was achieved the pricing and other provisions of the order would be equally applicable throughout Allen County.

At the time of the hearing the proposed consolidation had not been effectuated. However, the hearing examiner specified that official notice could be taken of a Grade A ordinance for the county if as and when such ordinance was passed. The matter was not mentioned in any of the briefs submitted, so apparently no action had been taken by July 12. Since milk of less than Grade A standards can be sold in Allen County outside the city of Lima the pricing provisions of the order are not directly applicable and the proposal must be denied.

(3) Classification. The uses of milk which constitute Class I utilization should be specifically designated in the order.

At present certain uses are specifically designated, but the order also classifies as Class I any skim milk and butterfat disposed of as "any other milk product defined by the Lima, Ohio Board of Health".

Health Department requirements are an important consideration in the production and marketing, and hence in the classification and pricing, of milk but are not the sole determinant. The classification of milk should be established and altered only upon formal consideration of all aspects of the problem.

(4) Allocation of milk. The provisions relating to the allocation of milk from producers and from other sources to the classified utilization of milk by handlers should not be changed.

The order now provides that other source milk be allocated to Class I only after producer milk, exclusive of shrinkage, has been so allocated. One of the handlers proposed that a quantity of other source milk not to exceed 15 percent of the handler's total Class I utilization or the quantity received in bottled form and disposed of as Class I without further processing or packaging be allocated on a pro rata basis with producer milk. This proposal was designed to meet a problem arising from this handler's sales of milk in 2-quart paper containers. The proponent took the position that the proposed amendment was the most satisfactory means of dealing with the problem although certain alternative solutions were advanced.

It was brought out that the proposed allocation would constitute an incentive for all handlers in the market to displace producer milk with milk from other sources up to the specified limit. Since alternatives are available to the proponent without involving the possibility of such far-reaching changes in the market structure, this proposal should be denied.

(5) Producer butterfat differential. The producer butterfat differential should be computed by multiplying the price of 92-score butter at Chicago by 0.13.

The order now provides that the butterfat differential to producers be equal to the weighted average of the handler butterfat differentials on Class I and Class II sales of producer milk. This provision gives each individual producer a pro rata share of the butterfat differentials charged to handlers. However, it should be noted that the entire sales proceeds from the milk sold to handlers is pooled for redistribution for producers. Such redistribution should be related to the supply and demand for the butterfat and skim milk components. In this regard the comparatively high butterfat differential to handlers on Class I milk and the large proportion of Class I sales in this market yield especially high producer butterfat differentials. There has been a steady increase in the average butterfat test of milk received from producers and it is clear that the high butterfat differentials must have contributed substantially to this trend. In addition, the average test of milk received from producers has exceeded the average test of the Class I sales of producer milk in every month since August 1950 and by increasing margins.

It is concluded, therefore, that there is no continued need for such high butterfat differentials to producers as have prevailed heretofore. At the price levels prevailing in 1951 the proposed differentials would have ranged from a low of 8.0 cents in the summer months to a high of 9.4 cents in December as compared with order differentials ranging from 9.4 cents in June to 11.4 cents in December.

(6) Marketing services. To defray the cost of performing marketing services for producers who are not members of a cooperative association determined to be performing such services, the rate of deduction from payments to producers should be increased to 6 cents per hundredweight.

The deduction for marketing services has remained at 4 cents per hundredweight since the inception of the order. This amount has proved insufficient to cover the costs of the necessary services and should be increased. Testimony based on experience under other Federal orders showed that comparatively low rates were charged for those services performed on a contract basis in Lima.

Reissuance of order, as amended. The entire order should be recodified in accordance with Revised Regulations of the Division of the Federal Register issued October 12, 1948.

General findings. (a) The proposed marketing agreement and the order as hereby proposed to be amended and all of the terms and conditions thereof will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(b) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply of and demand for milk in the marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreement and the order as hereby proposed to be amended are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(c) The proposed order as hereby proposed to be amended will regulate the handling of milk in the same manner as, and will be applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Rulings. Within the period reserved for filing exceptions to the recommended decision, exceptions were submitted on behalf of interested parties. These exceptions have been fully considered and to the extent to which the findings and conclusions of this decision are at variance with the exceptions, such exceptions are hereby overruled.

Determination of representative period. The month of September 1952 is hereby determined to be the representative period for the purpose of ascertaining whether the issuance of amendments to the order regulating the handling of milk in the Lima, Ohio, marketing area in the manner set forth in the attached amending order is approved or favored by producers who during such period were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing area specified in such marketing order, as hereby amended.

Marketing agreement and order. Annexed hereto and made a part hereof are two documents entitled respectively, "Marketing Agreement Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Lima, Ohio, Marketing Area," and "Order Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Lima, Ohio, Marketing Area," which have been decided upon as the detailed and appropriate means of effectuating the foregoing conclusions. These documents shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and orders have been met.

It is hereby ordered that all of this decision, except the attached marketing agreement, be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The regulatory provisions of said marketing agreement are identical with those contained in the order as hereby proposed to be amended by the attached order which will be published with this decision.

This decision filed at Washington, D. C., this 25th day of November 1952.

Secretary of Agriculture.

§ 995.0 Findings and determinations. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held at Lima, Ohio, on June 23 and 24, 1952, upon certain proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order regulating the handling of milk in the Lima, Ohio, marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(2) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the said marketing area and the minimum prices specified in the order as hereby amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient qauntity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(3) The said order, as hereby amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

(j) Prepare and disseminate, for the benefit of producers, consumers, and handlers, such statistics and information concerning the operation of this subpart as do not reveal confidential information.

REPORTS, RECORDS AND FACILITIES

§ 995.30 Monthly reports of receipts and utilization. On or before the 7th day after the end of each month, each handler, except a producer-handler, shall report to the market administrator, in the detail and on forms prescribed by the market administrator, the following information with respect to all milk received from producers, all milk, skim milk, cream, and milk products received from other handlers, all other source milk received during the month at his fluid milk plant(s) (in the case of a handler not operating a fluid milk plant, all other source milk received), and milk diverted pursuant to §§ 995.8 and 995.82:

(a) The quantities of butterfat and skim milk contained in such receipts, and their sources;

(b) The utilization of such receipts; and

(c) Such other information with respect to such receipts and utilization as the market administrator may prescribe.

§ 995.31 Other reports. Each handler shall report to the market administrator, in the detail and on forms prescribed by the market administrator, as follows, except that each producer-handler shall make reports to the market administrator at such time and in such manner as the market administrator may request: On or before the 22d day after the end of each month his producer payroll for the month, which shall show (a) the pounds of milk and the percentages of butterfat contained therein received from each producer; (b) the amounts and dates of payments to each producer or cooperative association; and (c) the nature and amount of each deduction or charge involved in the payments referred to in paragraph (b) of this section.

§ 995.32 Records and facilities. Each handler shall maintain, and make available to the market administrator during the usual hours of business, such accounts and records of all of his operations and such facilities as, in the opinion of the market administrator, are necessary to verify reports, or to ascertain the correct information with respect to (a) the receipts and utilization of all skim milk and butterfat received, including all milk products received and disposed of in the same form; (b) the weights and tests for butterfat, and for other contents of all milk and milk products handled; and (c) payments to producers and cooperative associations.

§ 995.33 Retention of records. All books and records, required under this subpart to be made available to the market administrator shall be retained by the handler for a period of three years to begin at the end of the month to which such books and records pertain: Provided, That if, within such three-year period, the market administrator notifies a handler in writing that the retention of such books and records or of specified books and records is necessary in connection with a proceeding under section 8c (15) (A) of the act or a court action specified in such notice, the handler shall retain such books and records, or specified books and records, until further written notification from the market administrator. The market administrator shall give further written notification to the handler promptly upon the termination of the litigation or when the records are no longer necessary in connection therewith.

CLASSIFICATION

§ 995.40 Basis of classification. All skim milk and butterfat (in any form) received at a fluid milk plant as (a) producer milk, (b) a transfer from another fluid milk plant, and (c) other source milk, shall be classified in the classes set forth in § 995.41.

§ 995.41 Classes of utilization. Subject to the conditions set forth in §§ 995.42, 995.43, 995.44, and 995.45, the classes of utilization of milk shall be:

(a) Class I milk shall be all skim milk and butterfat disposed of (1) in fluid form (other than as livestock feed) as milk, skim milk, buttermilk, flavored milk, flavored milk drinks, cultured milk products, concentrated milk, and sweet or sour cream, eggnog and any cream product in fluid form having more than 8 percent butterfat; and (2) as all skim milk and butterfat not accounted for as Class II milk.

(b) Class II milk shall be all skim milk and butterfat accounted for as (1) used to produce a product other than those specified in paragraph (a) of this section, (2) having been dumped or disposed of for livestock feeding, (3) actual plant shrinkage of skim milk and butterfat received in producer milk but not to exceed 2 percent of such receipts of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, and (4) actual plant shrinkage of skim milk and butterfat in other source milk received: Provided, That if producer milk is utilized as milk, skim milk, or cream in conjunction with other source milk, the shrinkage allocated to each shall be computed pro rata according to the proportions of the volume of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, received from each such source to their total.

§ 995.42 Interplant transfers. Skim milk and butterfat disposed of in the form of milk, cream, or skim milk by a handler to any milk processing or milk manufacturing plant, including any other fluid milk plant, shall be Class I milk, unless (a) Class II use is indicated in writing to the market administrator by both the transferring handler and the receiver on or before the 7th day after the end of the month within which such disposition was made, and (b) the receiver maintains books and records showing the utilization of all skim milk and butterfat at his plant which are made available if requested by the market administrator for the verification of such reported utilization: Provided, That, in no event shall the amount so reported be greater than the total amount so used by the receiver.

§ 995.43 Responsibility of handlers and reclassification of milk. (a) All skim milk and butterfat shall be classified as Class I milk unless the handler who first received such skim milk or butterfat proves to the market administrator that such skim milk or butterfat should be classified otherwise.

(b) Any skim milk or butterfat classified in one class shall be reclassified if used or reused by such handler or by another handler in another class.

§ 995.44 Computation of skim milk and butterfat in each class. For each month the market administrator shall correct for mathematical and for obvious errors the report submitted by each handler and compute the total pounds of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, in Class I milk and Class II milk for such handler.

§ 995.45 Allocation of butterfat classified. The market administrator shall determine the classification of butterfat in producer milk as follows:

(a) Subtract from the total pounds of butterfat in Class II milk the total pounds of butterfat shrinkage pursuant to § 995.41 (b) (3) and (4).

(b) Subtract from the pounds of butterfat remaining in each class the pounds of butterfat received from other handlers and used in such class.

(c) Subtract from the pounds of butterfat remaining in each class, in sequence beginning with Class II milk, the pounds of butterfat in other source milk other than butterfat shrinkage in other source milk subtracted pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section.

(d) Add to the pounds of butterfat remaining in Class II milk the pounds of butterfat shrinkage in producer milk subtracted pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section; and if the remaining pounds of butterfat in all classes exceed the pounds of butterfat received in producer milk, subtract such excess from the remaining pounds of butterfat in each class, in sequence beginning with Class II milk. The pounds of butterfat remaining shall be the pounds in each class allocated to producer milk.

§ 995.46 Allocation of skim milk classified. Skim milk shall be allocated to each class in accordance with the same procedure as outlined for butterfat in § 995.45.

MINIMUM PRICES

§ 995.50 Basic formula price. The basic formula price per hundredweight of milk to be used in computing the minimum price for Class I milk for the month as provided in this section shall be the highest of the prices determined pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (b), of this section:

(a) The market administrator shall compute (to the nearest tenth of a cent) an average of the basic (or field) prices per hundredweight reported to have been paid, or to be paid, for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content received from farmers during such month at the following plants or places for which prices are reported to the market administrator by the U. S. D. A. or by the companies listed below:

Company and Location
Borden Co., Black Creek, Wis.
Borden Co., Greenville, Wis.
Borden Co., Mount Pleasant, Mich.

Carnation Co., Berlin, Wis.
Carnation Co., Jefferson, Wis.
Carnation Co., Chilton, Wis.
Carnation Co., Oconomowoc, Wis.

Carnation Co., Richland Center, Wis.
Carnation Co., Sparta, Mich.

White House Milk Co., Manitowoc, Wis.
White House Milk Co., West Bend, Wis.

(b) The price per hundredweight computed by the market administrator by adding together the plus amounts calculated pursuant to subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph:

(1) From the simple average of the daily wholesale selling prices (using the midpoint of any price range as one price) of Grade A (92-score) bulk creamery butter per pound at Chicago as reported by the U. S. D. A. during the month, subtract 3 cents, add 20 percent of the resulting amount, and then multiply by 3.5; and

(2) From the simple average of the weighted averages of carlot prices per pound of spray and roller process nonfat dry milk solids in barrels for human consumption f. o. b. manufacturing plants in the Chicago area as published for each month by the U. S. D. A., deduct 5.5 cents, and multiply the result by 8.2.

§ 995.51 Class I milk prices. The minimum prices per hundredweight to be paid by each handler for skim milk and butterfat in producer milk received at his fluid milk plant during the month, which is classified as Class I milk, shall be determined by the market administrator as follows:

(a) To the basic formula price add the following amounts for the months indicated:

April, May, June	$0.85
February, March, July	1.15
All others	1.45

(b) Add together the amounts determined in § 995.50 (c) (1) and (2), divide the sum into the amount determined in § 995.50 (c) (1) and multiply by 100.

(c) Multiply the price determined in paragraph (a) of this section by the percent determined in paragraph (b) of this section and then divide by 0.035. The resulting amount shall be the Class I butterfat price per hundredweight.

(d) From the price determined in paragraph (a) of this section subtract the amount computed in paragraph (c) of this section times 0.035, and divide the remainder by 0.965. The resulting amount shall be the Class I skim milk price per hundredweight.

§ 995.52 Class II milk prices. The minimum prices per hundredweight to be paid by each handler for skim milk and butterfat in producer milk received at his fluid milk plant during the month, which is classified as Class II milk, shall be determined by the market administrator as follows:

(a) The market administrator shall compute (to the nearest tenth of a cent) an average of the basic (or field) prices per hundredweight reported to have been paid, or to be paid, for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content received from farmers during such month at the following plants or places for which prices have been reported to the market administrator by the U. S. D. A. or by the companies listed below:

Company and Location

Defiance Milk Products Co., Defiance, Ohio.
Pet Milk Co., Coldwater, Ohio.
Nestles Milk Products Co., (uninspected milk price), Marysville, Ohio.
Fisher Dairy and Cheese Co., Wapakoneta, Ohio.
Swift and Co., Lima, Ohio.

(b) Multiply the price computed in paragraph (a) of this section by the percentage computed in § 995.51 (b), and then divide by .035. The resulting amount shall be Class II butterfat price per hundredweight.

(c) Subtract from the price computed in paragraph (a) of this section the amount computed in paragraph (b) of this section times 0.035 and divide the remainder by 0.965. The resulting amount shall be the Class II skim milk price per hundredweight.

DETERMINATION OF UNIFORM PRICE

§ 995.60 Value of producer milk. Except as provided in § 995.80 the value of producer milk received by each handler during the month shall be the sum of money computed by the market administrator by multiplying the hundredweight of skim milk and butterfat in each class by the applicable class prices and adding together the resulting amounts, and adding or subtracting, as the case may be, the amount necessary to correct errors in classification for previous months as disclosed by audit of the market administrator: Provided, That, if a handler after the substraction of other source milk and receipts from other handlers, has disposed of skim milk or butterfat which on the basis of his reports for the month, pursuant to § 995.30, has been credited to his producers as having been received from them, there shall be added to the value of his producer milk a further amount computed by multiplying the pounds in each class as subtracted pursuant to § 995.45 (d) and § 995.46 by the applicable class price.

§ 995.61 Computation of uniform price. For each month the market administrator shall compute a uniform price per hundredweight of producer milk by:

(a) Combining into one total the values computed pursuant to §§ 995.60 and 995.80 for all handlers who reported pursuant to § 995.30 for such month, except those in default in payments required pursuant to §§ 995.73 and 995.80 for the preceding month;

(b) Subtracting, if the weighted average butterfat test of all producer milk represented by the amounts included under paragraph (a) of this section is greater than 3.5 percent or adding, if the weighted average butterfat test of such milk is less than 3.5 percent, an amount computed by multiplying the total pounds of butterfat represented by the difference of such weighted average butterfat test from 3.5 percent, by the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 995.75 multiplied by 10;

(c) Adding or subtracting, as the case may be, the amount necessary to correct errors in classification for previous months as disclosed by audit of the market administrator;

(d) Adding an amount representing not less than one-half of the unobligated balance in the producer-settlement fund;

(e) Dividing the result by the total hundredweight of producer milk represented by the amounts computed pursuant to § 995.60; and

(f) Subtracting not less than 4 cents nor more than 5 cents.

§ 995.62 Notification. On or before the 12th day after the end of each month, the market administrator shall mail to each handler, at his last known address, a statement showing for such month:

(a) The amount and value of his producer milk in each class;

(b) The uniform price computed pursuant to § 995.61, and the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 995.75;

(c) The amount to be paid by such handler to the producer-settlement fund pursuant to § 995.73 or § 995.80, or the amount due such handler from the producer-settlement fund pursuant to § 995.74, as the case may be; and

(d) The amounts to be paid by such handler pursuant to §§ 995.76 and 995.77.

PAYMENTS

§ 995.70 Time and method of final payment. On or before the 18th day after the end of each month, each handler shall pay to each producer, or to a cooperative association with respect to milk which was caused to be delivered to him by such association either directly or from producers who have authorized such association to collect payment for them, for milk received from such producer or so delivered by such cooperative association, respectively, during such month not less than the uniform price adjusted by the butterfat differential pursuant to § 995.75, less the amount of payment made pursuant to § 995.71.

§ 995.71 Partial payment. On or before the last day of each month, each handler shall pay to each producer, or to a cooperative association authorized to collect payment, not less than the uniform price for the preceding month for milk received from such producer or caused to be delivered to such handler by such cooperative association during the first 15 days of such month: Provided, That in the event any producer discontinues shipping to such handler during any month, such partial payments shall not be made and full payment for all milk received from such producer during such month shall be made on the 18th day after the end of such month pursuant to § 995.70.

§ 995.72 Producer-settlement fund. The market administrator shall establish and maintain a separate fund known as the "producer-settlement fund" into which he shall deposit all payments made by handlers pursuant to §§ 995.73 and 995.80, and out of which he shall make all payments to handlers pursuant to § 995.74.

§ 995.73 Equalization payments to the producer-settlement fund. On or before the 14th day after the end of each month each handler shall make full payment to the market administrator of any amount by which the total value of his milk for such month is greater than the sum required to be paid by such handler pursuant to §995.70.

§ 995.74 Equalization payments out of the producer-settlement fund. On or before the 16th day after the end of each month, the market administrator shall pay to each handler any amount by which the sum required to be paid by such handler pursuant to § 995.70 is greater than the total value of the milk of such handler for such month, less any unpaid obligations of the handler: Provided, That if the balance in the producer-settlement fund is insufficient to make all payments to such handlers pursuant to this paragraph, the market administrator shall reduce uniformly such payments and shall complete such payments as soon as the necessary funds become available.

§ 995.75 Producer butterfat differential. In making payments pursuant to § 995.70 the uniform price shall be adjusted for each one-tenth of one percent of butterfat content in the milk of each producer above or below 3.5 percent, as the case may be, by a butterfat differential (computed to the nearest tenth of a cent) computed as follows: Multiply by 1.3 the average daily wholesale price per pound of Grade A (92-score) bulk creamery butter per pound at Chicago as reported by the U. S. D. A. during the month, and divide the result by 10.

§ 995.76 Expense of administration. As his pro rata share of expense incurred pursuant to § 995.22 (d), each handler shall pay the market administrator, on or before the 14th day after the end of each month, 3 cents per hundredweight of milk, or such amount not to exceed 3 cents as the Secretary may from time to time prescribe, with respect to receipts during such month, of (a) producer milk (including any milk of such handler's own production), and (b) other source milk classified as Class I milk: Provided, That a handler who receives only other source milk shall make such payments with respect to all skim milk and butterfat disposed of within the marketing area during such month as any item included in Class I milk.

§ 995.77 Marketing services. (a) Except as set forth in paragraph (b) of this section, each handler, in making payments to producers pursuant to § 995.70, with respect to all milk received each month from each producer (except milk of such handler's own production) at a plant not operated by a cooperative association of which such producer is a member, shall deduct 6 cents per hundredweight of milk, or such amount not to exceed 6 cents as the Secretary may from time to time prescribe, and on or before the 18th day after the end of such month shall pay such deductions to the market administrator. Such moneys shall be expended by the market administrator to verify weights, samples, and tests of milk of such producers and to provide such producers with market information, such services to be performed by the market administrator, or by an agent engaged by and responsible to him.

(b) In the case of producers whose milk is received at a plant not operated by a cooperative association of which such producers are members, and for whom a cooperative association is actually performing the services described in paragraph (a) of this section, as determined by the market administrator, each handler shall make, in lieu of the deductions specified in paragraph (a) of this section, such deductions from payments required pursuant to § 995.70 as may be authorized by the membership agreement or contract between such cooperative association and such producers, and shall pay such deductions on or before the 18th day after the end of such month to the cooperative association rendering such services of which such producers are members.

§ 995.78 Errors in payments. Whenever audit by the market administrator of any handler's reports, books, records, or accounts discloses errors resulting in moneys due (a) the market administrator from such handler, or such handler from the market administrator, pursuant to §§ 995.73, 995.74, 995.76, 995.77, or 995.80, or (b) any producer or cooperative association from such handler pursuant to § 995.70 the market administrator shall promptly notify such handler of any such amount due; and payment thereof shall be made on or before the next date for making payment set forth in the provision under which such error occurred, following the 5th day after such notice.

APPLICATION OF PROVISIONS

§ 995.80 Milk subject to special payments. (a) Milk received by a handler the handling of which is subject to the pricing and payment provisions of any other Federal milk marketing order issued pursuant to the act shall not be subject to the pricing and payment provisions of this section, except that for any month for which the Class I milk price determined pursuant to § 995.51 (a) exceeds the corresponding minimum Class I milk price (adjusted by any applicable location differential) provided by such other order, the handler shall pay into the producer-settlement fund on or before the 14th day after the end of each month, with respect to all skim milk and butterfat disposed of within the marketing area during such month as any item included in Class I milk, an amount computed by the market administrator as follows: From the total value of such skim milk and butterfat at the prices determined pursuant to § 995.51 (c) and (d) subtract the total value of such skim milk and butterfat at prices computed by applying the procedures prescribed in § 995.51 (b), (c), and (d) to the highest Class I milk price provided by such other order.

(b) Any handler who receives only other source milk, which milk is not subject to the pricing and payment provisions of any other Federal milk marketing order issued pursuant to the act, shall pay into the producer-settlement fund on or before the 14th day after the end of each month a sum computed by the market administrator by multiplying the hundredweight of all skim milk and butterfat disposed of by such handler within the marketing area as any item included in Class I milk during such month by the respective differences between the prices for skim milk and butterfat in Class I milk and Class II milk for such month.

§ 995.81 Milk caused to be delivered by cooperative associations. Milk referred to as received from producers by a handler shall include milk of producers caused to be delivered directly from the farm to the fluid milk plant of such handler by a cooperative association which is authorized to collect payment for such milk.

§ 995.82 Milk diverted. (a) Producer milk diverted by an operator of a fluid milk plant from such plant to a plant not a fluid milk plant shall be deemed to have been received by the fluid milk plant from which such milk was diverted.

(b) Producer milk diverted by a cooperative association from a fluid milk plant to a plant not a fluid milk plant shall be deemed to have been received by such association.

§ 995.83 Producer-handlers. Sections 995.40 through 995.46, 995.50 through 995.52, 995.60 through 995.62 and 995.70 through 995.78 shall not apply to the milk of a producer-handler.

TERMINATION OF OBLIGATIONS

§ 995.90 Termination of obligations. (a) The obligation of any handler to pay money required to be paid under the terms of this subpart shall, except as provided in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, terminate two years after the last day of the month during which the market administrator receives the handler's report of utilization of the milk involved in such obligation, unless within such two-year period the market administrator notifies the handler in writing that such money is due and payable. Service of such notice shall be complete upon mailing to the handler's last known address, and it shall contain but need not be limited to, the following information:

(1) The amount of the obligation;

(2) The month(s) during which the milk, with respect to which the obligation exists, was received or handled; and

(3) If the obligation is payable to one or more producers or to a cooperative association, the name of such producers or association, or if the obligation is payable to the market administrator, the account for which it is to be paid.

(b) If a handler fails or refuses, with respect to any obligation under this subpart, to make available to the market administrator or his representatives all books or records required by this subpart to be made available, the market administrator may, within the two-year period provided for in paragraph (a) of this section, notify the handler in writing of such failure or refusal. If the market administrator so notifies a handler, the said two-year period with respect to such obligation shall not begin to run until the first day of the month following the month during which such books and records pertaining to such obligation are made available to the market administrator or his representative.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, a handler's obligation under this order to pay money shall not be terminated with respect to any transaction involving fraud or willful concealment of a fact, material to the obligation, on the part of the handler against whom the obligation is sought to be imposed.

(d) Any obligation on the part of the market administrator to pay a handler any money which such handler claims to be due him under the terms of this subpart shall terminate two years after the end of the month during which the milk involved in the claim was received if an underpayment is claimed, or two years after the end of the month during which the payment (including deduction or set-off by the market administrator) was made by the handler if a refund on such payment is claimed, unless such handler, within the applicable period of time, files, pursuant to section 8c (15) (A) of the act, a petition claiming such money.

EFFECTIVE TIME, SUSPENSION OR TERMINATION

§ 995.100 Effective time. The provisions of this subpart, or of any amendment to this subpart, shall become effective at such time as the Secretary may declare and shall continue in force until suspended or terminated.

§ 995.101 When suspended or terminated. Whenever the Secretary finds this subpart or any provision of this subpart obstructs or does not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act, he shall terminate or suspend the operation of this subpart, or any such provision of this subpart.

§ 995.102 Continuing obligations. If, upon the suspension or termination of any or all provisions of this subpart, there are any obligations thereunder the final accrual or ascertainment of which requires further acts by any person (including the market administrator), such further acts shall be performed notwithstanding such suspension or termination.

§ 995.103 Liquidation. Upon the suspension or the provisions of this subpart, except this section, the market administrator, or such other liquidating agent as the Secretary may designate, shall, if so directed by the Secretary, liquidate the business of the market administrator's office, dispose of all property in his possession or control, including accounts receivable, and execute and deliver all assignments or other instruments necessary or appropriate to effectuate any such disposition. If a liquidating agent is so designated all assets, books, and records of the market administrator shall be transferred promptly to such liquidating agent. If, upon such liquidation, the funds on hand exceed the amounts required to pay outstanding obligations of the office of the market administrator and to pay necessary expenses of liquidation and distribution, such excess shall be distributed to contributing handlers and producers in an equitable manner.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

§ 995.110 Agents. The Secretary may by designation in writing, name any officer or employee of the United States to act as his agent or representative in connection with any of the provisions of this subpart.

§ 995.111 Separability of provisions. If any provision of this subpart, or its application to any person or circumstances, is held invalid the application of such provisions, and of the remaining provisions of this subpart, to other persons or circumstances shall not be effected thereby.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

[47 CFR Parts 2, 3]

[Docket No. 9552]

THEATER TELEVISION SERVICE

POSSIBLE LOCATION IN RADIO SPECTRUM

In the matter of allocation of frequencies and promulgation of rules and regulations for a theater television service.

The National Exhibitors Theater Television Committee and the Motion Picture Association of America, Inc., parties who presented portions of their direct cases during the session of the theater television hearing held in October, have, at the request of the Commission, filed a statement relative to the possible location of theater television in the radio spectrum. This statement sets forth the frequencies involved in the two separate proposed allocations which those parties have suggested and also notes that frequencies above 10,700 Mc might be used. In order to give notice of these proposals to all interested persons, the Commission here sets forth these proposals as they appear in the statement filed with the Commission:

The first proposal, in summary form, is as follows:

(a) Allocate the frequencies from 5925 to 6285 Mc for the use of theater television.

(b) Provide a reasonable transition period within which the present occupants of 5925 Mc to 6285 Mc can move to frequencies between 6285 and 6425.

(c) Consideration be given to the possibility of using the frequencies between 3500 to 3700 Mc for the purpose of common carrier fixed operations.

(d) Examination be made as to whether the land mobile services in 6425 to 6575 Mc should be accommodated in common carrier bands and the frequencies between 6425 and 6575 be used for theater television mobile pick-up.

Proposal No. 2 would classify theater television as an industrial radio service on a frequency sharing basis and expand the 6575 to 6875b Mc and downward to include 6425 to 6575 Mc for theater television requirements.

If theater television must share frequencies below 7125 Mc with other services on a non-priority basis, it will be necessary to use frequencies above 10,700 Mc in larger centers of population.

If frequencies are allocated for theater television in bands above 10,700 Mc, they should begin at 10700 Mc and progress upward from that point.

We have not planned to make any further or different allocation proposal.

Further sessions of this hearing will be held beginning January 26, 1953, and, as provided in an order [1] adopted herein today, appearances of all parties or any person who wishes to appear and participate in this proceeding must be filed with the Commission by December 1, 1952.

Adopted: November 12, 1952.

Released: November 14, 1952.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION,
[SEAL] T. J. SLOWIE,
Secretary.

The Commission having under consideration its prior orders in this proceeding and the record herein:

It appearing, that a portion of this hearing was held between October 20 and October 27, 1952, and that the hearing was, on October 27, adjourned until January 12, 1953; and

It further appearing, that this proceeding has been pending for a considerable period of time and that the Commission's records may not accurately reflect the parties who are presently interested in this hearing; and

It further appearing, that the conduct of this proceeding can be expedited if the Commission is informed in advance of the substance of the testimony which will be presented at the next session and if the parties exchange in advance exhibits which it is contemplated will be offered; and

It further appearing, that it would be more convenient to postpone the hearing to a later date in January 1953;

It is ordered, That, regardless of appearances, list of witnesses and statements of testimony which have previously been filed in this proceeding, all persons who desire to appear and submit evidence at the January 1953 session of this hearing, with the exception only of those parties who filed appearances on the record at the October 20, 1952, session, shall file a notice of appearance with the Commission on or before December 1, 1952; and

It is further ordered, That all parties who file such a notice of appearance and also those who filed an appearance on the record on October 20, 1952, shall, on or before December 22, 1952, file with the Commission an original and fourteen copies of a statement setting forth a list of their witnesses who will testify and a summary, not merely an outline or list of subjects, of the testimony which each witness will present, including specific proposals to be made at the hearing pursuant to the specified issues, or if no testimony is to be offered, a statement to the effect that the party will limit its participation to cross-examination; and

It is further ordered, That, on or before December 22, 1952, each party shall file with the Commission 18 copies of each exhibit it plans to offer at the hearing and shall on that date serve copies of such exhibits on other parties to the proceeding in accordance with a list of parties to be published by the Commission; and

It is further ordered, That the hearing herein now scheduled for January 12, 1953, is postponed to January 26, 1953, when it will be held before the Commission en banc at 10 a. m. in Washington, D. C., at a place to be designated by a subsequent notice.

[Docket No. 10345]

TELEVISION AUXILIARY BROADCAST STATIONS

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

In the matter of amendment of Part 4 of the Commission's rules and regulations governing television auxiliary broadcast stations.

1. Notice is hereby given of proposed rule making in the above-entitled matter.

2. The adoption of the Commission's new television rules makes it necessary that we review the portions of the radio frequency spectrum now allocated for use by television auxiliary stations, i. e., television pickup, television STL, and television intercity relay stations, to determine the manner in which such frequencies should now be reapportioned to accommodate the needs of television broadcasting stations. First, § 4.602 of the Commission's rules now provides for the use of television auxiliary frequencies only by stations operating in the VHF television band (Channels 2–13); it does not provide for such use by television broadcast stations operating in the UHF band (Channels 14–83). Second, heretofore § 3.606 assigned a maximum of only seven channels to any single community, while the rules as now amended assign as many as ten channels to certain communities. Accordingly, the frequency bands allocated to the television auxiliary stations must be reapportioned and the available spectrum space "rechanneled" in order to accommodate the changes effected by the television broadcast rules as now amended.

3. The frequency bands allocated for use by television auxiliary broadcast stations and for common carriers when providing such service to broadcasters are 1990–2110 Mc, 6875–7125 Mc, and 12,700–13,200 Mc. The present rules provide for seven channels in the 2000 Mc band, six of which are 17 Mc wide and one of 18 Mc, ten channels in the 7000 Mc band and twenty channels in the 13,000 Mc band all of 25 Mc bandwidths. Seven channels in each of the above bands are available for the use of television broadcasters on an individually exclusive basis. Six channels are available in the 13,000 Mc band for the shared use by broadcasters and common carriers.[1] The remaining three channels in the 7000 Mc band and seven channels in the 13,000 Mc band have not been assigned to television broadcast stations in order that they might be available on a nationwide basis to communication common carriers for television pickup and STL service to broadcasters.

4. It is proposed to rechannel the 2000 Mc band and the 7000 Mc band to provide a total of ten exclusive individual assignments in each band for the use of the television broadcast licensees in any one city. It is also proposed to reserve the remaining 60 megacycles in the 7000 Mc band and 175 megacycles in the 13,000 Mc band for the exclusive use of communications common carriers in order that they may continue to provide television pickup and television STL service to television broadcast stations on a nationwide basis. It is proposed to accomplish this rechanneling by reducing the channel bandwidth to 12 Mc in the 2000 Mc band and to 19 Mc in the 6875–7065 Mc band, thereby leaving 60 Mc in the band 7065–7125 Mc reserved for common carriers. No rechanneling of the band 13,000 Mc is proposed. However, three of the 25 Mc channels now listed in § 4.602 (c), as available on a non-exclusive basis, are proposed to be made available on an exclusive basis to provide a total of ten individually exclusive 25 Mc channels in the band 12,950–13,200 Mc. In addition, it is proposed to provide for the use of ISM bands 2450–2500 Mc and 10,500–10,700 Mc on a shared basis with other television auxiliaries, and with stations in other radio services. Licensees utilizing frequencies in the ISM bands must accept any interference which may result from the incidental radiations of ISM equipment.

5. It is believed that the proposed reduction in channel width may be achieved with minimum effect on existing television auxiliary stations since the normal distribution of such stations and their associated receiving points in a given area plus the discrimination that may be obtained by the use of cross-polarization on adjacent channels will reduce mutual interference. Furthermore, it is not proposed to require that the frequency swing and band width of emissions (other than spurious emissions) be restricted to the assigned channel except where necessary to prevent interference to adjacent channel stations. It is recognized that in a few cases modification of existing equipment may be necessary in order to permit simultaneous adjacent channel operation, but the proposed rules including the frequency apportionment table have been devised so as to result in a minimum dislocation of existing stations.

6. It is proposed to amend § 4.637 (emission authorized) to permit emission band width to exceed the assigned channel width where such operation will not cause interference to adjacent channel stations. In view of the present state of the art with respect to equipment operating in the frequency bands allocated to the television auxiliary broadcast service, the Commission does not consider it desirable to impose greater restrictions on licensees at this time. In those areas where adjacent channel operation is necessary, the licensees of television auxiliary broadcast stations will be required to take such steps as may be necessary to confine their emissions to the assigned channel.

7. The Commission is also proposing to adopt two new sections in the television auxiliary broadcast rules, and to amend two existing rules, in order to meet certain needs not provided when the original rules were adopted. A new § 4.633 is proposed which will provide for the issuances of temporary authorizations for the operation of television pickup equipment for special projects of limited duration. A new § 4.682 is proposed to be added regarding station identification. Section 4.682 (e) is proposed to be amended to provide for the licensing of "stand-by" STL transmitters to be used in the event of failure of the regular STL transmitters. Section 4.651 is proposed to be amended to clarify the rules with respect to changes in equipment, so as to indicate the manner in which such changes may be made.

8. Authority for the issuance of the proposed amendments is vested in the Commission under sections 303 (a), (b), (c), (d), (e), (f), (g), (r), and 4 (i) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

9. Any interested person who is of the opinion that the proposed amendments should not be adopted, or should not be adopted in the form set forth below, may file with the Commission on or before December 19, 1952, written data, views or arguments concerning said proposals. Persons favoring the amendments as proposed may file written data, views, or arguments supporting said proposals by the same date. Replies to such data, views or arguments may be filed on or before January 2, 1953. The Commission will consider all such comments before taking final action in the matter, and if comments are submitted which warrant the holding of oral argument, notice of the time and place of such oral argument will be given.

[1] These frequencies are listed in § 4.602 of the rules.

10. This proceeding does not involve any change in frequency allocations set forth in Part 2 of our rules and heretofore made by the Commission. Accordingly, no data views or arguments will be accepted in this proceeding proposing any such changes in frequency allocations.

11. In accordance with the provisions of § 1.784 of the Commission's rules and regulations, an original and 14 copies of all statements, briefs or comments shall be furnished the Commission.

Adopted: November 12, 1952.

Released: November 17, 1952.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION,
[SEAL] T. J. SLOWIE,
Secretary.

1. Section 4.602 is proposed to be amended as follows:

Delete the present language and substitute therefor the following:

§ 4.602 Frequency assignment. (a) The following frequencies are allocated for assignment to individual television broadcast station licensees for television pickup, television STL, and television intercity relay stations, on an exclusive basis:

Television broadcast channel assignment	Required polarization of radiated electric field	Band A (Mc)	Band B (Mc)	Band C (Mc)
2	Horizontal	1960–2002	6632–6651	12950–12975
3 or 4	Vertical	2002–2014	6651–6670	12975–13000
UHF (1)	Horizontal	2014–2026	6670–6689	13000–13025
5 or 6	Vertical	2026–2038	6689–6708	13025–13050
7 or 8	Horizontal	2038–2050	6708–6727	13050–13075
UHF (2)	Vertical	2050–2062	6727–6746	13075–13100
9 or 10	Horizontal	2062–2074	6746–6765	13100–13125
11 or 12	Vertical	2074–2086	6765–6784	13125–13150
UHF (3)	Horizontal	2086–2098	6784–6913	13150–13175
13	Vertical	2098–2110	6913–6932	13175–13200

The channels designated UHF (1), UHF (2), and UHF (3) will be assigned in the numerical order of the UHF television channel assignments to the particular city. Where there are more than three UHF television channels assigned to a particular city, the fourth UHF television station will be assigned the channels reserved in the table in paragraph (a) of this section for the lowest numbered VHF channel that is not assigned to that city, the fifth UHF television station will be assigned the channel reserved for the next higher numbered VHF channel not assigned to that city; etc.

(b) In cities where there are less than ten television broadcast channel assignments, the television auxiliary channels designated in the table in paragraph (a) of this section for television channels not assigned to such cities shall be available on a shared basis to all television broadcast station licensees in that city for television pickup and television intercity relay purposes. However, such channels will not be assigned for television STL purposes. All such authorizations for these frequencies will be issued subject to the condition that they will be withdrawn upon the later assignment of a television broadcast channel to that community for which the table in paragraph (a) of this section makes the frequencies available on an exclusive basis.

(c) The following additional frequencies may be assigned to television pickup, television STL, and television intercity relay stations on a shared basis:

Band D (Mc)	Band E (Mc)	Band F (Mc) [1]
2450–2463	10500–10525	10800–10825	12875–12900
2463–2475	10525–10550	10825–10850	12900–12925
2475–2487	10550–10575	10850–10875	12925–12950
2487–2500	10575–10600	10875–10700

[1] Shared with communications common carriers providing pickup and STL service to television broadcast station licensees.

The frequencies shown in Band D and Band E above are allocated to accommodate the incidental radiations of industrial, scientific, and medical equipment, and stations operating therein must accept any interference that may be caused by the operation of such devices. Such frequencies are shared with services other than the auxiliary broadcast service, and the channeling shown above is not necessarily that which will be employed by such other services.

(d) The use of frequencies discussed in this part for television intercity relay purposes shall be on a secondary basis, subject to the condition that no harmful interference shall be caused to stations operating in accordance with the Table of Frequency Allocations.

(e) In the event that a television broadcast station licensee engages a communications common carrier to provide a pickup or STL service, the frequencies available to that licensee as prescribed by the table in paragraph (a) of this section may be authorized for use by the communications common carrier for the purpose of providing such service to that licensee.

2. Section 4.632 is proposed to be amended as follows:

Delete the period at the end of § 4.632 (c) and add the following: ": Provided, however, That a license may be issued for an additional STL transmitter for use on a stand-by basis in the event of failure of the regular STL transmitter: And provided further, That the two transmitters may not be operated simultaneously. Such license will specify the same channel and call sign that is authorized for the regular STL station."

3. Add a new § 4.633 as follows:

§ 4.633 Temporary authorizations. (a) Special temporary authority may be granted for the operation, as a television auxiliary broadcast station, of equipment licensed to another television broadcast station, or other class of station, or equipment of suitable design not heretofore licensed. Such authority will normally be granted only for special operation of a temporary nature.

(b) A request for special temporary authority for the operation of a television auxiliary broadcast station may be made by informal application, signed by the applicant under oath or affirmation, and shall be filed with the Commission at least 10 days prior to the date of the proposed operation: Provided, That an application filed within less than 10 days of the proposed operation may be accepted upon a satisfactory showing of the reasons for the delay in submitting the request.

(c) An application for special temporary authority shall set forth full particulars of the purpose for which the request is made, and shall show the type of equipment, power output, emission, and frequency or frequencies proposed to be used, as well as the time, date and location of the proposed operation. In the event that the proposed antenna installation will increase the height of any natural formation, or existing man-made structure, by more than 20 feet, a vertical plan sketch showing the height of the structure proposed to be erected, the height above ground of any existing structure, the elevation of the site above mean sea level, and the geographic coordinates of the proposed site, shall be submitted with the application.

(d) A request for special temporary authority shall specify a channel or channels consistent with the provisions of Section 4.602 of this part: Provided, That in the case of events of widespread interest and importance which cannot be transmitted successfully on these frequencies, frequencies assigned to other services may be requested upon a showing that operation thereon will not cause interference to established stations: And, provided further, That in no case will a television auxiliary broadcast operation be authorized on frequencies employed for the safety of life and property.

4. Section 4.637 is amended as follows:

§ 4.637 Emission and bandwidth. (a) Television auxiliary broadcast stations operating on frequencies above 1500 Mc may be authorized to employ any type of emission suitable for the transmission of the visual and accompanying aural signals. The bandwidth of such emissions shall not be in excess of that necessary to provide satisfactory service: Provided, That such emissions shall be limited to the assigned channel where necessary to avoid interference to other stations operating on adjacent channels.

(b) Television auxiliary broadcast stations operating on frequencies below 1500 Mc may be authorized to employ either frequency modulation or amplitude modulation, or both, depending upon the equipment employed. The emissions of such stations shall be confined to the assigned channel.

5. Section 4.651 is amended as follows:

Delete the present language of this Section and substitute therefor the following:

§ 4.651 Equipment changes. (a) Commission authority upon appropriate formal application (FCC Form 313) therefor is required for any of the following equipment changes:

(1) A change of the transmitter as a whole (except replacement with an identical transmitter), or a change in the power output.

(2) A change of frequency assignment.

(3) A change in the location of a television STL or television intercity relay station (except relocation of the equipment within the same building) or a change in the area of operation of a television pickup station.

(4) Any change in the antenna system of a television STL or television intercity relay station which will result in a change of more than 20 feet in the height above ground of the antenna and supporting structure, or that will result in a change of the direction of the main radiation lobe.

Other equipment changes not specifically referred to in subparagraphs (1), (2), (3) and (4) of this paragraph may be made at the discretion of the licensee provided that the Engineer-in-Charge of the radio district in which the station is located, and the Commission at its Washington office, are notified in writing upon the completion of such changes, and provided that the changes are appropriately reflected in the next application for renewal of license of the television auxiliary broadcast station filed by the licensee.

6. Add a new § 4.682 as follows:

§ 4.682 Station identification. (a) Each television auxiliary broadcast station shall identify itself by transmitting its call sign at the beginning and end of each period of operation; and during operation, shall identify itself on the hour by transmitting its own call sign or the call sign of the television broadcast station with which it is associated.

(b) Identification transmissions during operation need not be made when to make such transmissions would interrupt a single consecutive speech, play, religious service, symphony concert, or any type of production. In such cases, the identification transmission shall be made at the first interruption of the entertainment continuity and at the conclusion thereof.

(c) Where more than one television auxiliary broadcast station is employed in an integrated relay system, the station at the point of origination may originate the transmission of the call signs of all the stations in the relay system.

(d) The transmission of the call sign shall normally employ the type of emission for which the station is authorized i. e., a visual transmitter shall employ visual identification and an aural transmitter shall employ aural identification. However, the Commission may at its discretion specify that other suitable identifying signals be transmitted.

CONSTRUCTION, MARKING, AND LIGHTING OF ANTENNA TOWERS AND SUPPORTING STRUCTURES

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

In the matter of amendment of Subpart C of Part 17 of the Commission's rules concerning the construction, marking, and lighting of antenna towers and supporting structures.

1. Part 17 of the Commission's rules specifies the manner in which antenna structures 500 feet and under in height shall be painted and lighted. For antenna structures above 500 feet in height the Commission's rules require that such structures shall be painted and lighted in accordance with specifications to be determined by the Commission after aeronautical study.

2. Having in mind a probable substantial increase in the number of antenna structures above 500 feet in height the Commission is of the opinion that the public interest would be served if general standards for painting and lighting such structures above 500 feet in height were adopted and made a part of the Commission's rules.

3. For antenna structures below 500 feet in height, the proposed standards would remove minor differences between present Part 17 and the obstruction marking criteria of other civil and military agencies and with recently developed international standards and would provide prospective applicants with a guide in connection with the painting and lighting of antenna structures.

4. Accordingly, under the authority of sections 4 (i), 303 (f), (q), and (r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the Commission proposes to amend Subpart C of Part 17 of its rules as set forth below for the purpose of specifying the manner in which antenna structures shall be painted and lighted, and notice is hereby given of rule making proceedings in the above-described matter.

5. Any interested person who desires to express views in this matter may file with the Commission on or before December 15, 1952, a written statement setting forth his comments. Within fifteen (15) days from the last day for filing of the original comments, comments in reply thereto may be filed. The Commission will consider such comments before taking action in this matter. If any comments appear to warrant the holding of an oral argument, notice of the time and place therefor will be given. An original and fourteen (14) copies of all statements shall be furnished.

Adopted: November 12, 1952.

Released: November 13, 1952.

SUBPART C—SPECIFICATIONS FOR OBSTRUCTION MARKING AND LIGHTING OF ANTENNA STRUCTURES

§ 17.21 Painting and lighting, when required. Antenna structures shall be painted and lighted when:

(a) They require special aeronautical study; or

(b) They exceed 170 feet in height above the ground.

(c) The Commission may modify the above requirement for painting and/or lighting of antenna structures, when it is shown by the applicant that the absence of such marking would not impair the safety of air navigation, or that a lesser marking requirement would insure the safety thereof.

§ 17.22 Particular specifications to be used. (a) Where special aeronautical study is not required, the Commission will assign painting and lighting specifications as set forth hereafter.

(b) Where special aeronautical study is required, the Commission will, insofar as is consistent with the safety of life and property in the air, also assign painting and lighting specifications listed hereafter.

(c) However, where antenna installations are of such a nature that their painting and lighting in accordance with these specifications are confusing or endanger rather than assist airmen, the Commission will specify the type of painting and lighting to be used in the individual situation.

§ 17.23 Specifications for the painting of antenna structures as required by § 17.21. Antenna structures shall be painted throughout their height with alternate bands of aviation surface orange and white, terminating with aviation surface orange bands at both top and bottom. The width of the bands shall be approximately one-seventh the height of the structure, provided however, that the bands shall not be more than 40 feet nor less than 1½ feet in width.

§ 17.24 Specifications for the lighting of antenna structures up to and including 150 feet in height. (a) Antenna structures up to and including 150 feet in height above the ground located in areas set forth in § 17.15 shall be lighted as follows:

(1) There shall be installed at the top of the tower at least two 100- or 111-watt lamps (#100 A21/TS or #111 A21/TS, respectively) enclosed in aviation red obstruction light globes. The two lights shall burn simultaneously and shall be positioned so as to insure unobstructed visibility of at least one of the lights from aircraft at any angle of approach.

§ 17.25 Specifications for the lighting of antenna structures over 150 feet up to and including 300 feet in height. (a) Antenna structures over 150 feet up to and including 300 feet in height above the ground shall be lighted as follows:

(1) There shall be installed at the top of the structure one 300 m/m electric code beacon equipped with two 500- or 620-watt lamps (PS–40, Code Beacon type), both lamps to burn simultaneously, and equipped with aviation red color filters. (2) Shall provide and properly maintain an automatic alarm system designed to detect any failure of such lights and to provide indication of such failure to the licensee.

(b) Shall report immediately by telephone or telegraph to the nearest Airways Communication Station or office of Civil Aeronautics Administration any observed or otherwise known failure of a code or rotating beacon light or top light not corrected within thirty minutes, regardless of the cause of such failure. Further notification by telephone or telegraph shall be given immediately upon resumption of the required illumination.

(c) Shall inspect at intervals not to exceed 3 months all automatic or mechanical control devices, indicators and alarm systems associated with the tower lighting to insure that such apparatus is functioning properly.

§ 17.39 Recording of tower light inspections in the station record. The licensee of any radio station which has an antenna structure requiring illumination shall make the following entries in the station record of the inspections required by § 17.29.

(a) The time the tower lights are turned on and off each day if manually controlled;

(b) The time the daily check of proper operation of the tower lights was made, if automatic alarm system is not provided;

(c) In the event of any observed or otherwise known failure of a tower light:

(1) Nature of such failure.

(2) Date and time the failure was observed, or otherwise noted.

(3) Date, time and nature of the adjustments, repairs, or replacements were made.

(4) Identification of Airways Communication Station (Civil Aeronautics Administration) notified of the failure of any code or rotating beacon light or top light not corrected within 30 minutes, and the date and time such notice was given.

(5) Date and time notice was given to the Airways Communication Station (Civil Aeronautics Administration) that the required illumination was resumed.

(d) Upon completion of the periodic inspection required at least once each three months:

(1) The date of the inspection and the condition of all tower lights and associated tower lighting control devices, indicators and alarm systems.

(2) Any adjustments, replacements, or repairs made to insure compliance with the lighting requirements and the date such adjustments, replacements, or repairs were made.

§ 17.40 Cleaning and repainting. All towers shall be cleaned or repainted as often as necessary to maintain good visibility.

§ 17.41 Time when lights shall be exhibited. All lighting shall be exhibited from sunset to sunrise unless otherwise specified.

§ 17.42 Spare lamps. A sufficient supply of spare lamps shall be maintained for immediate replacement purposes at all times.

HESTER FIELD, ST. JAMES PARISH, LOUISIANA

CRUDE PETROLEUM CEILING PRICES ADJUSTED ON AN IN-LINE BASIS

Statement of considerations. This special order adjusts the ceiling price for the sale of crude petroleum produced from the Hester Field, St. James Parish, Louisiana.

The Office of Price Stabilization has been requested to eliminate the differentials heretofore imposed upon crude petroleum produced from the Hester Field, St. James Parish, Louisiana. This condensate is produced in conjunction with natural gas and during the base period there was a lack of competitive factors due to the fact that production was curtailed by a lack of gas outlets. As a result, the crude condensate produced from the Hester Field, St. James Parish, Louisiana, was sold at a lower price than that paid for crude condensate of comparable quality produced in this same general area. It appears that this condition has now been eliminated and these differentials should no longer be imposed.

From the information available to this Office, it appears that the requested ceiling price of $2.85 per barrel flat does not exceed the ceiling price of comparable crude condensate produced in this same area.

Special provisions. For the reasons set forth in the Statement of Considerations and pursuant to the provisions of section 3 of Supplementary Regulation 2 to Ceiling Price Regulation 32, It is ordered:

1. That the ceiling price at the lease receiving tank for crude condensate produced from the Hester Field, St. James Parish, Louisiana shall be: $2.85 per barrel flat.

2. All provisions of Ceiling Price Regulation 32, except as inconsistent with the provisions of this order, shall remain in full force and effect as to the commodities covered by this order.

3. This order may be amended, modified or revoked by the Director of Price Stabilization at any time.

Effective date. This special order shall become effective on November 22, 1952.

CERTAIN FIELDS IN TEXAS

CRUDE PETROLEUM CEILING PRICES ADJUSTED ON AN IN-LINE BASIS

Statement of considerations. This special order adjusts the ceiling price for the purchase of crude petroleum produced from the Sublime, Frelsburg, Glasscock, Columbus, and Chesterville Fields, Colorado County, Texas; West Bernard and Lissie Fields, Wharton County, Texas; and the Halletsville Field, Lavaca County, Texas.

The Office of Price Stabilization has been requested to eliminate the differentials heretofore imposed upon crude petroleum produced from the Sublime, Frelsburg, Glasscock, Columbus, and Chesterville Fields, Colorado County, Texas; West Bernard and Lissie Fields, Wharton County, Texas; and the Halletsville Field, Lavaca County, Texas. During the base period there was a lack of competitive factors and adequate low cost pipe line transportation had not been installed and, as a result this crude condensate was sold at a lower price than that paid for crude condensate of comparable quality produced in this same general area. It appears that this condition has now been eliminated and these differentials should no longer be imposed.

From the information available to this Office, it appears that this requested ceiling price of $2.85 per barrel for 40° API gravity and above with a 2-cent differential less for each degree of gravity below 40° does not exceed the ceiling price of comparable crude petroleum produced in this same area.

Special provisions. For the reasons set forth in the Statement of Considerations and pursuant to the provisions of section 3 of Supplementary Regulation 2 to Ceiling Price Regulation 32, It is ordered:

1. That the ceiling price at the lease receiving tank for crude condensate produced from the Sublime, Frelsburg, Glasscock, Columbus and Chesterville Fields, Colorado County, Texas; West Bernard and Lissie Fields, Wharton County, Texas; and the Halletsville Field, Lavaca County, Texas, shall be: $2.85 per barrel for 40° API gravity and above with a 2-cent differential less for each degree of gravity below 40°.

[Administration Letter 291 (451)]

PART 361—ROUTINE

SUBPART B—SERVICING FARM OWNERSHIP AND FARM HOUSING LOANS

PAYMENTS ON LOAN ACCOUNTS

1. Section 361.22 (d) (1), Title 6, Code of Federal Regulations (16 F. R. 12539) is amended to delete reference to Form FHA–528, "Annual Income Return." This form is no longer used to record the accumulated amounts matured on direct and insured Farm Ownership loans. Section 361.22 (d) (1), as amended, will read as follows:

§ 361.22 Definitions. • • •

(d) Maturity status—(1) Direct and insured Farm Ownership loans. A borrower with a direct or insured Farm Ownership loan will be current when his cumulative regular payments through the last preceding March 31 are equal to the accumulated amounts matured. Such a borrower will be prepaid or delinquent, respectively, when such regular payments are greater or less than such accumulated amounts matured.

(Sec. 41 (1) 60 Stat. 1066; 7 U. S. C. 1015 (i))

2. Section 361.24 (a) (1) and (2) (i), Title 6, Code of Federal Regulations (16 F. R. 12540) is amended to delete reference to Form FHA–528 and to provide for notification to the borrower by memorandum as to whether the borrower's income for the year was "normal or above normal" or "below normal" and the required payment on his account for the year. Section 361.24 (a) (1) and (2) (i), as amended, will read as follows:

§ 361.24 Payment plans—(a) Farm Ownership loans. • • •

(1) Payment Plan I. Payment Plan I applies to each borrower with a direct Farm Ownership loan whose loan was approved prior to November 1, 1946, and who signed Form FSA-LE 228, "Variable Payment Agreement," or Form FSA–550, "Promissory Note (Variable Payment Plan)" if he has not transferred to Payment Plan II. Payment Plan I applies also to a transferee who assumed the obligation of a variable payment transferor whose loan was approved prior to November 1, 1946, unless the transferor or transferee has signed Form FHA–165, "Variable-Payment Agreement." Under Payment Plan I, the amount to be matured each year will be determined by the County Supervisor from an analysis of the year's farm operations and on the basis of the borrower's ability to pay. The County Supervisor will notify the borrower by memorandum of the amount of the payment on his account to be made for the year.

(2) Payment Plan II. • • •

(i) On the basis of an analysis of the year's farm operations, the County Supervisor will determine each year following the borrower's first full crop year on the farm whether the borrower's income for the year was "normal or above-normal" or "below-normal," unless deferred payments have been authorized. If deferred payments have been authorized, the first such determination will be made for the year for which the first full annual installment is scheduled on the promissory note. The County Supervisor will notify the borrower by memorandum of such determination and of the minimum required payment on his account for the year. Such minimum required payment will never exceed the amount of one annual installment on the note plus other charges for the year.

(Sec. 41 (1), 60 Stat. 1066; 7 U. S. C. 1015 (1). Interprets or applies sec. 48, 60 Stat. 1070, sec. 48, 50 Stat. 531; 7 U. S. C. 1022)

PART 372—SECURITY SERVICING AND LIQUIDATIONS; FARM OWNERSHIP LOANS

SUBPART E—MANAGEMENT AND DISPOSITION OF ACQUIRED FARMS

Subpart E of Part 372, Title 6, Code of Federal Regulations (14 F. R. 5703, 15 F.R. 651, 16 F. R. 5411) is revised to read as follows:

Sec
372.81 General.
372.82 Delegation of authority.
372.83 State Office routine subsequent to acquisition of farms.
372.84 Miscellaneous matters pertaining to the sale of acquired farms.
372.85 Easements and rights-of-way.

AUTHORITY: §§ 372.81 to 372.85 issued under sec. 41 (f), 60 Stat. 1066, sec. 4 (c), 64 Stat. 98; 7 U. S. C. 1015 (f), 40 U. S. C. 442 (c). Interpret or apply secs. 43 (b), 51, 60 Stat. 1067, 1070; 7 U. S. C. 1017 (b), 1025. Other statutory provisions interpreted or applied are cited to text in parentheses.

§ 372.81 General. This subpart prescribes the authorities, policies, and procedures for the management of acquired farms from the time title to such farms is vested in the United States until they are sold or otherwise disposed of, and for their sale or other disposition. However, if the acquired farm represents an asset of a State Rural Rehabilitation Corporation and an agreement, pursuant to section 2 (f) of the Rural Rehabilitation Corporation Trust Liquidation Act (Public Law 499, 81st Congress) (hereinafter referred to as a "section 2 (f) agreement") is not currently in effect, the State Director will not sell the property until otherwise authorized but will retain it in inventory and manage it in the same manner as stipulated for other acquired farms.

(a) Applicability. For the purposes of this subpart, acquired farms are farms which before acquisition were security for:

(1) Direct loans made pursuant to title I of the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act, as amended, including such loans made under a section 2 (f) agreement.

(2) Loans insured under title I of the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act, as amended.

(3) Credit sales of farms pursuant to sections 43 and 51 of the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act, as amended, and Public Law 563, 79th Congress.

(4) Credit sales by a State Rural Rehabilitation Corporation, directly or under an agreement with the Secretary of Agriculture.

(5) Loans for farm improvements or farm development made from Loans, Grants, and Rural Rehabilitation funds.

(6) Loans where the note and mortgage were assigned to the Government as security for, or the payment of, loans to, or in liquidation of, Defense Relocation Corporations, and Land Leasing and Land Purchasing Associations.

(7) The following types of Operating loans:

(i) Production and Subsistence loans.
(ii) Rural Rehabilitation loans.
(iii) Emergency Crop and Feed loans.
(iv) Flood, and Flood and Windstorm Restoration loans, made during the fiscal years 1944, 1945, and 1946.

(b) Expeditious disposition of acquired farms. Acquired farms will be sold or otherwise disposed of as expeditiously as possible consistent with the protection of the Government's investment in such farms.

§ 372.82 Delegation of authority. Subject to the policies and procedures prescribed in this subpart:

(a) The State Director is authorized to:

(1) Sell acquired farms and to execute deeds and other documents and instruments necessary in connection with such sales.

(b) The State Director or his delegate is authorized to:

(1) Lease or operate acquired farms.
(2) Execute caretakers' agreements.
(3) Enter into agreements prorating the payment of rent as between the Government and purchasers of acquired farms.
(4) When appropriate, pay taxes or to make payments in lieu of taxes on acquired farms.
(5) Authorize such repairs and maintenance of acquired farms as may be necessary to protect the Government's interest.

§ 372.83 State Office routine subsequent to acquisition of farms. When title to a farm becomes vested in the Government the State Director will take such of the following actions with respect to each acquired farm as may be appropriate:

(a) Suitability of acquired farms for title I purposes. If the farm is, or can be developed into, or used in the development of an efficient family-type unit having a total value, as repaired, improved, or enlarged, not exceeding the average value of efficient family-type units in the county, the State Director will determine that the farm is suitable for title I purposes. The County Supervisor will be advised when the decision is reached as to the suitability or nonsuitability of an acquired farm for title I purposes.

(b) Care of growing crops on acquired farms. At the time of acquisition, upon the advice of the representative of the Office of the Solicitor, the State Director shall instruct the County Supervisor with respect to the disposition to be made of any crops growing on acquired farms.

(c) Care and leasing of acquired farms. The State Director will furnish the County Supervisor with instructions regarding the care and leasing of acquired farms.

(1) Caretaking. Whenever it is impracticable to lease an acquired farm, and caretaking is deemed necessary to protect the Government's interest, such a farm may be placed under a caretaker's arrangement on terms approved by the State Director. Form FHA–529, "Caretaker's Agreement," to be signed by the caretaker, should be specific with respect to such items as the period covered by the agreement, care of the property, cultivation, harvesting, and care of growing crops, and the compensation to be allowed the caretaker for his services. Compensation allowed the caretaker for his services will be paid by use of Standard Form 1034, "Public Voucher for Purchases and Services Other Than Personal." In no event, will the Government operate an acquired farm under a caretaker's agreement for a period exceeding one year from the date of acquisition. No provision shall be included in the caretaker's agreement which will interfere with the expeditious sale or other disposition of the farm.

(2) Leasing. Acquired farms will be leased for the current cropping season, or the remainder thereof, when it is determined that such leasing is necessary to protect the Government's investment. Form FHA–435, "Lease of Farm," will be used in such cases. The term of a lease may not exceed one year. Subject to the limitations on the period for sale, a farm may be leased for subsequent periods when necessary to protect the Government's interest. All leases will be on the best reasonable terms obtainable as determined by the State Director. Rent must be payable in cash, but the amount may be based on the market value of shares of agricultural commodities as provided on Form FHA–435. Leases will be on terms that will not delay unnecessarily the sale of farms.

(d) Maintenance and minor repairs on acquired farms. (1) Expenses for maintenance and minor repairs necessary to protect the Government's interest, which cannot practicably be deferred until after sale, may be incurred and paid by the Government. Where the contemplated expenditures for maintenance or repairs amount to $500 or less, the State Director will authorize the work to be done on a confirmatory basis. Upon completion of the maintenance or repairs a certified invoice or Standard Form 1034 will be obtained from the contractor and forwarded to the appropriate Area Finance Office for payment. Such invoice or voucher must include an itemization of the maintenance or repairs.

(2) Where the contemplated expenditures for maintenance or repairs amount to more than $500, the Area Finance Office will prepare and issue an invitation to bid for the work to be performed.

(e) Taxation on acquired farms. Except as provided herein the Farmers Home Administration is required, in accordance with section 50 (a) of the Farmers Home Administration Act of 1946, to pay taxes on farms acquired on behalf of the Government which are determined to be suitable for title I purposes, and, in accordance with section 50 (b) of the act, to make payments in lieu of taxes on farms acquired on behalf of the Government which are determined to be unsuitable for title I purposes.

(1) Taxes will be paid on acquired real property which represents an asset of a State Rural Rehabilitation Corporation, provided:

(i) There is a section 2 (f) agreement in effect whereunder the corporation or agency or official designated by the State legislature has authorized the Government to pay such taxes; and

(ii) The real estate would be taxable under State laws if it had been transferred to such corporation or agency or official under section 2 (d) of the Rural Rehabilitation Corporation Trust Liquidation Act, with no return transfer to the United States under a section 2 (f) agreement.

(2) In the absence of a section 2 (f) agreement tax payments will not be made on acquired farms which represent assets of a State Rural Rehabilitation Corporation.

(Sec. 50, 60 Stat. 1070, sec. 2 (f), 64 Stat. 99; 7 U. S. C. 1024, 40 U. S. C. 440 (f))

(f) Sale of acquired farms within the Farm Ownership Program. Acquired farms will be sold as expeditiously as possible, and will not be held for an unreasonable length of time for within-program disposal.

(1) Determination of selling price. The State Director will establish a selling price, based upon the normal earning capacity value of the farm, taking into consideration such amounts as may be required to repair, improve, or enlarge the farm to meet established Farm Ownership minimum standards. If the acquired land, or a part thereof, will be sold for the purpose of enlarging another Farm Ownership unit, the sales price of the land to be added will be established on the basis of an earning capacity report, prepared for the enlarged farm in accordance with §§ 322.1 to 322.3 of this chapter and will be consistent with the normal market value of comparable properties in the community and must be within the certified value for the enlarged farm. If there are buildings on the land being added, and such buildings are needed by the borrower in carrying out his farming operations, consideration will be given to the use value of such buildings, to be acquired by the purchaser, in arriving at the sales price of the real property being sold to the borrower. If there are buildings that will not be sold to the borrower, such buildings should be disposed of in accordance with §§ 372.101 to 372.109 of this chapter prior to consummation of the sale of the land, and if such buildings are not removed from the land being sold by the date of the sale, adequate provisions will be stipulated in the sales instruments to allow sufficient time for removal. Also, the fair and reasonable value of the Government's interest in the mineral rights will be considered in determining the selling price.

(2) Disposition of growing crops. Growing crops, when not harvested under a caretaker's agreement, may be sold with the farm or separately. The State Director will determine the selling price thereof separately from that of the farm. Such crops may be sold for cash, but title I funds may not be loaned to enable a purchaser to make such purchases. When growing crops are sold on credit to a person eligible for the benefits of title I, either with the farm or separately, a separate note will be taken to evidence the sale price, payable not later than when the crops will be harvested. The separate note will be secured by a lien on the growing crops. When the growing crops are sold to any person not eligible for the benefits of title I, such crops will be sold pursuant to §§ 372.101 to 372.109.

(3) Selection of purchaser. The purchaser will be selected from applicants tentatively approved in accordance with §§ 316.21 to 316.24 of this chapter with preference accorded veterans as provided in §§ 316.1 to 316.6 and §§ 321.1 to 321.8 of this chapter.

(4) Sale to present Farm Ownership borrower. An acquired farm, or part thereof, may be sold to a present Farm Ownership borrower, provided the State Director determines (i) the borrower's present unit is not an efficient family-type unit, and (ii) the addition of the acquired unit, or part thereof, will result in the borrower having an efficient family-type unit.

(g) Methods of selling acquired farms within the Farm Ownership Program. Acquired farms determined to be suitable for title I purposes may be sold within the program to present Farm Ownership borrowers or to applicants for Farm Ownership loans under such of the following methods as may be prescribed by the State Director.

(1) Sale to Farm Ownership borrower. An acquired farm, or part thereof, may be sold to a Farm Ownership borrower in a manner consistent with the policies and procedures for making a subsequent loan for farm enlargement purposes, on a credit basis, through a subsequent direct loan, through a subsequent insured mortgage loan or through a new direct or insured mortgage loan. If additional funds are needed by the Farm Ownership borrower with which to perform farm development necessary to make the enlarged farm an efficient family-type unit, such funds may be provided, in the case of sale on credit, through a direct loan processed simultaneously with the credit sale. In the case of sales through either new or subsequent direct or insured mortgage loans, such funds may be included in the loan made in connection with the purchase of the land.

(2) Sale to Farm Ownership applicant. The sale of acquired real estate to an approved Farm Ownership applicant, other than a present Farm Ownership borrower, may be accomplished by a sale on a credit basis when funds are not needed for repairs, improvements or enlargement; by a sale on a credit basis when funds are needed for repairs, improvements or enlargement, or by a sale through a direct or insured loan, which may include funds for repairs, improvements or enlargement. Where the State Director determines it to be impracticable to sell an acquired farm to a Farm Ownership applicant by any other method, the sale may be accomplished through a direct or insured loan.

(h) Disposal of farms outside the Farm Ownership Program. Acquired farms, or parts thereof, determined to be not suitable for title I purposes and suitable farms which cannot be sold to an eligible purchaser within a reasonable time will be sold as expeditiously as possible outside the program by the Farmers Home Administration unless special reasons require their transfer to the appropriate Government agency for disposal. The State Director is authorized to sell such farms at public or private sale to any individual at the best price obtainable, after public notice. Such sale may be accomplished by selling the land and buildings separately if such method of sale will result in the Government realizing a greater return from the sale. The sale may be either for cash or on terms of at least twenty percent cash with the balance secured by a first mortgage on the property and payable in equal annual installments within five years with interest at five percent on the unpaid principal payable annually.

(Secs. 1 (a), 43 (d), 44 (b), 50, 60, Stat 1072, 1068, 1069, 1070, sec. 2 (f), 64 Stat. 99; 7 U. S. C. 1001 (a), 1017 (d), 1018 (b), 1024, 40 U. S. C. 440 (f))

§ 372.84 Miscellaneous matters pertaining to the sale of acquired farms. The following general provisions will apply in connection with the sale of acquired farms:

(a) Applications. Applications to purchase acquired farms within the Farm Ownership Program will be processed in substantially the same manner as applications for initial loans as prescribed in Parts 331 and 332 of this chapter.

(b) Type of deed form. Conveyances will be made by deed without warranty and will be executed by the State Director. If legally possible, and the sale is to be made within the Farm Ownership Program, the deed should create an estate with the right of survivorship. All minerals or mineral rights of the Government will be conveyed to the purchaser.

(c) Abstracts of title. Abstracts of title owned by the Government which cover only the land involved in a particular sale will be sold with the farm by adequate provision in the sales agreement. When the sale is on credit terms or a loan is made in connection with the sale, the abstract will be retained by the Government as additional security until the security instruments securing the credit sale or loan are fully satisfied.

(d) Sales expense. No expenses incident to the sale, such as revenue stamps, recording of mortgage, intangible taxes, or title insurance when required, will be borne by the Government.

(e) Title clearance. Title clearance for farms suitable for title I purposes will be effected in accordance with the applicable provisions of §§ 327.1 to 327.8 of this chapter.

(f) Closing sales of acquired farms. Each sale of an acquired farm will be closed in accordance with closing instructions issued by the representative of the office of the Solicitor.

(g) Cancellation of outstanding leases. When an outstanding lease on an acquired farm is to be canceled pursuant to the terms of the sale, Form FHA-244, "Cancellation of Lease," will be used, one signed copy of which will be delivered to the lessee.

(h) Sale subject to outstanding lease. When it is necessary or desirable, the State Director may sell an acquired farm subject to an outstanding agricultural or mineral lease. In such cases the State Director will address a letter to the lessee informing him of the conveyance by the Government of its interest under the lease and furnish him with the name and address of the purchaser of the farm.

(i) Proration of rent. Ordinarily lease benefits will be sold with the property, however, when an acquired farm, or part thereof, is under lease which is not sold with the land and the Government's interest canceled at the time of sale, the rent has not become due before the sale is closed, and the lease does not contain provisions governing the proration of rent in the event of sale of the farm, the State Director will arrange for any prorated distribution of rent between the Government and the purchaser which is found by the State Director to be equitable and not detrimental to the financial interest of the Government.

(Sec. 9, 60 Stat. 1080; 7 U. S. C. 1031)

§ 372.85 Easements and rights-of-way. Generally, it will not be the policy of the Farmers Home Administration to grant or sell easements or rights-of-way on acquired real property, title to which is vested in the Government. When a request is received for an easement or right-of-way on such acquired real property, the State Director will make a determined effort to dispose of the property, thereby making it possible for the easement or right-of-way to be obtained from the purchaser of such property. In a case where it is impossible to sell the property, thereby enabling the purchaser to enter into an easement or right-of-way permit, the State Director will refer the matter to the National Office, giving a complete report on the case. Such a case will be handled on an individual case basis.

TITLE 7—AGRICULTURE

Chapter III—Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, Department of Agriculture

[B. E. P. Q. 542, Rev., Amdt. 2]

PART 319—FOREIGN QUARANTINE NOTICES

SUBPART—FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

ADMINISTRATIVE INSTRUCTIONS PRESCRIBING METHOD OF TREATMENT OF CERTAIN FRUITS FROM MEXICO

Pursuant to the authority conferred upon the Chief of the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine by § 319.56-2 of the regulations supplemental to the Fruit and Vegetable Quarantine (Notice of Quarantine No. 56, 7 CFR 319.56), the administrative instructions (7 CFR Supp. 319.56-2g) prescribing methods of treatment of oranges, grapefruit, tangerines, and Manila mangoes from Mexico are hereby amended in the following respects:

1. Section 319.56-2g (a) (1) is amended to read as follows:

(1) Either of the approved vapor-heat schedules of treatment specified in paragraph (b) of this section will meet the treatment requirements imposed under § 319.56-2 as a condition of the issuance of permits for (i) the importation from Mexico of commercially-sound oranges, free of leaves and other plant debris, or (ii) the importation from Mexico during the 5-month period beginning November 1 and ending the following March 31, of commercially-sound tangerines, with tight skins and free from air pockets or puffiness, and free of leaves and other debris.

2. Section 319.56-2g (a) (2) is amended to read as follows:

(2) The approved vapor-heat schedule of treatment specified in paragraph (b) (1) of this section will meet the treatment requirements imposed under § 319.56-2 as a condition of the issuance of permits for the importation from Mexico of commercially sound grapefruit and Manila mangoes, free of leaves and other plant debris.

The purpose of the foregoing amendment is to authorize an additional schedule of vapor-heat treatment, previously authorized for oranges only, as a condition for the issuance of permits for the importation from Mexico during the 5-month period beginning November 1 and ending the following March 31, of commercially sound tangerines, with tight skins and free from air pockets or puffiness, and free of leaves and other debris. Accordingly, the foregoing amendment relieves restrictions now in effect. In order to be of maximum benefit to shippers, the new authorization should be made effective as soon as possible. Therefore, pursuant to section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1003) it is found upon good cause that notice and public procedure on the foregoing amendment are unnecessary, impracticable, and contrary to the public interest, and since this amendment relieves restrictions it may properly be made effective under said section 4 less than 30 days after its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(Sec. 5, 37 Stat. 316; 7 U. S. C. 159)

This amendment shall be effective November 20, 1952.

Done at Washington, D. C., this 20th day of November, 1952.

[SEAL] AVERY S. HOYT,
Chief,
Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine.

AUTHORITY: §§ 925.1 to 925.102 issued under sec. 5, 49 Stat. 753, as amended; 7 U. S. C. and Sup. 608c.

§ 925.0 Findings and determinations. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and of the previously issued amendments thereto; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held upon certain proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Puget Sound, Washington, marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, and all the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the said marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest; and

(3) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as, and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in, a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

(b) Additional finding. It is hereby found and determined that good cause exists for making this order, as amended, effective December 1, 1952. Such action is necessary in the public interest in order to promote the orderly marketing of milk for the Puget Sound marketing area. Accordingly, any further delay in the effective date of this order, as amended, will impair orderly marketing. The provisions of this order are well known to handlers. The public hearing was held March 11–14, 1952, the recommended decision was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (17 F. R. 6777) on July 24, 1952, and the final decision (17 F. R. 10564) was executed by the Secretary on November 13, 1952. Reasonable time under the circumstances has been afforded persons affected to prepare for its effective date. It would be contrary to the public interest, therefore, to delay such effective date for 30 days after publication of the order in the FEDERAL REGISTER (See sec. 4 (c) Administrative Procedure Act, Pub. Law 404, 79th Cong., 60 Stat. 237).

(c) Determinations. It is hereby determined that handlers (excluding cooperative associations of producers who are not engaged in processing, distributing or shipping milk covered by this order, as amended) of more than 50 percent of the milk which is marketed within the said marketing area, refused or failed to sign the proposed marketing agreement regulating the handling of milk in the said marketing area, and it is hereby further determined that:

(1) The refusal or failure of such handlers to sign said proposed marketing agreement tends to prevent the effectuation of the declared policy of the act;

(2) The issuance of this order, as amended, is the only practical means, pursuant to the declared policy of the act, of advancing the interests of producers of milk which is produced for sale in the said marketing area; and

(3) The issuance of this order, as amended, is approved or favored by at least two-thirds of the producers who participated in a referendum on the question of approval of its issuance, and who during the determined representative period (July 1952) were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the said marketing area.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered, that on and after the effective date hereof, the handling of milk in the Puget Sound, Washington, marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the following terms and conditions:

And provided further, That any plant which otherwise meets the requirements of this section may withdraw from country plant status for any month in the January–September period if the operator of the plant files with the market administrator, prior to the first day of such month, a written request for such withdrawal.
